Garner would make a great President because of his gifts of leadership and his judgment of and ability to work with men. He has often said that most men he has known in public life were men of good will, patriotically interested in the welfare of their country. He has always found a zest in sitting down with men who review problems from diverse angles, men of different experiences. He believes that out of such deliberations come sound, practical, beneficial and progressive solutions. He takes to such counsel tables his own fidelity to principles, clarity of reasoning and ability to get at facts.

His judgment of men is excellent. When he became Speaker, in 1931, he demonstrated his ability to choose men for important assignments — of finding the proper man to do a job. Men were placed in roles for which they were best qualified. He has always liked to reward merit in young men, and this gave him the opportunity. Although the Democrats had a fragile majority of only three votes overnight, he welded them into a cohesive, fighting organization.

Far-Flung Network of Contacts

Because his acquaintanceship in all parts of the country is second to none, I believe this far-flung network of contacts and knowledge of men would make it possible for Garner to call into service men of outstanding ability for his cabinet and other administrative places. His standard for judicial appointments would be high. He would be especially anxious to find proper men for diplomatic posts. His long experience on the House Foreign Affairs Committee imbued him with a deep and informed interest in international relations.

That Garner considers the solution of the unemployment and agricultural problems as the two outstanding challenges to the Union and that the chief attention of a Garner administration would be bent to this end, no one who knows him doubts. He likes to tackle tough problems, and here are two tough ones.

Opposed to Government in Business

If any one is supporting Garner on the theory he would be a do-nothing President, that supporter would better begin looking for a new man to support. His would be a heads-up administration. He believes modern government must meet modern needs. He has said that "evolutionary process must go forward to meet ever-changing human needs." He would not have the Government evade any legitimate function, but he would be zealous in his endeavor to see it did not encroach on functions outside its field. "Putting the Government into business is a violation of the Nation's industrial and commercial fabric," he declared in his 1932 acceptance speech.

Garner would make a great President because he thoroughly believes in our democratic system of three branches of Government. He has been called congressional-minded. It is true he has fought invasion of the prerogatives of Congress, but he is just as firmly against trespass against the executive and judicial branches.

Believing as he does in a Government of laws and not of men, he abhors unnecessary bureaucracy and would undoubtedly seek to dissolve some of it entirely, put back in Congress some of the legislative powers it exercises, back in the courts some of the judicial powers it occupies, and back in the States some of the local powers that belong there. All this would preserve the natural dignity of the executive branch, rather than weaken it.

Garner believes, as did Grover Cleveland, that the whole art of government is simply applied common sense and common honesty, with reason, justice and tolerance as handmaidens.

Has Vivid "Sense of Humanity"

Garner as President would be guided by a sense of humanity. It was he who introduced the first general relief bill in 1932. It was a pay-as-you-go measure, and carried a tax to pay its cost. He believes in an ever-increasing standard of living for the working man and woman. He has a passionate devotion for the well-being of men, and women who work for their daily bread. He has always fought monopoly and the concentration of wealth, and has insisted that the Government lay down rules to guarantee free and fair competition. He is for property rights because he believes them the very base of human rights. Ownership of property, he thinks, is one of the best guarantees of the dignity and independence of the individual. He is against favoritism in law enforcement.

Garner knows you cannot get something for nothing. He believes in constructive economy. He is the indestructible pioneer type who learned in a pioneer country how hard it is to make a dollar. He would be scrupulously careful with the taxpayer's dollar. He has the courage to resist fantastic proposals and boldly to meet an issue.

To continued efforts to find solutions of the Nation's problems Garner would take to the presidency vast experience. "Experience," to paraphrase the great Justice Holmes, "is the life of administration."

Garner loves his country, believes in it, knows it is durable and wants it to believe in itself. He wants Government to do its part toward preserving freedom of opportunity. He believes economy, thrift and self-reliance are still the hallmark of the majority of Americans.

Electric Line To Quit Operating

Service on the Electric Line operating between Thief River Falls and Gooeridge will be discontinued effective February 13, when the train will make its last run, it was announced recently by officials of the Soo Line Ry, which owns the branch line.

Permission to cease operating was granted by the Interstate Commerce commision, to which body application was made last year by the Soo Line, which pointed out that substantial losses resulted from operating the branch.

At a hearing held at the court house in Thief River Falls by members of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, numerous residents of the territory served by the Electric Line registered objections to its abandonment, declaring that the move would adversely affect their interests.—Times T. R. F.

Statements made by Governor Stassen in his recent radio talk, reviewing his first year in office, will be challenged and answered in a radio talk over WCCO, and associated stations, on Tuesday day evening, January 23, 8:30 to 9:00 p. m., according to an announcement by the state secretary of the Farmer-Labor Association in St. Paul.

Johnson Runs Pulp Camp

Several men from here have gone out into the Thorholt country near upper Red Lake to be engaged in taking out pulp wood this winter. Carl Johnson subcontracted from Oscar Schenkey of Middle River the job of skidding out 1500 double cords of pulp from the cutting to the roads where it can be loaded on large trucks to be hauled to Thief River Falls and loaded on cars and shipped to the paper mill at Grand Rapids, Minn. Mr. Schenkey had taken the contract from T. J. Welch to take out the entire allotment of pulp and he is hiring all the cutters on the job. The cutters are getting 2 cents a stick for cutting the pulp which has to be 100 inches long for this job.

Those from here whom have gone up on the timber operation are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, with Mrs. Johnson doing the cooking in the Johnson camp. Leo Horien and Ludvig Sagstuen and Hjalmer Johnson who are employed by Johnson to do skidding. Cutters in the Schenkey camp are Tony Brenna, Alfin Simonson, Anton Sagstuen and Elmer Tollefsrud.

According to reports this is the last and largest timber operation that will be carried out in that area as far as pulp cutting is concerned. Mr. Welch has a large cedar cutting camp further east and expects to finish his operations in 1940. Next fall they will cut the pulp where they are taking the cedar this year and that will wind up the large timber cutting on this side of the Red Lakes as there is very little merchantable pulp or cedar left to be bonght for cuttitg there.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson conducted funeral services at Gatzke Saturday for the late Alfred Olson, a former Gatzke resident, who passed away in Seattle, Washington.

THE FIRST STEP Towards
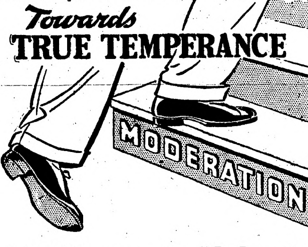
TRUE TEMPERANCE



BEER promotes Moderation

One sure and easy way for us to reach the goal of True Temperance is by learning to be temperate, step by step, with a beverage of Moderation!

All history proves that Beer has been the bulwark of Moderation and Sobriety. Not only is Beer a mildly stimulating and nourishing food beverage, but it is also definitely non-intoxicating when taken in the quantities the average person consumes.

That is why world-renowned physicians, educators, and statesmen recommend a wider use of Beer as the most practical step toward temperance.

To reach this desirable goal of True Temperance in the shortest time possible, the brewers of Minnesota are co-operating fully with all enforcement authorities to make the retailing of Beer as wholesome as Beer itself.

Each day more Minnesotans are saying . . .
"I'm on the 'Moderation Wagon' . . . make mine Beer!"

What The Finns Fight For

All the world wonders at the magnificent struggle that the people of Finlan are making to repel the invasion of their little country by the gigantic Russian aggressor.

The Finns are not fighting merely that they may enjoy peace. They could have peace without fighiing for it. They are not fighting alone for their homes, their lands and their other properties. Just what would have happened to their possessions ultimately if they had not chosen to fight may be an open question, but it is certain that without striking a blow, and without the sacrifice of a single one of their lives they could have been secure, at least for the present, in the possession of whatever property they had; their cities would not have been bombed and their men would not have been called from their peaceful occupations to engage in the grim business of war. It was necessary for them only to concede to Russia the to occupy certain of their cities, to erect fortifications on certain of their islands, and to conduct their public afiairs in accordance with the wishes of a few individuals in Moscow.

From every standpoint of material advantage the Finns have been foolish in resisting Russia. But the Finns are fighting for something which they consider more important than houses and lands and industrial establishments. They are fighting for the right to live their own peaceful lives in their own way. They have established institutions which they cherish and which they are prepared to make any sacrifice to defend. They are fighting in defence of the principals long ago set forth in part in the Great Charter signed by King John of England. They are fighting in defense of the principles enunciated in the American Declaration of Independence and on which the American constitution is based. They are fighting for rights precious to free men everywhere. And because they are fighting in such a cause they are fighting the battles of all who love liberty, no matter what flag floats over them.

O. T. Ness, owner of the elevator here will be host to the farmers of this community on Monday when he will treat them to free coffee and doughnuts and a movie at the community hall. Several hundred pounds of feed will be given away as prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peterson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Peterson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Johnson and Mrs. O. B. Johnson and son Mernet attended the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lardy of St. Hilaire on Saturday.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been cold and windy. Temperatures have raged from zero to 30 below over the northwest. The official weather forecast yesterday stated that it would break today and be warmer for the week end. At noon on Thursday we heard a report from Copenhagen, Denmark that it was 70 below zero on the northern fringe of Finnland.

Holt Residents To Pay High Tax

Higher tax rates will be generally noticed throughout Marshall county this year, according to the 1939 tax rate sheet compiled late last week in the office of P. E. Kvikstad, county treasurer.

A comparison of the rate sheets for 1939 and 1940 reveals that rates of taxation will be higher for 126 school districts, either village or rural classifications, and in 44 townships and villages, while rates were decreased in only 32 school districts, either village or rural classifications and 11 townships and villages. The rates remain stationary in 19 school district classifications and four townships and villages.

As announced in last week,s issue of the Sheaf the state rate on non-homesteads and personal property remains the same at 10 mills, while state homestead rates were reduced to 3.63 mills. The county rate was also increased to 48.2 mills in 1939 from 42.3 mills in 1938.

The highest total tax rate will be paid by residents in the village of Holt, School district 35, where a combined rate of 220.3 mills was levied on non-homesteads while on agricultural lands in the district the rate is 201.8 mills.

The lowest total rates among villages maintaining high schools is in Strandquist where the total rate is 138.2 mills for non-homesteads and personal property and 124 mills for agricultural lands.

The following tabulation shows the total rates on non-agricultural lands and personal property for the high school villages in the county for 1939 and 1938:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Stephen, Dist. 1 | 160.4 | 147.1 |
| Warren, Dist. 2 | 159.9 | 143.6 |
| Argyle, Dist. 3 | 181.0 | 167.0 |
| Alvarado, Dist. 31 | 160.5 | 156.1 |
| Holt, Dist. 35 | 220.3 | 241.3 |
| Newfolden, Dist. 49 | 168.6 | 165.4 |
| Strandquist, Dist. 65 | 138.2 | 120.4 |
| Oslo, Dist. 125 | 179.7 | 155.0 |
| Middle River, D't. 126 | 169.3 | 146.2 |

There will be a considerable variance with the above rates, due to lower state rates on homesteads and also lower rates on agricultural lands in the district. However, the above tabulation gives a comparison as to changes of rates on village personal property and non-homesteads.

Warren Sheaf

Editors Note: We like to call to the attention of the taxpayers of the Village of Holt this one fact that even though we carry the highest tax rate in the county here in School Dist. 35, we are the only district where a high school is maintained that lowered the rate instead of increasing it from the 1938 rate. In 1938 we showed a rate of 241.3 and for 1939 we have 220.3 or a reduction 21 mills. This would have been further reduced had not the county rate been raised.

Held Band Finance Meeting

The members of the Village Council and the local School Board met with the members of the Holt Community Band and their officers on Monday evening at the schoolhouse and made arrangements for helping the band pay a director for coming here to instruct the new band members and lead the regular band. Director O. J. Peterson was hired to spend some time in the afternoon of one day a week to instruct the new band members who are all pupils in the school and be with the regular band the evening of the same day.

At the last election the voters of the village voted to authorize the council to appropriate $100.00 for the purpose of paying a band leader and the school board also agreed to pay a part of the cost for the instruction to the pupils in the school whom are joining the band.

According to reports received here from the patients at hospitals in Thief River Falls who are from Holt and vicinity, are getting along quite well. At the St. Lukes hospital are Hjalmer Peterson, Willie Stienhauer, Knute Nelson and Elroy Benitt who have had major operations and Mrs. Wm. Wendt who has been at the Mercy hospital the past two weeks.

Sho line To Have Service

Announcement has been thru the Great Northern recently that the Interstate Commerce commission had denied the petition of the Great Northern Railway company for permission to abandon service on the line extending from St. Hilaire to Wylie. A hearing on the matter was conducted at Thief River Falls late last fall. As a result of the decision, occasional service to the little town of Wylie will continue as in the past. Mainly affected is the Willie Farmers cooperative elevator and its farmer patrons.

Murphy Appointed Justice

President Roosevelt has nominated Attorney General Frank Murphy as his fifth appointee to the supreme court. Senate confimation of the Michigan new dealer as an associate justice has put a solid majority of Roosevelt appointees on the court. Justice Murphy is taking the place of Justice Pierce Butler of Minnesota whom passed away. The president also nominated Solicitor General Robert J. Jackson to succeed Murphy as attorney general, and Judge Frances J. Biddle of the third U. S. Circuit court of appeals to be solicitor general.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wegge and family visited at the Herman Peterson home Friday evening.

Higher Liquor Tax Considered To Finance Defense Program; Election-Year Levy Unpopular

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CONGRESS:
Budget Blues

What Franklin Roosevelt's budget message tossed into the congressional lap was a choice of following his recommendations and getting a deficit of only $1,716,000,000, or defying him and making it about $3,000,000,000. Slashed were most items, but boosted to a peacetime record was national defense. If the President's ideas are followed, and if previous authorizations are appropriated, the cost will run well over $2,000,000,000.

Very shallow was the hope that an early European peace may obviate the defense program. It appeared, instead, that congress must enter an election year trance and decide which plan the public would swallow the easier: More taxes, to raise $460,000,000 as the President asked, or a boost in the national debt limit?

Within a few days it was obvious that good Democrats were sparring for time. They gathered in huddles to wonder where tax money might be raised, tentatively settling on new liquor taxes and a slight boost in income levies. Mississippi's Pat Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, publicly doubted whether the defense program was justified, yet he shied away from criticizing the President. Finally, with White House blessing, he sought more time by asking a joint legislative committee to study the Rooseveltian budget. But congress, apparently refusing, turned instead to that hardy perennial, the anti-lynching bill.

PAT HARRISON
Will John Barleycorn pay?

Notes

In an election year, congress and politics are intimately associated. Many G. O. P. comments were forthcoming after the President's budget message. Samples:

¶ At Topeka, 1936 G. O. P. Candidate Alf Landon thought this about the slash in expenditures: "If the President really is serious in his budget plans, you will hear howls all over the place. He couldn't get the nomination now if he wanted it. He is too smart a politician to try it."

¶ At Chicago, Ohio's Sen. Robert Taft accepted the President's challenge to submit a plan for balancing the budget. The Taft Plan: (1) determination by the President to balance it; (2) elimination of bureaus, reduction of employees; (3) return of relief to states, and changes in housing, agriculture and loan agencies; (4) elimination of local works grants, reduction of federal public works and reduction of subsidies; (5) elimination of budget "pets," like army and navy items.

NIBLETS

HERE'S WHY—At Moscow the magazine Communist Internationale explained, in answer to foreign reports that Russia had ambitions to "Sovetize" Finland: "Russia's only aim is to free Finland from a gang of oppressors and imperialistic warmongers and to safeguard Finnish democratic development."

CASEY AT BAT—At Washington and Canberra it was announced simultaneously that the U. S. and Australia will establish diplomatic relations for the first time. (Previously, Britain represented Australia here.) First Australian minister will be Richard G. Casey. Soon to be named is the U. S. minister to Canberra.

SPENDTHRIFT—Of her $25,750 personal allowance for 1939, the 16-year-old Heiress Gloria Vanderbilt spent only $10—for books.

BANQUET — While Democrats wined and dined throughout the U. S. in honor of President Andrew Jackson's birthday anniversary, Republicans at Indianapolis held a 25-cent milk and cracker feast honoring Abe Lincoln.

SECRET -- In Hollywood died Flora Finch, co-player with John Bunny in early movie comedies. Her secret was her age, probably about 80. Her chieftains' secret: The fact that Flora Finch's contract with M-G-M was regarded by the bookkeeping department as a pension for an old trouper.

BALKANS:
Squabbles

Before 1940 has gone its way the brave nation of Rumania may see trouble a-plenty. It started that way. Bucharest heard that Bulgaria, its unfriendly southern neighbor, had signed a trade pact with Russia, which wants the Rumanian province of Bessarabia. Next King Carol heard that Hungary's Count Stefan Csaky, whose nation will seize Rumanian Transylvania if Russia invades Bessarabia, was conferring in Italy with Foreign Minister Ciano.

A political realist, Italy's Benito Mussolini knows the Balkans have a better chance of blocking Russian aggression (which would also hurt Italy) if they settle their squabbles in advance. Purpose of the Ciano-Csaky conversations, therefore, was to urge Hungary and Rumania to settle their revisionist problem immediately. In so doing, Il Duce took a hearty slap at the Soviet.

So did King Carol. Encouraged to defend Bessarabia now that the Finns are doing a remarkable job against Russian aggression, Carol and his retinue crossed into this dangerous province, defied Moscow and smiled while Bessarabian minority leaders shouted: "We pledge our lives for our beloved Rumanian fatherland."

ASIA:
Wang's Ready

"The time is now ripe for establishment of a new central government in China. Careful study reveals that the objectives of Wang Ching-wei are consonant with Japan's manifest efforts toward helping in the formation and expansion of the proposed new government."

Thus, after much back-slapping, brow-beating and tutoring, Puppet Wang Ching-wei was announced ready to take over Japan's make-believe "government" in conquered parts of China.

THE WARS:
Shakeup

Far bigger than the war on France's western front was the battle of London. Called to a cabinet meeting by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was Leslie Hore-Belisha, dynamic, Jewish minister of war who has built the British army from a stodgy and antiquated organization into one of the world's smartest. Minister Hore-Belisha was asked to sign his resignation. Also fired was Lord MacMillan, blundering minister of information.

Announced purpose of the shake-up was to establish national unity. Neville Chamberlain did just that: There was national unity, but it was unity of opposition to the "sacking" of an efficient war minister in favor of Oliver Stanley, the 43-year-old board of trade president whose father (seventeenth earl of Derby) was a war minister in World war days.

HORE-BELISHA
Social grounds?

By next morning every British paper, regardless of political leanings, was blasting against the government. Typical was the London Star: "If it is shown that Mr. Hore-Belisha was thrown overboard to satisfy a clique of generals who disliked him on social grounds, or because he was pressing the pace of democracy in the army too strongly, then public resentment will be wide, deep and lasting."

To both Hore-Belisha and the Prime Minister an opportunity for rebuttal was coming, but it would probably take place behind closed doors in the house of commons. Meanwhile it was rumored that Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, would soon follow Stanley as war chief.

Other war news:

Western Front. Minor artillery fire. Entertainment by the fabulous Albert, French airman whose daring antics along the Luxembourg frontier keep natives in stitches.

Northern Front. Finnish destruction of still a third Russian division (the forty-fourth) near Suomussalmi at Finland's waistline. Fighting was stalemated in the far north and on the Karelian isthmus, but in the central part Finnish troops penetrated Russ lines to dynamite the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad, thus isolating the northland.

TREND

NAVY — If President Roosevelt's $1,224,521,833 naval appropriation request (See CONGRESS) is adopted, the U. S. will become the world's No. 1 sea power, bigger than Britain, twice as big as Japan.

RAILROADS—Daniel Willard, President of the B. & O. railroad, said he wanted coach fares reduced to two cents per mile, thus meeting bus competition. Present eastern rate: 2½ cents.

AGRICULTURE — The tariff commission was told that imports of cheap Canadian wheat were keeping the domestic crop price below parity, thus threatening the success of farm aid measures.

SHIPPING—The U. S. warned Britain it will be held accountable for injuries to American vessels or crews taken into belligerent ports for searching.

LABOR:
A. F. of L. Damned

By receiving more votes than either of his fellow members, NLRB's William Leiserson was ranked "least unpopular" in a poll by the magazine Factory Management. But all three members (Leiserson, Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith) should be fired, said voters. This contrasted with a Supreme court ruling which held congress, not NLRB, responsible by virtue of too much power for NLRB's unpopular decisions. Coddled and cursed by such conflicting testimony, NLRB went on trial again before the house committee appointed to investigate it. New evidence:

MRS. HERRICK
"How long, oh Lord . . ."

A discharged NLRB trial examiner said that Regional Director Robert Cowdrill of Indianapolis always speeded C. I. O. cases, but tossed aside A. F. of L. cases with the statement: "There's another damned A. F. of L. case." Commented the witness: "The A. F. of L. usually was referred to as the damned A. F. of L."

Next came a dramatic paper prepared by Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, New York regional NLRB director, complaining about delays in procedure. Said her paper: "We must wait! Wait! Wait! . . . How long, oh Lord! How long must we wait!"

NAVY:
New Boss

¶ Cannon roared aboard dreadnaughts in San Pedro harbor. Finally, after much saluting, six-foot Admiral James Richardson from Paris, Texas, strode down the Pennsylvania's quarterdeck to shake hands with Admiral Claude Bloch. Admiral Richardson stayed as commander-in-chief of the U. S. navy; Admiral Bloch went ashore as a rear admiral in retirement. Ahead lay commandership of Pearl Harbor naval base in Hawaii.

COMMERCE: ### Game?

In far-away Buenos Aires took place a show that may have been staged for the benefit of the U. S. congress. Broken off suddenly were reciprocal trade treaty talks between Ambassador Norman Armour and President Roberto M. Ortiz. Reasons given: (1) influence of Britain, No. 1 importer of Argentine beef; (2) a forthcoming election in Argentina; (3) refusal of Argentina to remove discriminations against U. S. goods, and most important (4) refusal of the U. S. to import Argentine canned beef and flaxseed from Argentina without quota limitations.

Maybe yes and maybe no, but it was possible that U. S. insistence on quota limitations, even at the price of sacrificing the treaty, was designed to allay the fears of western farmers and their congressmen. Up for renewal this year is the reciprocal trade act, basis of the administration's entire low tariff program. Already faced with enough opposition to either destroy the act or give ratification power back to the senate, the state department is eager to show farmers that the trade program won't be allowed to hurt them.

PEOPLE:
Dawes Death

¶ At Chicago died Rufus C. Dawes, 72, president of A Century of Progress Exposition, financier, brother of former Vice President Charles G. Dawes.

Last November Son Elliott Roosevelt fathered the Transcontinental Broadcasting System which first planned to start operations with 100 stations on December 15, then January 1, then February 1. In Fort Worth, where he heads the Texas State Radio network, Elliott announced his resignation from TBS.

¶ At Boston died Mrs. Effie I. Canning Carlton, about 84, who once made up an impromptu tune to lull to sleep the restless baby of a neighbor. The song: "Rock-a-bye Baby."

¶ At New York, W. Alton Jones was named head of Cities Service Co.

★ To the Bitter End

By Virginia Vale

THE President's son plans to give us a mystery picture—made from one of the best mystery plays ever written—as the first release of his Globe Productions. It's "The Bat," by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, and has everything that a thriller should have. It was filmed by Mary Pickford's company in 1926, and done again, as "The Bat Whispers," in 1931. Norman Foster will direct the new version.

Hard on the heels of her scrap with Warner Brothers over her refusal to appear in "Married, Pretty and Poor," Jane Bryan showed the studio that she preferred to be married, pretty and rich—she announced her engagement to Justin W. Dart, who is general manager of a drug firm.

—*—

Mickey Rooney may rank first at the box offices of motion picture theaters in this country, but in Great Britain and Ireland he comes second, with Deanna Durbin pushing him out of first place. She was not among the first ten in this country.

—*—

If you are devoted to the story, "The Light That Failed," you'll like the picture version, which sticks to the original, even to the unhappy ending. If it's Ronald Colman, rather than the story, who's responsible for your interest in the picture, you'll enjoy it hugely, for he gives an excellent performance.

RONALD COLMAN

So do Walter Huston, Dudley Digges, and Ida Lupino. Miss Lupino has had a hard time of it in Hollywood; she was put into ingenue parts and kept there; now that, at last, she had been given a chance to show what she could do with a real role, she had made the most of it.

Hers is rather like the one in "Of Human Bondage" that established Bette Davis as a dramatic actress. Miss Lupino's performance is good enough to do as much for her. No longer can she be thought of as just one of those pretty blondes who are so numerous in the picture-making metropolis.

If you're interested in the present activities of former radio favorites, here's news of some of them. Jimmy Melton is now known as James Melton, and is a concert singer. Morton Downey wound up his summer engagement at the World's fair and followed it with an equally successful one in a Hollywood night club. Singin' Sam is making money by making recordings.

Jessica Dragonnette makes occasional appearances on the air—and when you see "Gulliver's Travels" you'll hear her voice. Vera Van, Leah Ray and Annette Henshaw have retired.

Gene Autry, the singing screen star who is Public Cowboy No. 1, heads a new western series from "The Double M Ranch" over the Columbia network each Sunday. Incidentally, did you know that Gene was discovered by the beloved Will Rogers? Rogers stopped at a small town in Oklahoma to forward his syndicated column; Gene, the telegraph operator, was singing a western ballad. Rogers advised him to capitalize on his talents—and a little more than a year later Gene Autry was a popular radio and recording artist.

Del Courtney, who features Candid Camera music over NBC, has borrowed an idea from the movies in his presentation of "previews" of his forthcoming programs. Before concluding his broadcasts, he plays a few bars of some of the new tunes to be featured on the next program. It's a novel idea, and will probably be widely copied by bandleaders who don't hesitate to imitate their more successful brethren.

ODDS AND ENDS—The New York Film Critics picked "Wuthering Heights" as 1939's best picture . . . It's a little more than twenty-six years since Cecil B. De Mille, Samuel Goldwyn and Jesse Lasky began filming "The Squaw Man," the first motion picture made in Hollywood.

Ask Me Another
● A General Quiz

The Questions

1. Has Brazil a state as large as Texas?
2. What makes wood decay?
3. Does the moon influence pendulum clocks?
4. How do waves on the Great Lakes compare with waves on the oceans?
5. Which is the longer coastline, the Atlantic or Pacific?
6. How do our rivers compare with those of Europe?
7. How large is Death Valley?
8. Did Cortez, Gomez or Pizarro conquer Peru?

The Answers

1. Brazil, which is larger than the United States, has 20 states, 3 of which are larger than Texas.
2. Bacteria and certain microscopic plants called fungi grow in the wood and destroy the structure.
3. The mechanism of pendulum clocks is affected slightly by the gravitational pull of the moon.
4. Waves on the Great Lakes sometimes reach 25 feet; ocean waves, more than 50 feet.
5. The Atlantic.
6. The Mississippi alone discharges more water than all the rivers of Europe.
7. Death Valley proper is about 50 miles long and averages between 20 and 25 miles in breadth between the crests of enclosing mountain ranges. It is 276 feet below sea level.
8. Pizarro.

GAS SO BAD CROWDS HEART
"My bowels were so sluggish and my stomach so bad I was just miserable. Sometimes gas bloated me until it seemed to crowd my heart. I tried Adlerika. Oh, what relief. The first dose worked like magic. Adlerika removed the gas and waste matter and my stomach felt so good."—Mrs. S. A. McAmis. If gas in your stomach and bowels from constipation bloats you up until you gasp for breath, take a tablespoonful of Adlerika and notice how the stomach GAS is relieved almost at once. Adlerika often moves the bowels in less than two hours. Adlerika is BOTH carminative and cathartic, containing five carminatives to warm and soothe the stomach and expel GAS, and three cathartics to clear the bowels and relieve intestinal nerve pressure.

Our Old-Time Couch Is Made Streamline

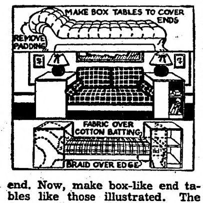
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

WAS there a couch like the picture at the top of this sketch, in the family "sitting room" when you were a child? Let's get it down from the attic, for just see what can be done with it! Properly streamlined it will look like the middle picture.

First paint the front of frame; then cover well up onto the head portion with cotton batting; next use bright cotton upholstery material. Remove stuffing at high end. Now, make box-like end tables like those illustrated. The dotted lines indicate how the couch fits under these box tables and how a partition and shelves are put in the one at the lower end. Paint tables to harmonize with fabric. The final touch is the back and end cushions covered with the upholstery material.



NOTE: Full directions for changing an old iron bed into the latest style, are given in Mrs. Spears' Book No. 3; also step-by-step directions for making "The Rug That Grew Up With the Family." Thirty-two pages of fascinating ideas for Homemakers. Ask for Book 3, enclosing 10 cents in coin to cover cost. Address; Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

The Better Way to Correct Constipation
One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and "cure" it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headachy days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention"?
If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it regularly—and drink plenty of water—you can not only get regular but keep regular, day after day and month after month! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Hour-Glass Silhouette Is a 'Must' Fashion

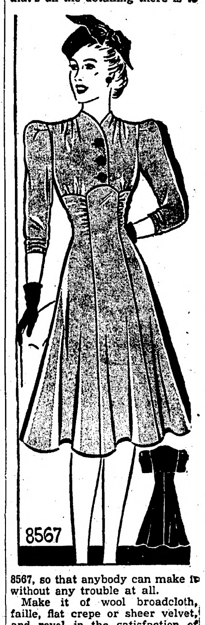
THIS is really a "must" fashion for this season when your figure should by all means have the delicately rounded, small-waisted look that distinguished the gracious ladies of the eighties. Gathers on the shoulders and at the waistline, gathers on each side of the front skirt panel which flattens your diaphragm beautifully—that's all the detailing there is to 8567, so that anybody can make it without any trouble at all.



Make it of wool broadcloth, faille, flat crepe or sheer velvet, and revel in the satisfaction of having an ultra-smart dress that looks expensive and costs really very little.

Pattern No. 8567 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Size 14 requires 4¼ yards of 39-inch fabric with three-quarter length sleeves; 4⅛ yards with short sleeves.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coin, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle, Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill.

On a Dollar Bill

The design and inscriptions on our one dollar bill are taken from the reverse side of the Great Seal of the United States, adopted in June, 1782. The two Latin mottoes translated read "He (God) favors our undertakings" and "A new order of things."

The pyramid is an unfinished one, emblematic of the unfinished republic. Above, is an all-seeing eye surrounded by light, to indicate the Diety. The other part of the design shows an eagle holding an olive branch and 13 arrows.

Safetygrams BY FRED W. BRAUN © The Safety Man

Many interesting editorials have been printed on safe driving. I enjoy immensley the fine instructive comments so many editors make on the necessity of safe driving, and I appreciate their contribution to the cause of safety.

Recently, the editor of the Isanti News, Isanti, Minnesota, wrote the following:

"Upon returning from an automobile trip the other evening, we sat down at the typewriter in a state of veritable frenzy. Foam dripping out of the corners of our mouth, we pounded out the following lines of despair with clenched fists:

'O, that some wise jury
Would see fit to indict
Every nocturnal driver
Who won't dim his lights."

Very appropriate; very timely. Let us set the example by dimming our lights - eventually some of these "dumb clucks" will realize that that is the courteous thing to do.

A BETTER PRICE FOR CULL COWS

St. Louis, Mo.—Cull dairy cows that are in better flesh and condition command a higher price than the average run of cull cows. And it really takes no great investment in time or feeding to add the extra finish that gets the better prices. A mixture of 1,700 lbs. of ground ear corn and 300 lbs. of Purina Steer Fatena is a widely used ration to put flesh on thin stuff. Such a mixture is reasonable in cost, especially where a feeder grows his own grain, for then he has to buy but 300 lbs. of this balancing concentrate to make a ton of fattening feed.

In feeding this ration, a week should be taken to gradually place the cull cows on full feed. After that, the ration should be kept before them in self feeders or troughs until they carry enough flesh to get the better price.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sagstuen, Mr. and Mrs. Carsten Sagstuen and Ernest and Mrs. Ludvig Sagstuen made a trip to Thorholt Sunday where they visited at the lumber camp there maintained by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson.

IT'S HARD ON PULLETS, TOO!

St. Louis, Mo.—An amazing and deplorable lapse of judgment leading to costly consequence occurs every year among poultry raisers, according to J. H. McAdams, Purina Poultry Specialist.

"I refer," says McAdams, "to the unprofitable practice of letting young pullets eke out their own existence on range, after they've been carefully purchased as chicks and given a good start by proper feeding and handling. It's difficult to understand why a poultry raiser will observe so faithfully all the accepted rules of the chick raising game during the starting period, then do just the opposite during the growing period by turning his pullets out to shift for themselves until egg prices start going up in the fall, then put them on a good laying mash and suddenly expect eggs. But thousands do it every year, which is the fundamental cause of the high egg prices in October, November and December.

"This procedure of letting young pullets 'rustle' their own feed a bite at a time," McAdams says, "reminds me of the story of the Irishman who wanted to trim his dog's tail to terrier size. Instead of facing the size of his task and carrying through on the operation in a business-like manner, the Irishman cut off the tail a little piece at a time.

"Any way you look at it," says McAdams, "young pullets will not grow and develop quickly and thoroughly, inside and out, if allowed to rustle for themselves. This is the summer danger spot. What they need is a balanced growing mash that will build bodies and egg-making organs for profitable production in October, November and December—the months of high egg prices."

36 Years on 'The Hill,' Garner Succeeds by Reason of Seasoned Experience and Sound Judgment

By BASCOM TIMMONS

John N. Garner would make a great President. He has a better practical understanding of national Government than any other living man. It is his life, and has been for 30 years.

Bascom Timmons

At the end of the three dozen years under the Capitol dome he is, according to the calendar, 70 years old. Off the calendar he is 50 years old and in tip-top physical condition. This vigor and physical toughness he would carry into the greatest office within the gift of the people and he would have the extra 20 years of knowledge of affairs, domestic and foreign. He came to his present place of eminence the hard way. In his public service there is no problem of Government with which he has not grappled.

Garner would make a great President because he has the proper temperament for the office. He knows when to advance and when to halt and take stock. He understands the Nation's legislative and administrative digestic system better than any man in the country. He would take no outposts he could not hold. He would be the best insurance against reaction, which so often follows unwise action. He has the poise and the patience to work for permanency. He would insist on sound legislation and coherent administration.

Best Judge of People's Temper

He is probably the best judge of the temper of the people and their representatives in Congress, at any given time, of any man in the United States. He has an uncanny perspective, which enables him to disregard the clamor of voluble and vociferous minorities and find the desires of the submerged majority. Perhaps this is because he is a typical American, neither radical nor reactionary, but progressive and forward-looking.

Garner would make a great President, because of his gifts of leadership and his judgment of and ability to work with men. He has often said that most men he has known in public life were men of good will, patriotically interested in the welfare of their country. He has always found a zest in sitting down with men who review problems from diverse angles, men of different experiences. He believes that out of such deliberations come sound, practical, beneficial and progressive solutions. He takes to such counsel tables his own fidelity to principles, clarity of reasoning and ability to get at facts.

His judgment of men is excellent. When he became Speaker, in 1931, he demonstrated his ability to choose men for important assignments — of finding the proper man to do a job. Men were placed in roles for which they were best qualified. He has always liked to reward merit in young men, and this gave him the opportunity. Although the Democrats had a fragile majority of only three votes overnight, he welded them into a cohesive, fighting organization.

Far-Flung Network of Contacts

Because his acquaintanceship in all parts of the country is second to none, I believe this far-flung network of contacts and knowledge of men would make it possible for Garner to call into service men of outstanding ability for his cabinet and other administrative places. His standard for judicial appointments would be high. He would be especially anxious to find proper men for diplomatic posts. His long experience on the House Foreign Affairs Committee imbued him with a deep and informed interest in international relations.

That Garner considers the solution of the unemployment and agricultural problems as the two outstanding challenges to the Union and that the chief attention of a Garner administration would be bent to this end, no one who knows him doubts. He likes to tackle tough problems, and here are two tough ones.

Opposed to Government in Business

If any one is supporting Garner on the theory he would be a do-nothing President, that supporter would better begin looking for a new man to support. His would be a heads-up administration. He believes modern government must meet modern needs. He has said that "evolutionary process must go forward to meet ever-changing human needs." He would not have the Government evade any legitimate function, but he would be zealous in his endeavor to see it did not encroach on functions outside its field. "Putting the Government into business is a violation of the Nation's industrial and commercial fabric," he declared in his 1932 acceptance speech.

Garner would make a great President because he thoroughly believes in our democratic system of three branches of Government. He has been called congressional-minded. It is true he has fought invasion of the prerogatives of Congress, but he is just as firmly against trespass against the executive and judicial branches.

Believing as he does in a Government of laws and not of men, he abhors unnecessary bureaucracy and would undoubtedly seek to dissolve some of it entirely, put back in Congress some of the legislative powers it exercises, back in the courts some of the judicial powers it occupies, and back in the States some of the local powers that belong there. All this would preserve the natural dignity of the executive branch, rather than weaken it.

Garner believes, as did Grover Cleveland, that the whole art of government is simply applied common sense and common honesty, with reason, justice and tolerance as handmaidens.

Has Vivid "Sense of Humanity"

Garner as President would be guided by a sense of humanity. It was he who introduced the first general relief bill in 1932. It was a pay-as-you-go measure, and carried a tax to pay its cost. He believes in an ever-increasing standard of living for the working man and woman. He has a passionate devotion for the well-being of men, and women who work for their daily bread. He has always fought monopoly and the concentration of wealth, and has insisted that the Government lay down rules to guarantee free and fair competition. He is for property rights because he believes them the very base of human rights. Ownership of property, he thinks, is one of the best guarantees of the dignity and independence of the individual. He is against favoritism in law enforcement.

Garner knows you cannot get something for nothing. He believes in constructive economy. He is the indestructible pioneer type who learned in a pioneer country how hard it is to make a dollar. He would be scrupulously careful with the taxpayer's dollar. He has the courage to resist fantastic proposals and boldly to meet an issue.

To continued efforts to find solutions of the Nation's problems Garner would take to the presidency vast experience. "Experience," to paraphrase the great Justice Holmes, "is the life of administration."

Garner loves his country, believes in it, knows it is durable and wants it to believe in itself. He wants Government to do its part toward preserving freedom of opportunity. He believes economy, thrift and self-reliance are still the hallmark of the majority of Americans.

Ducks Like Minnesota Winter

Over the week end we heard a report over the radio that the Minnesota Conservation Department were having a time of it with a family of over 7000 ducks that had refused to leave the state last fall. Five thousand of the birds are wintering on Heron Lake southwest of Windom, Minnesota and the other two thousand are spending their time on Lake Traverse on the Minnesota and South Dakota boundary southwest of Wheaton, Minn. So far the game department has not fed these birds any grains so as to get them to leave.

Scouters Have Meeting

The officers and scouters of the Thief River Falls Boy Scout district held their annual meeting at the Evelyn Hotel at Thief River Falls on Tuesday evening of last week. The meeting started out with a a free banquet given by the district to those attending. After hearing the reports for the past year, election of officers followed. Morris Bye, Supt. of the Thief River schools was chosen chairman suceeding Clarence Sande; Arvid Carlson, Middle River, Vice-chairman; A. J. Rau, Secretary; and G. H. Mayer-Oakes, commissioner. Mr. Carlson succeeds H. O. Hanson of Holt who had held the vice-chairmanship the past two years. Glenn Prather of Grand Forks, area Scout executive also spoke at the meeting.

Those from here who attended the meeting were: H. O. Hanson, vice-chairman of the district Hartley Peterson, Scoutmaster of Troop 112; O. T. Ness, Troop Committeeman and Milton Hanson.

After this meeting the entire body of officials and others met at the new high school auditorium in Thief River Falls and held a very impressive court of honor at which Mr. Bye presided

It was also decided that the district officials will meet once a month regularly during 1940 and that the next meeting will be held at Holt on Tuesday evening February 20. More details will be published in a later issue of the News.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been cold. The thermometer has hovered below zero most of the week. There has been little wind and not much snow. We still feel we have a nice winter.

THE FIRST STEP Towards TRUE TEMPERANCE

BEER promotes Moderation

One sure and easy way for us to reach the goal of True Temperance is by learning to be temperate, step by step, with a beverage of Moderation!

All history proves that Beer has been the bulwark of Moderation and Sobriety. Not only is Beer a mildly stimulating and nourishing food beverage, but it is also definitely non-intoxicating when taken in the quantities the average person consumes.

That is why world-renowned physicians, educators, and statesmen recommend a wider use of Beer as the most practical step toward temperance.

To reach this desirable goal of True Temperance in the shortest time possible, the brewers of Minnesota are co-operating fully with all enforcement authorities to make the retailing of Beer as wholesome as Beer itself.

Each day more Minnesotans are saying . . .
"I'm on the 'Moderation Wagon' . . . make mine Beer!"

Dread Disease Fight Is On

Minnesota today has mobilized every village, town and city for its part in the Nation's finish fight against infantile paralysis—a battle that reaches its 1940 climax Tuesday, January 30.

Throughout the entire state communities will gather to raise more amunition for the struggle in the form of dollars and dimes contributed by attendance at the annual Birthday Ball celebrations and to the March of Dimes on that date.

Entire proceeds of both events will be devoted solely to the "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaign, 50 per cent being retained by the county in which they were raised, the remainder being turned over to the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis.

Need for greater effort than ever before in combating the disease in Minnesota was cited by Arthur D. Reynolds, St. Paul, state chairman of the President's Birthday ball.

"Infantile paralysis is our common enemy, he said. "It strikes rich and poor, farmer or city dweller alike. In the first 11 months of 1939 in Minnesota 53 cases were recorded as compared with 619 for the entire previous five years. These figures should convince us of the need to contribute generously to Birthday Ball celebrations and to the March of Dimes campaign."

Nationally more than four times as many cases were recorded in 1939 than for the previous year, according to Reynolds. More than 7,000 cases were reported last year as compared with 1,700 in 1938, he said.

During the past year the 43 county chapters in Minnesota have intensified their efforts to see that sufferers in their communities obtain aid. The National Foundation also has increased its efforts toward research into the cause of the disease and in aiding hospitals and other institutions in the care and rehabilitations of victims.

Personal Property Tax List

We are this week publishing the personal property tax list for 1939 for the Village of Holt, Township of Holt, and several other townships in the southeast corner of the county and the village of Grygla.

In the village of Holt the Marshall County State Bank is paying the highest tax for the year, their amount being $755.41 and Alton Carlson comes second with $368.78. Others who come up in the rank of high figures are C. H. Gunheim, the Farmers Cooperative Creamery, Interstate Power Co., and Northern Seed and Grain Co.

Farmers in Holt townshig who pay large personal property tax are O. H. Nohre with $32.02 and Lars Ring with $28.24. Others with amounts over $20.00 are: H. D. Inman, Emma Johnson, Knut Nelson and Ole Maakstad.

Nelson's Entertain

The following were entertained at a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nelson Friday evening: Mr. and Mrs. D. Wegge Mr. and Mrs. W. Risberg of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. R. Werner and Ruby, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larson, Mr, and Mrs. G. Fricker and children, Mr. and Mrs. S. Lorentson, Mr. and Mrs. G. Karvonen and son, Mr. and Mrs. M. Hetland, Virginia Fadden and Emil Kaufert.

Cliff Dwellers of the Far North

In these days of diet-for-health fads, an occasional menu of raw whale filet, frozen fish and walrus meat, not to mention Eskimo ice cream, the main ingredient of which is seal oil, should not be overlooked according to Father Bernhard R. Hubbard, distinguished Alaskan explorer, geologist and Jesuit missionary, better known as the "Glacier Priest", who will bring his newest Alaskan motion picture "Cliff Dwellers of the far North" to the Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston Feb. 9, 1940.

Father Hubbard has just returned to civilization from his eleventh Alaskan expedition, which included a 2,000 mile trip through the floating ice of the stormy Bering Sea and the Arctic Ocean in a 40-foot open boat - a native oomiak of flexible skin powered by two outboard motors. Accompanying Father Hubbard were two white men, 6 Eskimos and two dogs. They transported, also, four tons of cargo.

The expedition was based in King Island, a square mile of rock, 90 miles west of Nome in the Bering Sea.

From remote King Island Father Hubbard and his party set out in July, 1937, on a top of the world cruise during which they visited native tribes living farthest north for the purpose of ethnological study. Father Hubbard is convinced that the Eskimos of Siberia and of North America are of the same Tartar-Mongol stock, found their language to be basically the same.

Father Hubbard states, "It is doubtful that those people came to North America across any prehistoric 'land bridge' over Bering straights. Only 40 miles of water separates Asia and North America. I am of the opinion that they came in the type of native boat which I used - - the Eskimo oomiak, as seaworthy in these waters as any that could be found.

Father Hubbard found among the Eskimos romance aplenty to record in motion picture film and story, but pictures show some well known tales concerning the "Walrus-people."

"I have yet to find Alaskan Eskimos living in igloos, says the "Glacier Priest". Earlier Eskimos perhaps built homes of whale or walrus bone frames with walrus skin coverings. They are a walrus people. All Eskimo life centers about the walrus herds. The walrus supplies them with food, clothing and shelter and puts money in their pockets. Their weapons, tools and boats are made from the walrus. They are a hardy, tall, intelligent, seafaring people, like the Vikings of old, though unwarlike and peaceful.

Safetygrams BY FRED W. BRAUN © The Safety Man

During the winter months when there are considerably fewer hours of daylight it becomes necessary to use the headlights on automobiles and trucks earlier and longer.

Automobile fatalities which occured during the hours of darkness increased 54.5 per cent from 1930 through 1937. During the same period, automobile fatalities which occured during hours of daylight decreased 5.4 per cent.

Our greatest automobile traffic is during the daytime, but our highest automobile fatalities are at night. These facts challenge all of us to be more alert and more courteous in our night driving. It requires additional caution and extra driving ability to move through congested traffic as well as in the "wide open spaces".

Good highway lighting is possible and will help solve this evil and should be installed as rapidly as possible.

Make an Heirloom Crazypatch Quilt

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THE oldest of quilt designs is the crazypatch, yet there is something amazingly modern in its angular lines. A variety of embroidery stitches join the pieces, of plain and figured silks. Several colors of silk embroidery thread are generally used. When a number of patches have been basted in place, sew them down to the foundation with the embroidery stitches and then remove the bastings. The backing is tied to the front with silk embroidery thread as comforters are tied. Little or no padding may be used and a plain band around the edge is effective.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears has prepared patterns and directions for making three of her favorite Early American Quilt Blocks which she will mail upon receipt of name and address and 10 cents coin to cover cost. Her Sewing Booklet No. 2 contains illustrations for 42 embroidery stitches suitable for patch work quilts; also pattern with directions for making the framed picture embroidery sketched on the wall in illustration above. Also numerous gift items: mittens, neck ties; bags; table decorations; and 5 ways to repair fabrics. To get this book, send 10 cents in coin to Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

Balkans Safeguard Neutrality As Nazi-Russian War Menace Hovers Over Northern Europe

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Peace Moves in the Balkans—at a Glance

CIANO

CAROL

TWO unrelated but parallel efforts originating in London and Rome are converging in Belgrade, Jugoslavia, on February 2, when Balkan states meet to discuss neutrality and self-defense against Russia. The efforts:

Roman. Count Stefan Csaky of Hungary, which has revisionist claims against Rumania, met recently with Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano, who urged Csaky to seek peace with Rumania as a defense against Russian aggression. In answer Rumania said nothing, but it was intimated King Carol would be ready to cede land to Hungary after the European war. A few days later he met secretly with Prince Paul of Jugoslavia, whom Italy has been encouraging to serve as intermediary between Hungary and Rumania.

Allied. Should the western front be permanently stalemated, France and Britain might have to invade Germany via the Balkans. Already lined up is Turkey, and through that nation the allies hope to win co-operation of other states. No. 1 problem child here is Bulgaria, which, like Hungary, has revisionist claims against Rumania. Even as King Carol was talking with Prince Paul, Turkey's Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu had an emissary in Sofia discussing Balkan neutrality with Bulgaria's Foreign Minister George Kiosseivanoff.

Result: A European anti-Nazi, anti-Soviet bloc may arise from these carryings-on. First sign came from Turkey, which has always suspected Italy. Suddenly Ankara papers turned about-face and hailed Mussolini.

THE WARS:
Two Into One?

Peace hovered over the Balkans (see above), but it found little welcome elsewhere. The "Oslo group" (Netherlands, Belgium, Denmark, Norway and Sweden) was in deeper water than at any time since September. Overnight close to a million Belgians and Dutchmen were rushed to the 300-mile frontier, because German troop concentrations were reported on the other side.

No one doubted Adolf Hitler would like these tiny lands; from Netherlands he could bomb Britain at close range, and from Belgium he could throw a flank attack around the Maginot line. Berlin scoffed at such rumors, but why else had Nazi airmen made reconnaissance flights over the Low Countries?

Denmark was unmenaced for the moment, but Joe Stalin was turning the screws on Norway and Sweden. Russian planes offered no apology for bombing a Swedish island; in fact both Stockholm and Oslo governments were warned against violating their neutrality by aiding Finland.

It was easy to see behind this joint Russo-German action. For several months northern European neutrals have been a thorn in the sides of both Stalin and Hitler. They have bothered Hitler by accepting the British blockade and looking unkindly at Russia, whom the Nazis now consider a "friend." Scandinavia has bothered the Soviet, in turn, by sending aid to beleaguered Finland. Observers had good reason to fear, therefore, that Europe's two wars may soon merge into one free-for-all.

In the West

Increased tension placed Britain and France on guard. All leaves were cancelled and air activity increased precipitously. Nazi planes cruised 500 miles down the eastern English coast on reconnaissance flights that unnerved civilians. Next day the allies claimed successful flights over distant Prague and Vienna. But nothing happened to break the quiet that hung over Siegfried and Maginot. Both sides, apparently, were waiting for the other to slip.

N A M E S
in the news . . .

¶ At New York, G-Man J. Edgar Hoover announced seizure of 18 "Christian front" members charged with "conspiracy to overthrow, put down and destroy" the U. S. government.

¶ At New York, died Ralph Hitz, famed chain hotel manager.

¶ At Washington, Democratic Hopeful Burton K. Wheeler (D., Mont.) got a "kiss-of-death" invitation to address John Lewis' United Mine Workers at their anniversary convention in Columbus, Ohio.

¶ At Mexico City, President Lazaro Cardenas announced (1) his government's refusal to recognize the Monroe doctrine, and (2) its intention to solve the oil problem (involving expropriation of $400,000,000 in foreign-owned oil properties) in its own way

In the North

There was no such polite warfare between Finland and Russia. The tide of victory, which superior land activity has placed in Finnish hands since last December, suddenly shifted as the Soviet began a systematic bombing campaign to demoralize its foe. Unless Italy, Britain and France can rush more planes to Finland (which is exactly what Russia and Germany are trying to stop), the Finns will probably be defeated by April 1.

UTILITIES:
Bonneville Steel

Critics of the New Deals power program used to scoff when Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes told about the commercial electricity prospects at such U. S. dams as the Bonneville, Oregon, project. Last month Harold Ickes made the critics eat those words by signing Aluminum Company of America to a 20-year contract at Bonneville. Hardly had this cooled before Bonneville came forth with a new idea. Why not establish a small iron and steel plant in the Columbia river area, producing iron and finished steel for the west coast local market?

PAN AMERICA:
Neutrality

While U. S. naval officers were grumbling about their patrol duties in the winter-swept Atlantic, the inter-American neutrality committee met at Rio de Janeiro. Purpose: To make the 300-mile neutrality belt around the Americas more effective, preventing recurrence of the Graf Spec, Columbus and Orion incidents. Plans:

(1) An agreement to prevent belligerent craft from obtaining supplies or making repairs in a Pan-American port once they had committed belligerent acts inside the safety zone.

(2) An accord to keep submarines outside the zone except under emergency, when they must rise to the surface.

(3) A Pan-American code of neutrality, to be followed by all nations.

Many Americans, who see their government paying most of the freight for the neutrality patrol, viewed the entire proceedings as rather futile and inequitable. But not the department of commerce. Released were figures showing the gain in exports to Latin America, last November having brought $38,986,000 in sales against $23,310,000 a year earlier. This item was most interesting; if the U. S. continues safeguarding hemispherical neutrality, will it continue upward? Equally important, will this increase justify the neutrality expense?

CONGRESS:
Economy, Maybe

Economy is a fine thing, but not in an election year like 1940. Especially when it hits the "pork barrel." Mid-January found the house passing without qualms the army and navy deficiency bill, after hacking $7,000,000 from the President's $272,000,000 request. It went on to the senate, where Colorado's Sen. Alva Adams promised his appropriations subcommittee would make even more slashes.

But the independent offices appropriations bill was something else. Virginia's Rep. Clifton A. Woodrum, known as "strong man" of the house appropriations committee, succeeded in cutting a neat $30,000,000 from the bill before it reached the house floor. Here, observers knew, would come the real test of whether the present congress really wants economy or only wants to talk about it. Affected by the Woodrum hatchet were such agencies as the maritime labor board, National Labor Relations board (See LABOR), Securities and Exchange commission, Home Owners Loan corporation and other units which provide jobs for the constituents back home.

Though the Republican bloc assured economy-minded Democrats of their co-operation, it was freely forecast that all of Mr. Woodrum's $30,000,000 might be restored before the bill is passed.

Other congressional news:

¶ Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace defended the expiring reciprocal trade act before a house committee.

¶ A half-dozen bills for U. S. aid to Finland were cautiously sidestepped for fear of violating neutrality. More likely than a congressional loan was an Export-Import bank allowance.

¶ Big navy news continued in the spotlight. Georgia's Rep. Carl Vinson surprised Washington by proposing to boost naval strength 25 per cent in the next three years through an extra $1,300,000,000 appropriation. Publicized were navy plans for 52,000-ton battleships (45,000-tonners are now building) and 20,000-ton battle cruisers (10,000-tonners are the present maximum.)

LABOR:
'Unmitigated Liar'

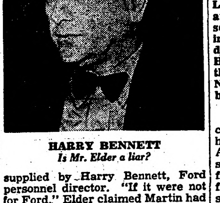
Under a house committee's spotlight in Washington is the National Labor Relations board. Though most "anti" testimony to date has sought to link NLRB with John Lewis' C. I. O., it was inevitable that others would be splashed with mud in the process. One of the others: Ford Motor company.

Entered in testimony was the affidavit of one Harry Elder, former head of St. Louis' United Automobile Workers. Said Elder: Homer Martin, former C. I. O. auto unionist, who is now affiliated with A. F. of L., had told him of financial aid supplied by Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director. "If it were not for Ford," Elder claimed Martin had told him, "I wouldn't be able to get along and run the union."



HARRY BENNETT
Is Mr. Elder a liar?

Slapped against a traditionally anti-union firm, this charge made quick headlines. In Detroit, Harry Bennett made no bones about calling Elder "an unmitigated liar." Martin called the charges "lies too big to be believed by any candid person." In answer, the committee invited Martin to appear "at the proper time."

ALASKA:
Good-bye to Matanuska

Near Palmer, Alaska, in the fertile Matanuska valley lies the resettlement colony Uncle Sam founded in mid-depression to rehabilitate drouth-stricken midwestern farmers. Plagued by considerably fewer terrors than in their old homes, Matanuska's settlers have nevertheless had tough sledding. Many have returned to the "mainland," and this month something happened that may send more of them back. Handed over to a farmers' co-operative were a hospital, hatchery, garage, dormitory and water system, last Matanuska stronghold of the federal government. By next autumn, Matanuska's colonists should know whether they can make ends meet without U. S. aid.

JAPAN:
New Premier

Mid-January U. S.-Japanese relations looked like a pup turning somersaults to attract a St. Bernard. Premier Nobuyiki Abe had reopened the Yangtze, hoping to woo U. S. favor. He failed. Next he tried to make friends with U. S. Ambassador Joseph Drew, hoping to win a new trade pact. This, too, failed. Result: Premier Abe resigned. His successor is Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, former navy minister.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

JOAN CRAWFORD is as popular as ever, judging by the welcome that she received from the fans when she arrived in New York not long ago for a brief vacation. She was accompanied by two dachshunds, Stinky, which is hers, and Pupschen, which belongs to her ex-husband, Franchot Tone, with whom she is on the friendliest of terms.

Fetchingly dressed when she arrived, she rushed straight to her favorite milliner's and ordered hats—all kinds of hats, rather goofy ones, the kind so many of her fans like to have her wear.

*

Twentieth Century-Fox is going to film the history of radio, probably next fall, with Alice Faye and Don Ameche starring in a tale that will cover the development from crystal sets to television.

*

Did you know that that dashing hero of the films, William Powell, wore a gray suit and a sweater to his own wedding? The bride took the occasion more seriously, sartorially; she wore a blue flowered print dress and a turban that matched it. But then, she hadn't been married twice before! You'll see her before long in "Forty Little Mothers," and you may have seen her on the screen already, without knowing it; as Diana Lewis she's been just one more promising young actress. She's beautiful and talented, and acting is an old story to her—her parents used to be headliners in vaudeville.

If the British government had been as eager to send David Niven to war as he was to go, he could have taken with him—and probably would have—a novel memento of Hollywood. It is the service cap which he wore in the role of a young English officer in "Dawn Patrol." Louis Hayward, playing the role of an English captain in one of the sequences of "My Son, My Son!", in which he has one of the top roles, drew an army cap from wardrobe. He noticed the initials "D. N." in the band, and learned that it was Niven's "Dawn Patrol" cap, so he bought it and sent it to his friend.

*

Time was when a screen star couldn't be sued for divorce and hope to carry on with her career. And although she planned to marry someone else as soon as she was free, she wouldn't have said so as frankly as Vivian Leigh has. It seems likely that her studio would have been just as well pleased if her husband had not chosen to sue her while "Gone With the Wind" was still at the height of its glory, but she did so well in it that the publicity regarding her private life probably won't keep the public from clamoring to see her in "Waterloo Bridge."

*

It's not unusual to hear a few bars of "God Bless America" in traffic jams in New York these days. People look about and stare, and if they're lucky they catch a glimpse of Kate Smith in the car whose horn startled them. A horn manufacturing company gave the horn to Miss Smith as a present; the driver just presses a button, and a bit of the patriotic song that she made famous rings out.

*

Title to the title, "Buck Benny Rides Again," has changed hands three times. When Benny's authors, Morrow and Beloin, first used the idea it automatically became the property of the comedia, as does all their material. With characteristic generosity, Benny gave it back to the writers.

Now they have sold the title to Paramount, the company for which they wrote Benny's new picture.

ODDS AND ENDS

Jean Darling, once the heroine of "Our Gang" films, is studying for opera.

The William L. White whom you hear broadcasting from Finland these evenings is the son of the famous William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kansas, Gazette.

Strange Facts

Plowing the Sea
Real Bell Ringers!
Benign Deafness

To eliminate the annual damage of $500,000 to submarine cables by fishing trawlers off the coast of Ireland, the lines are now buried in the ocean bed by means of a new sea plow that automatically makes a deep furrow, inserts and covers the cable, even at a depth of 2,400 feet.

The record for bell ringing is held by the men who rang, from memory, 21,000 changes of eight bells each in a little more than 12 hours in All Saints' church in Loughborough, England, on Easter Sunday, 1909.

People get so used to seeing their faces reversed in a mirror, with the right side of it on the left and vice versa, that they almost invariably select, when given a choice, a reversed photograph of themselves in the belief it is "the better likeness."

In several British munitions plants, only deaf men are employed in the shot-blasting departments because the roaring, clanging noise would soon make physical wrecks of those with normal hearing.—Collier's.

FIGHT COLDS

by helping nature build up your cold-fighting resistance

If you suffer one cold right after another, here's sensational news! Mrs. Elizabeth Vickery writes: "I used to catch colds very easily. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery helped to strengthen me just splendidly. I ate better, had more stamina, and was troubled very little with colds."

This great medicine, formulated by a practicing physician, helps combat colds this way: (1) It stimulates the appetite. (2) It promotes flow of gastric juices. Thus you eat more; your digestion improves; your body gets greater nourishment which helps nature build up your cold-fighting resistance.

So successful has Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery been that over 30,000,000 bottles have already been used. Proof of its remarkable benefits. Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from your druggist today. Don't suffer unnecessarily from colds.

Virtue's Resources

Virtue has resources buried in itself which we know not of till the invading hour calls them from their retreats.—Bulwer.

Personal Property Tax List For 1939

Marshall County, Minnesota

Personal Property Taxes become delinquent on March 1. Those having Personal Property Taxes of more than $10 can divide their tax into two equal installments, making the first payment before March 1 and the last payment before July 1 without penalty or interest. The rate of penalty and interest is eight per cent.

P. E. KVIKSTAD,
County Treasurer.

Central Co-op To Pay 30% Refund On 1939 Commission

A patronage refund of 30% of commissions collected in 1939, amounting to $126,392.66 will be paid to members of the Central Cooperative Association, livestock sales agency of South St. Paul, Minn. and West Fargo, N. D., it was announced by the board of directors at a board meeting held in South St. Paul, Thursday, January 4. In addition to the 30% refund, an 8% stock dividend will be paid, this being the maximum permitted to be paid under the cooperative laws of Minnesota.

This makes the nineteenth annual refund and dividend to be paid by the Central and makes a total of over $1,900,000 actual cash to be paid to member patrons since the association was organized in 1921. As the year 1939 closed membership in the Central Cooperative Association included approximately 30,000 individual preferred stockholders and 600 cooperative shipping associations which own common stock.

The 1939 dividend and refund checks will be ready for mailing from the South St. Paul office within six to eight weeks.

Stockholders of the Central Cooperative Association will hold their nineteenth annual meeting on February 13-14 at the Lowry Hotel in St. Paul.

Kept all Promises

During his four years as chief executive of Kansas, Governor Alf Landon fulfilled every campaign promise he made, and made good on every plank in the party's state platform.

Applications for Insurance On Wheat Heavy

230 Applications Filed In Marshall County, Says Chas. Kranz

Applications for 1940 "all risk" wheat crop insurance are running far ahead of last year, says Chas. Kranz, chairman of the Marshall County AAA Committee.

One reason for this is the fact that most farmers who applied for insurance last year were well satisfied with the way the program was administered, believes Mr. Kranz. Simplification of the 1940 insurance plan coupled with the fact that growers were notified early of insurable yields and premium rates, and the possibility of taking care of all the arrangements for a crop insurance application at one time are probably also responsible for the increase, says Mr. Kranz.

In Minnesota more than 11,000 crop insurance premiums had been collected by January first, compared with a total sign-up of a little more than 10,000 policies last year, reports Mr. Kranz. About 230 applications for "all risk" insurance have been made by Marshall county farmers so far. Growers have only until February twenty-ninth to make application. Applications received to date cover over 150,000 acres in the state and about 9,000 acres in this county.

In speaking of the advantages to growers who insure their crop against losses, the chairman explained that the premium rate each applicant pays is figured from actual losses that he has experienced during a 13 year base period. In other words, he said, premium payments represent his average annual cost of crop failures. Insurance will not reduce the amount of loss a grower may expect over a similar period of years, but it makes it possible for him to pay his crop losses in annual installments. The main advantage to the insured farmer is that he gets his wheat back when he needs it most—when his crop fails to yield 75% of the average.

Minnesota Crop Summary For 1939

The Minnesota crop season for 1939 was outstanding in that an all time record for average yield per acre of corn was established and nearly all yields were average or better than average. Flax acreage and production also established an all time record, according to Paul H. Kirk, Federal-State Statistician. At this time no definite figures can be given as to the value of the 1939 crop production, but there is no doubt that this year's value will be greater than 1938.

The report indicates that for the 21 crops, including hay seeds and commercial truck crops for market and canning, the total acres harvested are 18,933,230 acres, compared with 18,917,150 acres harvested in 1938 for these same crops. The acres harvested are practically the same for both years as the increase in 1939 over 1938 is less than one-half of one per cent. From a production standpoint the result is different as there were no crop failures of any consequence in any section of the state in 1939.

Production of all grain crops, potatoes, and hay seeds in 1939 amounted to 479,341,000 bushels; while production for these same crops in 1938 was 409,301,000 bushels. This represents an increase in production in 1939 over 1938 of about 17 percent. Production of all tame hay and wild hay in 1939 totaled 6,130,000 tons, compared with 6,484,000 tons harvested in 1938; the production in 1939 being about 5 percent less than in 1938. The 1939 production of tobacco at 840,000 pounds was practically 9 percent above the 1938 production; while production of dry, edible beans in 1939 of 9,000 bags of 100 pounds each is nearly 36 percent less than the 1938 production of 14,000 bags of 100 pounds each, due entirely to one-third reduction in acreage harvested in 1939.

The acreage of total cabbage for commercial sale in 1939 was 2,650 acres, compared with 2,850 acres harvested in 1938. Acres of onions harvested in 1939 are 3,450 acres compared with 3,400 acres harvested in 1938. There were 200 acres of carrots for commercial purposes harvested in 1939 compared with 350 acres harvested in 1938. The total acres of these truck crops in 1939 are 6,300, compared with 6,600 acres harvested in 1938 or a decrease of about 5 percent.

The acreage of sweet corn for commercial canning in 1939 is 39,800 acres harvested compared with 55,700 acres harvested in 1938 or a reduction of nearly 29 percent. The acreage of green peas processed in 1939 is 19,500 compared with 20,250 acres processed in 1938. There were 930 acres of cucumbers processed for pickles in 1939 compared with 900 acres processed in 1938 or an increase of around three percent.

Production of all commercial cabbage, including that used for kraut, in 1939 is 19,200 tons or a decrease of nearly 17 percent from 1938. On the other hand, the 1939 production of commercial onions was 811,000 sacks of 100 pounds each or an increase over 1938 of 59 percent. Production of commercial carrots in 1939 is placed at 70,000 bushels or nearly 41 percent less than in 1938. Production of sweet corn for canning is placed at 151,200 tons in 1939 or about 12 percent less than the previous year. Production of green peas for commercial canning in 1939 is 17,650 tons or about 5 percent less than a year ago. Production of cucumbers for pickles in 1939 is 97,000 bushels or about 47 percent greater than the 1938 production.

1940 Marshall County Fair On June 27, 28, 29

Dates Set at Meeting of Red River Valley Circuit Held In St. Paul

Officials Contract For Outstanding Grandstand Attractions For Event

Dates for Marshall County's 34th Annual Fair have been set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 27, 28 and 29.

Selection of the dates for the exposition was made at a meeting of the Red River Valley Better Fairs Circuit held in St. Paul last week with R. B. Taralseth, president; O. M. Mattsono, secretary; and William Forsberg, director, in attendance.

Other fairs in the circuit and dates are: Clay County Fair at Barnesville, June 20, 21 and 22; Polk County Fair at Fertile, June 24, 25 and 26; Kittson County Fair at Hallock, July 1, 2 and 3 and Norman County Fair at Ada, July 4, 5 and 6. The circuit reelected Albin Olson of Hallock as president and Jos. Reseland of Fertile as secretary.

After a year's absence, the circuit again entered contracts with the Lew Rosenthal Amusement Enterprises of Waterloo, Iowa, to supply the grandstand attractions, which in the opinion of local fair officials will assure visitors to the 1940 fair the most outstanding program of attractions ever offered in this section of the Northwest.

"We looked over the programs submitted by eight attraction companies and came to the conclusion that Mr. Rosenthal had offered the most outstanding program among all submitted," said Mr. Taralseth. The circuit was unanimous in its selection.

Dee Lang's Famous Shows, which have provided the midway attractions during the past three years, was again signed to return to the circuit in 1940. Mr. Lang has improved his carnival company each year and is making many new improvements for 1940. His organization has increased in size so greatly that he has found it necessary to carry his own electric generating plant, which in itself will be an attraction to the visitors at the fair. Several new rides and shows have been added while major improvements have been made on all other equipment. Mr. Lang's carnival is recognized as one of the cleanest in the business which is distinctly in his favor in securing the Red River Valley circuit, Mr. Taralseth stated.

Headlining the grandstand program contracted through Mr. Rosenthal's company is the night revue, "Fantasies of 1940" with 28 people and is said to be outstanding in every way.

A big list of free acts have been signed up including Geo. Cortillo's Doggone Revue—Hollywood Scandals, said to be the most outstanding animal show of its kind. It is of a comedy nature. The Sallardo Duo is an acrobatic comedy act which is said to be superb. Kangaroo Pete and Suicide Elder appear in two acts, the first a great Kangaroo act, both funny and good, and then Suicide Elder, the world's best broncho buster and horseman. This troupe has three people, a kangaroo and horses and bronchos. Roy Barrett, a real clown, has many new stunts. The Four Fantinos in flying trapeze and aerial acrobatics, is said to be absolutely the best, and the four sensational Robys in juggling acts are exceptional. These and several more will be seen at the fair.

To replace the Thrill Day program of last year the circuit has signed up the Hunters Hippodrome, a new feature never before seen at our fair. Chariot races, Roman standing races, hurdle jumps, novelty races, riderless horses, diving dog, Liberty jumping and many more stunts are on the program for this company. Twelve horses and seven people take part in the program of stunts.

Expect 1940 To Be Healthy Year In Minnesota

Barring unforseen and major catastrophes, 1940 promises to be a healthful year in Minnesota. This prophecy is made in an article in the February issue of Everybody's Health, the magazine published by the Minnesota Public Health Association as a part of the Christmas Seal educational campaign.

Pointing out that 1939 will go down in history as the most healthful year in our history, the article states that in this year deaths from tuberculosis and all communicable disease except infantile paralysis took a decided drop. The number of pneumonia deaths struck an all-time low, and the article gives much credit for this to the use of the new drug, sulfapyridine. Increased gains against danger associated with childbirth are also reported.

In contrast with these gains among the diseases in youth, more deaths were reported from heart and kidney disease, cancer and stroke, which afflict older people.

Intensified efforts for the early discovery and prevention of tuberculosis are planned for 1940 by the state Christmas Seal organization. Special emphasis will be placed on tuberculin testing and x-raying of school children, promotion of school projects such as hot lunches, proper care to prevent the spread of colds, and the practice of good health habits to build resistance, the magazine states.

D. 1940, be and the same are hereby classified, pursuant to Chapter 320, Laws of 1939, as agricultural lands without classifying the other forfeited lands in said conservation area.

Commissioner Ole Bergman seconded the motion and the same being put, was duly carried.

J. J. Pagnac, Chairman
County Board of Commissioners.

Attest:
Levi G. Johnson,
County Auditor.

Stage Set for Winter Shows Opening Feb. 5

McCall Reflects Historical Growth of Winter Event In Crookston

The 30th annual Red River Valley Winter Shows and Northwest School Farmers' Week will be held at Crookston on February 5 to 9, this year. According to T. M. McCall, president of the Winter Shows and superintendent of the Northwest School of Agriculture, the shows have grown from a modest beginning in 1911 to a scale where now three large buildings are inadequate to house all entries. The attendance at the educational meetings each year for men, women, and 4-H club meetings requires the use of the high school auditorium and armory with a combined seating capacity of three thousand.

The Farmers' Week and Winter Shows, as an institution, is unique in that it is governed by representatives from each of several cooperating organizations. Officials of the Northwest School of Agriculture and the Red River Valley Development Association perfected the organization of the Winter Shows in 1914. Other organizations now represented on the Board of Managers include the Red River Valley Livestock, Poultry, Crops, Dairymen's Association and the Crookston Association of Public Affairs.

The three exhibit buildings, located in the center of Crookston, are owned by the Red River Valley Livestock Association which has more than two thousand share-holders in its non-profit organization. More than 2,000 exhibits of livestock, crops and poultry were entered in competition last year. More than $6,000 in cash is paid out as premiums each year. Premium money is received from state and county appropriations. More than one-fourth of the total premiums paid are for boys' and girls' 4-H Club exhibits.

A four-day schedule of educational meetings for men and women with specialists of state and national reputation is conducted free to the public. A total of from 4,000 to 7,000 people attend the educational meetings annually. An average of 2,500 people annually pay 25 cents each to see the livestock, crops and poultry shows, with a similar number attending the night programs.

Sixty-five to seventy judging teams from the Schools of Agriculture in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, high schools, farm and 4-H Clubs of Northwestern Minnesota compete annually in crops, livestock, dairy, and poultry judging contests. Special day programs are arranged each year for crops, livestock, poultry, and potato growers with specialists in those fields and the field of Agricultural Economics as members.

Twenty-five judges will be required to judge contests and classes in livestock, poultry, and crops.

The University of Minnesota, through its Department of Child Welfare, Agriculture, Home Economics, and Agricultural Extension will furnish the majority of the forty speakers required for the educational meetings during the week. Other speakers will come from the Minnesota Artists Bureau, State Horticultural Society, Provincial Department of Agriculture in Manitoba, North Dakota Agricultural College, and Minnesota State Department of Agriculture. Dean W. C. Coffey and Vice-director C. H. Bailey of the Minnesota Station will take leading parts on the program. The State Department of Agriculture will be represented by Commissioner R. A. Trovaaten, Ed Thye, and C. P. Bull. Agricultural specialists from the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and Soo line railroads will assist with the many contests during the week and the livestock sale on February 8.

Livestock judging will begin on February 5 and continue until noon of Wednesday, February 7. Wednesday has been designated as livestock day. The Canadian system of swine grading and the packer's view of what constitutes quality in fat stock will be features of the program.

The Red River Valley Development Association will present the honor Valley Farmer and Homemaker plaques to outstanding farm families of each county, at their annual banquet on Wednesday evening, February 7.

The crops men will have two full day programs. Tuesday, February 6, will be devoted to discussions of milling tests of wheat, hybrid corn, pasture trials, weed control; Thursday, February 8, has been set aside for potato growers' problems. Potato disease exhibits and a symposium on disease problems will feature the day's program, with Dr. F. A. Krantz, veteran potato breeder, and Dr. C. O. Rost of the Division of Soils, University Farm, St. Paul, concluding the day's program with discussions of Breeding Potatoes for Disease Resistance and Fertiliser Trials will be discussed by specialists in those fields. On the Friday afternoon program, specialists in Home Economics, garden flowers, art of living, health, child welfare, social service, dramatics, and adult education will address the women's sessions in their programs, February 6-9.

Outstanding bands and choral groups furnish music during the week. The bands appearing on the 1940 program include the University of North Dakota, Ninth District Legion, and Crookston Municipal bands. One evening program, February 6, will be given over entirely to the Northwestern Minnesota Singers' Association, a combined chorus of 112 men from some ten communities and twenty-four women from Crookston. Governor Harold E. Stassen will speak on the evening of February 7 at the 30th anniversary celebration. John E. Metcalfe of Chicago, special investigator for the Dies Committee, will speak on the subject "What America Means to Me" on the evening of February 8. The address of Father Hubbard, the Alaskan explorer, and radio priest will conclude the week's program on Friday evening, February 9.

Annual meetings of many of the cooperating organizations will be held at the Winter Shows. The annual stockholders meeting of the Livestock Association will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 7. The Development Association will also meet on Feb. 7. The Crops and Soils Association and County Agents will meet on Feb. 6. The Poultry Association meets on Thursday, Feb. 7. The Northwestern Minnesota division of the League of Municipalities will meet on Feb. 8. District meetings of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held on Feb. 8. The annual Red River Valley rural school spelling contest will be held on Friday, Feb. 9.

Open-Bid Road Work Provides 1,100 Jobs Spread Over State

Wide distribution of approximately one-half million dollars of the state Highway department's 1939 maintenance gravelling and oil contracts, through its policy of open, competitive bidding on maintenance work as well as construction projects, provided private employment for approximately 1,100 men in communities scattered throughout all sections of the state.

An analysis of maintenance expenditures for contract work which has just been completed shows that that portion of maintenance gravelling which last summer was performed by private operators was accomplished under 53 separate contracts, totaling $334,410, let to 34 contractors, living in 30 different towns. No one contractor was low bidder on more than 5 contracts. Their work provided employment averaging from two to four weeks for somewhat more than 1,000 men from the local communities in which the contractors operated.

Maintenance contract oiling by the highway department last summer was performed on 18 contracts, totaling $157,563, let to 8 contractors in 7 different towns, the smallest of which was the community of Prinsburg in Kandiyohi county, with a population of 60. This distribution of road oil provided employment for an average of approximately 70 men throughout the summer.

Contractors in this section of the state whose low bids won them maintenance contracts were:

John Meland, Hawley.
H. P. Lund & Sons, Thief River Falls.
August Vagts, Breckenridge.
Oscar Schenkey, Middle River.

Human minds are like parachutes, says Lord Dewar. They only function when they are open.

Rural School Children Spend Extra Time For Spell Contests

Sectional Contests Jan. 27 With County Event In Warren on Feb. 2

Rural school children of Marshall county are spending extra time with their spelling lessons these days with the announcement this week of dates for sectional, county and district spelling contests by Miss Thora Skomedal, county superintendent of schools.

Preliminary contests will be held in all of the rural schools to determine school champions after which on January 27, sectional contests will be held. Winners of the sectional contests will compete in a county contest in Warren on Feb. 2 while on the following week, Feb. 9. the county winners will compete for district honors at the Red River Valley Winter Shows in Crookston.

Rules and regulations for the contests were sent to the rural teachers last week, the complete set of which follows:

The following are not eligible: a. Pupils who have participated in any State Spelling Contest. b. Pupils who have participted in any previous Winter Shows Spelling Contest. c. Eighth grade graduates.

The leader of the teacher group, or a competent person appointed by her, will conduct the contest assisted by three judges also appointed by her.

The contest shall consist of the following: a. An individual list of 10 words to be given to each contestant in the presence of the moderator and the judges. These words shall be spelled orally. Value 10 points. b. A written list of 50 words to be given to all contestants. Value 50 points. c. A dictation exercises in which 10 words have been selected. No credit shall be given for composition. Value 10 points. d. A miscellaneous written exercise to consist of 3 synonyms, 3 pair of homonyms, 3 antonyms, 3 abbreviations, 3 plurals, 2 possessives and 8 contractions. Value 20 points. e. A spell-down. Value 10 points.

The moderator must read and explain the rules to the group before the contest begins.

The judges and the moderator are in complete control from the moment the first word is pronounced until the contest is closed. Their decision is final.

In the spell-down three rounds of spelling, consisting of easy words shall be given before the contest begins. Misspelled words during these three rounds will be disregarded. In the contest proper 10 rounds of words will be given. All contestants shall remain in the contest until the 10 rounds have been completed. The contestant's rank in the spell-down shall be based upon the number of words correctly spelled in the 10 rounds. Thereafter, the contestants shall be seated as they misspell a word. This part of the contest is not counted in the ranking of the contestant, but serves as a "show" to the audience. In case of a tie in the whole contest, it shall be broken by the writing of 20 words selected by the judges.

In giving the words the moderator may pronounce a word more than once; may also define it, and may use the word in a phrase or sentence if it seems necessary.

The oral spelling "individual" and spell-down) shall be conducted as follows: a. The moderator pronounces the word. b. The contestant shall then pronounce the word and spell it. c. After spelling the word, the contestant shall again pronounce the word. The pupil may change his spelling or spell the word over again if he does so before pronouncing it the second time. The last spelling before he pronounces it the second time shall be understood as his intended correction.

(Each of the contestants shall be tested individually on each of the 10 words and shall not communicate with any of the other contestants until this part of the contest has been fully completed).

BUCKLEY BAGS UNUSUAL BIRD ON HUNTING TRIP

Frazee—Joe Buckley shot a cormorant, a hooked-beaked, webb-footed sea bird, weighing about eight pounds, near Frazee, Minn., recently, and has had it mounted. Found along the seashore, they are uncommon inland. The Japanese use one species for catching fish, a ring being placed around the bird's neck so that it cannot swallow the fish. Buckley also bagged a cock pheasant measuring nearly 39 inches in length.

Stassen Gives People Report On First Year

Governor Lists Savings Made in Costs and Recounts Gains from Reduction in Strikes Under New Labor Act

Reviewing the first year of his administration, Governor Harold E. Stassen in a speech from St. Paul this past week listed among other achievements for the year the savings effected on state expenditures and the gains resulting from the reduction in strikes through conciliation under the new labor relations act.

Stassen quoted records of the U. S. Department of Labor to show that during 1936, 1937 and 1938 Minnesota had an average of more than 15,000 of its wage earners involved in strikes. During 1939, he reported, only 2,185 wage earners in Minnesota were involved in strikes. Loss of wages due to strikes in 1939, he added, was less than a seventh of the average in the three earlier years.

With the increase in peace in labor relations, the governor said, has come an increase in employment. He said his reports showed that there were 20,000 more employed on January 1, 1940 than on January 1, 1939.

Reporting the deficits existing in many state funds when the present administration began, Governor Stassen reviewed the steps that have been taken to put the state government on a sound, financial basis. Among the improvements he listed:

1. The state debt was reduced over $5,000,000 from January 1, 1939, to January 1, 1940. (The reduction from July 1, 1939, to July 1, 1940, will be $7,300,000).

2. The 1939 legislature spending allowances for the present biennium were reduced $5,500,000 compared to the last biennium.

3. Finding that tax receipts will not be sufficient to meet appropriations, the commissioner of administration has made further savings of 10% in most departments. "We can now report we are going to save another $1,000,000, and we are not going to spend any money we do not collect."

4. The highway department has paid off nearly $2,000,000 in old bills left over from 1938, paid its own bills for 1939 and now has cash on hand. "Where a year ago, the federal government had stopped putting money in our highways, they are now giving our program full approval and will put in over $5,000,000 of federal funds during 1940 to help in our highway program."

Farmers To Hear Details Of 1940 Soil Programs

Meetings Will Start On January 22, Says County Agent Releron

Provisions of the 1940 Agricultural Conservation program and the 1940 Price Adjustment program will be explained to Marshall county farmers at a series of meetings scheduled to start on January 22, according to R. A. Releron, secretary.

Farmers are urged to attend the meeting most convenient to their homes. The complete list of meetings, each starting at 1:30 p. m., follows:

Grygla—Hall, Jan. 22.
Gatzke—Hall, Jan. 22.
Holt—Hall, Jan. 24.
Middle River—Hall, Jan. 24.
Strandquist—Hall, Jan. 25.
Newfolden — Implement Show Room, Jan. 25.
Viking—Hall, Jan. 26.
Warren—Court House, Jan. 26.
Stephen—High School, Jan. 27.
Argyle—Fire Hall, Jan. 27.
Big Woods—Hall, Jan. 29.
Alvarado—Gymnasium, Jan. 29.

State School Boards Will Meet Feb. 7-9

Expect Record Attendance At Annual Sessions Set For Minneapolis

Annual convention of Minnesota School Board Association will be held in Minneapolis at Hotel Nicollet, on February 7, 8 and 9.

As the name indicates, this is an organization of the school boards and boards of education in Minnesota. It is truly statewide in scope as the title indicates. From the rural districts which maintain one-room schoolhouses for a few pupils in isolated locations, up to those populous districts wherein are found high schols and junior colleges, employing supervisory staffs and corps of teachers, is included membership in Minnesota School Board Association. Annual conventions are marked by discussions pertaining to public education. Delegates to the state convention are appointed by the school officers of the thousands of school districts in Minnesota. They serve with sincerity. Convention sessions are permeated by a spirit of intense devotion to the programs. More than two thousand delegates attended the 1939 convention in St. Paul last year. It is expected that this year's convention next month will be even larger.

School districts of our town and our county will be represented.

Dr. H. B. Clark of St. Cloud is this year's president of Minnesota School Board Association; John E. Casey of Jordan is vice-president; John E. Palmer of Fergus Falls, is secretary-treasurer. Directors are the above officers and nine others, one from each of Minnesota's nine congressional districts, as follows: First District, Otto W. Kolshorn, Red Wing; Second District, J. S. Slewert, Windom; Third District, C. H. Sommers, Rush City; Fourth District, Axel F. Peterson, St. Paul; Fifth District, Lynn Thompson, Minneapolis; Sixth District, Tom O'Brien, Brainerd; Seventh District, Mrs. Maurine Allen, Canby; Eighth District, Arthur Swanson, Chisholm; Ninth District, Ole Flaat, Fisher.

Previous president of the Association, J. B. Johnson, of Cambridge, is also director for the current year. Mr. Johnson is serving by appointment also as a member of Minnesota's state board of education.

One section of the coming state convention of Minnesota School Board Association in Minneapolis will be devoted to the common schools and another section to the high schools. The board of directors have held three conferences in the arrangement of programs for the two convention sections and also for the sessions where all delegates will sit together. A. M. Anderson of Cottonwood, Minn. will preside in the High School Section on Friday afternoon, February 8, while J. S. Slewert of Windom, Minn. will preside in the Rural School Section of the program at that same period. Tentatively on the program are the following general topics:

(1) School laws of state to be studied and revised and remedial legislation to be sponsored to bring these laws up to date and to make them consistent and effective, a codification of Minnesota's school laws.

(2) Income tax revenues, state aids, and non-resident high school transportation aid will be up for consideration at the state convention.

(3) Will undoubtedly oppose reduction of education appropriations by executive action.

(4) Constitutional amendment will be discussed to place county superintendency on a professional basis as means of safeguarding the education interests of rural children.

(5) Legislature and State Board of Education will be asked to provide ways and means whereby the results of research and other factual material can be made more generally available to the schools of Minnesota.

(6) Increasing the minimum training period of elementary grade teachers to two years by the time 1942 arrives.

These and many other questions that are of much importance to the schools of the state, both rural and urban, will be discussed at this convention. Speakers are all Minnesotans, with one exception, Annette Moore, Kansas City, Missouri, whose address "Education as the Real Road to Social Security," will feature the afternoon convention session, Friday, February 9. Gov. Stassen will speak preceding Miss Moore.

There will be in spaces adjacent to the convention hall in the Nicollet Hotel, exhibits of equipment and devices to school management and school administration.

At 6:30 p. m. Jan. 8 the annual convention dinner will be in the Nicollet Hotel, Dr. Clark of St. Cloud, toastmaster, after dinner speaker, Supt. J. P. Vaughan, of Chisholm, Minn.

Independent, special and unorganized school districts are entitled to have two delegates each and common school districts with less than four teachers, one delegate. All districts should certify voting delegates and then mail the same to the secretary of the Association or present the same at the registration table on the first day of the convention, Nicollet Hotel, Minneapolis, Minn., Thursday, February 8. 1940.

$14,000 a Minute

As a spendthrift the Roosevelt administration has set a pace no other nation has ever equaled. It spends $14,000 each minute of the day and night; $840,000 each hour of each day, and $20,160,000 every day of the year. The taxpayers, and that means all of us, must pay it.

New Button-Front Tailored, Smart

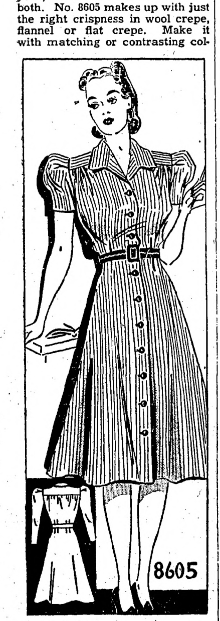
HERE'S a smart new way to make the tailored coat dress, on classic shirtwaist lines, that you simply can't live without. It's indispensable every season of the year, for home wear and business both. No. 8605 makes up with just the right crispness in wool crepe, flannel or flat crepe. Make it with matching or contrasting collar, and take your choice of long or short sleeves. Pattern provides for both.



This easy pattern is an alluring invitation to beginners. It's so easy! A few darts and a few gathers—that's practically all the detailing there is to it. The step-by-step sew chart shows you just what to do!

Pattern No. 8605 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material with short sleeves; 4⅝ yards with long; ¼ yard for collar in contrast. Purchased belt.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coin, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of pattern, 15 cents (in coins).

Crossing Signs

A Houston road-sign painter suggests the following signs for railroad crossings:

"Come ahead. You're unimportant."

"Try our engines. They satisfy."

"Don't stop. Nobody will miss you."

"Take a chance. You can get hit by a train only once."

Can't Eat, Can't Sleep, Awful Gas

PRESSES HEART

"Gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. It even seemed to press on my heart. A friend suggested Adlerika. The first dose brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine, and never felt better."—Mrs. Jas. Filler. Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels. Adlerika gives your intestinal system a real cleansing, bringing out waste matter that may have caused GAS BLOATING, sour stomach, headaches, nervousness, and sleepless nights. Adlerika contains five carminatives and three laxatives to give a more BALANCED result. Just one spoonful usually relieves GAS and constipation. Adlerika does not gripe, is not habit forming.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

They Keep Trade Channels Open for Britain

Busiest craft in the European war are the British mine sweepers, whose duties it is to rid the seas of those deadly weapons. Here vessels take up positions in an area suspected of having mines hidden below the surface. The mine cables are cut, causing them to rise to the surface. Sharpshooters then explode them. Inset: A sailor prepares to throw marking buoys overboard to indicate to vessels that the area has been swept clean of mines and is safe for shipping.

To High Court . . Attorney General . . Solicitor General

Early political predictions were confirmed recently when President Roosevelt announced that Attorney General Frank Murphy, left, would succeed the late Pierce Butler as a member of the Supreme court bench. Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, center, replaces Murphy as attorney general, and Judge Francis Biddle of Philadelphia leaves the circuit court of appeals to succeed Jackson as solicitor general. The high court seat has been vacant since Butler's death on November 16, 1939.

Hoover Instructed in Auctioneering Art

Actress Gertrude Lawrence shows former President Herbert Hoover the technique she used when she auctioned off a group of 28 paintings in New York to aid the Finnish relief fund. The art was executed by Ben Silbert, an American, who painted them in Finland, working in temperatures which ranged to 20 below. Silbert donated the collection to the fund.

Bathhouse Bandit

By ARCHEY C. NEW

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

THE bathing hour was at its peak, the vast bathhouse, now enjoying that somnolent intermission before the return rush of happy, laughing, wet bodies.

In one of the little cubicles or dressing-rooms, in a cross-section corridor distant from the Boardwalk entrance, a bather stood, enshrouded in a huge towel, listening intently. Down the shadowy passage came the shouts of voices. The lone bather opened the door a few inches and peered out. A young man was running this way. At that moment, the bather, perversely it seemed, elected to toss a very wet bathing-suit into the corridor, hitting the runner squarely on his spick-and-span flannel trousers.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," murmured the bather.

"That's all right. Let me in a minute, will you?"

Without waiting for an answer, the young man crowded into the tiny cubicle and hastily closed the door.

"I like your nerve! Get out of here!"

The intruder, dumfounded, wheeled and faced a very pretty, very wrathful towel-clad lady.

"You'll have to excuse me, sistah," he whispered huskily, "but I can't leave right now. Go right ahead with youh toilet. I won't look."

"I will not," she answered hotly. "What do you think this is—a nudist camp?"

"I wouldn't know about that. Wheah I come from, we don't sorta like such goin's-on." He fingered a man's coat and trousers hanging on the wall. "How come these heah clo'es? You—you're not one of those movie stars that weah men's clo'es, are you?"

"I'm not," she told him, tartly. "I—they're—my husband's." And she added, quickly, "You'd better get out before he comes back."

"Great Grief, that sho' is tough." He started to open the door, when again the excited voices drew near. He shut the door.

"What's wrong?" the bather demanded, "are you running away from the police?"

"Gosh, no sistah!" he assured her.

"Then what are you afraid of?" she insisted.

"I'm in the darndest jam you evah heard of."

"Tell me about it," she urged.

"I was in bathin' today, too," he explained, "and I checked my valuables like they all do. I went back to the hotel, fo'gettin' to claim my things. I came back heah and when I stepped up to the window to get them, the girl in cha'ge was lyin' inside, with blood on her head and lookin' kind of dopey. I yelled fo' someone to come, and reached in the window so's to open the door, so's I could help her, when along came a man. He looks around quick, yells for help and seein' me with my arm in the window, accuses me. Somethin' tells me I'd have a ha'd time explainin', so I lammed. And heah I am."

"And you expect me to believe that?" she demanded scornfully.

His eyes, flashing flintily, at that moment made out a glittery object on the floor. He pounced on it. "Must be scads o' gold in this heah bracelet, ma'am: it's pow'ful heavy." He grinned sourly. "An' I can't be a thief, exactly, else I wouldn't be handin' it back to you."

"Help!" she cried out, suddenly. "Help!" The door flew open, and a score of men and women, with a Boardwalk cop in the forefront, stared eagerly into the tiny room.

"What's the trouble, ma'am?" asked a white-coated attendant.

"This man said you were hunting him for a hold-up," she cried. "He forced his way into my room, to hide."

"So-o?" growled the cop. "Seems to me I've seen this bozo before, eh, bub? Let's see." He reflected briefly. "Ain't you the Curly Wolf?"

"Gosh, no," protested the young man. "I'm no criminal. I—I—"

"Oh, yeah?" sneered the cop. He turned to the attendant. "See if you can get Miss Jennie back here now."

"And, if you don't mind," spoke up the outraged bather, "I'm going to the beach to find my husband."

"Oh, I say, ma'am—" he started to protest, but the girl vanished. Another girl, holding a wet towel to her head, and half supported by an attendant, appeared in the group.

"Who's he?" she asked listlessly, "I never seen him before."

"Why, Miss Jennie," sputtered the cop, "ain't he the hold-up guy?"

"That big beef?" sniffed the girl. "He is not!"

"That's funny!" came an interruption from the white-coated attendant, emerging from the dressing room, holding a man's suit, and scanning his chart with a puzzled air. "How'd this suit get in there? My book says a lady took this room today—alone."

Jenny snatched at the coat. "That's the little shrimp's coat what slugged me," she shrilled excitedly. "The little sawed-off worm had a voice like a woman. Showed me a big gold bracelet, used it for knuckles, and hit me with it. I'd 'a sworn it was a woman . . ."

"I'd swear to it now, damn it all," yelled the cop, light striking him suddenly. "Brazen Bess, the—Gangway! everybody—" and dropping his captive's arm, he streaked for the nearest call-box.

Duty Called Constable To Go the Utter Limit

The special constable was being shown his first night beat.

"See that red light in the distance?" said the sergeant. "That's the limit of your beat in that direction. Now go on with it."

The new constable started off. When three o'clock rolled around, he did not come in to report, nor did he show up for duty the following night. Then, along about 4:30 that next morning, he turned up again, weary and limping.

"Where in thunder have you been," demanded the sergeant.

A feeble response: "That red light was a long-distance moving van. I came upon it 43 miles out when it stopped because of a flat tire."

Many interesting editorials have been printed on safe driving. I enjoy immensley the fine instructive comments so many editors make on the necessity of safe driving, and I appreciate their contribution to the cause of safety.

Recently, the editor of the Isanti News, Isanti, Minnesota, wrote the following:

"Upon returning from an automobile trip the other evening, we sat down at the typewriter in a state of veritable frenzy. Foam dripping out of the corners of our mouth, we pounded out the following lines of despair with clenched fists:

'O, that some wise jury
Would see fit to indict
Every nocturnal driver
Who won't dim his lights."
Very appropriate; very timely.

Let us set the example by dimming our lights - eventually some of these "dumb clucks" will realize that that is the courteous thing to do.

Billions for a Handicap!

Farmers especially will be interested in what Senator Clyde M. Reed of Kansas has to say about transportation, because for many years he has represented farm organizations in transportation matters. Recently, in Chicago, he spoke on the need for a sound national transportation policy.*

"What I am trying to do as a United States Senator," he said, "is to help the country straighten out its tangled transportation situation so that the most efficient and economical service may be given to the public at the lowest cost."

Characterizing most river improvement schemes as "rackets," Senator Reed asserted that "inland waterway transportation is not low cost transportation; it is the highest cost transportation as compared with the highways or the railroads. The only reason for lower charges is the subsidy paid by taxpayers out of the public treasury."

"The important thing in this connection," he said, "is whether we are going to continue to tax the whole people for the benefit of a comparatively small number of people. Are the cities and trade centers located off the rivers to be, not only taxed, but additionally penalized by lower freight charges given their competitors located on the rivers? My answer is, 'No!'"

"Farmers as a whole," the Kansas Senator declared, "have not profited a cent by the billions of dollars spent on 'river improvement.'" The promoters of river navigation, he added, "hold out to the public the idea that it is getting some benefit from raids upon the public treasury," but that "in most cases the commodities so moved are sold to the public, not on the basis of lower river rates, but on a basis of the higher railroad rate."

"I proclaim my belief here and now," said Senator Reed, "that a sound public policy would be one that imposed upon all traffic using facilities created out of the public treasury, tolls that would reasonably recompense the taxpayers for the money taken from them. If that were done, traffic would move by the cheapest and best route."

*If you would like to read Senator Reed's address on "A National Transportation Policy," ask or write your local Great Northern Station Agent or Traffic Representative for a copy, or write to the Great Northern Railway, St. Paul, Minn.

Spring Dress Fashion Note

Not the politician's promise of a full dinner pail, but the fashion slogan, "every wonan's pocket will be full", identifies the spring of 1940. Women and girls whose figures will allow it probably will consider not one pocket, but at least two capacious ones in their new spring dresses-

Manufacturers and designers have already held their spring fashion openings in New York. According to reports, the 1940 fitted silhouette varies little from last year, but the big pockets anchored on hips or suspended from waistlines carry the message of a new spring.

Knapsack or saddle and plain patch pockets are the thing for the more tailored dresses. For novelty there are cornucopia-shaped pockets. Destined to be beautiful as well as useful, they are trimmed with embroidery, ruffles or ruches.

Lenten Services To Begin

On the evening of Ash Wednesday, Feb. 7th, the Nazareth Lutheran Church will observe this traditional period of fasting and prayer by having its first annual services. These special services have been well attended in the past years and the same is anticipated this year also. A special theme will be carried out throughout the season with a series of 7 sermons by the pastor Rev. T. C. L. Hanson. The ser~~vices begin at 8 o'clock.~~

The people of the community are urged to attend these services.

County Farmers Paid 232,000

During the past week $232,000 have been received by the conservation office as payment to operators of single farms for compliance with the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program.

The office has no idea as to when checks for multiple operators will arrive.

It is estimated that in all the payment for the 1939 program will run from $450,000 to a half million dollars. This will include a payment of $45,000 to sugar beet growers.

Mrs. O. Backlund visited with Mrs. Joe Nelson Tuesday afternoon.

A Century Of Peace

Three thousand miles of border
One hundred years of peace!
In all the page of history,
What parallel to this!
In times when warring nation's thoughts
Are crazed with hate's hot wine
How God must look with pleasure
Down upon that border line!

Three thousand miles of border line
Two nations side by side.
Each strong in common brotherhood
And Anglo-Saxon pride.
Yet each the haven and the home
For all of foreign birth,
And each the final fusion point—
The melting pot of earth.

Three thousand miles of border line
One hundred years of peace!
In all the page of history.
What parallel to this!
God speed that surely dawning day
That coming hour divine
When all the nations of the earth
Shall boast such border line.—Guy Bilsford

Democratic Committee Named

The Marshall County Democratic committee held an interesting session at Hotel Warren Sunday afternoon, Jan. 21, discussing matters pertaining to party affairs. Dr. H. M. Blegen, chairman, has announced the personnel of the county commitee as follows: Geo. Fricker, Holt, acting secretary and treasurer; O. Temanson, Strandquist; Henry Young, Middle River; Oscar Oseth, Oslo; C. O. Olson, Alvarado; A. E. Johnson, Stephen; A. W. Headrick, Argyle; J. B. Jansen, Viking; Sletten C. Olson, Warren; Hilbert F. Hedquist, Argyle; Donald Sinclair, Stephen; James Sinclair, Stephen; Wm. Borowicz, Strandquist; Walter Stoltman, Oslo; L. M. Olson, Warren and Albert Miller, Grygla.—Warren Sheaf.

The Weather

Many were afraid that the month of January this year was going by without a thaw but, on Tuesday the weatherman treated us to one of the mildest days we have had so far this year. It was 40 above here and a few drops of rain fell at 8 p. m.

The south was hard hit in the recent cold spell. Citrus growers in Florida suffered a ten million dollar loss to crops. Ice skating was held for the first time in history on Mobile Bay, Louisiana right on the Gulf of Mexico.

Some of the rivers in southeastern states that never freeze also had ice on them.

Heavy snows were welcome in the dry states where they claimed that insect pests were killed by the cold that came first and the snows will add greatly to needed moisture for this year's crop.

PURINA MILLS IS BIG CUSTOMER OF AMERICAN FARMER

St. Louis, Mo.—Purina Mills, manufacturers of checkerboard feeds and cereals, ranks high as a customer of the American Farmer, according to Fred Osterkamp, manager of the Mill Supply Department for Purina Mills.

Approximately 150,000 acres of soy beans are required annually to supply the soy bean meal Purina Mills uses in its feeds and concentrates. As a token of appreciation, more than $2,000,000 is paid annually to soy bean farmers for their product.

It would require one milking from 4,000,000 average cows to produce the dried milk that goes into Purina Chows each year.

Sufficient flour to give every inhabitant of Canada a 16-ounce loaf of bread every day for 105 days must be milled to supply the mill feed used in a year by Purina Mills.

The yield from 75,000 acres of good alfalfa land is required to furnish Purina Mills its yearly requirement of alfalfa meal. More than one and one-quarter million dollars are paid to alfalfa farmers for this crop.

If the beet pulp used by Purina Mills in a year were to be made into spaghetti or macaroni, the supply would feed every person in Italy for four days. As everyone knows, most Italians "throw dieting out the window."

The offal from 10,250,000 hogs or 5,125,000 steers is required to furnish Purina Mills its annual requirement of meat scrap and tankage.

To provide the cottonseed meal needed by Purina Mills annually for its feeds and concentrates requires the seed from 278,300 acres of cotton. That's a lot of cotton when one thinks of the plowing and picking that must be done.

Being the manufacturer of the two wheat cereals—Ralston Wheat Cereal and Shredded Ralston—Purina Mills must buy annually a large quantity of high-grade wheat. Also, a sizeable amount of rye is bought to make its popular, non-fattening wafer — Ry Krisp. Yes, Purina Mills is really a big customer of the American Farmer.

They Tell Us About Stassen

Governor Stassen's administration underwent a scorching attack on Tuesday evening, January 23, from three Farmer-Labor leaders, speaking over WCCO. WTCN, and a chain of other stations.

Representative Harold L. Peterson of Willmar, state secretary of the Farmer-Labor Association, attacked the governor for "his recent Alice - in - Wonderland broadcasts" about the condition of state affairs.

Peterson called attention to the bringing into this state of four men from Michigan to head Minnesota's civil service department. The four men are Pennebaker at $500 a month; R. I. Birenbaum (or "Biron") at $350 a month; C. Kendzierski (or Kendzie) at $240 a month; and Boynton Kaiser. Peterson challenged the administration's statement that no qualified persons were available in Minnesota for these jobs..

He attacked the administration for continued failure to produce the quarterly financial statement required by law, and said this was because of confusion reigning in state departments and agencies.

He asserted that improvement in building in the Twin Cities was not due to the Stassen administration. as claimed, but to policies of the federal government aiding the private construction industry by means of loans for building and repairing. Peterson also pointed out that improvement in farm income and industrial activity was higher in neighboring states.

Paul A. Rasmussen, former state budget commissioner, was the second speaker.

He denied the governor's statement that the "State's cupboards were bare" last January. He said there was a surplus of $7,500,000 in the state income tax fund left from the past administration, and an accumulation of over eleven million dollars in state trust funds from the previous two years.

He said the governor's claim that there was a two million dollar deficit in the highway department last January was not true. The governor, Rusmussen said, was disregarding the more than two million dollars in gas collections for November and December, 1939.

Final speaker was Senator George Lommen of Eveleth. He accussed the governor of penalizing thrift by means of the old-age lien law, and castigated the governor for having requested him to reveal the name of one of his clients.

A hearing on the proposed area Bang's test was held at the courthouse in Warren on Monday, January 29 at 10:00 a. m.

Dr. Chas. A. Cotton, Secretary of the Minnesota Livestock Sanitary Board, conducted the hearing. Dr. W. A. Fretz, representing the Bureau of Animal Industry in charge of Bang's control work in Minnesota, was also present.

No objections were made to the test and as a result an official notice was ordered published in the official county newspaper ordering that an area test be made and such test to commence on or about March 11, 1940.

Mrs. G. Sanoden, Mrs. O. Backlund, Mrs. H. O. Hanson and Dorothy spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. C. Hagglund on her 64th birthday.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Several times I have written about the responsibility of the pedestrian. During a recent year over 16,000 pedestrians were killed and approximately 276,000 were injured.

Crossing between intersections ranked first as a cause of death and injury. The next cause was attributed to walking on ruarl highways. Crossing where signal was not available was another cause. Children playing in the street was one of the factors in this large death toll.

The pedestrian has a definite responsibility to obey traffic signals, to cross streets at proper intersections and at proper times, to walk on the proper side of the highway, and to use a little extra care at night in crossing the streets..

You who are pedestrians do not condemn the automobile driver for these pedestrian deaths. A large part of the responsibility and the cause rests with the "man on the streets."

County Tax Levy For 1940

Marshall county taxpayers will contribute $508,637.42 towards the direct support of govenmental units, including state, county, townhip, city and village and school district during 1940, or just $1980 less than the total taxes levied for 1939 payment which totaled $508,657.22 accordding to official tax abstracts compiled last week in the office of Levi G: Johnson, county auditor.

However, in spite of the small increase in the total taxes levied owners of real and personal property will be requested to contribute considerably more, as the increases on this classification totals $9,537.26. The 1939 levy totals $494,951.44 while the 1938 levy totaled only $485,413.18.

Special assesments on property dropped from $17,275.15 in 1938 only $7,690.09 or a net decrease of $9,584.96. Grain taxes increased from $1,170.20 in 1938 to $1,193.63 in 1940 while taxes on moneys and credits decreased from $2,331.92 to $2,183.73. The tax on power companies increased from $2,376.77 last year to $2,618.53.

Here's New Dignity For Old Chair Set

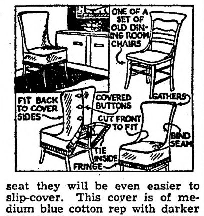
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ANY dining room may be made fresh and smart with built-in cupboards, a little paint and inexpensive curtains. But what may be done to bring a set of outmoded chairs up-to-date? The one sketched at the upper right is typical of many that are substantial and sturdy though scarred by long use. All that they need is an up-to-date frock to make them perfectly at home in that modern dining room.



If your chairs do not have the supports shown at the sides of the seat they will be even easier to slip-cover. This cover is of medium blue cotton rep with darker blue for the bias binding and the cotton fringe around the bottom. Large button moulds are covered with the slip cover material for the button-up-the-back opening. If you are not expert at making bound buttonholes, snaps may be used under the buttons. The narrow ties sewn to the corners of the inside of the seat cover hold it neatly in place.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book No. 3 contains six other interesting ways to use slip covers, with step-by-step directions. There are 32 pages of fascinating ideas. Spool shelves; braided rugs; crazypatch quilts; many embroidery designs with numerous stitches illustrated. Ask for Book 3 and enclose 10 cents coin to cover cost. Address: Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

Panning the Editor

An editor met the late Sir James Barrie, the famous author of "Peter Pan," at a dinner.

"Sir James," he said, "I suppose some of your plays do better than others. They are not all successes, I imagine."

Barrie leaned toward him confidentially. "No," he said, his eyes twinkling, "some Peter out and some Pan out."—Montreal Star.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to "cure" it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need.

Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Last Newsman to See Borah Recalls How 'Lion of Idaho' Kept Mum in 1936 Campaign

Didn't Favor Landon, So He Played Ball With Home State Dems.

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Co-author, with Drew Pearson, of "The Washington Merry-Go-Round.")

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON. — The Senate just doesn't seem the same without Senator Borah.

He was the first leader I came to know intimately as a cub Washington reporter 15 years ago, and I saw him last the day before his fatal accident. I think I am the last newsman he talked to.

It was late in the afternoon. I knew that the President's message on the Finnish loan was due the next day, and I dropped into Borah's office to get his views. Wrapped in an army blanket, he was lying on a couch, reading an article on trade treaties. He motioned me to a chair, which I pulled up near him. On the marble mantle directly over him was a striking new photograph of himself which he liked very much.

Duty Came First.

Borah looked well, but frail, and recalling that during the Christmas holiday he had told me he was thinking of taking Mrs. Borah south, I said, "What about your trip?"

"I guess that's off, Robert," he replied. "Mrs. Borah won't stay if I don't, and I can't."

"Why not? Things aren't so active now. A few weeks of warm weather and sunshine would do you a lot of good."

"Yes, but I can't leave. Those trade treaties are up and I've got to be on hand to keep an eye on developments. It's a close fight and we can't take any chances. I would like a little rest, but I feel it's my duty to stay on the job and oppose this act."

"What about the Finnish loan?" I asked.

"That's a very distressing dilemma for me, Robert," he said. "My heart goes out to those gallant people, but at the same time I have grave misgivings about lending money to anyone in Europe. Once we let down the bars we can't foresee what it may lead to. We must keep out of that mess regardless of our personal sympathies."

Dilemma of 1936.

I remember another time when he was in a dilemma. It was in 1936.

That spring, at the age of 71 and for the first time in his long career, he decided to make a serious try for the presidency. There was considerable popular response, but the machine politicians were against him. He went to the Cleveland convention empty-handed—and he knew it.

HE WATCHED LANDON—Senator Borah waited for Alf Landon's campaign before "prejudging" him, but he later confided: "I am not for him."

The night Herbert Hoover made his speech—which he secretly hoped would stampede the delegates—I countered Borah leaving his hotel. It was past midnight, hot and sticky.

"Come along, Robert, and walk with me," he said. "It's cooler out here."

So we walked about the deserted streets and he talked about Hoover, the convention, and Alf Landon.

Doubted Landon's Ability.

"They'll nominate Landon tomorrow," he said. "The stage is all set. Hoover tried to run away with the convention tonight, but they don't want any of him. It will be Landon and Knox, you mark my word."

"And then what are you going to do, Senator?"

"I don't know. I'll wait and see what Landon says. But what I'm wondering is what can he say. He knows nothing about national or foreign affairs. I am told he is a nice gentleman, but the country needs more than that in the White House in these times. I don't want to prejudge Landon. I shall hear him out, but I have a strong hunch I will not support him."

He Didn't, Either!

Borah's premonition was right. Three months later I spent a day with him in Boise as he campaigned for his sixth senatorial term. We had a long talk that night in his room before he retired. I remarked that I hadn't heard him say a word during the day about Landon.

"And I don't intend to say anything about him," Borah replied quietly. "I am not for him."

"Are you for Roosevelt?"

"Well, Robert," he said, "I've got a lot of Democratic friends in Idaho and I think they know where I stand." And then with a gentle smile he added, "That's a pretty good news story, isn't it?"

It certainly was. It was the big scoop of the campaign.

Mannerisms Mark the Man— They All 'Perform' Off Guard

NEW YORK. — Al Smith jingles coins in his left pocket and the duke of Windsor straightens his necktie. Franklin D. Roosevelt jerks his head sideways.

Call them habits, mannerisms or just plain nervousness, but they're among the distinguishing features you've noticed when famous men make speeches or appear before the newsreel camera. Most of us, great or little, are thumb twiddlers, button twisters, arm swingers or fist clenchers in our forgetful moments.

'This Is the Point.'

A widely known Boston professor used to enter his classroom holding a short, well-sharpened pencil which he twirled as he talked.

"Now this," he would say at intervals, "is the point." Each time he would jab the pencil at the class, until his amused students finally made up sweepstakes on how many times he'd do it each hour.

The late William Jennings Bryan combined his mannerism with practicality. Before his platform appearances he would have someone bring an old-fashioned dishpan with a piece of ice to the rostrum. As his fiery speech-making warmed him, Bryan would run the palm of his hand over the ice, then over his forehead. To break this routine he would occasionally step to the front of the platform, weaving back and forth while the audience gasped for fear he would topple into the front row.

A Monocle Swinger.

Bertha Wells of Boston, who was formerly in Chautauqua work with Bryan, recalls the platform gestures of many other speakers. Dudley Crafts Watson, director of music at the Chicago art museum, went through a repeated routine of taking off his monacle, swinging it around in his hand and replacing it to the eye.

"One woman speaker asked me for a handkerchief just before she went on," Miss Wells remembers. "All through her lecture she stood twisting it in her hands. When she returned it, the handkerchief looked like a cruller."

Sen. James Reed of Missouri used to have a habit of chewing tobacco in the courtroom, while Sen. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts can never speak without thrusting his left thumb into the corner of his trousers' pocket. Ex-Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire used to hang his arms straight down his sides and walk sideways across the stage like a small boy reciting his "piece."

Emerson Had It Too!

Such mannerisms are not exclusively a modern device. Many years ago the highly intellectual Ralph Waldo Emerson had a habit of placing the thumb and forefinger of one hand between the thumb and forefinger of the other, moving them gently while speaking. Henry Ward Beecher would emphasize the climax of his speech by rising to his toes and throwing his arms over his head, virtually pulling the audience up with him.

Psychologists who have watched such carryings-on from the spectator's seat don't believe it's necessarily a matter of nervousness. Sometimes the speakers are merely throwing off excess energy. Or, as one psychologist suggested, it may not be so much the energy or the audience as what the speaker had for dinner.

DOMESTIC
A Neutral's Woes

In Washington, both executive and legislative branches had their hands full with rapidly increasing foreign complications. U. S. neutrality had come home to roost, bringing with it the problems of war in Europe and Asia. Among them:

Defense. The munitions board warned there was too much crude rubber and tin being shipped to European countries. In January's first 12 days, for example, 1,000 tons of tin were exported against stocks on hand of only 3,500 tons. Unless dealers and manufacturers co-operated better in conserving these "strategic materials," the board threatened new restrictions.

CLIPPER AND ROUTES

Agriculture. Contrary to expectations, Europe's war has given the U. S. farmer a bad time of it. Both France and Britain, anxious to cement their ties with neutrals (see THE WARS) are making trade pacts nearer at home. Choice example is Britain's decision to buy all her tobacco from Turkey, eliminating a $60,000,000 annual market for U. S. growers. This month Britain ceased large orders of U. S. cotton as provided under a special barter treaty. To bolster her foreign exchange and save shipping space on her boats for more important munitions, Britain had almost eliminated purchases of U. S. wheat, fruits, pork, etc. Said the agriculture department: "This situation is likely to continue through much of 1940."

Mails. For two months British vessels have stopped and searched European-bound U. S. vessels, often seizing mail in violation of the 1907 Hague convention. After repeated protests, Secretary of State Cordell Hull finally got an answer—curt almost to the point of hostility: "His majesty's government finds themselves unable to share the views of the United States . . ." Two days later, hearing that Pan-American clipper ships were being searched at Bermuda for contraband mail, Mr. Hull warned the planes may soon skip Bermuda altogether, jumping from New York to the Azores.

(Whether by coincidence or because Britain is trying furiously to win Italy away from the Rome-Berlin axis, the state department figured Italian vessels halted by the British at Gibraltar were detained an average of four days; U. S. ships: 12.4 days.)

Safety Zone. After considering for one week Britain's refusal to recognize the 300-mile zone around the Western hemisphere wherein belligerent acts are "forbidden," the Pan-American neutrality committee meeting at Rio de Janiero found itself stymied.

Japan. As the abrogated U. S.-Japanese trade treaty lapsed, congress and the state department felt heavy pressure (much of it church-inspired) for imposition of an embargo against munitions shipments to Tokyo. Japan was worried, because the U. S. is both her best customer and the chief foreign source of her war supplies, without which she could no longer fight in China. U. S. cotton farmers meanwhile feared a trade breach with Nippon, heaping insult on the already deep wound created by loss of British trade.

THE WARS:
Britain Grows Bold

"Each one hopes that if he feeds the crocodile enough, the crocodile will eat him last."

Thus warned Britain's Winston Churchill in a radio address urging Europe's neutrals to join the allies in "united action" against Germany. It came when dark clouds floated over Scandinavia, the Lowlands and Balkans. But Winston Churchill missed the boat. Commented a Brussels paper: "Belgium does not feed the crocodile, and is ready to defend herself against invasion."

(Churchill's admiralty was not doing so well either. Chalked up was Britain's twenty-first acknowledged naval loss, the 1,485-ton flotilla leader Grenville.)

All Scandinavia was meanwhile going overboard for the sake of Finland, but that did not mean Norway, Sweden and Denmark wanted to gang up with the allies against Joe Stalin and Adolf Hitler. Nor did Italy wax enthusiastic about British-French overtures designed to encourage Il Duce's formation of a strong neutral bloc in the Balkans. Of these latter states only Rumania, which has the most to lose in a war, hoped for a strong alliance to ward off attacks.

(Rumania had another worry. Several German divisions were stacked against her northern frontier in the Russian section of Poland, ostensibly to police the German-Rumanian railroad. This, plus reports that German technicians were operating oil wells in Russian Poland, gave foundation to rumors that Poland may again be partitioned, giving southern lands to the Reich.)

While the western front remained stalemated, while R. A. F. fliers struck at Sylt and Helgoland air bases, the British lion showed unmistakable signs of renewed boldness. Heaped atop Churchill's speech and the curt rejection of American notes (See DOMESTIC) came seizure of 21 Nazi seamen from a Japanese boat in the Pacific.

Finland's war enjoyed only a temporary respite before the Russians launched a sudden five-front attack which (according to the Finn high command) was repulsed readily with several thousand Russian casualties. On land they were still triumphant, but the Finns lacked power to combat the Soviet's most effective weapon—bombing raids.

CONGRESS:
In Mourning

Senate page boys placed a calendar of bills on his desk as usual; it would be unthinkable to do otherwise. Missouri's Bennett Clark stated for the record: "Last night at 8:45 p. m., remorseless events transpired to take from us our beloved friend and colleague." At tiny Fairfield, Ill., where he once ran away from home to join a theatrical troupe, the folks mourned. They did likewise at Boise, capital of the state he had represented for 33 years.

SENATOR BORAH
Remorseless events transpired.

Who would follow William E. Borah to congress was a matter of conjecture; it might be his long-time friend, Idaho's Gov. A. C. Bottolfsen. But for the moment there was a strange dearth of conjecture on this point. Democrats and Republicans, politicians and statesmen, congress and the nation paid tribute to one of its elders.

Also in congress:

¶ The house having hacked $102,000,000 from President Roosevelt's appropriation and deficiency bills, responsibility for economy now rested with the senate. Colorado's Alva Adams, head of the senate appropriations committee, promised to undercut the budget on treasury and post office items by $11,000,000. Also forecast was an even greater slash in the defense deficiency bill (the house had already cut $7,000,000). This looked encouraging to the economy bloc, which hoped now for no new taxes.

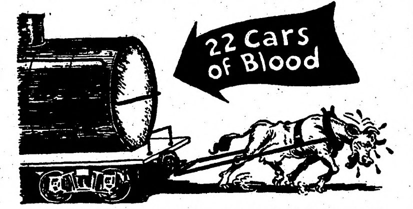
SPECIAL CARE AND FEEDING HELPS PREPARE THE DRY COW FOR HEAVY MILK PRODUCTION



That 10 months' milking period is a long hard pull for every cow.

St. Louis, Mo.—It is incredible to imagine a cow pulling a train of 22 loaded tank cars. Yet that is no bigger job than she actually is called on to do each year, according to Meade Summers, manager of the Dairy Department of Purina Mills.

"Through a cow's udder passes 175,000 gallons of blood in a 10-month milking period," says Summers. "That's enough to fill 22 tank cars. From this tremendous stream of blood, the udder—one of the hardest worked manufacturing plants in the world—must take the many different things that make milk and other dairy products.

"Far from being a rest period simply because the udder is 'shut down,' the two months when the cow is dry are really the most critical and hardest working period in the animals life. That's when she needs special care and feeding. During the dry period most of the blood that has been passing through the udder is diverted to the job of carrying nutrients to the unborn calf, of which two-thirds has to be developed in the last two months before calving.

Body Reserve Low

"Besides building most of the calf during the two months dry period, the cow must also rebuild her body for another long milking period. High producing cows at peak milk production drain from their bodies more of certain minerals and nutrients than they get from their feed, even though that feed be a carefully balanced milking ration. Most of these minerals and nutrients have to be replaced during the two months dry period, if they are to be replaced at al .

"Attention to the ration given a section of our own herd at the Purina Experimental Farm during the two months dry period, made possible an average increase of 2,972 pounds of milk per cow, over a ten months lactation period. Before these cows were started on this experiment they averaged 10,107 pounds of milk per cow, conceded by most as being a pretty good average. Following the development of our dry cow feeding program these cows averaged 13,079 pounds. There were twenty-one cows in the experiment ranging in age from four to seven years.

"The special dry cow ration developed at the Purina Experimental Farm as a part of this dry cow feeding program is called Dry and Freshening Cow Chow. It is a body-building, laxative, cooling feed that helps cows to prepare their bodies for calving and the lactation period after calving.

How Cows Are Dried Off at Purina Experimental Farm

"At the Experimental Farm, we dry off our cows two months before they are due to freshen, regardless of how they are milking. This can be done in one week's time with any cow milking up to 35 pounds a day. If she is to be dried off on the following day, we milk her out thoroughly at the night milking and change her feed abruptly to Purina Dry and Freshening Cow Chow. Then we don't milk her again for a week. Of course her udder fills up, but this is only nature's way of stopping the action of the milk glands. We feed 6 pounds of Dry and Freshening Cow Chow to light breeds and 9 pounds to heavy breeds. On the seventh day, we milk her out clean and massage the udder to make sure no old milk remains. Then we seal up the teats with collodian to keep out infection, and continue feeding Dry and Freshening Cow Chow until she freshens.

How Purina Experimental Farm Cows Are Handled After Freshening

"The day our cows freshen we give them plenty of water at body temperature. The day after freshening we feed 5 pounds of Dry and Freshening Cow Chow and gradually work this amount up to 10 or 12 pounds. At the end of the third week we start changing them back to Purina Milking Cow Chow, and by the end of the fourth week we have them entirely on this milking ration."

Replacement of railroad ties is not the laborious task it used to be. With motor-driven tie-cutting machines, Great Northern track crews speedily remove old ties. The saw blade, under the operator's left hand, cuts through the tie on the inside of the rail, facilitating easy removal and replacement.

Billions for a Handicap!

Farmers especially will be interested in what Senator Clyde M. Reed of Kansas has to say about transportation, because for many years he has represented farm organizations in transportation matters. Recently, in Chicago, he spoke on the need for a sound national transportation policy.*

"What I am trying to do as a United States Senator," he said, "is to help the country straighten out its tangled transportation situation so that the most efficient and economical service may be given to the public at the lowest cost."

Characterizing most river improvement schemes as "rackets," Senator Reed asserted that "inland waterway transportation is not low cost transportation; it is the highest cost transportation as compared with the highways or the railroads. The only reason for lower charges is the subsidy paid by taxpayers out of the public treasury."

"The important thing in this connection," he said, "is whether we are going to continue to tax the whole people for the benefit of a comparatively small number of people. Are the cities and trade centers located off the rivers to be, not only taxed, but additionally penalized by lower freight charges given their competitors located on the rivers? My answer is, 'No!'"

"Farmers as a whole," the Kansas Senator declared, "have not profited a cent by the billions of dollars spent on 'river improvement.'" The promoters of river navigation, he added, "hold out to the public the idea that it is getting some benefit from raids upon the public treasury," but that "in most cases the commodities so moved are sold to the public, not on the basis of lower river rates, but on a basis of the higher railroad rate."

"I proclaim my belief here and now," said Senator Reed, "that a sound public policy would be one that imposed upon all traffic using facilities created out of the public treasury, tolls that would reasonably recompense the taxpayers for the money taken from them. If that were done, traffic would move by the cheapest and best route."

*If you would like to read Senator Reed's address on "A National Transportation Policy," ask or write your local Great Northern Station Agent or Traffic Representative for a copy, or write to the Great Northern Railway, St. Paul, Minn.

Scouts To Give Program

Plans have been completed for the Men's Club meeting at the Nazareth Lutheran Church on Tuesday evening Feb. 20. The program will be given by the local Boy Scout Troop, which the club is sponsoring. Several good speakers will be here including Mr. Morris Bye, president of the Thief River Fall district of the Boy Scout Council, and Mr. Mayer-Oakes both of Thief River River Falls; Mr. Glen Prather, of Grand Forks, Executive of the Lake Agassis Council.

The mothers of the four Eagle Scouts wish to show their appreciation to the Men's Club for it's part in helping the boys by sponsoring the troop and will that evening serve free coffee and cake. Wives of the members of the club and mothers and fathers of the local scout troop are also invited for that evening.

Make Plans For Supper

Officers and Circle presidents of the Nazareth Lutheran Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Joe Nelson Monday afternoon at her home to complete plans for a supper which is to be given in the church on Feb. 29, for the purpose of raising money to pay off the debt on the parsonage basement built last fall. Many who were unable to donate work there last fall are glad to be given another opportunity to help.

Many from here rushed to Thief River Falls early last Friday morning to see the large Barzen mill and elevator burn down. It was one of the biggest fires that Thief River Falls has had in many moons and the large black column of smoke could easily be seen from Holt.

Life Of Iver Borsheim

Funeral services were conducted for the late Iver Borsheim at Nazareth Lutheran Church on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Borsheim was born on Nov. 25, 1871 in Ulvig, Hardanger, Norway, of parents Sven and Anguna Borsheim. In May, 1873, he emigrated with his parents and 3 sisters to America and settled at St. Ansgar, Mitchell Co Iowa. Here they resided until the spring of 1875 when they moved to Worth County, Iowa, and settled on the prairie 5 miles northeast of Northwood where he made his home until 1906.

He attended the rural schools of Worth County. He was confirmed in the Lutheran faith by Rev. H. J. Strand of Northwood.

In the spring of 1906 he came to Marshall County where he made his home ever since. He was the only son in a family of 9 children. He had never married He and his sister, Nettie, had resided on their farm south of Holt since the death of their parents. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital at Thief River Falls on Jan. 24th and died there on the 30th. His last illness was of a short duration, although he had been gradually failing the last two years. There survives to mourn his loss eight sisters: Sarah, Mrs. A. Helge, Lisbon, No. Dak; Betsy, Mrs. Abrahamson, Gatzke; Helen, Mrs. Alfred Anderson, Holt; Julia, Mrs. E. Anderson, Anna, Mrs. N. A. Bliton, Sena, Mrs. H. R. Buchanan, all of Northwood, Iowa. Nellie, Mrs. J. E. Johnson, West Alis, Wis.; and Nettie at home.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiated at the funeral services. Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. O. H. Nohre. The pall bearers were the following friends and neighbors of the deceased: Guy Anderson, Fred Stienhauer, Arno Stienhauer, Wm. Mehrkens, Fred Voth and Martin Abrahamson. There were many In Memoriam gifts. Those from a distance attending the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Bliton of Northwood; Mr. and Mrs. Anton Heglie and son, Neil and daughter, Mrs. Ardell Clow, of Lisbon, N. D.

Mr. Borsheim possessed a quiet and reserved nature and sturdy pioneer character. In deepest sense of the word, he was a faithful son of the pioneers.

Gunheim and Larson had charge of arrangements and interment was made in the Ridge cemetery.

A Century Of Peace

Three thousand miles of border
One hundred years of peace!
In all the page of history,
What parallel to this!
In times when warring nation's thoughts
Are crazed with hate's hot wine
How God must look with pleasure
Down upon that border line!

Three thousand miles of border line
Two nations side by side.
Each strong in common brotherhood
And Anglo-Saxon pride.
Yet each the haven and the home
For all of foreign birth,
And each the final fusion point—
The melting pot of earth.

Three thousand miles of border line
One hundred years of peace!
In all the page of history,
What parallel to this!
God speed that surely dawning day
That coming hour divine
When all the nations of the earth
Shall boast such border line.—Guy Bilsford

Mill Burned At Thief River Falls Friday

A smouldering heap of structural ruins and thousands of bushels of grain last Friday afternoon marked the site of the main mill and elevator buildings of the Math Barzen Co. at Thief River Falls when their plant was destroyed by fire early Friday morning in a blaze that caused a loss estimated at nearly $200,000.

Called to the scene at 7:30 a. m. the fire department brought the flames under control at noon after concentrating part of their attention on saving the city-owned power plant located on the river bank close to the mill.

For a time it was feared the power plant could not be saved, but a favorable wind drove the flames away faom the city-owned structure.

Hose lines still were pouring water into the mill and elevator ruins on Sunday and the large pile of debris was smouldering deep in many places.

The plant consisted of four structures on the west bank of the Red Lake river at the south end of the city. A new tile warehouse, 40 by 80 feet, and most of its contents were saved and firemen succeeded in saving the main office, a tin-covered frame structure, and the office equipment.

Housed in the elevator were 29,000 bushels of wheat, flax, other grains and grass seed which are a total loss. Several carloads of grass seed, sacked and housed in the warehouse, were taken out before the fire reached them. The company had a total of 24,000 bushels of alfalfa and other grass seeds housed in the mill and elevator.

According to reports the fire was believed to have started in the basement mixing bins. Within a short time flames were shooting out of control through the roof of the mill structure.

Most of the loss, company officiels said, was covered by insurance and plans are being made to operate the business in temporary quarters until a new plant can be construcred. Some 20 employes of the company were temporarily thrown out of employment as a result of the fire.

The Barzen company was founded in 1888 by Math Barzen Sr., and was the oldest business concern in Thief River Falls. At his death several years ago Math Barzen Jr., became head of the company and following the death of the latter two years ago his brother, John Barzen, took over the managnment and still heads the concern as president and manager.

The company owns branches at Oklee, St. Hilaire and Goodridge. They also had a line of elevators along this Great Northern branch which they sold out some years ago. The Farmers elevator here now owned by the Holt Holding company used to belong to them and they also had a large lumber yard where Hilmer Erickson now has his blacksmith shop.

The Weather

On Friday it was ground hog day and he saw his shadow as the sun was shining bright all day. Maybe that sign too has changed this year as the weather since has been fine with a light thaw on Sunday. We have enjoyed a sprinkling of fresh snow but only enough to cover up tracks.

The war in Finnland is going at a terriffic rate according to news dispatches. The Finns are taking the invading Russians to the cleaners at every point. It won't be long now before the war is over. Hitler has started to want peace as he is sick and tired of the whole mixup.

Card of Thanks

We hereby wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all who assisted us in the hour of our sorrow, the passing of our brother Iver Borsheim.

Especially do we thank Rev. Hanson for his comforting words the pall bearers, and those who gave memoriam gifts.

Sisters.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
© The Safety Man

Some people have the mistaken idea that most of our automobile accidents occur on bad roads under bad conditions and on curves and hills. It is true that some of our most serious accidents occur at these spots and under such conditions, but here are some facts that have been developed by the National Safety Council on a nationwide basis:

Four out of five accidents occur on a straight stretch of road.

Four out of five accidents occur on dry roads in clear weather.

Some of the causes for these accidents are:

1. Exceeding the speed limit or driving too fast for existing conditions.
2. Driving on wrong side of road.
3. Disregarding stop sign or signal.
4. Cutting in.
5. Passing on curves or hills.

Check these five causes. How often have you been guilty of these violations.?

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wegge and Wayne, Mrs. L. Wegge Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre and Gertrude and Glen Peterson were supper guests at the W. E. Wegge home Sunday of last week.

School Band Makes Progress

Should present progress continue the local school can soon be proud of their band. Under the direction of O. J. Pederson, the youngsters are being instructed in varied instruments. At their last practice twenty five younsters took lessons. That number will increase if present interest continues. Parents are to be commended on their cooperation in providing instruments. Others that may be interested in providing their children with instruments are urged to contact Mr. Pederson or Mr. Karvonen. Instruments can be secured from several sources at reasonable prices and on convenient terms.

Many Buy Spoiled Grain

Many farmers from here have past week been busy hauling home salvaged grain from the mill fire at Thief River Falls. Several thousand bushels of oats, wheat and barley were burned in the mill and elevator fire and the insurance company has been selling this at from $3 to $7 per ton as it comes out of the piles.

Many farmers report this as a poor feed as the cattle get sick from the strong smoke taste.

Mrs. K. T. Sollom was taken ill last week and had to be rushed to Mercy hospital at Thief River Falls, where she is at this writing a little better.

Shirred Dress With Corselette Waistline

THE corselette waistline is scheduled for much popularity this coming season, probably because it makes you look so beguilingly slim. This simple little dress (8634) with a piquant peasant air about it, has bodice fullness and a rippling skirt, shirred at the top, that look perfectly charming on slender figures. The square neckline is quite deep, the sleeves very round.

This dress will be very pretty made up in bold-figured cottons like percale, calico or gingham for house wear, with rows of ricrac braid. And you'll also like a dress like this for street and informal afternoons, of printed silk or flat crepe. It's one of those easy, becoming styles that you'll repeat several times. Your pattern includes a helpful step-by-step sew chart.

Pattern No. 8634 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 3⅝ yards of 39-inch material without nap; 1 yard binding; 8¼ yards ricrac.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coin, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill.

As Our Convictions

Reputation is in no man's keeping. You and I cannot determine what other men shall think and say about us. We can only determine what they ought to think of us and say about us, and we can only do this by acting squarely up to our convictions.—Holland.

CONSTIPATED! Gas Crowds Heart.

"For years I had occasional constipation, headaches and pains in the back. Awful gas bloating seemed to crowd my heart. Adlerika always helped right away. Now I eat sausage, bananas, pie, anything I want and never felt better."—Mrs. Mabel Schott. Two things happen when you are constipated. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, often bringing on sour stomach, indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Adlerika gives double relief with DOUBLE ACTION. BALANCED Adlerika containing three laxatives and five carminatives relieves STOMACH GAS almost at once. It often clears bowels in less than two hours. No griping, no after effects, just quick results.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Topic-of-the-Day: Wheeler and C. I. O.

POLITICS:

Labor's Candidate

A New Englander who comes from Montana went from Washington to Columbus one day in late January, indicating that Sen. Burton K. Wheeler has been around enough to rate as presidential timber. Day before he left Washington, Senator Wheeler learned C. I. O.'s John Lewis had told the United Mine Workers in Columbus that President Roosevelt would suffer "ignominious defeat" if he sought a third term. Even earlier, Mr. Lewis had scored Vice President Jack Garner and Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, both presidential hopefuls. Moreover, John Lewis has always criticized Republicans. And since Senator Wheeler had been invited to address Mr. Lewis' U. A. W., he automatically became C. I. O.'s one and only candidate.

LEWIS
A kiss of death?

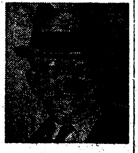
Despite warnings that C. I. O. support was a "kiss of death" to any candidate, Senator Wheeler stepped into the fire. Arriving at Columbus he publicly hoped President Roosevelt wouldn't seek a third term, nevertheless he promised to support him if the President was renominated. He did not agree with John Lewis that the administration had "broken faith" with labor; that would be a too obvious bid for the labor vote. But he did announce C. I. O. support would be welcome if he decided to run.



WHEELER
He accepted . . .

At the convention Senator Wheeler practically tossed his hat in the ring. Bands blared and 2,400 delegates roared as he mounted the rostrum in an atmosphere reminiscent of a political conclave. There he outlined an economic, social and legislative program which would have been out of place had he not been really presenting his platform. Planks: (1) strict neutrality; (2) increased South American trade; (3) "advancement of organized labor"; (4) jobs in private enterprise; (5) relief; (6) solution of unemployment, which he called "America's No. 1 problem."

CONGRESS:

Embargo

Tokyo sat watching the U. S. like a spanked child awaiting forgiveness. Yet there remained enough lack of Japanese unanimity to make forgiveness impossible. Abrogated was the 1911 trade pact, paving the way for an embargo against arms shipments. All this was the disastrous price Japan might pay for flouting U. S. rights in the Orient.

(Meanwhile the Japs vented their wrath against Britain, storming the Tokyo embassy and tightening the Tientsin food blockade in retaliation against British seizure of 21 Germans from a Jap steamer. It was freely admitted in some Tokyo quarters that a U. S. embargo would hamstring Wang Ching-wei's "new order" government in China.)

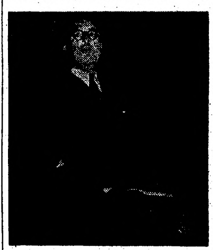
At Washington neither the state department nor the senate foreign relations committee seemed in a hurry to take further action. Said one congressman: "The Japs have made their bed with a long list of violations of American treaty rights . . . Now let them lie in it awhile." But Senators Pittman, Barkley, Minton and Austin to the contrary, Washington's Sen. Lewis Schwellenbach had his own opinions. Whereas the original Pittman embargo resolution would censure Japan for violating U. S. rights, Senator Schwellenbach would censure the U. S. and thereby avoid international complications.



SCHWELLENBACH
He would censure the U. S.

The Method: Pass an embargo on the contention that the U. S. is violating the nine-power treaty by furnishing 80 per cent of Japan's war material. Nor was the senator far wrong in suggesting the embargo as a means of "complying with the wishes of 75 per cent of the people."

Also in congress:

- ℭ Continued was the economy drive to avoid either new taxes or a boost in the federal debt limit. Having clipped $113,000,000 from the President's budget recommendations, the house appropriations committee was expected to eliminate altogether more than $200,000,000 for farm parity payments. Reasoning: Foreign developments might force prices up to a point where parity will not be needed so badly.

NAMES in the news . . .

HARRY HOPKINS, ill most of the 13 months since he was named commerce secretary, came back to work.

JOHN THOMAS, Gooding, Idaho, banker, was named U. S. senator to succeed the late William E. Borah.

EDWARD S. HARKNESS, philanthropist who gave away more than $100,000,000 of the fortune he got mainly from Standard Oil interests, died at 66 in New York.

EUROPE:

The Neutrals

Momentarily in the headlines was a report that the U. S. had asked all American nationals in Sweden to leave for home. The Swedish foreign press department gave as a reason "German troop concentration" across the Baltic, but the state department in Washington failed to confirm this fear.

Bigger neutral news came from Rumania, which suddenly found its oil resources both a curse and a bulwark of defense. When Germany insisted that Rumania increase oil shipments to the Reich, King Carol demanded that French-British petroleum interests in his country cooperate. Since this meant that allied oil would be feeding Nazi planes to bomb the allies, both London and Paris threatened to suspend economic relations with Rumania.

Though he was in a tough spot, Carol did not overlook the temporary value of this double pressure. Much though he disliked acquiescing to German demands, it meant that Germany would have to defend Rumania against Russian aims in his eastern province of Bessarabia.

Russo-Finnish War

Just as they failed miserably to cut Finland at its "waistline" a few weeks ago, so did the Russians suffer horrible defeat when they tried to skirt the north edge of Lake Ladoga and attack the Mannerheim line from the rear. After a week of desperate fighting, four Soviet divisions were put to rout. Five thousand were reported killed outright, with an extra 20,000 casualties including several thousand wounded who froze to death before aid could be brought.

NIBLETS

UTILITIES — Disappointed because public utility companies had not started voluntary integration programs as provided by the holding company act, Securities and Exchange Commissioner Jerome N. Frank announced the government is "about to begin" proceedings against them.

FINANCE — In Washington the treasury announced that Britain sold nearly 10 per cent of its readily marketable American securities during the first two months of the war, presumably to get cash for munitions.

RUSSIA—At Rome, Il Duce's paper Girnale d'Italia printed rumors of mass arrests in the Ukraine following exposure of a "vast plot" to assassinate Russia's Dictator Josef Stalin, Premier Viacheslav Molotov and War Commissar Klementi Voroshiloff.

THE WAR—In his second speech of the week, Britain's Winston Churchill declared Nazi Germany is a far weaker foe than Kaiser Wilhelm's imperial Germany of 1914, while the British and French "are far ahead of where we were at this time in the other war."

WOMEN:

Dressiest Ten

When Husband James Cromwell was named U. S. minister to Canada, Doris Duke Cromwell ("richest girl in the world") ordered a new wardrobe delivered from Paris via Atlantic clipper. Three weeks later, when United Press took its annual poll of Paris dressmakers, Mrs. Cromwell got her reward: For the first time, she was named one of the world's 10 best-dressed women. The other nine (all of whom have wardrobes worth more than $1,000,000 each):

Duchess of Kent and Windsor, tied for first place; Mme. Antenor Patino, South American "tin princess"; Begum Aga Khan; Mrs. Gilbert Miller, wife of a New York theatrical producer; Baronne Eugene de Rothschild; Mrs. Harrison Williams of New York; Countess Barbara Hutton-Reventlow, "five-and-dime" heiress; Queen Elizabeth.

Britain's queen, like Mrs. Cromwell, was a first-timer on the list. Though she buys no clothes in Paris, though she prefers crinoline effects for formal dress, the dressmakers admitted they had to include her.

JUSTICE:

Christian Front

In 1917 the Russian czarist government was overthrown by 23 men. Early this year the U. S. justice department arrested 17 "Christian Fronters" in New York, equipped with a smaller and more crude arsenal than Russia's 23. But their aim, said FBI's J. Edgar Hoover, was the same: Revolution. Moreover, he charged, they were anti-Jewish.

Though he "roundly disavowed" any affiliation to the Christian Front when first questioned, Detroit's Rev. Charles E. Coughlin later labeled himself as "a friend of the accused." After mulling over this admission for a week, the justice department sent its Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge to investigate.

MEXICO:

Oil for Japan?

Until Europe went to war, Mexico sold some of its expropriated U. S. and British oil output to Germany. The blockade stopped that, leaving Mexico with much oil and little money. But since the U. S. announced abrogation of its trade pact with Japan, President Lazaro Cardenas has made overtures to the Tokyo government. Japan, fearful lest the U. S. clamp down an embargo on war materials (See CONGRESS), was reported in late January to be ready to invest capital for dredging a Pacific port in Mexico and improving petroleum storage facilities there.

NEUTRALITY:

Notes

U. S. and the war made these headlines:

- ℭ A Gallup poll showed 60 per cent of the nation thinks it would be best to consult the public before entering another war. (Last September only a bare majority—51 per cent—favored a war referendum.)
- ℭ Under war's impetus, U. S. arms exports soared from $83,000,000 in 1938 to $204,555,780 in 1939. Major items: aircraft and air parts.

Beekeepers' Chairman Finally Got In His Sting

The excited man mounted the platform and began his speech. The chairman made repeated efforts to stop him, but to no purpose. In the end he had to let him carry on.

And carry on he did, fiery and pungent, for an hour, then stopped. "Have you quite finished?" asked the chairman.

"Yes," said the orator, "and I defy you to contradict a single word I said."

"I don't wish to," said the chairman. "The Brewery company, of whose management you complain, is holding its general meeting on the floor above. This is a reunion of the Beekeepers' society."

Miniature Army

A military museum in Paris has a collection of 19,000 dolls. Each is about two and a half inches tall, and clad in period uniform. The uniforms and weapons are perfect replicas of those used in the Napoleonic wars. The whole army of 19,000 was made by one man—an Alsatian soldier who fought under Napoleon, and spent the rest of his life making miniature soldiers.

FIGHT COLDS
by helping nature build up your cold-fighting resistance

If you suffer one cold right after another, here's sensational news! Mrs. Elizabeth Vickery writes: "I used to catch colds very easily. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery helped to strengthen me just splendidly. I ate better, had more stamina, and was troubled very little with colds."

This great medicine, formulated by a practicing physician, helps combat colds this way: (1) It stimulates the appetite. (2) It promotes flow of gastric juices. Thus you eat more; your digestion improves; your body gets greater nourishment which helps nature build up your cold-fighting resistance.

So successful has Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery been that over 30,000,000 bottles have already been used. Proof of its remarkable benefits. Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from your druggist today, or write Dr. Pierce, Dept. N-100, Buffalo, N. Y., for generous free sample. Don't suffer unnecessarily from colds.

Pieced Border for Kitchen Curtains

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

DO YOU remember this old-fashioned Saw Tooth quilt pattern? It has been used for the border of many a handsome quilt. It is so effective and so simple to piece that it should serve more decorative purposes. Here it trims kitchen curtains of unbleached muslin. It surprises one a little to see how modern it looks. Cut a piece of stiff paper in a perfect square and then cut diagonally through the center. One half will make your triangle pattern. The size suggested in the sketch makes a very striking border. If a very strong, bright color is used for the plain triangles, a narrower border in this design will also make a good showing.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears has prepared for our readers a set of three Quilt Block Patterns from her favorite Early American designs. Included in the set is the Kaleidoscope, and the Whirlwind. The third is the Ann Rutledge, which Mrs. Spears sketched from an original in the Rutledge Tavern at New Salem, Ill., where Abe Lincoln boarded, and where he courted the proprietor's daughter, according to the romantic legend so familiar to movie goers. It is an unusual variation of the Nine-patch, and rich with historical background. For set of three complete patterns, send 10 cents in coin to Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

A Dash of Red

By HELEN ALPERT

(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

JOE had thought it would be exciting to show them Red Jim's place out on the Philadelphia road. "And is it tough!" he had laughed. "Man, these are the dregs what am! Oil workers out for sport—a slice of the lower depths—a week's pay blown like a shot—swell!"

"What fun!" they had shouted as they'd jostled their way to a table.

Joe looked uneasily at his tiny partner as they circled the floor. The air seemed menacing. "Maybe we'd better scram, Jackie," he said. But Jacqueline impishly tossed her head. "Joe, I've never seen such people before. Such types! My word, they look like pickpockets, kidnapers, gunmen, forgers—even murderers!"

Bob and Sara swept past them. "Hey!" Joe called, "somebody ought to sit at our table and watch the coats!" Bob and Sara obligingy danced off the floor.

"What a joint!" Joe exclaimed.

"Want the whole floor, bud," a voice snarled. It did not ask; it stated; and Joe blinked.

"What a joint!"—out of earshot. Jackie giggled. "Oh, Joe—your face—"

"Yeah—I thought he was going to plug me."

"Maybe we're too conspicuous in our evening clothes."

Joe looked glumly at his immaculate self. "I'd give these away in a second for a nice pair of greasy overalls. I'd feel safer."

"And Bob and Sara, too!" Jackie laughed and crept closer. "But really, Joe," soberly, "these gimcracks I'm wearing are the only things left from the robbery last week."

"That was some job," said Joe. "Getting into a fortress of a house like yours and grabbing everything without leaving a trace."

"We've been stepping over police and detectives ever since—but all they can give is a bad guess." Jackie shrugged shortly. "There were some pieces we prayed we'd never lose—or forget. Dad's college photos—pins—" she broke off. "Oh, well. Swing her along, Joe!"

They flung themselves into a nimble step when a burly figure shouldered through to the wall. "Break, bud?" Again it was not a question but a demand.

Joe spluttered. "I—no—"

"That is, if the lady don't mind?"

"I don't mind," she said briefly. "In fact, I might enjoy it."

The man swaggered. He was big and dapper. His derby was pushed far back on his head and Jackie saw thick red waves of hair.

"Carrot top?" she asked, smiling a little.

"Who, me? Oh, sure, kid. That's why they call me Red Jim!"

Her eyes flamed wide. "So you're Red Jim!"

"That's me, baby. Red's my favorite color. I go for red-striped ties. I like red." He expanded. A ruby red ring glittered on his finger. "Red's my lucky color, too. Sometime I'm gonna get me a rug like I seen marchin' up some steps the same color exactly as my hair!"

"Impossible!" she breathed.

"Look!" he drew a triangular plush swatch out of his wallet. It matched his hair perfectly.

"Oh, yes!" she smiled bewitchingly.

The music blared to an ear-splitting crescendo and ceased.

"Here y'are, boy-friend," said Red Jim patronizingly to Joe. "See you later."

Jim was white with rage. "The cocky rat!" he snapped.

Sara shrieked. "Red Jim!"

"Ye proud owner," explained Jackie. "Excuse me while I polish up for the maiden's next encounter with the gent." She sped off with her handbag.

A squad of uniformed policemen had surrounded Jim.

"We want you for the Macrae robbery." Someone's voice was ice.

"Macrae? Say, that's a big joke on you. Last Wednesday night I was right here till morning. I can prove it, see?"

"Alibi Jim, as usual. But this time you're pickled."

"Says who?"

"Says Miss Jacqueline Macrae herself!"

Jackie appeared in the doorway, very quiet and white.

"Slick job. No fingerprints. No clues. No nothin'. A clean getaway, fella. But just a little too fond of red for your health!"

"I don't getcha."

Jackie spoke. "You said you saw a stair runner exactly the same shade of red as your hair. That was in my house. The runner was tacked down Wednesday morning and removed the next day. A tiny corner of it was missing. The house was robbed Wednesday night. The rug was taken away the following morning."

She stared intently at his red hair. "You see," she said, "we couldn't stand the color."

American Boy Magazine Companion To Thousands

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read The American Boy Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than a magazine.

"It is as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum", writes one high school senior. "The American Boy seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particularly helpful in sports. I made our basketball team because of playing tips I read in The American Boy.

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in The American Boy Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have founnd that as a general rule regular readers of The American Boy advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in The American Boy, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

The American Boy sells on most newsstands at 20c a copy. Subscription prices are $2.00 for one year or $3.50 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

Dwarf and Midget

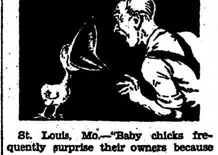
The public health service says that there is no difference between a dwarf and a midget so far as the human species is concerned. The term dwarf applies to other species besides human beings. The term midget is applied only to human beings. The term dwarf is generally considered a more scientific term than midget.

HUGE APPETITES OF GROWING CHICKS NO CAUSE FOR ALARM



St. Louis, Mo.—"Baby chicks frequently surprise their owners because of the enormous appetites they develop by the time they're four weeks old," according to D. C. Purcell, Purina poultry authority. "Their eating capacity seems to grow much faster than the chicks themselves. Barely able to consume a thimbleful of feed a day at the start, each little fellow appears to have become 'all mouth,' with a bottomless crop by the time it's four weeks old.

"In tests conducted in our Purina Laboratories it has been found that it is perfectly normal for four-week-old chicks to have huge appetites. Good chicks weighing nine ounces at around four weeks of age often double their weight the next two weeks. This naturally calls for heavy eating, which should be encouraged by increasing both hopper and drinking fountain space, so that the chicks can eat all they want.

"Misled by the fear that chicks will over-eat, or for reasons of false economy, many chick raisers regulate or restrict the daily starting mash consumption of fast growing chicks. Such a move is unprofitable for obvious reasons," Purcell says. "The profitable thing to do is to let them eat all they want of a balanced, reliable starting mash, to keep them coming fast and thrifty."

"WON'T YOU BE MY - - - - ?"

TWO hearts, one dart—they have come down the ages to say Won't-You-Be-My-Valentine and to remind us that in an age which bristles with dollar-signs and flaunts sophistication, Romance is not dead.

Then why not give a Valentine party with all of the fol-de-rols which are supposed to be old-fashioned and which your guests will gloat over? Herald the event with a lacey valentine. If your shops are too modern to carry them, make the invitations by pasting paper lace on the edge of a red cardboard heart with two hearts and a dart drawn in the center. Place your initials in one heart and the initial of your guest in the other heart, and write underneath.

Guess Who
Is Inviting You
To a Valentine Supper

For a contest game, give the guests bows and arrows to shoot at a heart target. The winner should be presented with a heart-shaped box filled with heart-shaped nut cookies, and each loser who failed to hit the target might be consoled by being allowed to kiss one person for each arrow that went astray.

A Supper That's a "Honey"

Set the Valentine supper table with a lace cloth, red candles and a red heart-shaped box of candy at each place. And here is the supper menu with tested recipes:

Chicken and Ham Shortcake
Cranberry Jelly cut in Heart Shapes
Grapefruit Cream Sherbet with Cherry Garnish
Cocoanut Kisses Coffee
Fairy Gingerbread

Chicken and Ham Shortcake: Make a white sauce of two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk and the contents of two 6-ounce cans of evaporated milk. Add one slightly-beaten egg yolk. Then add the contents of one 12-ounce can of chicken which has been diced, one cup of diced cold boiled ham and two tablespoons diced pimiento. Add two tablespoons cooking sherry and season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve between and on top of split, hot baking powder biscuits which have been buttered. This serves eight persons.

Grapefruit Cream Sherbet: Soften one tablespoon gelatin in two tablespoons of cold water. Dissolve in grapefruit juice from a No. 2 can which has been brought to boiling. Add one and one-third cups sugar. Dissolve and cool. Add three tablespoons lemon juice and one well-beaten egg. Pour the cold fruit juice mixture slowly into one cup cream and freeze at once in refrigerator trays or in an ice-cream freezer. Stir often if you use the refrigerator. Serve garnished with chopped cherries. This serves eight persons.*

Federal & State Seed Laws

Attention of farmers and seed dealers is called to the provision of the new Federal and State pure seed laws which are designed to further help farmers control weeds and foul seeds.

The Federal seed act prohibits inter-shipment of seed into this state and other states unless it conforms to the legal requirements established by the state laws. It also provides for true and correct labeling of all seed and prohibits false advertising by mail, radio or press. Labeling for purity, germination, noxious weed and seed content and date when tested are all required by law.

According to C. P. Bull, Director of the State Division of Weed and Seed Control, no agricultural seed may be sold if they contain field binweed. Under the new state act, the tolerance of primary noxious weed seeds have been reduced from 90 per cent weed seeds per pound to 25 weed seeds. Seeds containing any noxious weeds must be labeled with the correct percentage of such seed.

Farmers should be especially cautious in buying seeds of any type that are not accompanied by a statement or label specifying the kind or kinds of agricultural seed, the name of a special variety or strain of the seed, the percentage of germination as well as the date it was tested, the percentage by weight of weed seeds of all species, the total number of any and all kinds of weeds exceeding 10 per pound of agricultural seed (quack grass), Canada thistle, perennial sow thistle, dodder, leafy spurge, one-eye daisy, and buckhorn, the purity, and place where grown. It is unlawful for any seed to be offered for sale that has two per cent or more of all weed seeds, or an excess of 25 noxious weed seeds per pound, or any trace of creeping jenny.

With free seed testing service available and with provisions by rigid laws there is no necessity of purchasing seed that doesn't meet the requirements of the laws. Even in purchasing seed from another farmer or neighbor, for his own protection, a farmer should test the seed.

Markus Hjantoft Udstrand

Markus H. Udstrand was born on August 7, 1858 at Kvaedfjord, Norway of the parents Hans and Anna Marie Udstrand. He grew to manhood in the land of his forefathers. Upon his imigration into America, he spent three years at Grand Forks, No. Dak. On Feb. 10th, 1893, he was married to Miss Elise Marie Larson in the Ringbo Lutheran Church. Here they made their home in the Ringbo community and he served as Trustee in the Ringbo Lutheran Church for many years, until in 1912 when the family became members of the Nazareth Lutheran Church of Holt. Here they continued their church membership until they moved to Warren about ten years ago.

Mr. Udstrand was one of the early pioneers of the community and did his share in transforming the community from wilderness to well developed country we now have. He was a loving husband and father.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Elise Udstrand of Warren and the following 8 children: Mrs. A. H. Zacharias, Warren; Mrs. Calvin Dudley, St. Cloud; Mrs. Theodore Enge, Yakima, Washington; Mabel Udstrand, Warren; Helmer and Arthur Udstrand, Thief River Falls; Hjalmer Udstrand, Butte, Montana; Bernard Udstrand, Warren. One daughter died in infancy. The following sisters and brother also survive: Mrs. E. Akre of Thief River Falls; Mrs. Mina Lapland of Grand Forks; Herbert Sordvold of Turtle Fork, Sask., Canada.

He died at his home in Warren on Sunday morning, Feb. 4 as a result of a heart ailment of about a year. He had reached the age of 81 years, 5 months and 27 days.

Funeral services were conducted at the Nazareth Lutheran Church here on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 8. Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiated, using the Norwegian language.

At the services, Mrs. O. H. Nohre sang two vocal solos accompanied by Mrs. Marvin Sandberg. Pall bearers were: Guy Anderson, Alfred Anderson, M. J. Lunke, O. B. Johnson, Christ Engen and T. B. Folden. The Quanrud Funeral Service from Warren had charge of the arrangements. Interment was made in the ridge cemetery.

Given Surprise Party

Mrs. O. H. Nohre was given a surprise party on her birthday Saturday evening. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre, honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nohre, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Larson and Lois, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peterson and Vi, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wegge and George and Marilyn, Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, Mr. - Mrs. C.A. Larson, Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Hanson and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Horien, Mrs. S. Nohre, Agnes Conklin, Mrs. Jesse Sorum, and Glenn Peterson. Mrs. Nohre received a cash purse.

The following were entertained at the C. A. Larson home Friday evening: Mr. and Mrs. S. Lorentson, Betty Lou and Dale, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Werner, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Karvonen and son, Mrs. and Mrs. H. Engen, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Miller, Mrs. M. Miller Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Sorum.

Marshall County History Recorded

The great masses of books and papers that tell the story of a county and most of its citizens since pioneer days of 1879 are the subject of a publication released this week.

The Marshall county records inventory has been published by the WPA Minnesota Historical Records Survey. It is one of a series of county inventories that will include all 87 counties of the state.

The 300-page book makes available for the first time a catalog of the 15,000 or more items of county records. The titles, dates and quantities are given, the contents are described in detail, and the size, condition and location are stated.

To complete the task of gathering all that information, the survey office reveals, it was necessary for the field worker, Miss Gladys Lincoln of Stephen, to handle every county record.

There is more to this book than a catalog of county records. The cover is decorated with a color picture of the moccasin flower, the State flower.

An historical sketch traces the story of the county from the days when the Red River valley was the highway to the north for adventurous frontier settlers and fur traders.

Through this county traveled the people of the border settlements of 1812 and later. The fur trains and their noisy wooden carts crawled past on many trips between St. Paul and the north.

The county itself was not much settled until the railroads came in the 1870s, but then the landseekers arrived in a rush. Before the 1870s had passed, all the free public land was taken up.

Some of the earliest farming done in this county was carried on by the missionaries at Red Lake in the 1840s and 1850s. They had large farms for that day and were free in praise of their results.

Marshall county was created as a geographical unit in 1879 and the government was organized the same year. Township and school districts were established at once. The inevitable county seat fight rose between Warren and Argyle in the first two or three years of government but finally was settled by legislative action in 1881. The county seat had been at Argyle for a while but was moved back to Warren early in 1882, after the law placing the county seat there had been passed.

Agriculture and population statistics are given, and it is noted that the county's population rose from only a few families in 1878 to 992 in 1880 and then built up to the 1930 total of 17,003.

Two maps are included. One shows the outlines of the first nine counties as they were in the days when Minnesota was organized only as a territory and included within its boundaries large areas of the present Dakotas. An outline map of the county showing the townships follows the nine-county map.

How the county government operates is explained in the government organization essay. A chart shows the relation of the various offices to each other. Another chapter is devoted to a detailed account of the facilities for housing and care of the records and to location of county offices in which records are kept. Simplified court house plans follow this chapter.

The main body of the book, the catalog of the records themselves, is classified by offices, and each office is introduced by an essay telling of it functions.

In the back of the book are lists of county officers from the first to the present. The indexes, one chronologically listed and one alphabetically arranged, are designeed to aid the user of the book.

The WPA Historical Records Survey has as its object the preparation of complete inventories of state, county, city and other local governmental records. It is believed by those in charge of the work that the new guides to public records will become important references for county and state officials, researchers, teachers, historians, lawyers, businessmen, genealogists, authors, and all others who ever have occasion to consult public records for information.

Anyone who is hunting for a record in a courthouse may find it by reference to one of these publications but, facing the task of searching through thousands of volumes and record containers packed with unbound material, he might never find it without the record guide book.

Work of the survey has been praised and recommended by the D. A. R., historical associations, and numerous prominent historians.

The Minnesota project is being sponsored by the Minnesota Historical Society.

Several hundred copies of the Marshall County publication will be distributed free to a number of Minnesota libraries and other institutions and to a few out-of-state libraries and government agencies. Extra copies are deposited with the Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, for limited free distribution to others.

Given Birthday Party

Mrs. Lloyd Adams of Grand Forks, Mrs. W. Risberg and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wegge and Beverly, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Werner and Ruby, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nelson and Vernon, Mrs. Jesse Sorum and children, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hagen, Mrs. L. Wegge, Mrs. Walter Wegge and Jean, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fosholm gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hagberg to celebrate Mrs. Hagberg's birthday. She received many gifts and a birthday cake baked by Mrs. D. Wegge. A delicious lunch was served.

Mrs. Lloyd Adams of Grand Forks is visiting relatives here this week.

District Scouters Meet Here

The officers of the Thief River Falls District of the Boy Scouts will hold their regular monthly meeting here at the Nazareth Lutheran church on Tuesday evening, Feb. 20. Up to this time these meetings have been held at Thief River Falls but at the January meeting of the officers it was decided to move it around to the various communities where there are troops located. This meeting will start at 6:30 with a supper for the officers of the district, the members of the local committee and officers of the Mens Club only. The program for the evening to which the public is invited will start at 8 o'clock. Several good speakers will be here.

A joint birthday party was given for John Nass and Amanda Fosholm at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Nass Saturday evening. The following were present:

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Movick and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carsten Sagstuen and family, Mrs. C. Wilson and sons, Ted, Jimmy, Linda and Edna Gusa, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fosholm, Amanda and Ingvald Fosholm, Mr. - Mrs. R. F. Smith and family, Verna Johnson, Elling Waagedahl and Edwin Ness.

The honor guests received many nice gifts. Two birthday cakes had been baked for the occasion by Mrs. R. F. Smith. A delicious lunch was served.

Recreation Room Trimmed Nautical

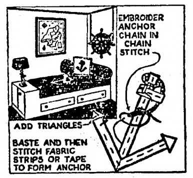
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THINGS that have to do with the sea are a good theme for decorating a recreation room, a boy's room or a summer cottage. A ship model has a salty flavor but is not a necessity. One youngster made a map of a desert island complete with a legend of hidden treasure. No one knew more than he about the island or treasure for he invented both of them. He also salvaged the steering wheel from an old boat and hung it on the wall with ropes. A small figure of a sailor was wired for a lamp.



EMBROIDER ANCHOR CHAIN IN CHAIN STITCH
ADD TRIANGLES
BASTE AND THEN STITCH FABRIC STRIPS OR TAPE TO FORM ANCHOR

His mother made a smartly tailored navy blue couch cover trimmed in a red anchor and a red cushion was adorned with a blue anchor. Straight strips of material 1-inch wide after the edges are turned under will make an anchor 12-inches long and 8 inches across as shown here. Bias tape may be used for the smaller anchor which is just half the size of the large one.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Half-Year Relief Appropriation May Avert New Tax Measures; Would Merely Postpone Crisis

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

CONGRESS:
Solution

One way of postponing a crisis is to run away from it, though the eventual consequences are usually worse. After five weeks of wrestling with Franklin Roosevelt's budget, it looked dangerously like congress would try this very strategy to avoid raising new taxes or increasing the national debt limit.

The trouble was, economy had bogged down. Independent offices appropriations, slashed in the house, were raised to $1,138,675,000 in the senate, making the total bill $56,029,000 under budget estimates but still $22,000,000 more than last year. The President's $788,929,000 farm bill, from which the house appropriations committee cut $154,000,000, went to the senate minus only $66,928,000 of the original figure.

To save even this much, Virginia's Rep. Clifton Woodrum had to fight a score of dragons. When President Roosevelt commented from Hyde Park that he didn't like this sort of indiscriminate economizing, Mr. Woodrum dug into the President's record and found a speech he made in 1933 declaring governments too often are wrecked by a loose fiscal policy.

VIRGINIA'S WOODRUM
Seven years old, but still true.

Thundered Mr. Woodrum: "What was true seven years ago is true now!"

Maybe so, but the farm bloc promised heavy pressure in the senate. The new bill is $579,339,231 under last year's and contains no provision for farm parity payments, for which the farm bloc wants at least $200,000,000. Since this would undo the best economy efforts to date, there were rumors that congress would run away from its next crisis, relief. Recommended by the President is $1,000,000,000 for this item, but Sen. Jimmy Byrnes of South Carolina hinted congress might make only a part-year appropriation of only $750,000,000, thus staying inside the fast-approaching debt limit. Obvious purpose was to avoid new taxes in an election year, but not even the folks back home could very well be fooled into swallowing this sort of economy.

Also in congress:

¶ Men-who-came-to-dinner got into trouble: (1) The house NLRB probe heard that two NLRB regional directors had stirred a family quarrel by attending a banquet given by a firm which had cases before the board. (2) The house heard about six congressmen who allegedly attended a dinner given by "plotters" who were trying to discredit Texas' Rep. Martin ("un-Americanism") Dies.

¶ To settle once and for all time the administration-congress battle over who shall make trade treaties (now being argued in connection with the expiring reciprocal trade act) Michigan's Sen. Arthur Vandenberg introduced a bill to create a foreign trade board.

NAVY:
Squalus Report

Since last May navy men have wondered why the submarine Squalus carried 26 men to death off Portsmouth, N. H. Almost nine months later a naval court of inquiry got around to reporting. The gist: Officers and crew were absolved of "serious blame," the sinking having been caused by mechanical failure of the air intake valve leading to the vessel's engine.

EUROPE:
No Harm at Belgrade

For a short and unimportant weekend, Europe's spotlight shifted to Belgrade. There met envoys of the Little Entente—Turkey, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Greece—seeking a way to keep war out of their back yard. In their midst were two malcontents who had territorial claims against Rumania, namely, Hungary and Bulgaria. Others, Germany and Russia, also looked covetously at Rumania, whose diseases thus became so numerous that she was virtually untouchable. To support her against these many foes would be suicide for other Entente members.

But Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu brought two trump cards to Belgrade. First was the threat that Rumania would seek security with Russia and Germany unless the Entente played ball. Second was the promise of a small territorial concession to Bulgaria, which meant the Entente could now woo and win that aloof little nation.

When the conference ended nothing was announced more concrete than a mutual "promise" (but not guarantee) to "watch . . . over the safeguarding of the rights of each . . ." But Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu, homeward bound, stopped at Sofia to see how Bulgaria would react to Rumania's concession. Since Italy, Germany and the Allies each claimed the Belgrade session was a "diplomatic victory," it had at least done no harm.

The Wars

Russian-Finnish. Withdrawing its decimated ormies north of Lake Ladoga, Russia began concentrating on the Mannerheim line. Armored sledges carried troops to within striking distance of the Finnish lines, but hundreds died as the Finns drove them back. Parachute troops met a similar fate. But Soviet planes sapped Finnish civilian morale, raining bombs throughout a Sunday on Viipuri and Abo. At the former city, Finland's ancient cathedral, built in 1600, was ruined.

WINGS OVER ENGLAND

Allied-German. Both sides were busier planning for war than fighting it. But German planes continued their disastrous raids on British coastal shipping, becoming so cocky over their successes that photos were released showing how it was done (see above). Britain had reason to talk fearfully of the new JU-88 bomber which the Reich is expected to unleash soon. Both sides had trouble at home. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain made enemies when he rejected commons' plea for a war economy dictator. Germany meanwhile was talking about new taxes and a "wage-certificate" plan to raise a $4,800,000,000 war chest.

POLITICS:
In Old Chicago

In 1932 Franklin Roosevelt was drafted for President at Chicago. It would be historically significant if he were drafted for a precedent-shattering third term at Chicago. Whatever the reason, it was worth noting that third-termites like Chicago's Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Jersey City's Frank Hague were in the saddle when the Democratic national committee met in Washington. Result: Chicago won.

Woman of the Week

GIRL-WHO-GETS-SPANKED

LAST spring John Barrymore began spanking his actress-wife, Elaine Barrie, each night in their stage play, "My Dear Children." Once spanked too hard, temperamental Miss Barrie up and quit to write another chapter in the turbulent Barrymore-Barrie romance that began four years ago. Her successor as the girl-who-gets-spanked was Doris Dudley, youthful actress who already has a successful screen career behind her. But when "My Dear Children" reached New York late last month the publicity men arranged a gag that left Doris Dudley in the cold. Announced was a Barrie-Barrymore reconciliation, Elaine to resume her role in the play. Doris Dudley was spanked out of the cast.

AGRICULTURE:
Southern Freeze

Damaging enough to tourist trade was the cold wave that struck southern states in late January. When it was over, farmers found even more damage had been done to their crops. Florida clamped down a one-week embargo against citrus shipments while inspectors determined how much damage was done. "Spies" from California were on hand to observe the damage. The agriculture department's marketing service surveyed damage in both Texas and Florida, making a preliminary report that indicated severe crop damage but little injury to trees themselves.

One important announcement came from the U. S. Sugar corporation, which reported to stockholders that cold weather had "totally destroyed" the mature cane standing on 25 per cent of the planted acreage.

ASIA:
Indian Rondelet

When Britain went to war and asked India's aid, Mahatma Gandhi countered by asking when India might expect dominion status. Answered Viceroy Marquess of Linlithgow: After the war. Complained Gandhi: This was unacceptable.

Such bickering continued while the Nationalist leader urged passive resistance upon his people and negotiated for a chance to discuss the problem with the viceroy. Finally the chance came and Gandhi went to New Delhi.

When, he asked the marquess, could India expect her independence? Answered Linlithgow: After the war. Complained Gandhi: This was unacceptable. Net result of five months' talk: Nothing.

Trouble, Trouble, Trouble!

Any fact reported to Japan's emperor is "irrevocable," hence the army had no choice this month but to substantiate a "fact" it had reported in 1932. Chinese Gen. Ma Chan-shan, hero reported killed in the 1932 Manchurian invasion, had popped to life again. The entire North China army was hunting him.

In Tokyo, 70-year-old Takao Saito created a storm in the diet by charging Japan has lost 100,000 killed and several hundred thousand wounded in China. He suggested Nippon had best withdraw its troops and negotiate peace. Highly publicized by the foreign press much to Japan's chagrin, the incident was climaxed when Statesman Saito was asked to resign from the Minseito party.

The government had still more trouble. Sweet words have been exchanged with Russia since Manchukuoan-Mongolian border incidents ended with a truce last September. There were even rumors of a Soviet-Jap mutual assistance pact. But suddenly the border demarcation talks broke down as Gen. Shunroku Hata charged the Soviet with "scores of illegal acts."

Sore at everyone (including the U. S., for abrogating its trade treaty), Nippon promptly stuck its foot in the mud again by bombing the French-operated Kunming-Hanoi railroad, not once, but twice.

AVIATION:
Foreign Business

Already burdened with airplane orders from Europe's belligerents, U. S. manufacturers have a new customer—Sweden. Just placed is an order for 150 Vultee attack planes costing about $8,000,000. What this order meant was anybody's guess. Congress buzzed with rumors that the planes were really destined for Finland, but military experts argued that Sweden, next in line for aggression should the Soviet capture Finland, was bolstering her own defenses.

Meanwhile Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau gave the first accurate picture of just how big America's foreign airplane business really is. Since mid-1938, when France first placed orders here to supplement her own lagging aircraft industry, the U. S. has shipped 1,100 planes to the allies, recently stepping up delivery to more than 100 ships a day. Together these two governments have placed orders for about 4,000 planes in the past 18 months, while current negotiations call for 8,000 additional bombers, pursuit craft and other types.

Strange Facts

Whose Signature?
'Proxy Parents'
Live to Collect

In a recent experiment the Chicago Police Crime Detection laboratory had seven college professors differentiate between four samples of their signatures, one being genuine, one an expert forgery, one a tracing and one written with no attempt at imitation. Only one man identified his own signature as genuine and recognized the other three specimens as nongenuine.

A new organization in New York supplies capable young women between the ages of 20 and 30 years to act as "proxy parents," taking children to theaters, schools, parties, dentists' offices and on shopping tours. They also stay with children while parents are away for the week-end, and meet trains and chaperon girls who come to the city for a visit.

In Great Britain, the fees of barristers, or trial lawyers, still are regarded as gratuities and, therefore, cannot be collected through legal action.

Charming New Apron Has Square Neckline

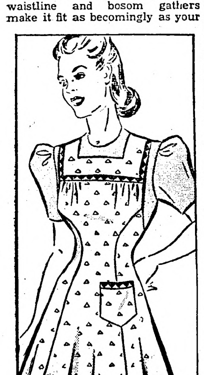
THIS pinafore apron (1888-B) is so pretty that it really deserves to be called a fashion—a crisp, flattering, practical home fashion! The square neckline (no troublesome straps), the princess waistline and bosom gathers make it fit as becomingly as your favorite afternoon dress. And it covers your dress with protective thoroughness.



Send for the pattern this very minute! You can finish the apron in a few hours, because it's simply nothing to make. And the first time you slip it over your head, tie the sash bow, discover how pretty it looks and comfortable it feels—you'll go ahead and make up several, in order to have a fresh, clean one always ready. Tuck some away for bridge prizes and shower gifts, too. Gingham, percale, calico and chambray are pretty for this.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1388-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 35-inch material; 1 yard trimming.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coin, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill.

DEVICE DETECTS IODINE IN FEEDS

Colorado Scientist Develops Important Testing 'Torch.'

By DR. FRANK GASSNER

Use of a special torch, recently developed at the Colorado State college experiment station to determine iodine content of feedstuffs, may prove tremendously important to dairymen, live stock and poultry growers of the nation.

While the experiments were confined to feed grown in Colorado, the general results will be important to these industries all over the nation where the feed grown is low in iodine content. Colorado feeds are very low in this element—so low that the state should be included in the so-called "goiter belt" of the Midwest.

Investigations carried on at the experiment station have shown that poultry and rats in some cases will develop goiter when they are fed ordinary rations. Work by the poultry and pathology sections of the station was the first in which it was shown possible to produce goiter in poultry experimentally. Similar investigations are being carried on with lambs and cattle, and there is evidence that goiter may be produced in these also. Thus it is probable that feed formulas must include ingredients rich in iodine to prevent goiter.

The torch was developed in the pathology section of the experiment station. It is made of specially resistant stainless steel of chrome and nickel alloy and will reveal iodine in as small a proportion as 10 parts per billion.

This is a considerable improvement over the brass torch previously used for this type of work. The disadvantage of the brass torch was that it had to be lacquered often to prevent contamination of the sample by excessive corrosion.

The only torch known by the department to be as satisfactory as this stainless steel instrument is one at the University of Minnesota which is made of platinum. This torch cost approximately $2,800 as compared to a cost of less than $25 for the steel torch.

The torch is useful in ascertaining not only the iodine content of feedstuffs, but of biological material as well. Anything that can be made to burn can be tested with this torch.

Power Line Building Cost Is Cut to $900 Per Mile

Engineers of the Rural Electrification administration are constructing electric lines into rural areas at an average cost of about $900 per mile. These costs prior to the REA ran from $1,500 to $2,000 a mile because private engineers were using for rural lines the heavy construction used in city and suburban areas.

The REA engineers dropped the cross arm from the single-phase lines and simplified pole assembly for the two- and three-phase lines. New, stronger conductors allowed longer spans with fewer poles.

Several Texas projects have been built recently at a cost of about $500 a mile. The construction was light because sleet and ice do not have to be reckoned with in Texas. But even under sleet and wind conditions, the lines have held up well.

Durability of the lighter construction was demonstrated last year when a series of destructive tornadoes struck southern Minnesota. At Anoka, near Minneapolis, although the substation was destroyed, practically no line was destroyed. Near Melrose, west of Anoka, during the same week, greater damage was inflicted on lines of a utility than on REA lines in the same territory. Service of the co-operative was restored in less than half the time required by the utility.

Many private utilities are following the lead of the REA engineers in using lighter construction on their rural lines.

Dipping for Mange

Mange in hogs may be controlled by dipping with a solution made at the rate of one gallon of liquid lime sulphur to 25 gallons of water at a temperature of 100 to 105 degrees F. Nicotine sulphate, 40 per cent strength, used at the rate of one ounce to three gallons of water, has also proved effective. Dip the hogs twice about ten days apart, although in severe cases three or more dippings may be necessary to clean up the skin.

Horses in Wartime

During the first three years of the Boer war, 1900-1902, inclusive, prices for horses in the United States advanced to $93.76 per head. During the three-year period 1896-1898 the average price had been $74.56. During the five years 1909-1913 prior to the World war the average price of horses in the United States had been $148.02. During the five years 1915-1919, inclusive, the average price in this country advanced to $191.72.

Sauerkraut Steps Out!

BUILD a better mouse trap, or produce a better sauerkraut and the world will find a path to your cellar. Even in the days when kraut hid its light in a barrel in the cellar, epicures found it.

Today, when it can be bought, crisp and savory in nice clean cans, the fashionable world has found it on the grocery shelves. They have found, also, a variety of smart ways of serving this healthful and long-favored food. Your family will like them—so will your guests.

In Fashionable Frocks

Calf's Liver with Fried Sauerkraut: Cut one and one-half pounds of calf's liver in pieces for serving. Dip in boiling water for a few moments, drain and remove the skin along the edges and veins. Season well with salt and pepper, and dip in flour. Fry in hot fat in a skillet until done and a nice brown. Remove, and use the drippings for making a brown milk gravy. Meanwhile drain three cups of canned sauerkraut and fry in a skillet with three tablespoons of fat until slightly brown. Serve with the liver and gravy. This serves six persons.

Creamed Sauerkraut: Sauté three tablespoons of sliced onion and four tablespoons of shredded green pepper in three tablespoons of fat until the onions become pale yellow. Add three tablespoons of flour and stir until smooth. Add two cups of milk slowly, stirring until thick and creamy. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Add two cups of canned sauerkraut and heat thoroughly. This serves six persons.*

Farmer-Labor Convention

Farmer-Laborites of the 15 counties in the Ninth Congressional District of Minnesota will gather at the auditorium in Thief River Falls on Saturday, Feb. 24 for their annual convention, according to announcement issued by Harold C. Hagen, District Farmer-Labor Association and Congressional Secretary to U. S. Representative R. T. Buckler.

The meeting is schedaled to be opened at 1 o'clock by District Chairman, Elmer G. Johnson, of Underwood.

County conventions already have been held in most of the counties and delegates have been named to the district meeting and also the state Farmer-Labor Association convention at Rochester, March 8.

One of the controversial subjects expected to be discussed is the question of whether or not to endorrse candidates this year prior to the primary election in September. The general public is invited to attend the open meetings of this convention.

P. B. Malberg, pioneer settler of Excel township was a visitor in town Tuesday. Mr. Malberg will celebrate his 82nd birthday Saturday and is just as chipper as many a man half that age. Congratulations to you Peter.

Under New Management--

We have taken over the management of the Dew Drop Inn and invite the people of Holt and vicinity to come in and see us. Your friendship and patronage is appreciated.

Marine Corp Wants Men

According to an announcement received from the Officer in Charge, U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Office, 119 Metropolitan Life Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn., the Marine Corps is now accepting applications for enlistment from young men between the ages of 18 and 30 years, and for men who have had previous service the age limit has been set at 35.

The United States Marine Corps, through its splendid facilities for furthering of an interrupted education, is offering ambitious young men greater advantages and opportunities than ever before. With a broad field of subject matter from which to select, thousands of Marines are studying and preparing themselves for higher positions when they retnrn to civilian life, all these fine services being rendered free of any expense by the U. S. Marine Corps Institute in Washington, D. C.

From the shores of the islands of the West Indies around the world to the teeming life of distant China, the United States Marines are building healthy bodies and storing up a multitude of experiences and memories that can be duplicated in no other way. These men, through an upbuilding routine of living, have come to be known as the most healthful group of men living, and through the Medical Department of the U. S. Navy each individual receives the highest caliber of medical and dental care. They are serving toward the day when they may leave the service after 20 or 30 years of active duty and retire to private life on a substantial income for life.

Young men, if you are interested in an enlistment with the Marines, call at the office in person or communicate directly with the Officer in Charge, Marine Corps Recruiting Station, 119 Metropolitan Life Bldg, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

"CLEAN UP... or CLOSE UP!"
.....that's our program, too!
TAVERN CLOSED

- In many respectable lines of business there are men who think it profitable to break laws and regulations. Happily, they form only a very small percentage of the vast majority of respectable, law-abiding business men.
- But, the Brewers of Minnesota do not want any law breakers in their business! They, too, want them "closed-up" because brewers desire to make retailing of beer so clean and law-abiding that it cannot possibly give offense to any one . . . and to safeguard your right to enjoy good, wholesome beer . . . the true beverage of Moderation!
- Brewers, however, have no authority to enforce laws. They can . . . and do, willingly . . . cooperate with your local authorities to "clean-up" retail outlets.
- The Brewers of Minnesota are respectable business men conducting a respectable, lawful business. They have homes and families . . . and a stake in the welfare of the State. The 25,000 Minnesota men and women whose living comes directly from beer are, with few exceptions, honest, law-abiding citizens . . . with over 80,000 dependents to care for. They, too, have a stake in their State, their homes, their jobs!
- The most effective and enduring law enforcement is that which is local in its origin and execution. It will be most successful when it represents cooperation between the local authorities, the brewers, the wholesalers, the retailers and the public. The brewers endorse all genuine clean-up activities and pledge their sincere cooperation.

Luther League Bible Camp

Announcement was made last week by the program committee of the Lake of the Woods Bible Camp that Rev. Androw Burgess, Minneapolis. will be lecturer on Foreign Missions and show pictures of Mission fields at the 1940 session of the camp to be conducted at the beautiful camp grounds on Rainy River near Baudette, June 17-23 next. Rev. Burgess has been missionary both in China and Madagascar and is well known as a traveller, author, and lecturer.

Other members secured for the 1940 faculty of the camp are the Rev. A. L. Abrahamson, Morris, Illinois, a former pastor at Badger, who will give the evening inspirational addresses; the Rev. H. O. Aasen, local pastor and energetic camp worker, who will conduct the morning Bible studies; Miss Crystal Gjesdal, Minneapolis, as councellor and speaker on Youth Problems. Miss Gjesdal is connected with the officers of the International Young People's Luther League.

Other details of the summer camp are being outlined by the program committee to be announced soon. The Reverends R. M. Fjelstad, Thief River Falls, T. C. L. Hanson, Holt, and L. M. Larson, Stephen, are members of this committee.

Editor's Note: Don't you in your heart feel that you are not fair to your son and daughter if you pass up this opportunity of sending them to Bible Camp this summer? Begin now to make plans for it! The good derived may live on long after you have passed on. If you have no boy or girl eligble -- why not finance someone who could otherwise not go?

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Nowhere can we find accurate comprehensive countrywide figures on the relationship of alcohol to traffic accidents. The reasons for that are:

1. One state reports that 18.4 per cent of drivers involved in fatal accidents "had been drinking".

2. Several courts state that their studied opinion shows that liquor was involved in a certain percent of all traffic accidents.

3. Some courts, in the same states, state that liquor was involved in even a higher percent of accidents.

Therefore, police estimates, legal definations, and court interpretations of the terms "intoxication" and "under the influence", are so variable that it is impossible to obtain definite figures.

All of us agree, however, that a man who has had two or three strong drinks certainly cannot have the accuracy and the alert judgment that he would have under normal conditions. We hope the time will soon come when driving after drinking will be placed in the same category as carrying concealed weapons, robbing, and similar infractions of law.

We take this means of extending our thanks and appreciation to our relatives and friends for the surprise given us on our wedding anniversary, for the gifts and cash. Especially do we thank R. F. Smiths who so kindly shared their home for the occasion. Again we thank you all Mr. and Mrs. Carsten Sagstuen.

27 Traffic Deaths In January

Despite the increase in travel of approximately 20 per cent during the month of January, 1940, over that month of a year ago, the death rate due to automobile accidents decreased 18 per cent, according to figures compiled by W. F. Rosenwald, Traffic Engineer of the Minnesota Highway Department.

Although one more person was killed in traffic mishaps during the past month than a year ago, the death rate shows a marked decrease because of the greatly increased gasoline consumption over January of 1939. The month's toll was 27 dead, as compared to 26 a year ago,

On the basis of gasoline consumption, the rate for January 7.4 deaths per 10 million gallons consumed, as compared with 8.5 for January of 1939 — during which month a ten-year low record for the month of January was set.

"In comparison with average January records for the past three years," said Rosenwald, "the record for the first month of 1940 is heartening, despite the slight increase in the number of deaths. The decrease in rate is 35 per cent--which, after all, is only the logical basis for determining the progress of the safety campaing in Minnesota.

"It clearly indicates that Minnesota motorist are driving more carefully and pedestrians are walking with more caution in traffic—all of which gives safety workers renewed hope that the year 1940 will set another low mark in traffic accidents and deaths."

Peterson-Henning Wedding

Miss Cleo Peterson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peterson, and Eddy Henning, son of John Henning of Middle River, were united in marriage at Thief River Falls on Tuesday afternoon. After the ceremony the newlyweds enjoyed a seven o'clock dinner with immediate relatives at the Rex Cafe. The News joins their many friends in extending congratulations.

Bought Dew Drop Inn

Mr. an Mrs. Clarence O. Johnson of Thief River Falls made a deal here last week in which they became the owners of the Dew Drop Inn owned by Jesse Sorum. Mr. Sorum has been connected with the Great Northern Railway in train service since 1922 and is now able to hold steady work in that field and found that it took too much of his working time to look after the business here.

Mr. Johnson has spent many years in this territory as a salesman for a large tobacco company. The people of Holt and vicinity bid them welcome here. They have a daughter 11 years old.

O. H. Nohre left Tuesday for Spring Grove to attend to matters of business.

Conservator Speaks In Warren

Liquidation of the Minnesota Rural Credit department and the opportunities it affords to prospective farm owners in Northwestern Minnesota will be shown to residents of Marshall and Northern Polk counties at a meeting in Warren at the City Hall next Wednesday night at eight o'clock.

Geo. C. Jones, conservator of the department now under liquidation, will speak at the public meeting and will describe the progress being made in the disposal of farm lands taken over by the state since the Minnesota loaning agency was started.

Anyone interested in the department, either borrower, tenant, contract purchaser, or the prospective land purchaser, is urged to attend the meeting in Warren on Wednesday, February 28. Through the liquidation of the department, many good farms are being sold to the farmers of the state and terms of purchase are reasonable so as to permit the land to go back on the tax rolls of the state.

O. T. Ness left Tuesday evening for Minneapolis to attend the Grain Dealers convention. He was accompanied by Richard Lorentson who will consult a doctor there and by Jesse Sorum who will attend other business.

Beauty Treatment For an Old Chair

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HERE is proof of what a beauty treatment and a new costume will do for an out-of-date chair. Its new dress is very chic. The material is a soft old red cotton crash with seam cordings and binding for the scalloped skirt in dove gray.

An inch was cut from the back legs to tilt the chair for greater comfort. The carving at the top and the upholstery on the back and arms were left in place, but the lines of the chair were completely changed by padding with cotton batting. Unbleached muslin was then stretched over the padding to make all perfectly smooth.

CONSTIPATED? Don't Let Gas, Nerve Pressure Keep You Miserable

When constipated two things may happen. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up the bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure often causes headaches, a dull, lazy feeling, loss of appetite, and dizziness. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach, acid indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Then you can't eat. You can't sleep. Your stomach is sour. You feel tired out, grouchy, and miserable. BALANCED Adlerika containing three laxatives and five carminatives gives you DOUBLE ACTION. It relieves that awful GAS almost at once, and usually clears the bowels in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight relief.

Roosevelt Peace Bid May Delay Spread of European Conflict; Near Eastern Crisis Continues

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

GERMAN-OWNED KRUPP SHIPYARDS AT ISTANBUL
Did this give the President an idea?

INTERNATIONAL:
Mounting Trouble

New war threats were spreading fast the day Franklin Roosevelt acted. The situation was especially explosive in the Balkans and the Near East. Turkey had seized the German-owned Krupp shipyards at Istanbul harbor (see photo above), ousted more than 100 Nazis and announced a sabotage plot against the Turkish navy had been nipped. Russia fortified her Turkish border, fearing a thrust against her oil resources. Greece's Premier John Metaxas warned solemnly that his nation was being drawn into war's meshes, making particular reference to the British-French troop concentrations along Russia's near eastern frontier.

(About 100,000 colonial British troops from New Zealand and Australia, originally bound for the western front, were dropped instead at Suez and dispersed to near eastern posts.)

There seemed a general direction to this agitation. Even Italy, long an enemy of Turkey, was reported framing a trade pact with Istanbul, drawing Rome closer to Turkey's friends, France and Britain. Italy is already close to the Balkan entente, which over the week-end had wooed and won Bulgaria away from Russian influence. It all meant that southeastern Europe and the Near East were being mobilized either (1) for defense against threatened Soviet-German aggression, or (2) for an allied-sponsored drive against the Russian oil wells which are supplying Germany.

HOUSE AND WELLES
A repetition of 1916?

(Supplies will come faster than ever now, because the Reich and Soviet signed a trade pact whereby Moscow will swap oil and ores for German machinery.)

Peace Bid

Peace was already in the air when Franklin Roosevelt acted. A few days earlier there were persistent rumors that the Reich would offer peace terms to the League of Nations economic committee meeting in The Hague. But this was nebulous compared to Franklin Roosevelt's action.

Unexpectedly, as is his publicity-wise wont, he announced that Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles would leave immediately to visit Berlin, Rome, London, Paris and neutral centers, seeking a meeting ground for peace. Presidential critics frowned, remembering the last time a Democratic chief executive sent warring Europe such an envoy. That was in 1916, when Woodrow Wilson's Col. Edward House failed to win peace, but brought home instead the makings of U. S. embroilment in the war.

The President did two more things. He ordered his special envoy to the Vatican, Steelman Myron C. Taylor, to get going at once in the hope he could work for peace. Then he addressed the pinkish American Youth congress, for the first time denouncing publicly the Soviet invasion of Finland. He also took a light slap at Adolf Hitler.

Anti-Rooseveltians were quick to criticize. This meant Sumner Welles would visit European capitals whose rulers already knew on which side of the fence the U. S. administration stood. On the other hand, however, why was it sinful for the President of a Christian democracy to criticize the rape of Finland?

Within a few days reactions began trickling in from Europe. Most nations were "interested"; France even expected Adolf Hitler to postpone his scheduled western front offensive until after Peacemaker Welles has come and gone.

in the news . . .

- A Syracuse (N. Y.) university student analyzed speeches of great men, finding the pronoun "I" used once every 53 words by Adolf Hitler; once every 83 by Benito Mussolini; once every 100 words by Franklin Roosevelt; once every 249 words by Neville Chamberlain.
- The senate approved President Roosevelt's nominations of Marriner Eccles as federal reserve board chairman, and Chester Davis as a board member.
- At Detroit, it was reported Archbishop Mooney had warned Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest, against controversial broadcasts on political and racial topics. At the Vatican it was admitted the development brought no displeasure.
- At Cairo, the Egyptian government announced its Queen Farida is expecting the birth of a second child late in March.
- Ex-President Herbert Hoover, addressing Chicago Jewry, pictured the highlands of central Africa as a refuge for 10,000,000 victims of war and persecution.

The Wars

Northern Front. United Press' Webb Miller left the Finnish front for the first time in more than two months, sending an uncensored dispatch from Stockholm. High points: (1) Russia's Karelian isthmus drive was at last bogging down; (2) fast foreign planes were arriving in large numbers to aid the Finns; (3) plans are already underway to "blackout" the nation with bog fires next summer; (4) the Russian army is not so slovenly as most of the world believes.

Western Front. French frontier posts bombarded the Germans—with loudspeakers blasting propaganda.

CONGRESS:
New Taxes?

Forwarded to the President was the first evidence of congress' rebellion, an emergency national defense bill from which had been lopped about $20,000,000. Of six appropriations measures handled thus far, a total of $260,000,000 had been cut, the latest being a $100,000,000 item from the billion-dollar naval-expansion program.

But it was the same old story of house slashes and senate restorations. The independent offices bill was passed by the senate after restoring $39,500,000 of the approximate $95,000,000 deducted by the house. Meanwhile agitation grew for senate additions to the farm bill, from which the house had cut $66,000,000. Not only did the farm bloc want this money restored; it also wanted $200,000,000 for parity payments, an item from which the President has kept hands off. If these tactics continue, leaders see little hope of avoiding the $460,000,000 tax levy which will be necessary if the national debt limit is not to be raised.

Also in congress:

- The reciprocal trade treaty act was approved for continuation by the house ways and means committee. If passed, it would let the administration retain the right to make trade pacts without congressional consent.
- The senate foreign relations committee, still working on a bill to aid Finland by boosting the Export-Import bank's working capital, planned to pigeon-hole proposals for an economic embargo against Japan. Since China would also get a loan if the Export-Import bill were adopted, Japan would be slapped anyway. Sentiment also grew for the proposal to let Finland purchase military supplies with the money she has paid on her war debt. Meanwhile, Nebraska's Sen. George W. Norris asked the nation to impose "moral" embargoes on Japan and Russia.

AGRICULTURE:
Tobacco Ban?

Sorely hurt were American tobacco farmers when Great Britain slapped a ban on imports of U. S. leaf. Reasons: (1) Britain needed her ships' cargo space for war supplies; (2) Britain was wooing Turkey, which also had tobacco for sale.

After several weeks of negotiations, Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins announced he thought the ban would soon be lifted. Britain's action was no violation of the reciprocal trade treaty, it was decided, therefore no protest was possible on these grounds. But Mr. Hopkins figured the British government had to do something to halt the declining revenues from import duties, and to replenish declining stocks in British warehouses.

Whether this announcement was based on wishful thinking or actual negotiations, no one but Mr. Hopkins could tell. But observers wondered how Britain could be expected to turn against Turkey at this stage of the diplomatic game.

YOUTH:
Pinkish Congress

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, its best friend, was in the audience when the American Youth Congress opened its convention in Washington. As the congress made news, so did Eleanor Roosevelt. First shock came when the convention ejected the First Lady's first cousin, young Archibald Roosevelt Jr., when he attempted to introduce a resolution condemning Russia's invasion of Finland.

This gave credence to the common belief that the congress is pinkish, but Mrs. Roosevelt will not believe it. Said she of her first cousin: "I think it is peculiar to get up in a meeting with an arranged program and say, 'I want to speak.'"

Next day the Roosevelts began a two-day campaign to straighten out their young friends. The President denounced Russia (see INTERNATIONAL). His wife said she knew all the arguments in favor of the Soviet invasion, having heard them from "her Communist friends." But she still thought America's sympathies should be with Finland.

MRS. ROOSEVELT
Her cousin was peculiar.

Still true to its pinkish past, the congress adjourned amid cheers, yells and stomping for continued American neutrality.

COURTS:
Omnipotent NLRB

Earlier this winter the U. S. Supreme court opined that the Wagner labor act's chief trouble was not in its administration by NLRB, but rather in the excessively broad scope of power delegated by congress to NLRB. This month, without saying as much, the high court intimated again that something ought to be done.

Reviewed was a circuit court of appeals decision which reversed an NLRB ruling. Case involved the Waterman Steamship company, and was the outgrowth of A. F. of L.-C. I. O. friction. It was the old story of company favoritism toward A. F. of L. and NLRB favoritism toward C. I. O., but that was beside the point.

The Supreme court ruled that federal courts have no right to substitute their own judgment for that of NLRB, a decision which left NLRB so powerful that congress will probably be jarred into clipping NLRB's wings.

POLITICS:
G. O. P. Up Front

Having named Chicago as their convention site, Democrats took a back seat to the Republicans in mid-February, the G. O. P. launching its attack with a coast-to-coast series of Lincoln day speeches. Meanwhile Washington hummed with activity as the Republican national committee met to choose its convention site, chances being 100 to 1 that Chicago would get the bid. Possible convention dates: G. O. P., June 18; Democrats, July 2, providing a rousing July Fourth celebration which might end in Franklin Roosevelt's renomination.

ASIA:
New Crisis

What may be the prelude to a new Oriental crisis took place in Tokyo during mid-February. Japan government announced abrogation of its arbitration treaty with The Netherlands, leading observers to believe she may be contemplating expansion into Dutch-dominated South Pacific. Moreover, there was continued talk of abrogating the worthless nine-power pact guaranteeing China's territorial integrity.

Tonsillectomy Is Matter for Careful Study

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

I HAVE spoken before of living near a clinic where every Saturday morning a number of youngsters would have their tonsils removed, apparently just as a safeguard against developing rheumatism and heart disease. In some cases there was a history of sore throat from time to time and also frequent colds. Later it was found that the tonsils have some power to resist the diseases of childhood and that they should not be removed until after the age of 15.

Today the removal or non-removal of the tonsils is a question that confronts the child, his parents, and the family physician. If the tonsils have the filtering ability that they are known to have it would appear to be unwise to disturb them unless special circumstances demand it.

Dr. Barton

Dr. George B. Wood, Philadelphia, in Medical Clinics of North America, says: "I am strongly of the opinion that operating on normal tonsils just to prevent an attack of some ailment (tonsilitis, rheumatism, heart disease) should be condemned. The surgical risk of removing the tonsils, while not sufficient to prevent their removal when operation is really needed, should be considered."

Not Cause of Colds.

It was formerly believed that the removal of the tonsils would prevent colds, bronchitis and pneumonia, but "recent statistics show that, following a lapse of years, acute colds, sore throats and bronchitis are more frequent in individuals who have had their tonsils removed than in those who have not."

Under what circumstances should the tonsils be removed?

When there are frequent attacks of sore throat and particularly in those cases where the little glands in the neck swell and remain swollen, the tonsils should be removed.

Dr. Wood states that tonsils should not be removed because of the white, pea-size plugs seen in the throat, but when there is pus in these openings they should be removed.

Today the family physician is better able to give an opinion on whether or not tonsils should be removed than he was a few years ago. He is in a position to decide also as to the best condition of the patient and the best time for operation should operation be necessary.

Barium Sulphate Cleans Out Stomach

A PATIENT consults his physician complaining of indigestion pain immediately after eating, and sometimes three hours after eating. Baking soda and other alkalis do not relieve the pain, sometimes the stomach bloats and sometimes the abdomen. In order to help find the cause of the trouble the physician has him undergo an X-ray examination after taking some barium sulphate. The X-ray specialist sends a report in about a week's time stating that the stomach and intestines are normal—no disease present, no delay in the passing of the barium sulphate through stomach and intestines.

What has happened? The barium sulphate—a clay-like substance—in passing through stomach and intestines has swept their lining clear of any irritating or obstructive material and thus relieved the patient of his symptoms.

How It Works.

Some idea of how barium sulphate can sweep out the stomach and bowel can be gathered from an incident reported by Dr. Henry G. Hadley, Washington, D. C., in Medical World.

"Charles B., aged three, was first seen on September 3, 1937, after having swallowed his mother's wrist watch. Fluoroscopic (X-ray) examination showed the watch in the stomach. He returned September 7 (four days later) with the position of the watch remaining the same. To locate the position more exactly, a heavy suspension of barium sulphate was given in buttermilk. The watch was noted to be in the lowest part of the stomach. After the watch was surrounded entirely by the mass of barium it apparently passed through the opening of the stomach to the small intestine more easily, and the watch was passed out of the body in 18 hours after the barium was given."

The point is that an object which will not pass out of the stomach readily may be "picked up" by this heavy clay and readily moved downward and out of the body.

Smart Sports Frock With Useful Pockets

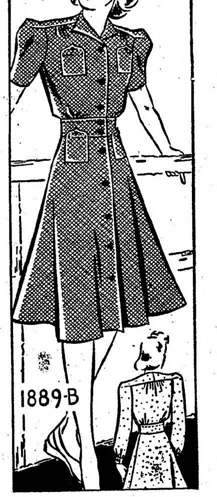
POCKET frocks are very smart, especially sports and resort types like this (1889-B), which gives pointed importance to the pockets that Paris is newly sponsoring as both decorative and useful. This charming design is really everything you want in a new dress for sports and daytime. It's young and casual. It buttons down the front so that it's easy to put on. The wide, inset belt and the shoulder portions, cut in one with the sleeves, make it flattering to the figure.



It has a slight blouse at the waistline, which makes it feel comfortable and look engagingly nonchalant. You'll enjoy adding this to your midwinter wardrobe right now—in bright wool or flat crepe if you're staying on the job, in pastel silk or cotton if you're flitting South.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1889-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires, with short sleeves, 3½ yards of 39-inch material; with long sleeves, 4 yards.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coins, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill.

Evidently Young Man Had But a Peep for the Ring

The young man had just proposed to the most beautiful girl in the world. She had accepted him, and now he stepped into a jeweler's to buy an engagement ring. He examined various rings, and finally picked up a beautiful diamond.

"What's the price of this?" he inquired.

"That," replied the assistant, "is $250."

The young man's eyes popped. He whistled loudly and long—then pointed to a second ring.

"And this one?" he asked.

"This one, sir," said the assistant, eyeing the price-tag, "is two whistles!"

FIGHT COLDS

by helping nature build up your cold-fighting resistance

IF you suffer one cold right after another, here's sensational news! Mrs. Elizabeth Vickery writes: "I used to catch colds very easily. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery helped to strengthen me just splendidly. I ate better, had more stamina, and was troubled very little with colds."

This great medicine, formulated by a practicing physician, helps combat colds this way: (1) It stimulates the appetite. (2) It promotes flow of gastric juices. Thus you eat more; your digestion improves; your body gets greater nourishment which helps nature build up your cold-fighting resistance.

So successful has Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery been that over 30,000,000 bottles have already been used. Proof of its remarkable benefits. Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from your druggist today, or write Dr. Pierce, Dept. N-100, Buffalo, N. Y., for generous free sample. Don't suffer unnecessarily from colds.

Largest Open-Air Theater

The Roman theater at Vienne, France, is said to be the largest open-air theater in the world. Built some 2,000 years ago, it was unknown to the present generation until a railroad wreck dislodged some earth and revealed the upper tier of seats. Archeologists excavated and the ancient theater was uncovered.

It has now been restored and has a seating capacity of 9,000 spectators.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

AGRICULTURAL STATIONS AID SOIL IMPROVEMENT

CHICAGO.—Benefits obtained from growing soil building crops such as alfalfa, clover and most legumes can be greatly increased by the intelligent use of the correct fertilizer, it is pointed out by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The average practical farmer realizes that obtaining more humus is not just a matter of sowing seed," the report says. "Clover, alfalfa and most legumes which are able to get valuable nitrogen from the air are sensitive to their soil environment. The problem of getting a stand and a crop worth turning under is simplified if the farmer applies mixed fertilizer of the right analysis.

"Agricultural experiment stations under the direction of capable agronomists are continually carrying on experiments with the soils of their states and have very comprehensive general reports ready for county agents, active field workers and farmers. They are glad to send them out or to answer any questions sent to them."

THE CHERRY CLIMAX COMES IN FEBRUARY

CHERRIES are eaten all year round in this country, including February, but the peak of their consumption probably comes in this famous month not only because it is the month of George Washington's birthday and we are reminded of the story of his truthfulness about the cherry tree, but because "red" is a pretty color to put in party foods for St. Valentine's Day and Lincoln's birthday. A National Cherry Week is held annually, from February fifteenth to February twenty-second, this year, at a time when housewives are interested, too, in putting some fruit into the diet to offset the effects of the necessarily heavier winter foods.

A Thrift Opportunity

With the current sales of canned cherries it is a good time for the thrifty housewife to stock up on a variety of them. There are two principal types of canned cherries—sweet and sour. There are both black and white sweet cherries. Sour cherries are red. The most abundant black sweet cherries are the Bing and Windsor, and the most famous white ones are the Royal Annes. Sour cherries are usually either Richmond or Montmorency. Sweet cherries are canned unpitted. Sour cherries are always canned with the pits removed.

This is a good season, too, to check up on your cherry recipes, and make sure they include some of the best ways of serving these fruits. The sweet cherries are delicious and decorative for use in salads, and the sour are grand for making cherry puddings and also for serving with meats when their tart flavor is needed.

Here are two new cherry recipes which you will be glad to add to your repertoire:

Baked Cherry Pudding: Cream together four tablespoons butter and one cup sugar, add three-fourths cup of milk alternately with the following sifted dry ingredients: one and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Meanwhile boil together for five minutes the contents of one No. 2 can of pitted red cherries, one-half cup sugar and two teaspoons grated orange rind. Pour this on top of the batter, and bake for about thirty minutes in a medium oven—350 degrees. The dough will rise to the top, the cherries and syrup sink to the bottom forming a sort of sauce. Turn out upside down and serve warm with plenty of cream. This serves eight persons.

Cherry Queen of Puddings: Pour two cups of hot milk over one cup of dry bread crumbs which are fairly fine. Add one-half cup of sugar and two tablespoons butter. Let soak for five minutes. Then add the lightly-beaten yolks of three eggs, and pour into a buttered pudding dish. Bake in a slow oven—275 to 300 degrees—for from forty to fifty minutes, or until a knife, inserted, comes out clean. Meanwhile cook the contents of one No. 2 can of pitted red cherries with three-fourths cup of sugar until the syrup is thick, then cool slightly. When the pudding is done, spread this cherry mixture on top, cover with a meringue made of three egg whites and six tablespoons of sugar. Return to the oven for about fifteen minutes or until the meringue is firm and a delicate brown. Serve cold. This serves eight persons.*

Hagen Named District Head

Geo. Hagen of Crookston, was elected 9th district chairman of the Farmer-Labor party at its convention held at Thief River Falls on Saturday.

Hagen succeeds Elmer G. Johnson of Underwood.

Louis Benson of Moorhead was chosen vice-chairman.

Halvor Langslet of Detroit Lakes was named district secretary-treasurer.

All counties except Wilkin were represented at the meeting which was presided over by H. O. Berve, Thief River Falls as convention chairman.

Sevety-five delegates were present with the total attendance at 250 party members and a large crowd of visitors.

The convention went on record as favoring the open primary for nominating of all candates on the state and congressional tickets, opposing indorsements.

The following visited at the Joe Nelson home Saturday afternoon in honor of Vernon who was celebrating his 5th birthday, Anna Norby of Thief River Falls, who had also baked a birthday cake for the occasion, LaRue and and Boy Fricker, Mrs. J. Hagberg and Mrs. M. Hetland. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Norby and George of Thief River Falls also came with a birthday cake. Vernon received many nice gifts.

.....that's our program, too!

- In many respectable lines of business there are men who think it profitable to break laws and regulations. Happily, they form only a very small percentage of the vast majority of respectable, law-abiding business men.
- But, the Brewers of Minnesota do not want any law breakers in their business! They, too, want them "closed-up" because brewers desire to make retailing of beer so clean and law-abiding that it cannot possibly give offense to any one... and to safeguard your right to enjoy good, wholesome beer... the true beverage of Moderation!
- Brewers, however, have no authority to enforce laws. They can... and do, willingly... cooperate with your local authorities to "clean-up" retail outlets.
- The Brewers of Minnesota are respectable business men conducting a respectable, lawful business. They have homes and families... and a stake in the welfare of the State. The 25,000 Minnesota men and women whose living comes directly from beer are, with few exceptions, honest, law-abiding citizens ... with over 80,000 dependents to care for. They, too, have a stake in their State, their homes, their jobs!
- The most effective and enduring law enforcement is that which is local in its origin and execution. It will be most successful when it represents cooperation between the local authorities, the brewers, the wholesalers, the retailers and the public. The brewers endorse all genuine clean-up activities and pledge their sincere cooperation.

Boy Scout Court of Honor was held at the Men's Club meeting in the Nazareth Lutheran Church Tuesday evening of last week. The program was under the supervision of Glen Prather of Grand Forks, area executive. Morris Bye of Thief River Falls, chairman of the district organization, was in charge of the exercises.

Herbert Schenkey of Middle River, Marvin Larson and Leonard Ness were inducted into Scouting in an investure service directed by Mr. Prather.

Myron Kyser and Gerald Sanders of Middle River and Dale Lorentson were raised to second class scouts, Glenn Olson and Duane Green of Middle River to first class rank.

Wayne Larson was raised to Star scout and together with Roy Johnson and Jerome Sorum given Life rating. These boys are advancing right along in Scouting and with more hard work will no doubt attain the coveted Eagle Scout rank.

Russel Sanoden, Reuben Ness, Milton Hanson and Howard Lorentson received high Bronze Palms.

Improving Trout Fishing

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 23.--Realization of plans just initiated by civic leaders here will make this northern resort area America's leading trout fishing grounds.

While several of the more than 400 streams of the wilderness are stretching from Duluth to the Canadian Border have long been noted brook trout streams, the program launched by the Chamber of Commerce here calls for the improvement of additional streams to provide brook trout fishing facilities for additional thousands of anglers from every section of the country who look to this are for summer recreation.

The program calls for an early survey by the State Conservation Department to determine, on a scientific bases, physical improvements required to further brook trout fishing and to determine the variety for which each stream is best suited. Actual stream improvement with stocking and propagation will follow immeniately. Included are studies of such phases: feeding and spawning pools, water pollution, soil erosion, water supply, shade, food supply, dams, reservoirs and fishways.

This spring the State Department of Fisheries will plant more than 10,000,000 brook trout fingerlings and fry in streams in this vicinity and along the north shore of Lake Superior.

The hundreds of lakes and streams lacing the primitive wilderness area of northeastern Minnesota have long made this area a mecca for anglers of the nation and the improvements contemplated will bring brook trout fishidg to a par with other types of angling here.

Hold Phosphate Meetings

During the past week, meetings have been held at several points in this county at which preliminary steps were taken for the appointment of cooperators who will carry on the demonstration work on the phosphate test farms in Marshall County.

Phosphate test farms will be set up in twenty townships of this county. On these farms the value of the application of phosphate fertilizers on conserving and soil building crops will be studied. Accurate records of hay, pasture, grain and livestock yield will be kept.

Before a cooperator is selected it was necessary that township committes were selected. The committee, consisting of a chairman and two other members, will accept applications from any farmer in their townships. From applications submitted, the township committee will select three which the chairman will submit to the county committee, of which he is a member. The executive committee of the county committee make the final selection of one farmer and an alternate as the township cooperator. Township committees here are:

Letter From Mr. Sustad

Editor Holt Weekly News,
Holt, Minn.
Dear Friend:

Our nice weather is still with us and it ahs been a fine winter. We could stand some more snow.

Well the cat is out of the bag, as our republican papers are out with headlins "Hoffman Warns of Crisis confronting road improvemenst" and that he told Minnesota Association of County Commissioners that under the period Elsberg was Highway Commissioner that the legislature added 4,400 miles to our trunk highway system, and that the same legislature that added the extra 4,400 miles of highway cut the auto license so during the six years from 1933 to 1938 the highway department received $25,000,000 State revenue. Mr. Hoffman also states that 1940 construction program of both State and County will be greatly curtailed Well if we are to get roads (State) built during 1940 then we got built in 1939 then all the more miles of roads at less cost as I claimed before election just political humbug.

The Stassen old age pension law passed at the last session is now up for airing as our Federal Government have started law suit against it in Fergus Falls, and three states states who had passed old age pension laws as Minnesota, have, when they learned that our Federal Government threatened to cut out or withold their part of the old age pension on laws patterned after Minnesota's, repealed theirs. Well I presume that by the time this get into print that law suit will be settled, but if Stassen or Minnesota loose, well you dear reader can draw your own conclusion.

Minnesota's Automobile Association started legal action against the five per cent administration tax against our highway funds for the benefit of our State Revenue fund on the grounds that it was unconstitutional as it violated both the law creating our highway department and, also the law creating our gas tax as both the laws stated that the income or revenue in both funds could be used only for building roads. But what's a little thing like that to Governor Stassen?

Greetings to my friends everywhere.
Very truly yours,
G. A. Sustad

Crops And Feed Loans

Emergency crop and feed loans for 1940 are now available to farmers in Marshall County, and applications for these loans are now being received at the County Agent's office by O. T. Johnson, Field Supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

These loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirments are small and who cannot abtain a loan from any other source, including production credit associations, banks, or other private concerns or individuals.

As in former years, the money loaned will be limited to the applicant's necessary cash needs in preparing and cultivating his 1940 crops or in purchasing or producing feed for his livestock.

Borrowers who obtain loans for the production of cash crops are required to give as security a first lien on the crop financed or, in case of loans for the purchase or production of feed for livestock, a first lein on livestock to be fed.

Mrs. Otto Johnson was taken seriously ill Monday night. Dr. Berge of Roseau was called to attend her. She is at this writing a little better.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Johnson of St. Hilaire visited relatives here Tuesday.

Farmers Treat Businessmen

Farmers and business men of Marshall county have met on common grounds numerous times in the east, but the most auspicious occasion of their meeting, in the history of the county, was when they sat down to the banquet table at the First Lutheran Church at Middle River, Minn., on Wednesday evening of last week with the farmers as the host to the businesamen. The banquet was served by the Ladies Aid of the church.

The banquet, conceived by the farmers as means of creating closer contact and more friendly relations, was under the arrangement of the Marshall county AAA Comittee, composed of Chas N. Kranz of Strandquist, chairman; Alphonse E. Johnson, Stephen and Anton Anderson of Argyle, and it can be said that its purpose was fully achieved by the great success of the event.

Each local committeman of the county set up of the AAA had invited one businessman to the banquet and not only paid for his dinner but also saw to it that he was transported there free of charge. Ten businessmen from Holt attended the banquet.

Mr. Kranz was chairman of the program which consisted of musical numbers and talks by prominent men who deal with the AAA in this state.

Things to make

HERE is a new department that we know is going to meet with tremendous popularity with our readers, for it brings you the opportunity of combining pleasure and profit. With jig, coping or keyhole saw, you may cut these designs from wallboard, plywood or thin lumber. Each pattern brings accurate outline of the design, and complete directions for making or painting.

Men, women, boys and girls are finding this a fascinating pastime, and with each order will be sent a circular showing many additional novelties which you may make at home.

Today, we are showing a yard design that will appeal to many, for the long-ago days of "Gone With the Wind" are recalled vividly in these charming cutout figures. Your own imagination might turn them into the vibrant Scarlett O'Hara and the reserved Melanie Wilkes in person. And your jig or coping saw plus a bit of wallboard or plywood will produce these figures for your yard.

Each comes on its own pattern. The beruffled hoop skirt lady at the left is about 24 inches tall and is given on Z9067, 15 cents—she holds a box for flowers. The belle at the right is on pattern Z9068, 15 cents—about 24 inches tall, and a sprinkling can is in her hand.

Order numbers Z9067 and Z9068, 15 cents each, from: Aunt Martha, Box 166-W, Kansas City, Mo.

It Takes Desperate Action To Correct Some Conditions

Into the infants school rushed an excited woman, brandishing a heavy hammer.

"Where is Miss Davids?" she cried.

The teacher named fled, frightened. The principal said to the noisy visitor: "Madam, come to my room, where we can talk."

"Never! I've brought my hammer and I'm going to use it! You're going to see something! My young rascal has ripped his breeches—"

"But Miss Davids has nothing to do with it!"

"That's quite likely, but I'm not going away until I've driven in the nail my boy tore himself on."

Scandinavian Peace Endangered By Pressure From Belligerents; Finn Defenses Breaking Down

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EUROPE:

While Franklin Roosevelt was fishing south of the Panama canal, his two special peace emissaries were on the high seas en route to settle Europe's quarrels. Steelman Myron C. Taylor would work from the Vatican. Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles would travel to Italy, Germany, France and Britain seeking a basis for a post-war settlement. They had to work fast, because the European dogfight was fast getting out of hand:

In Scandinavia

Not only Finland, but Norway and Sweden as well were being drawn into other peoples' wars. Undoubtedly sympathizing with the Finns, Stockholm and Oslo governments had to stay on their good behavior or risk reprisals from Germany. That was why Per Albin Hansson,

PER ALBIN HANSSON
Sweden sympathized, but . . .

Swedish premier, had to refuse Finland's plea for direct military aid. The Finns, meanwhile, were sagging badly, surrendering key posts on the Mannerheim line before Russia's relentless attack.

(But Mannerheim losses were partially equalized by gains elsewhere. Northeast of Lake Ladoga, the high command announced, 18,000 Red soldiers have been killed or captured, wiping out the entire eighteenth division.)

Oslo had an even hotter potato in its hands. Attacking Germany's prison ship Altmark within Norwegian territorial waters, a British destroyer had rescued the prisoners and scooted for home while Nazi crewmen fled to the interior. Angry notes were exchanged, Norway finally calling its parliament to decide on a course of action. Why, asked London, had Altmark been allowed within Norwegian territorial waters? Why, asked Berlin, had Norway failed to protect Altmark from the British?

Talking back boldly for a small power, brave Norway bluntly told the British that the Altmark case would probably be protested to the League of Nations "or some other tribunal." Nor was there much doubt that Norway was within her rights.

In the West

There was no action between the Maginot and Siegfried lines, but the Altmark incident stirred up reprisals at sea. Britain seized two Nazi merchant ships carrying manganese from Spain. Down to Davey Jones' locker went Britain's destroyer Daring with a loss of 157 lives. This was the sixth destroyer Britain has lost thus far, and brought her total fleet losses to 25 vessels.

In the Near East

Little more was heard of the 100,000 British colonial troops landed recently at Suez and dispersed throughout the troubled Near East. But Russian frontiers of Turkey, India, Afghanistan and Persia were still guarded closely against a possible Red thrust. Biggest surprise came from Turkey, where the government suddenly applied the national defense law and assumed virtual dictatorial powers. Meanwhile the Ankara press warned civilians that, as non-belligerent allies of Britain and France, Turks must be ready for a "supreme effort this spring."

CONGRESS:

Trade Pacts

Foreign policy held congressional attention as the house ways and means committee reported favorably a resolution to extend for three years the administration's reciprocal trade program. The program itself was no issue, for Glenn Frank's G. O. P. planning committee okayed the low tariff idea in principle one day before the house took up the resolution (See POLITICS). Instead, G. O. P. lined against Democrat on an amendment which would force senate ratification of each trade pact. At present the administration can make pacts without congressional approval.

Meanwhile congressional economy advocates cheered house passage of the $965,779,000 naval appropriations bill, which was $111,700,000 below President Roosevelt's budget estimate. In all, this meant house and senate had cut about $270,000,000 from budget estimates, leading Kentucky's Sen. Alben Barkley to remark that he thought new taxes could be avoided. (President Roosevelt had asked a $460,000,000 for "emergency" defense costs.)

Biggest problem before the senate was the agriculture appropriation bill, from which the house had slashed $66,000,000. The farm bloc wanted this cut restored, also wanted $225,000,000 for parity payments. If this program goes through, the economies thus far would be nullified.

POLITICS:

G. O. P. in the Saddle

By late February enthusiastic Republicans had taken the political ball completely away from the Democrats, who rested insecurely on their laurels. At Washington, the G. O. P. national committee heard Chairman John D. M. Hamilton announce he would welcome a chance to whip Franklin Roosevelt in the 1940 campaign. Then the committee decided to hold its convention in Philadelphia on June 24. Next day, at Miami, Democratic Chairman Jim Farley hurriedly set July 15 as date for his Democratic convention.

Republicanism had more enthusiasm than originality. Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, (which hates the New Deal to death), dragged out the moth-eaten red herring in a speech at Jackson, Mich., birthplace of the

GLENN FRANK
Not entirely critical.

Republican party. Colonel McCormick saw Communism in everything he looked at, censorship in the U. S. mails and an open conspiracy between the White House and the Kremlin.

More sanity characterized the G. O. P. program committee's 116-page report, prepared by a 200-man strategy body under Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin. Criticized were (1) pump priming; (2) emergency monetary powers; (3) legislative control over wages and hours; (4) the U. S. housing program; (5) government competition with business, and (6) the New Deal power program.

The committe's proposals embodied quite a few Democratic tenets, indicating how far the G. O. P. has swung away from rock-bound conservatism. Proposals: (1) return of gold standard; (2) 20 per cent cut in federal expenses, and a balanced budget by 1942; (3) amendments to the Wagner act; (4) a reciprocal trade program to safeguard agriculture; (5) improvements and expansion of social security; (6) "protective," not "restrictive" U. S. regulation of business; (7) a farm program which would embody party payments.

Leap Year Day Suggestions Will Cure a Broken Heart—Maybe!

CONFUCIUS say:

"Little man who wasn't there—lucky this year."

The wise old Chinese philosopher had Leap Year in mind—open season on eligible bachelors everywhere.

Softened by four years of comparative safety, the single man is easy game for feminine wiles on Leap Year day—February 29—climax of the year-long man-hunt. Of course the season will continue for 10 months more, but the best huntresses will have discharged their quiver of arrows on that day.

Rules for hunting? Confucius had little to say on that score. He leaves it to the individual. Some prefer the direct attack; others would sooner stalk their game in roundabout fashion. For example:

Mary Martin, who made famous the song, "My Heart Belongs to Daddy," prefers the musical approach. "I'd probably sing something like 'I Love You Truly,' or 'Wonderful One,' or 'Home on the Range'—the kitchen variety."

Fanny Brice, the famed Baby Snooks, has her own course of action. Here's how she would go about winning a decision: "Look, darling, this is Leap Year. For months I've been thinking about you. Let's get married so I can forget you."

Rosalind Russell, firm believer in the power of suggestion, admits that "Maybe I'm wrong, but if I had to propose, I'd probably say: 'I've got an appointment to take out a marriage license. Why don't you come along and fill out one with me?'"

Barbara Jo Allen, radio's "Vera Vague," does not profess to be too particular. Her attack: "You're a man, aren't you? Well, you're good enough for me."

Lana Turner admits that "I'd make it easy by saying 'If you happen to have an engagement ring in your pocket, you might see if it would fit my finger.'"

Dorothy Lamour, who made a garment famous all over the world, believes, "I'd probably have to do my proposing in a sarong. If I didn't, maybe the man wouldn't recognize me."

Colleen Ward, who plays "Kathleen" on the "Ellen Randolph" radio program, doesn't forget her profession when asking the ever-important question: "Darling, for the first time in my life I have found something that's more important to me than being an actress. Instead of building a career I'd like to build a home and share it with you. I am not acting now. Won't you be my leading man for life?"

Madeleine Carroll, who will never have to, readily confesses that "I'd hem and haw around a lot, and say something like: 'Well, here I am—isn't there something you'd like to ask me?'"

Greta Garbo, though not interviewed, would need but one approach. The words "I don't vant to be alone" would see Hollywood crowded with the nation's bachelors. And while there's Leap Year, there's hope.

Here's how other stars of screen and radio confess they would assume the prerogative and "pop the question" during Leap Year:

ELINOR POWELL: "I'd say: 'We certainly dance well together, don't we? Do you think we'd look well dancing down a church aisle together?'"

JUDY GARLAND: "I suppose I'd say: 'I've always wished I could marry Clark Gable and I think you're just like him.'"

ILONA MASSEY: "It might be best just to say: 'Do you think we ought to go to Niagara Falls when we get married?'"

PATRICIA MORISON, who holds out for the straight approach, would vary it from "May I suggest that we enter the bonds of holy matrimony?" to "Come on, guy, let's get hitched," depending upon the circumstances and the man.

OLYMPE BRADNA, who favors a quick flirtatious buildup, would follow that up with a purring "oooooh, let's get married."

JUDITH BARRETT, who has been the spurned "other woman" in seven consecutive pictures, admitted that "I'd rope and hog-tie the nearest male and drag him to the justice of the peace."

CONNIE BOSWELL, in admitting that she has misgivings: "I'm a professional at singing, but an amateur at proposing, so howzabout comin' round next year?"

Leap Year? Merely A Headache for Calendar Makers

Truth Shatters Sentiment in Probing Origin of Long Year.

Leap year is an astronomical necessity. The year, or the time necessary for the earth to perform one complete revolution about the sun, is exactly 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 45½ seconds.

Those few hours, minutes and seconds cause altogether too much trouble. If we agree that our year should contain 365 days, then each succeeding year starts nearly six hours too early; in four years the year would start a day too early. In 700 years January 1 would occur in mid-summer.

The earliest calendars were based on a week of seven days. Seven was a number of magical power and a week of seven days seemed to have certain indisputable advantages. The months were principally lunar months, measured by the phases of the moon. A lunar month is 29½ days. The ancients early learned that the seasons returned in approximately 12 months, so a year of 12 months or 354 days was instituted.

With a year of 354 days the seasons shifted pretty rapidly. It became necessary to insert into the calendar or intercalate extra months. The Hebrews intercalate a month three times every cycle of 19 years, while the Greeks intercalated a month three times every eight years.

Caesar called in the Alexandrian astronomer, Sosigenes, to make a new calendar. He invented the year of 365 days and he made every fourth year a leap year of 366 days. This year, defined by Sosigenes, is known as the Julian year and it assumes that the year consists of 365 days and six hours. We explained at the beginning of this discussion that the year is 11 minutes and a few seconds less than this. This does not seem like a great error, but it amounts to about three days in 400 years. By the Sixteenth century the error amounted to about 10 days.

In 1577 Pope Gregory XIII took up the problem earnestly and decided to make a change in the calendar. He decided to annul 10 days. October 5, 1582, was to be called October 15, 1582, and thereafter the century years were to be considered as leap years only if divisible by 400.

White Embroidery On a Dark Color

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

CROSS-STITCH is combined here with plain running stitches to make a smart luncheon cloth that may be embroidered quickly in coarse white embroidery thread. The material may be broadcloth or other smooth-finish cotton. The color is a deep maroon and the white design is very effective on this background. Deep blue or green are other fabric colors that are being used with white embroidery.

This cloth is made of two 1½-yard lengths of 36-inch-wide material. Split one piece lengthwise through the center and join to the sides of the other piece by machine. The seams are covered by the rows of running stitches. You do not need a stamping pattern to make the cross-stitch design. Baste coarse open-mesh embroidery canvas over the material; then follow the design given here at the lower left. Repeat the corner of the design to make the four corners of the center square.

NOTE: There are 36 embroidery stitches illustrated in Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book 2; also several original designs for table covers; men's ties; mittens; hats; purses; Baby's bassinet; doll's wardrobe; five ways to mend fabrics. Ask for Book 2, enclosing 10 cents coin. Address Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

Enemies Stalemated After 6 Months Because Defense Outshines Offense

By H. V. KALTENBORN

AT THE end of the first six months of war we find that the major belligerents have not yet begun to fight, while the major neutral powers have begun to fight for peace. Small wonder that the late Senator Borah called this a "phoney" war.

Only in Finland is there a major military effort and mighty Soviet Russia does not even admit that she has gone to war against little Finland. When the war began no one expected Soviet Russia to participate in military operations and no one expected Finland to be invaded. On the other hand, everyone expected an immediate air-raid by hundreds of bombing-planes on the capitals of Europe, and for weeks the headlines spoke of the coming big offensives on the Maginot and Siegfried lines. Neither the raids nor the offensives developed during the first half-year of fighting. Why?

Defense Is Major Factor.

The primary reason is that in modern war, defense is stronger than offense. The war in Spain showed the world that air attack on large cities is tremendously destructive, but it also showed that it is not likely to be decisive. The expense in planes, fuel, bombs and aviators who do not return is apt to offset the military advantages gained in any mass bombing flight. And the effect on neutral opinion of the killing of thousands of women and children, together with the destruction of historic monuments in cities far away from any actual fighting zone, might well be disastrous.

The fear of such wholesale air-raids led France and Britain to surrender at Munich. Now, after a year and a half of additional intensive preparation for air-defense, they no longer fear German attack. They are prepared to meet it and could make it so costly that it would probably not be repeated. The successful defense of the Mannerheim line against the most highly concentrated Soviet military effort showed the strength of defense fortifications in modern war.

Why Poland Was Weak.

The two great surprises of this war so far have been Poland's weakness and Finland's strength. Poland's weakness arose from a lack of national unity and domination of the illiterate masses by an aristocratic caste. In the larger sense, the government of Poland was neither popular nor efficient. The Finnish people are literate, sturdy and possess a strong sense of social and political independence.

Just as the failure of Poland's defense plan undermined morale, the success of Finland's well-organized plan of defense has given tremendous encouragement to the army, the people and the government. But the success of the German blitzkrieg against Poland and the failure of Russia's blitzkrieg against Finland depended primarily on the difference between the attacking armies. The German army was well organized, well equipped, well directed. The Russian army is poorly organized, poorly equipped and suffers from bad generalship.

Western Lines Invulnerable.

Already Finland's Mannerheim line has withstood an overwhelming Russian assault for more than three months. It is apparent, therefore, that the much more completely organized and much deeper Maginot and Siegfried lines would be similarly invulnerable to attack. And whereas Russia has a superiority of something like 20 to 1 against Finland, the forces lined up on both sides of the French frontier are practically equal in fighting strength.

In considering the progress of this war, we are too much inclined to dwell on military factors. Yet during this first half-year the military front has been less important than the diplomatic front and the economic front. There has even been a more continuous exchange of ammunition on the propaganda front than between the fighting armies themselves.

Radio and loudspeaker systems have made it possible for belligerents to talk to one another incessantly, directly on the fighting lines or indirectly through the air-waves. Nazi leaders are apprehensive about casualties in the propaganda battle. They impose severe punishment on anyone who listens to a foreign broadcast. The British and French, on the other hand, have enough confidence in their people to permit them to listen to whatever Dr. Goebbels orders said.

More Activity on Sea.

At sea, a war of movement has been possible. This is why there has been much more activity at sea than on land. Britain's control of the sea has again demonstrated its importance. The German fleet is bottled up. Except for submarines, the German navy and the German Merchant Marine have been swept from the seas.

The Near Eastern Franco-British army of half a million men under the leadership of General Weygandt is now waiting in Syria, ready for instant action against Russia or Germany in any part of the Balkans. This army may yet prove the decisive military factor in this war. Allied victories in Palestine and Turkey presaged the collapse of the Central Powers in 1918.

Germany's commerce-raiders were swept from the seas much more quickly than during the World war. The Graf Spee lies wrecked in Montevideo harbor after being put out of action by the combined efforts of three small British cruisers. The Deutschland, her sister pocket-battleship, thought it best to return to a safe German harbor.

Nazis Stress U-Boat Warfare.

But raiding with surface ships is a minor factor in Germany's sea warfare against Britain and France. The Germans remembered how close they came to forcing a decision with their submarines during the World war. They had from 60 to 75 submarines ready when the war began. For the first few weeks of the war, they used these to excellent advantage.

Then the protective measures which Britain developed during the World war and since became effective. The larger ships were sent out in convoy; airplane patrols were created; minefields against submarines were established and all the resources of the British navy were mobilized against the U-boats.

On the whole, they have proved effective. In six months, the British have lost 550,000 tons of merchant ships. At the same time, the French lost 75,000 tons and the neutrals 350,000 tons. This makes a total of a little over 1,000,000 tons.

Losses Not Important.

But nothing in these losses produced by mines and submarines even suggests the possibility of a decisive result. The British merchant marine alone totals 21,000,000 tons. The British claim that deducting from their losses purchases and new construction, their net loss in six months of warfare has been less than 200,000 tons. It is also probable that the losses will decrease rather than increase, since at sea as well as on land defense is proving itself stronger than attack.

Already submarine torpedoes are far less successful in destroying shipping than mines. The new magnetic mine sown by the Germans proved very destructive for the first few weeks in which it was used. Then more effective mine-sweeping methods and the establishment of narrow ship-channels which were carefully patrolled reduced the successes of Germany's mine-laying airplanes.

British Also Unsuccessful.

On the other hand, the British have been no more successful in their raids against the German navy. Both German and British submarines have destroyed an occasional warship, but these forays have been costly to the submarines attempting them. The British and French claim to have sunk between 40 and 50 German submarines since the beginning of the war. The Germans admit the loss of less than half this number. Yet whenever a submarine is lost, the entire crew is lost with it, and it takes five years to train men to handle a submarine under war conditions.

Talk about the Germans building one submarine a day is nothing more than talk. It is more likely that the Germans are completing anywhere from six to ten U-boats a month, which is just about the rate at which they are being destroyed.

Already Planning for Peace.

There is, then, nothing decisive in action at sea or in the air. Defense is stronger than attack. But what about the economic front? That is probably the most important front of all and the one that will be dominant long after the war has ended. Already Secretary of State Hull is negotiating with the neutral powers to work out a plan of economic reconstruction. The plan must be ready for instant application on the day of the armistice if Europe is not to sink in to chaos when the fighting ends.

Every country in Europe, neutral and belligerent alike, has mortgaged its future. Only if the New world remains out of the war and stands ready to lend its resources for European reconstruction is there any hope of true peace. Europe was ready for revolution before the war came and will be much more ready for it when the war is done.

What After Collapse?

France and Britain count on economic pressure to bring about the collapse of Germany, but one wonders whether they have asked themselves, what then? Will they march into Germany at the head of a victorious army, establish a new Kaiser and a new Junker government? Or will they stand aside while Germany's underground Communist movement re-asserts itself and calls out for assistance to the Red brethren in Moscow?

There is the third possibility of organizing those liberal forces that have either been driven out of Germany or driven under cover within Germany, and helping them to re-establish constitutional government by granting them a generous peace. That would be the hardest task.

Rumania Under Pressure.

Meanwhile, there is more pressure behind the economic than behind the military war. Members of the Rumanian government are being bribed, bulldozed, flattered and cajoled by both sides. Both are seeking to purchase Rumania's oil and Rumania's grain. Each wants it so that the other cannot have it. The French and British offer gold, the Germans threaten war. So far, King Carol has kept a precarious balance; Britain and France continue to guarantee his frontiers and King Carol remembers the Blitzkrieg against Poland. Poland had been given the same guarantees.

On the diplomatic front, the Allied powers won their greatest victory in winning Turkey to their cause. This gives them control of the Dardanelles and the Black Sea, in case of war with Russia. It also assures France and Britain complete dominance of the Mediterranean thereby discouraging Italy from siding with Germany.

Fashion Designed For Large Women

IT'S a button-front style (1902-B) which is one thing decidedly to recommend it, and this suave, simple dress has lots of other good points, too. It can be made with plain v-neckline and edged with bias fold. Or it can be made with a narrow roll collar as its only trimming. Sleeves are either short or three-quarter length. It's simple and unhampering enough for house wear, in gingham, linen or chambray; also tailored enough for the street, in thin wool, flat crepe or small-figured print.

It has just the detailing you like, if you have size to consider—a bodice deftly gathered for correct bust fit, beneath a smooth shoulder-yoke, a slim-hipped skirt, and a waistline drawn in by a sash bow or buckled belt. Everything about it is slenderizing as well as smart.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1902-B is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, and 52. Size 38 requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material without nap; with short sleeves; 4⅜ yards with three-quarter; 3¼ yards braid or bias fold, or ½ yard contrast for collar.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coin, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill.

GAS SO BAD CROWDS HEART
"My bowels were so sluggish and my stomach so bad I was just miserable. Sometimes gas bloated me until it seemed to crowd my heart. I tried Adlerika. Oh, what relief. The first dose worked like magic. Adlerika removed the gas and waste matter and my stomach felt so good."—Mrs. S. A. McAmis. If gas in your stomach and bowels from constipation bloats you up until you gasp for breath, take a tablespoonful of Adlerika and notice how the stomach GAS is relieved almost at once. Adlerika often moves the bowels in less than two hours. Adlerika is BOTH carminative and cathartic, containing five carminatives to warm and soothe the stomach and expel GAS, and three cathartics to clear the bowels and relieve intestinal nerve pressure.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!
If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.
If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.
If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

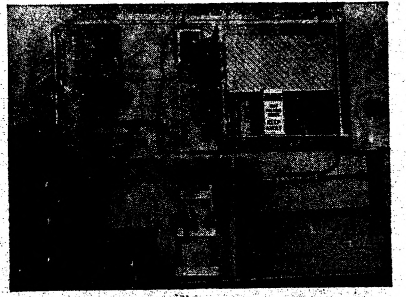
We would appreciate very much to have you breeze in with those $ $ $



Tunnels, bridges, signals and many other costly structures must be provided and maintained by a railroad as a part of its "roadway". The picture shows one of several train signals in the Great Northern's 8-mile tunnel which pierces the Cascade Range.

Anti-"Barrier" Campaign

Some states have seen fit to impose special sales taxes and rigid inspection on certain out-of-state products for the purpose of protecting their own producers against out-of-state competition.

Within the last few months these special sales taxes and inspection laws have been widely condemned as "barriers" to the free flow of commerce.

Conspicuously active in the campaign against trade barriers are the highway competitors of the railroads and other interests closely allied with them.

Their purpose is to turn this agitation to their own benefit, by wiping out (1) the payments, or taxes, which various states have imposed on out-of-state commercial vehicles for the use of their highways; (2) the methods which various states have found necessary to adopt in order to enforce such payments; and (3) various restrictions, such as size and weight limitations, which various legislatures have deemed in the best interests of their states.

If the charging of such payments, or taxes, is a "barrier" to the free flow of commerce, then certainly the taxes paid by the Great Northern and other railroads in every state where they run trains, are an even greater barrier, because the visiting truck gets a costly public highway to operate over in exchange for the nominal fee it pays, while the railroad has to provide and maintain its own expensive roadways over and above the taxes it pays.

It is far-fetched to compare these heavy transport vehicles with private automobiles which are privileged to be operated anywhere upon the payment of a license fee in only one state.

For the private automobile is not engaged in a public transportation business for the profit of its owner, using costly public facilities to compete with another kind of transportation which provides and maintains its own.

Further, there is a wide difference in the cost to the taxpayers of furnishing highway facilities for ordinary traffic—and for the heavy loads of commercial vehicles.

The free flow of commerce depends first of all upon absolute equality in the taxation and regulation of all forms of transportation, with each paying all of its own costs. Anything short of this interferes with the free flow of commerce and constitutes the real "barriers".

Carlson Bros. Take Over Store

Transfer of ownership of the Carlson Mercantile Co's. store at Stephen was reported the fore part of last week states the Stephen Messenger, with Reuben and Glenn Carlson now sole owners of the Stephen establishment.

Although Reuben Carlson has been in charge of the local store for several months past, ownership of the business was vested in his father, A. L. Carlson of Argyle, while the boys were owners of the Argyle store. The change in ownership was accomplished through a trade under the terms of which A. L. Carlson has taken over the interest of his sons in the store at Argyle.

The shift in ownership will result in no material change in the policy of the local institution. Reuben will continue in charge as manager. His brother, Glenn, a student in the North Dakota University at Grand Forks, is financially interested in the venture with him, but will take no active part in operation of the business, for the present at least.

Help Find Owners Of Money

F. A. Amundson, state commissioner of banks, has $66,000 in money which he wants to get rid of and can't. Maybe, some of it is yours. The $66,000 consists of dividends for persons who had deposits in closed banks and filed claims in due course, but subsequently moved, and the deparment cannot locate them now to turn over the checks.

Unless owners of the dividends can be found, the money will have to be turned over to the state treasurer to be held for a period of years, after which it will become the property of the state. Mr. Amundson would prefer to locate the lost depositors, however, and will appreciate a little help in finding their addresses.

Byrd Maps Antarctica's Coast

According to news dispatches a message from the Byrd expedition announced last waek that Admiral Richard E. Byrd and two assistants had reached and mapped from the air the long sought south Pacific coast for Antarctica, goal of explorers of many nationalities for the past 166 years.

Triumphing over fog, gales and ice pack, the aerial explorers not only filled in 200 miles of the new coast, which is 1,200 miles east of Little America, but discovered a vast mountain range to the southward, rearing thousands of feet above sea level.

They also discovered an ice-covered island 80 miles offshore, mountains to the southward, and a pack-enclosed sea. Byrd and his companions, who left Little America a month ago on the barkentine Bear, fought against the terriffc odds of storms, icebergs, freezing fog, snow and increasing perionds of darkness before the bear was in the position for the take off.

The Bear, said a message received at Washington, D. C. was forced to "drift blindly each night in inky-black, iceberg-dotted seas. Storms, brewed in Antarctic cauldrons, rattled the ship with hail or whitened her decks and rigging with snow for 11 consecutive days.

Will Speak At Men's Club

Mr. Karl Kobes, Biologist in the Mud Lake Game Refuge will be the principal speaker at the Men's Club on Tuesday evening. Mr. Kobes's home is in Massachusetts and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota. His theme will deal with the Lake Agassiz Glacial Area and thru his studies in Geology and information on the subject, will prove interesting and the listeners will understand a little more the reason for the natural formation of this part of the country.

Loans For Boys And Girls

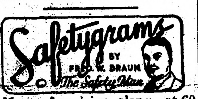
A number of Marshall County boys and girls whose parents are Farm Security Administration borrowers will be able to participate in 4-H Club livestock projects this spring under new loan provisions announced by Charley Ommodt, county FSA supervisor.

Mr. Ommodt explained that boys and girls enrolled in these junior organizations, and who are unable to finance the purchase of their lambs, calves, pigs, poultry, etc. can, with the approval of their county agent, secure an FSA loan not exceeding $75.00 to cover the cost of their project animals.

By making loans available to young people with no other source of credit,, the program will make it possible for them to take advantage of the educational opportunities offered by 4-H Club work and similar activity. There are 166 FSA borrowers in Marshall County.

Loan applications for the purchase of livestock under the plan must be made to the county FSA supervisor and approved by the county agent, R. A. Reierson, or other club leaders. The loans will be secured by a mortgage and a note signed jointly by club members and the parents. The rate of interest is five per cent.



Many of us drive along at 60 miles an hour feeling perfectly safe and assured that nothing can happen. If weather and traffie conditions are favorable, and the vehicle is in the best possible condition, this does not present such an unusual problem.

However, inattention to traffic conditions, recklessness or thoughtlessness in driving, and the many other driving faults we all have, make 60 miles an hour too fast a speed.

Let us remember this: When you hit a stone wall or other immovable object when driving at 60 miles an hour, the force of the impact is as great at if you were to drive off the top of a ten story building. Can you imagine that shock?

Township Elections March 12

Voters of the townships will elect township officers and set tax levies for the coming year at the annual township elections to be held Tuesday, March 12. The law requires that such township elections be held on the second Tuesday of March each year.

This year the elections will be conducted under the so-called Australian ballot system, where candidates for office are required to file at least two weeks prior to election, or where five voters have filed an application to place the name on the ballot.

The clerk of each township must give ten days notice of election by publishing such notice in a newspaper having circulation within the township or by posting such notices within the township, or by both, "at the discretion of the voters," according to the law.

In addition to electing township officers, one of the important features of these elections is the adoption of a tax levy for town purposes. Voters of townships have a right here that is not given to other branches of government, except schools, and it is an important privilege that deserves the most careful consideration of citizens in these districts.

General Motors Builds 25-Millionth Unit

Brief ceremonies were held in the Chevrolet assembly plant at Flint, January 11, marking completion of this car, the 25-millionth unit built by General Motors. In behalf of the thousands of workers who had a hand in its manufacture, 75 members of the final assembly line crew handed M. E. Coyle, Chevrolet general manager, a commemorative scroll for presentation to W. S. Knudsen, president of General Motors. Veteran Chevrolet employes, and executives of the Buick and AC Spark Plug divisions, were present as special guests.

In photo, left to right: C. E. Wetherald, general manufacturing manager, Chevrolet; Mr. Coyle; H. H. Curtice, general manager Buick Division; A. P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of the board, General Motors; Fred Brown, veteran Chevrolet employe; C. S. Mott, vice president, General Motors; C. E. Wilson, executive vice president, General Motors, and Mr. Knudsen.

The car was taken at once to Detroit, to play a major part in the "March of Men and Motors" celebration staged that night in the Masonic Temple.

Why Do We Have Banks, Anyway?

A strong bank is a fortress of financial strength for a community. Built through the joint strength of the community, the bank serves the community.

In the early days our ancestors joined forces and built strong forts to protect the community from savages. Today our dangers are financial rather than physical. And the community has joined forces to build this strong fortress of financial strength.

Princess Frock Is Simple, Charming

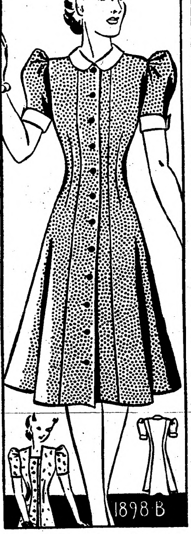
CHARMING and changeable are the words for this very simple princess frock (1898-B). Charming, because it is so slim-waisted and flare-skirted, with wide shoulders gathered at the top. Changeable, because you can make the neckline two ways—either with the round tailored collar, or with the collarless square neckline. As a matter of fact, if you once get it on, and see what nice things it does to your figure, you'll want it both ways, and make it up time and again, in street materials as well as in daytime cottons. It's a very adaptable style, too, becoming to misses' and women's sizes alike.



For home wear, choose crisp cottons like gingham, percale or calico. For street or office wear, faille, flat crepe or gay silk print will be pretty, with collar and cuffs of pique, linen or sharkskin.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1898-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material without nap; ⅝ yard contrast.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Belligerents Tighten Pressure On Lesser Neutral Countries; Rumania Veers Back to Allies

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

EUROPE:

Pressure on the Neutrals

Of all the lesser European states whose princes and presidents were straddling fences, none was busier than Rumania's King Carol. The Rumanian pendulum, which for six months has swung from pro-Nazi to pro-ally and back again, took a definite swing to the allies again. But it was all a result of pressure.

First Carol had levied a 25 per cent export tax on oil. When Germany had disapproved, Carol had agreed to ship 41 per cent of his 1940 oil production to the Reich. The allies, which own 50 per cent of Rumania's oil wells, disapproved that time, putting the screws on Rumanian imports.

KING CAROL
He hoped for the best.

In desperation, Carol took a final step which appeased the allies but left him facing Germany's renewed wrath. Banned were exports of all vital war materials, including the aviation gasoline which Germany covets. Meanwhile Carol called 1,000,000 men to the colors and hoped for the best.

To the southeast, Turkey ordered an accumulation of war supplies and placed itself on war footing, while newspapers warned the public that Europe's war might soon spread to the near east. Turkey was ready to march the instant an invader set foot in the Balkans.

Equally jittery were the Scandinavian states. Norway continued protesting to Britain over the Altmark incident, and Swedish wrath rose over Russian bombing of Pajala, a border town near the Finnish frontier. Meanwhile the foreign ministers of both these nations met with Denmark's foreign minister in Copenhagen, expressing cautious hopes that they might remain neutral and that the wars might soon be ended. Of the three Scandinavian states, only Denmark had a really good chance of staying neutral, for Russia was moving closer.

In the North: Death

A fierce struggle for Viipuri, key city on the Karelian isthmus, seemed ending when the invading Russians captured Koivisto island fortress, guardian to Viipuri bay. Meanwhile what was described as the war's "biggest battle" was reported developing in the far-north Petsamo region.

Fighting a game but losing battle in the south, the Finns were mowing down 2,500 to 3,000 Reds a day. Not announced were their own losses, which, because they were defending instead of attacking, probably were not so great.

In the West: Speeches

Unrestricted marine warfare continued between Britain and Germany, but the biggest naval development was reported from the Arctic, where a French-British naval squadron was said to be blockading Murmansk, key Russian port. In London the admiralty would neither confirm nor deny the report, but such a blockade was understandable. German ships, which heretofore have used Norwegian territorial waters in carrying war supplies to and from Murmansk, will thus be cut off. It was also a pointed notice to Norway that Nazi ships had best be shooed away.

Both Adolf Hitler and Neville Chamberlain made name-calling speeches which cancelled each other off. Mr. Chamberlain listed, for the umpteenth time, Britain's "war aims," which include a new German government, and liberation of Czechs and Poles. Herr Hitler varied it, stating his "pre-war aims," namely, living space and return of German colonies.

U. S. AND THE WAR:

First Train to Berlin

Arriving at Rome, Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles began his duties as Franklin Roosevelt's special peace emissary to Europe. He called on Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, next on Premier Benito Mussolini. Then, unexpectedly, he packed his bags and hiked off for Berlin to talk with Adolf Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop. Noting this unexpected development, observers wondered if Il Duce had whispered Der Fuehrer's peace terms into the ear of Envoy Welles.

POLITICS:

'Another Martha'

Stamping up and down the land in late February was a politician's wife whose campaigning was more effective than her husband's. She was Mrs. Robert A. Taft, who for the moment came back to her native Minnesota to be introduced as "another Martha from the White House." Growing in stature much faster than her able, though slow-moving husband, Mrs. Taft served notice that the exciting type of First Ladyship founded by Eleanor Roosevelt will not be forfeited if the U. S. names Bob Taft as its next President.

MARTHA TAFT

Other political news:

¶ Presidential primaries were proving a disappointment to both parties. Democrats found that Franklin Roosevelt's reluctance to announce his third term intentions was keeping other candidates out of the primary contests. Republicans were grumbling because leading candidates were reluctant to enter decisive candidates. Only exception: Wisconsin, where Candidates Taft, Dewey and Vandenberg will fight it out.

¶ G. O. P. National Committeeman Joseph Martin resigned, thus intimating he has no presidential ambitions. Reason: His duties as G. O. P. house minority leader require his full attention.

CONGRESS:

Battle's End

For three months the administration had held its breath over the greatest congressional battle Franklin Roosevelt ever anticipated. When it came, the battle turned out to be a dud. Passed 216-168 by the house was a resolution to extend for three years Secretary of State Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade program. The resolution was then forwarded to the senate, where victory was generally predicted. Western senators would certainly fight to regain ratification power over the treaties, but observers gave them no chance for success.

Also in congress:

¶ The house banking and currency committee okayed a $100,000,000 boost in the Export-Import Bank's capital, providing funds for non-military loans to China and Finland. Inserted were amendments (1) permitting loans for purchase of commercial (non-military) planes, and (2) denying loans to any nation in default of debts to the U. S.

¶ The senate refused overwhelmingly an effort (sponsored by Massachusetts' Henry Cabot Lodge) to withhold funds for the U. S. embassy at Moscow.

AGRICULTURE:

Loosened Credit

Last December came an explosion in the multi-billion dollar, highly conservative farm credit administration. Reason: Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace wanted to loosen credit restrictions. FCA President F. C. Hill, fearful lest FCA investors be jeopardized, protested and finally resigned. A few days later FCA fell under Henry Wallace's sway. As new chief he installed A. G. Black, who announced recently what FCA's new program would be:

FCA'S BLACK
A broad, social view.

Major aim is to keep farmer debtors on the farm and protect them against foreclosures. Thus, leniency will be substituted for strict banking procedure in cases where borrowers are deemed to have a fair chance of eventually paying their debts. While Mr. Black was pointing out how FCA is now taking "the broad social view," several of its executives (including General Counsel Peyton Evans) were resigning.

Meanwhile another credit setup, the farm security administration, announced a five-point program to help down-and-out sharecroppers get a new start.

AVIATION:

Bermuda Tempest

"I think that's a hell of a note."

Thus exploded Missouri's Sen. Harry S. Truman when he heard about American mail seizures at Bermuda. Said the unofficial story: A Pan-American clipper captain had been ordered at gunpoint to surrender European-bound U. S. mail to British censors.

Overnight a huge storm swept over congress. Missouri's Sen. Bennett Champ Clark fathered a bill to stop clippers from landing at Bermuda. Other senators predicted that any more such incidents would alienate U. S. sympathy for the British cause.

Within the next two days Britain moved swiftly to appease American wrath. Not entirely diplomatic, British Ambassador Lord Lothian branded the incident as "complete eyewash." London denied it, and so, finally, did the state department.

Just when everyone was forgetting, Pan-American announced that after March 15 its airships would fly non-stop from New York to the Azores, completely skipping Bermuda. Searching frantically for a tie-up between this announcement and the airmail rift, observers completely forgot that Pan-American was merely meeting competition: On March 15, American Export airlines will also begin flying non-stop from New York to the Azores.

FINANCE:

Insurance Probe

Early this year U. S. insurance companies were spotlighted before the temporary national economic committee of Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney. Aided by a securities and exchange commission report presented by Leon Henderson, the committee showed how most life insurance is controlled by 26 companies, how insurance companies' income far exceeds their payments, how in the past decade their multi-billion dollar investments had given them "a first mortgage" on U. S. business.

O'MAHONEY
Witch hunt or not?

This was bad publicity smacking of the "witch hunt" which Senator O'Mahoney had taken pains to deny when TNEC opened its hearings last year. Finally the flames reached the senate floor. Iowa's Sen. Guy Gillette said he had received information of meetings of insurance policyholders who expressed fear that their policies might be endangered by the hearings. Someone else told how the American Life convention, a Midwest insurance group, had charged TNEC was considering federal regulation of insurance. An insurance publication had pointed out that Senator O'Mahoney had never promised there would not be regulatory legislation.

Answered Mr. O'Mahoney: "The purpose of the committee has never been to take anything away from any company. Its purpose has been to investigate how the great assets of these companies might be best invested . . . to promote this economy of ours."

Still, observers noted, there was no assurance that regulatory legislation is not anticipated.

FISCAL:

Program

As congress labored unhappily over its budget woes, up sprang the National Economy league with a Plan. Items: (1) balance the budget, including an $800,000,000 cut in relief and $431,000,000 in new taxes; (2) liquidate government lending agencies. Ernest Angell, chairman, figured better business following "an honest approach to a balanced budget will yield bigger revenues under present laws."

Hinged Curtains for Window Cupboards

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

WHY not build cupboards at each side of a pair of windows and a comfortable seat between? This takes very little space and adds useful storage room; as well as a cozy place to sit. The cupboards are hidden by hinged curtains that are a part of the general window treatment. The chintz for the valance and seat pad is in tan, yellow and blue-green. The blue-green edges the curtains and valance and is used also for the two cushions. The frilled glass curtains are clear yellow. The closet curtains tacked to a hinged arm may be swung back just as you would open a door.

Photographs had been taken at the wedding, and the happy pair were assured that proofs would be sent to them so that the best might be chosen for delivery.

Some days passed, and the looked-for envelope arrived.

All agog, the young couple opened the envelope. But instead of pictures of the bridal group they were confronted with studies of a two-months-old baby.

The bride nearly collapsed. So did the bridegroom—when, on looking at the back of one of the proofs, he read: "Please state clearly when ordering which size you want, and how many."

A NAME FOR THE MOTHER-IN-LAW

"Did you see," asked Senator Dumm, "where a group of women recently voted for a change in the term 'mother-in-law'?"

"I did," replied Representative Dummer. "They voted to change it to kin-mother, the big sillies."

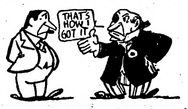
"The foolish season is here ahead of time," said the senator, "and winter must be nearly over. There are many names I could call the old girl, but kin-mother is not among 'em."

"What was the big idea, anyhow?" asked Dummer. "Were the mothers-in-law complaining?"

"Mothers-in-law are always complaining," snapped the senator. "Do you see this bruise over my eye?"

"I do," said Dummer. "How come?"

"From walking up to my wife's old lady and saying, 'Hello, kin-mother'; that's how I got it. She thought I said something else, and when I tried to explain she said mother-in-law was good enough for her, and it would have to be good enough for me."



THAT'S HOW I GOT IT

• • •

"I noticed that there were many other names suggested before the final vote," said Dummer.

"One of 'em was 'Blitzkrieg Mother,'" laughed the senator. "I rather liked that one. It will linger in my memory long after I have forgotten all about 'kin-mother.' But do you know what I think is called for now?"

"No."

"A new name for mothers-in-law to call their sons-in-law and daughters-in-law."

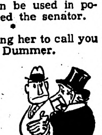
"Haven't our mothers-in-law enough names for them already?" asked Dummer.

"I mean something printable; something that can be used in polite society," argued the senator.

• • •

"How about asking her to call you a kin-son?" asked Dummer.

"She would retaliate by calling me a kin-bum and say she misunderstood me," barked Senator Dumm.



"Couldn't she just call you a kin-guy or a kin-sap?" asked Dummer.

"She might be glad to," said the senator.

• • •

"Will anything come of the whole business?" asked Dummer.

"Nothing whatever," declared Senator Dumm. "A man never refers to his mother-in-law as his mother-in-law, anyhow. He either calls her 'that woman,' 'old ironsides,' 'the crackdown' or 'the family static.'"

• • •

"Do you know what I call mine?" asked Dummer.

"What?"

"The Roman Galley," declared Dummer.

"Why?" asked the senator, a bit puzzled.

"Because she is always putting in her oar," concluded Representative Dummer, dodging a chair.

Signs of the times in a motor age—these highway markers tell the story of a two-year, 100,000-mile truck test run recently completed by Chevrolet. In Canada, Mexico and every state of the Union, the truck operated on all types of highways and under every conceivable weather hazard, setting a new world mark for sustained and certified automotive operation, under the sanction and official observation of the American Automobile Association. The unit carried a 4,590-pound "payload." An average of 15.1 miles per gallon of fuel was maintained throughout the 100,000 miles, at an average operating speed of 33.07 miles per hour. Oil mileage was correspondingly high—1,077 miles per quart.

Dairy Industry To Advertise

Minnesota will raise $100,000 for its share in the national program to advertise dairy products.

Eighty-five per cent of the plants, which handle 85% of the butterfat in the state of Minnesota, have been cooperating by making a 1 cent deduction on the price paid to producers on each 20 pounds of butterfat delivered to them since August 1, 1939.

There are a few plants yet that are not cooperating and these should be urged to do so by their patrons. It is costing each producer only about 10 cents per cow a year, and if the advertising is succesful it should return many times that amount.

The success of the program would be reflected in increased consumption of all dairy products, which in trun should increase the yearly income of butterfat producers.

This money is being sent to the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee. This Committee was organized and incorporated by the dairy industry in the state and is directing the work of collecting the funds for and is promoting the advertising program in Minnesota. The Committee expects to have a fund of $100,000 raised by the first of September 1940.

It will cost about $500,000 to put on a good national advertising program. Because of this, it is necessary that other states provide their share before any of Minnesota's contributions be used for advertising. Many other states have either collected the money or are in the process of collecting as in Minnesota. Others are laying plans to collect in their respective states. Among these states are Iowa, Wisconsin, Washington, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, California, Oregon and Kansas. Many of these states will be collecting their funds during this spring and summer, as in Wisconsin, where the entire fund will be collected during August and paid to their committee in September. The national fund will perhaps reach the $500,000 mark in September or October this fall. At that time the national program can be started.

Census Taker Coming Soon

Within a few weeks the census taker will call on all farms in Marshall County for the purpose of securing information about crops, livestock, and farming conditions.

All information given the census enumerator is strickly confidential and no individual facts or statements are ever disclosed. Farm families, will be doing themselves and the nation a distinct service by helping the enumerator secure the desired information. In order to do this it is suggested that advance copies of the census schedule be secured from the County Agents office before April 1, when the census will be started. Time will be saved for both the census taker and the individuals if as many as possible of the questions are answered ahead of time.

The first agricultural census of the United States was taken a hundred years ago, in 1840, and according to a recent review of agriculture 100 years ago and now, the U. S. Department of Agriculture says that the only statistics on agriculture in those days were related to international trade and the local market prices quoted in newspapers. Sometimes unreliable news brought by a ship captain regarding crop conditions in Europe created a panic in our eastern grain market. The lack of current and reliable price information placed producers in a weak bargaining position.

The 1840 and 1940 census schedules relating to agriculture are about as unlike as a flea and an elephant.

Association To Meet Monday

Members of the Holt Cooperative Livestock Shipping Association will hold their annual meeting here next Monday afternoon. According to reports the association has not been very active the past year or so and the members are of the opinion that it should function at all times in order to be of any value to the farmer members.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson left Wednesday for Minneapolis where they will attend the Land O'Lakes convention there. Miss Pearl Andeson and Miss Vik from Wylie are taking care of their children while they are gone.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been on the mild order here. According to reports the Twin Cities dug out on Wednesday from one of the heaviest snow falls since 1937. They had 15 inches of snow this week. Other states south of us have also had snow storms.

Mother Bear And Three Cubs

A mother bear in hibernation with three last year's cubs was located last week several miles south of Center Camp in the Pine Island Forest Area south of Baudette states the Baudette Region.

The party consisting of Jack Manweiller, Game Management Specialist, J. P. Wentling, Assistant Game Manager, I. C. McGuire, Wildlife foreman of the Soil Conservation Service and J. C. Richares and Ed Pohrte of the State Game and Fish Department snow-shoed five miles into the forest area to take pictures and observations on this seldom seen occurance.

The mother bear and her three young were cuddled up in a nest with no covering whatsoever and appeared perfectly warm and contented, said Mr. Manweiller.

Efforts were made not to disturb the animals and a series of excellent motion pictures were obtained.

All the members of the party agreed that such a chance to view bear in hibernation and to take pictures of them might not occur again in a lifetime.

Mr. Manweiller added that the process of hibernation renders bears very stupid and to shoot them in this state cannot be considered anything but cruel and unsportsmanlike.

Farm Families Best Fed

Farm families are the best fed population group in the country. This statement was made by Dr. Louis Stanley, chief of the bureau of home economics in the department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. On the other hand, according to the 1939 report, village families are the poorest fed, with city families between the two.

The difference lies, it seems, in the amount of "protective" foods eaten. Farm families consume an average of about 60 per cent more milk, 15 per cent more butter, and 25 per cent more leafy green vegetables than small-city families, a diet rich in protein, vitamin A, iron and calcium.

Most farm families owe their excellent diets to home production of generous quantities of protective foods. Every household should learn what foods and how much of each is required to furnish a fully adequate diet, decide what to buy, what to raise and what to can and store for out-of-season consumption. Bulletins are available from the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture Washington, D. C., and from the Extension Service at University Farm, St. Paul—Eva Blair, nutrition specialist, University Farm, St. Paul.

Why Do We Have Banks, Anyway?

A strong bank is a fortress of financial strength for a community. Built through the joint strength of the community, the bank serves the community.

In the early days our ancestors joined forces and built strong forts to protect the community from savages. Today our dangers are financial rather than physical. And the community has joined forces to build this strong fortress of financial strength.

It Must Be Admitted That Was a 'Fare Do'

Four men, apparently old acquaintances, were seated facing each other in a railway coach. One of them seemed to be monopolizing the conversation. All of his talk was about himself as he told in glowing terms how clever he was.

This went on and on, mile after mile, till at last one fellow could stand it no longer, and without due apology he burst in upon the conversation of the boasting one. "Say," he said, "tell us something you can't do, and I'll do it for you!"

There was a moment's silence, then up spoke the chap who had been interrupted, a smile on his face: "Well, I must admit that I can't pay my fare."

Why Let Yourself Get Constipated?

Why endure those dull headachy days due to constipation, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble?

If your constipation, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted breakfast cereal is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. It helps you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day and month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew.

Eat Kellogg's All-Bran regularly, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Death Misses Classroom Mark by One Hour's Time

Death was cheated by one hour's time recently when a water heater exploded in the Ripon junior high school at Modesto, Calif. The heater blew up at 6:55 in the morning and ripped out a whole corner of the athletic building, left. It sailed 150 feet through the air and was projected through the agricultural building, right, piercing both walls of the structure like a giant cannon ball. It sailed another 150 feet before burying itself in the ground. There were no casualties as classes were not scheduled to gather until one hour later.

Model Railway Helps Make Cleveland 'Safest City'

A model railway, in use for the past 10 years, is used to test all applicants for motormen's jobs on the Cleveland, Ohio, street railway. The model railway is an exact replica of conditions the men will face on the city's streets. Left: A test is made of Applicant William Murray's reaction. Right: According to the scoreboard, Murray used "poor judgment" in permitting this "crash." Authorities claim the job test has made Cleveland's streets the safest in the country.

Former President Herbert Hoover as he appeared before the house foreign affairs committee recently to tell members that the whole continent of Europe would be "a starvation spot" after the war. Hoover urged that congress make a start toward the general European relief program by appropriating $10,000,000 to $20,000,000. Rep. The Once Over by H.I. Phillips

("A state income tax department is reported considering a suggestion that it cultivate the good will of taxpayers by sending them Christmas cards every year."—News item.)

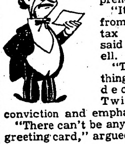
Mr. Twitchell looked at the pretty card. "Seasonal Greetings from the State Income Tax Bureau," was the inscription on it below a picture of a tally-ho. He put on his glasses and read it again. Then he called Mrs. Twitchell, excitedly.



"What's this?" he demanded, apprehensively.

"It's a greeting from the income tax department," said Mrs. Twitchell.

"There's something behind it," declared Mr. Twitchell with conviction and emphasis.

"There can't be anything behind a greeting card," argued Mrs. Twitchell.

"I'm calling my tax accountant just the same," snapped Mr. Twitchell.

* * *

"Is this you, Hemphill?" asked Elmer as he rang his tax accountant. "Good! This is Twitchell. I think I had better see you at once."

"What's happened?"

"It's a communication from the Income Tax Bureau."

"Well, what does it say?"

"It just says, 'Seasonal Greetings from the State Income Tax Bureau,'" explained Mr. Twitchell.

"Hm-mm-mm," mused Hemphill. "Maybe you'd better come in tomorrow and we'll look over things."

I THINK I HAD BETTER SEE YOU AT ONCE

Mr. Twitchell made the appointment and hung up. He was now quite disturbed. He didn't like that picture of a tally-ho. It seemed too much like the police wagon.

"Always something from those tax departments," he blurted, pacing the floor. "If it isn't one thing it's another."

"But, Elmer, why do you get so excited. You made out an honest return, didn't you?" put in Mrs. Twitchell.

"Of course. But what of it? You have to keep explaining things, just the same!"

"But this is just a greeting card . . ."

"I guess I'll call up my lawyer," said Elmer, grabbing the phone.

* * *

III.

"Dodson?" asked Elmer, getting his attorney, "this is Twitchell. Did you get any seasonal greetings from the State Tax Bureau?"

"Calm yourself," said Dodson. "What's the trouble?"

"I am in receipt of a card from the State Income Tax Bureau, sending seasonal greetings. I don't like the looks of it."

"Just seasonal greetings? It doesn't ask any questions?"

"None. What does it mean?"

"I wouldn't want to say without a conference with my partners," said Dodson. "I haven't had any case just like that."

"How soon can you see them?" asked Elmer, anxiously.

"Tomorrow or next day. This is quite new. I once had a case where a Federal tax agent sent a birthday card to a taxpayer and we found out it called for no explanation from us, but a seasonal greeting, well, it's quite new. Suppose you drop in day after tomorrow. I'll have an opinion."

* * *

IV.

It was now late at night. Mr. Twitchell suddenly got up out of bed, took off his pajamas and dressed, even to his coat and hat.

"Why, Elmer, where are you going?" asked Mrs. Twitchell.

"I can't sleep. I think I'd better do it," he said.

"Do what?"

"Address a card to the tax bureau, wishing it well. It's just courtesy."

* * *

Easter Bunny Stays As White as Snow

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

STUFFED toys of oil cloth or water-proof bath curtain material are something mothers have been dreaming about. Just wipe them off with a damp cloth to keep them fresh and clean.

The Easter bunny shown here is 11 inches long. He is white, hand-stitched in heavy pink thread and has pink bead or button eyes. Make your own pattern for him by following the diagram. Rule paper into 1-inch squares; number them; then draw the pattern outlines. Cut two body pieces; four ear pieces and a 2-inch strip to be used between the two sides of the body. Interline the ears to make them stand up. Join all raw edges, as shown, leaving an opening in the body for stuffing tightly with cotton or bits of soft cloth; then finish sewing.

FIGHT COLDS
by helping nature build up your cold-fighting resistance

IF you suffer one cold right after another, here's sensational news! Mrs. Elizabeth Vickery writes: "I used to catch colds very easily. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery helped to strengthen me just splendidly. I ate better, had more stamina, and was troubled very little with colds."

This great medicine, formulated by a practicing physician, helps combat colds this way: (1) It stimulates the appetite. (2) It promotes flow of gastric juices. Thus you eat more; your digestion improves; your body gets greater nourishment which helps nature build up your cold-fighting resistance.

So successful has Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery been that over 30,000,000 bottles have already been used. Proof of its remarkable benefits. Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from your druggist today. Don't suffer unnecessarily from colds.

Headed for Fame

NIGHT COUGHS DUE TO COLDS

Need More Than "Salve" To Quickly Relieve DISTRESS!

Before you go to bed rub your throat, chest and back with warming, soothing Musterole. You get such QUICK relief because Musterole is MORE than "just a salve." It's a marvelous stimulating "counter-irritant" which helps break up local congestion and pain due to colds. Its soothing vapors ease breathing.

Used by millions for over 30 years! 3 strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong, 40¢. Hospital Size, $3.00.

Knows Only Price

The cynic is one who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing.—Wilde.

Don't Sleep When Gas Crowds Heart

If you toss in bed and can't sleep from constipation with awful GAS BLOATING remember this: To get quicker relief you must get DOUBLE ACTION. You must relieve the GAS. You must clear the bowels. Adlerika is just what you may need because it acts on the stomach and BOTH bowels. Adlerika is BOTH carminative and cathartic. Carminatives that warm and soothe the stomach and help expel GAS. Cathartics that quickly and gently clear the bowels of waste matter that may have caused GAS BLOATING, sour stomach, sleepless nights and indigestion. Adlerika relieves stomach gas almost at once. Adlerika usually acts on the bowels in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight relief. Adlerika does not gripe, is not habit forming.

Welles Expedition Bears Fruit In Shower of Peace Rumors; Russo-Finnish Truce Forecast

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

The Wars in Brief

Finnish Front. Soviet troops reached the suburbs of Viipuri, western stronghold of the Mannerheim line. Northeast of Lake Ladoga, the Finns claimed they had destroyed the thirty-fourth Red tank brigade, sent to relieve the badly shredded eighteenth division.

Western Front. Local patrol activity. Nazis reported building pontoon bridges to reach Luxemburg frontier. Aerial reconnaissance increased by both sides.

At Sea. War again invaded the western hemisphere. A British freighter was attacked 130 miles east of Puerto Rico, and a Nazi freighter burned in the West Indies.

U. S. AND THE WARS

America's growing concern with Europe's war made news in early March from Washington to Berlin and Rome. Chief motivating factors were (1) U. S. loans to Finland, approved by congress, and (2) U. S. peace feelers in European chancelleries.

Mr. Welles in Berlin

"Usually reliable sources" vied with "informed quarters" and "unimpeachable sources" to inform America about the success and failure surrounding Sumner Welles' conversations with European leaders. On a peace mission reminiscent of Col. Edward House's junket during the World war, the U. S. undersecretary of state met in Rome with Benito Mussolini, then rushed to Berlin for conferences with Adolf Hitler.

No official announcement followed, but the diplomatic grapevine revealed Der Fuehrer would have no truck with peace projects which gave him anything short of a strangle hold on middle Europe. The most generally reported terms were (1) domination over Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Hungary and Austria; (2) return of former German colonies; and (3) destruction of Britain's control over world sea lanes.

But the Welles expedition was not without profit. Europe had suddenly become filled with peace plans, and all the powers were talking tough about the minimum terms they would accept. This indicated they were at least ready to talk peace.

Welles Sideline

Aside from his announced mission, Sumner Welles was instrumental in two other developments. First, his visit apparently paved the way for a return to Washington of Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, German ambassador recalled in 1938. Second and most important, he had evidently smoothed U. S.-Italian friendship by trying to settle Italy's coal problem. The trouble:

Britain, enforcing her blockade of German exports, had first tried to persuade Italy to buy coal from her instead of the Reich. Failing, she stopped German coal bound for Italy, drawing an angry protest from Rome. Whether by accident or not, Mr. Welles' arrival coincided with reports that Italy would seek a $100,000,000 credit to buy coal from the U. S. Obviously this pleased the allies, for Italy would not only be freed from blockade pressure but would find her cooperation with Germany restricted.

Finnish Loan

Passed by the senate in jig time were house amendments to a bill boosting by $100,000 the Export-Import bank's capital. Purpose: To make loans for non-military purchases to nations whose war debts are not in default. Principal beneficiary was Finland, whose $20,000,000 Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones allocated even before President Roosevelt signed the bill.

Unexpectedly, Mr. Jones also announced loans of $15,000,000 to Sweden and $10,000,000 to Norway, both funds to be used for financing U. S. exports. Happiest of all was Finland's Minister Hjalmar J. Procope, who immediately began buying gasoline, oil, grain and vital supplies. Said he: "When the war started, most people thought we would be beaten within two or three days. We've been fighting three months now and we'll fight on, confident that help will come."

U. S. Mediation?

Even more persistent than rumors of an Allied-German peace were reports that Finland and Russia may soon reach a settlement, probably under U. S. sponsorship. European observers who watched Sumner Welles confer with Adolf Hitler also noticed that U. S. Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt broke bread in Moscow with Russian Premier Viacheslav Molotov.

Whether the initiative came from the U. S. or elsewhere, the Finns were indeed ready to talk peace. Sorely tired, they had a choice of accepting Russia's terms or calling for British-French aid (something, contrary to popular opinion, they have not yet done). Some observers thought the mysterious mediator was Sweden, a possibility which might have unhappy consequences. Should Finland be made a sort of Russian Slovakia, Norway and Sweden would be even more firmly held under the Russian-German boot.

CONGRESS:
Politics, Front & Center

Tanned from his Caribbean trip, Franklin Roosevelt stepped back into the White House and began his eighth year as President. A Gallup poll showed 64 per cent of the nation supported his policies, yet only 46 per cent would vote for a third term. Another Gallup poll showed 55 per cent expect a Democrat, F. D. R. or somebody else, to be next President.

Politics, thus evident at the White House, also held sway in congress. As the senate looked favorably on Secretary of State Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade program, Candidate Hull's 1940 presidential stock took a precipitous boost. It jumped still higher when Republican Thomas W. Lamont, a Morgan partner, wrote in support of the trade program in Collier's weekly. Already passed by the house, a resolution to extend the Hull plan three more years seemed a cinch to get through the senate.

Meanwhile the senate jumped waist-deep into politics by arguing a bill to extend the Hatch act. The plan: Prohibit pernicious political activity among a half million state employees paid in whole or part with federal funds (state highway departments, social security branches, etc.).

Still a third political issue was the proposal, sponsored by Sen. Charles W. Tobey (Rep., N. H.) to strike inquiries about personal income from 1940 census questions. A senate subcommittee was reported voting 3 to 2 in favor of the Tobey proposal.

NEWS of the STATES

Georgia

Hangers-on at Georgia's statehouse yawn with boredom nowadays when national guardsmen give the bum's rush to W. L. Miller, ousted highway chairman. It's been going on for 3 months, ever since Gov. E. D. Rivers fired Chairman Miller on the charge that he was using his office to boost his gubernatorial candidacy. Not to be licked, Oustee Miller appealed to a federal district court. Sustained was his contention that he had been wrongfully deprived of his property. Governor Rivers was ordered to appear in court and answer contempt charges for failing to attend the injunction hearing.

GOV. RIVERS

Louisiana

Defeated for the governorship nomination by Sam Houston Jones, Louisiana's Gov. Earl K. Long made frantic efforts to save the remnants of his machine. A rump Democratic central committee nominated Long for secretary of state, but Jones refused to accept him. Next Long called a special session of his once-obedient legislature. Probable aims: (1) to clip the attorney general's extraordinary powers, because an anti-Longster will be the next attorney general; (2) to oust the interim secretary of state and get the post for Long. To a man, the legislature ignored his call.

GOV. LONG

Illinois

Last fall the U. S. swooped down on William R. Skidmore, Chicago junk dealer and reputed "front" for a gambling syndicate. Indicted for failure to pay $210,000 in income taxes between 1933 and 1937, Billy Skidmore was asked to pay $822,386 in principal, interest and penalties. Adamant, the U. S. next indicted Billy's attorney, William Goldstein, for perjury. Still adamant, the U. S. slapped Billy a third time: He was indicted again, this time for tax shortages covering 1938.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Energy Saver.—Keep a dry mop and duster on each floor of your house thus saving time and energy where cleaning.

* * *

Bottles containing cream or milk should never be left uncovered in the refrigerator. Odors from other foods are quickly absorbed by them.

* * *

Japanned trays may be cleaned with a mixture of vinegar and powdered whiting. Apply with a soft flannel, wipe off with a clean cloth and polish with chamois.

* * *

Burnt Privet Hedge.—If your privet hedge should be accidentally burned during cleaning do not dig it up. Cut it back almost to the ground. New shoots will spring up and in another year you will have a fairly good hedge.

* * *

To loosen dirt on linoleum add a few tablespoons of kerosene to the water with which it is to be washed.

* * *

Suggested Dishes.—Hang a slate and pencil in your kitchen. Let the various members of the family jot down the dishes they would like to have as they think of them. At the end of the week you will have enough suggestions to plan your coming week's menu and please the tastes of all.

* * *

Hotbeds and cold frames should be located in a sheltered place, either on a south slope, on the south side of a building, or where protected by a clump of low-growing pines.

* * *

If mayonnaise curdles in the making, add a few drops of cold water to the curdled mixture.

* * *

The exposure of a room helps to determine whether the general color effect shall be warm or cool. The warm colors, those related to red and yellow, are especially agreeable in rooms facing north and those with little window space. Cool colors, those closely related to blue, are pleasing in large amounts only in rooms facing south and with more than one window.

THE SOLUTION

"LET the people go to work and we need have no fear as to the solution of all our other ills. Keep people out of work for another decade or less and we shall have no democracy; but we shall have a demoralized and chaotic people; and we shall indeed have lost our priceless heritage of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."—U. S. Representative James C. Oliver.

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

MAKE your school-girl daughter an every-day frock and housecoat both, with this one simple pattern—8633. Buttoned down the front, made with a princess skirt and gathered bodice sections that suggest a bolero line, it's extremely becoming to immature figures. And you can just imagine how happy a teen-age girl will feel with the long housecoat swirling about her feet, just like the one she admires on you!

Easy to make, to put on and to iron, this pattern is just as useful and practical, in both its guises, as it is charming. For the wintry weather remaining, make it up in challis or flannel. For Spring it will be adorable in chintz, gingham or percale. It's really a style she'll enjoy the year-round.

Pattern No. 8633 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2⅝ yards of 39-inch material in frock length, with short sleeves; 3⅝ yards in housecoat length with long sleeves; 3⅜ yards with short sleeves without nap; 1½ yards trimming.

Frequent complaints have been made by various police departments because of improper lighting on automobiles. I want to discuss especially the matter of tail lights.

Have you ever had the experience of driving on a highway on a foggy, rainy night and suddenly realizing that there was a car parked a few feet ahead which you had not noticed because it had no reflectors or tail light burning? If you did, you will know how dangerous this condition can be.

The purpose of a tail light is to warn other drivers behind you, and therefore it is necessary that this equipment be in first class condition. The law requires it. Police should enforce it.

Every mechanical part of an automobile should be in excellent condition to insure perfect performance. When the car is mechanically perfect, the driver's attitude is right, and he exercises good judgement and proper courtesy, automobile driving will become much safer.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF MARSHALL COUNTY, MINNESOTA.

Adjourned meeting held March 5th and 6th, 1940.

Meeting was called to order by the Chairman at 10 o'clock A. M. All members were present.

Minutes of February 5th and 6th, 1940 were read and approved.

The following applications were recommended to the Minnesota Department of Taxation: David Johnson for reduction in the assessed valuation of personal property for the year 1939 in the City of Warren thereby reducing the assessed valuation from $324.00 to $234.00; Manuel Moe for homestead classification for the year 1939 on Lots 3 and 4 of Section 18 and Lot 1 of Section 19-155-42; Geo. P. Pihlstrom for reduction in the assessed valuation of money and credits for the year 1939 in the Village of Alvarado thereby reducing the tax from $16.50 to $10.65; M. F. Siefert for the reduction in the assessed valuation of personal property for the year 1939 in the City of Warren thereby reducing the assessed valuation from $775.00 to $581.00; Gunvor Skomedal for reduction of taxes for the years 1938 and 1939 on N 1-2 of NE 1-4 and the NE 1-4 of NW 1-4 of Section 23-155-43 by placing said real estate in the correct school district and applying the correct tax rate thereby reducing taxes from $62.78 to $60.28 for the year 1938 and from $68.22 to $64.20 for the year 1939; Soren Sorenson for reduction in the 1939 personal property tax in New Folden Twp. by placing personal property in the correct school District and applying the correct rate thereby reducing the tax from $20.58 to $10.52; Ragner Stanghelle for reduction in the 1939 personal property tax in Alma Twp. by placing personal property in the correct school District and applying the correct rate thereby reducing the tax from $33.23 to $30.30; Wm. S. Thompson for reduction in the assessed valuation of personal property for the year 1939 in the Village of Middle River City thereby reducing the assessed value from $132.00 to $50.00; and Waldemar J. Wendt for homestead classification for the year 1939 on N 1-2 of NE 1-4, less dt. of Section 10 and N 1-2 of NW 1-4 of Section 11-155-43. The following applications were rejected: Adolph Capistran, Nellie C. Cowles, Barnet Grabonski, Elmer L. Johnson.

Commissioner A. W. Sommers offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Whereas Marshall County has a balance of $6,120.00 available from the Minnesota Department of Highways from the 1939 construction appropriation and as the Department has no construction estimates on which they can pay the above amount we request that the Minnesota Department of Highways transfer this amount to maintenance.

Commissioner Ole Bergman seconded the motion and the same being put, was duly carried.

Commissioner Ole Bergman offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Be it resolved that the Summary Statements, filing numbers, No. 395 and 396 for the expenditures of the County Highways be hereby approved and the Superintendent of highways is hereby authorized to issue time checks in the following amounts: S. A. R. Maintenance $739.85, C. A. R. Maintenance $234.20.

Commissioner Gunsten Skomedal seconded the motion and the same being put, was duly carried.

Commissioner Gunsten Skomedal offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, The County Board of Commissioners have inspected State Aid Road E as constructed by the United States Government from the West Border of Mud Lake running east to the east line of Section 25, Township 156, Range 42, and found the construction thereof satisfactorily completed.

BE IT RESOLVED, That the same be and hereby is approved.

Commissioner Arthur Anderson seconded the motion and the same being put, was duly carried.

Meeting was adjourned to Wednesday, March 6th, 1940 at 9 o'clock A. M.

Commissioner A. W. Sommers offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED, That $750.00 be appropriated to the Marshall County Agricultural Association to be used for the purpose of advertising the agricultural resources of the County through 4-H Club work and other methods.

Commissioner Ole Bergman seconded the motion and the same being put, was duly carried.

MINNESOTA RESTAURANT DEALERS' CONVENTION AT MINNEAPOLIS APRIL 29—30

"Restaurant Convention in April," Minneapolis, Minnesota, Monday and Tuesday, April 29 and 30 are the dates tentatively chosen for the Annual Restaurant Convention to be held in St. Paul at the St. Paul Hotel according to an announcement made today by Bryan Calhoun, Convention Chairman, and R. R. Moore, President of Minnesota Restaurant Association.

In speaking of the 1940 Convention, Mr. Moore said "it will be a radical departure from all past conventions, of this group, inasmuch as we have eliminated all displays and have stressed the education meetings more."

"With business faced with many complications of taxation and legislation that it is, we believe much good can be derived by restaurant operators, throughout the State, from this convention."

Since 1939 the number of restaurants has increased 100 percent which proved the "dining out" habit is increasingly popular and that restaurants are doing a constantly better job of serving better food to the public.

In order that restaurant operators may keep abreast of the time, subjects concerning Sanitation, Bacteriology, Personnel, Taxation, Legislation and other matters of vital interest to the restaurant industry, as a whole, are to be discussed.

Trends of The Times will be the title of the address Mr. A. A. McVittie of Denver, Colo., President of the National Restaurant Ass'n., will deliver before one of the business sessions of this convention. In addition to Mr. McVittie, Mr. Frank J. Whiffler, Secretary of the National Restaurant Association, Miss Grace E. Smith, First Vice-President of the National Restaurant Association, of Toledo, Ohio, and many others of National prominence, will attend the 1940 Restaurant Association Convention.

BOYS

A brother's nice to have, sometimes,
And other times he's not,
He's always into mischief
And he teases me a lot.

He sets his dog upon my cat,
He catches frogs and mice,
And snakes and bats and other things
That aren't very nice.

He breaks my dolls and dishes too,
Does things to make me cry;
At other times he's very kind
And just as good as pie.

Now girls are nearly always good
And why can't boys be so?
I wish some one would tell me for
I'd like so much to know.

—Eula.

"... Took Branches of Palm Trees—"

On the next day much people that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem,

Took branches of palm trees and went forth to meet him, and cried, Hosanna: Blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the name of the Lord.

SPORTSMEN'S SHOW AT MINNEAPOLIS TO BE HELD MARCH 23 TO 31

All roads, pikes, and highways, from a half dozen or more states in the Great Northwest, will lead directly into the Minneapolis Auditorium where, from March 23 to March 31, the Ninth Annual Northwest Sportsmen's Show will hold its perennial "open house" to the tens of thousands outdoors enthusiasts who make the trek each year to this most pretentious of shows.

The Northwest Sportsmen's Shows has long ago outgrown its swaddling clothes, and in eight years has broadened its appeal, until today its attractions, its entertainments and its general program find ready reaction among the populations of North and South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Montana and others of Minnesota's neighboring states. In short, the Northwest's Sportsmen's show is a big show. It is not only a spectacle surfeited with thrilling, spine-tickling entertainment, but is jammed up with educational features fully as interest-sustaining as the circus element. It is a well balanced show with dual appeal. Children and adults have found it equally appealing.

This year it has gone far afield in its streamlined program. Exhibitors have embraced it whole-heartedly as a medium through which they find a quick and easy panacea for sales resistance. Approaching the Northwest Sportsmen's Show rather timidly nine years ago, the exhibitor today freely admits that the show has stood the acid test of public appeal and has flowered into a proven, worth-while investment.

The big show's managers, C. K. Odekirk and F. W. "Nick" Kahler have augmented the 1940 edition with a lavish treatment. They have stepped out and signed up the most unusual attractions that the entertainment world offers. They have been careful to keep aloof from the stereotyped entertainment of the vaudeville and circus routines. It has been costly, but the show's appeal has become so universal in the Northwest country that it has been necessary to show the vast crowds something different in both entertainment and general spectacles.

E. M. GREGORY ADDED TO DEVELOPMENT STAFF OF GREAT NORTHERN

Addition of E. M. Gregory of Minot to the Great Northern railway's agricultural development staff was announced last week by Edgar B. Duncan, head of that department.

Mr. Gregory, who has been district supervisor of extension work in 13 counties in northwest North Dakota, will assume his new duties immediately and will headquarter in Fargo.

Appointment of Mr. Gregory gives the Great Northern two agricultural representatives in North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota. The department's activities in these states have, for several years, been under direction of Paul C. C. Wagner, Grand Forks. Mr. Wagner will continue in charge of the agricultural department's program in the territory.

Born on a livestock and grain farm in Montana 37 years ago, Mr. Gregory was educated in Lewiston and in Montana State College, from which he was graduated in 1923 with a degree in agricultural education. From 1927 to 1929 he was a Smith-Hughes instructor in Alexander, N. D., and later became county agent in Burke county, with headquarters in Bowbells, N. D. In 1934 he undertook the district supervisory work from which he resigned to join the Great Northern's agricultural development staff.

Mr. Gregory is married and has four children.

A WOMAN OF SPIRIT

It has been remarked that today's newspaper is tomorrow's lunchwrapper, but the pulse beat does not stop in these chronicles of life as quickly as that. There is, for example, the declaration of independence in the Red Wing Republican of September 11, 1857, found by a member of the Minnesota WPA Writers' Project: "Know all men by these presents, that whereas my husband, John Brown, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation for the term of three years, therefore I, Sophia Brown am determined and do hereby declare in the event of his non-appearance or continued silence, that I shall substitute another man in his position.—Sophia Jones."

Rheumatic Fever Is Health Menace

Doctors Announce March Campaign to Combat Both Rheumatic Fever and Arthritis in State

St. Paul—The school child of 10 has three times as many chances of dying of rheumatic heart disease as of tuberculosis; and for each death there are from 10 to 12 little patients who will never fully recover from the disease as long as they live.

The fact that rheumatic fever is thus a serious public menace prompted its selection as one of two subjects for a special educational campaign to be carried on by the Minnesota State Medical Association during March. The seriousness of this menace is stressed in the first bulletin on the subject issued today by the association's Committee on Public Health Education. Arthritis, another unconquered disease problem, is to be given special consideration by the physicians in March also, according to this bulletin, and speakers or information will be available during the month at the association headquarters at 493 Lowry Medical Arts Building, St. Paul.

The specific cause of rheumatic fever is not definitely known the physicians say; but it is believed to be an infection caused by the streptococcus germ in certain susceptible persons. Recent studies have shown that there are three times as many cases among the families of rheumatic children than among the general run of families, that it is most prevalent where people are over-crowded and undernourished and that there is a hereditary factor which makes some children more susceptible than others.

The first attack occurs most often between six and seven years of age and in a series of cases studied recently, the death rate varied from 10.8 to 31.9 per cent of cases. Of even graver significance was the fact that from 66.1 to 79.5 per cent of these cases were left with permanent heart damage.

The damp chilly days of early spring and fall develop the largest number of cases in this climate according to the bulletin and especial vigilance is necessary to detect mild cases before serious damage is done.

FEDERAL FUNDS INCREASE PUBLIC WORKS IN STATE

A total of $37,828,862 of Federal funds was expended in Minnesota on the construction or improvement of public property during the past 1939 fiscal year. This statement was made public by Anna Dickie Olesen, State Director for the Office of Government Reports.

Declaring these buildings and improvements will be permanent additions to the wealth of the State, Mrs. Olesen said that all such Federal expenditures since 1933 totaled $184,803,674.

Construction work has been supervised by seven Federal agencies, of which only the Public Road Administration, the Public Buildings Administration and the Corps of Engineers were in existence prior to 1933. Expenditures of these Federal agencies during the fiscal year ended last June 30th follow:

|---|---|
| Public Roads Administration | $ 3,821,454 |
| Public Buildings Administration | 221,344 |
| Corps of Engineers | 2,750,404 |
| Public Works Administration | 7,651,386 |
| Works Projects Administration | 17,757,535 |
| United States Housing Authority | 421,204 |
| Rural Electrification Administration | 5,205,535 |
| Total | $37,828,862 |

A MINNESOTAN AT BULL RUN

One of the wagon masters in a Minnesota regiment that fought at Bull Run during the Civil War was "Cap" Northrup, a pioneer resident of the state, of whom an amusing anecdote is told.

According to the story, found by a member of the Minnesota WPA Writers' Project, Northrup doubled between his wagon duties and the battle line. When the Minnesotans were drawn up facing a regiment of Mississippians, Northrup was right up front with a musket in his hands. His regiment was one of the many that had recently adopted the zouve drills, but Northrup had been too busy with his other duties to learn much about the new tactics. After his comrads had fired the first volley they fell flat on the ground while reloading. Northrup thot they had all been killed but determinedly stood his ground. He reloaded and fired, and then to his surprise the others suddenly came to life and resumed their positions by his side.

Northrup, who was born in New York state, came to Minnesota in 1838. At various times he engaged in the lumber business in Stillwater, operated a hotel in St. Paul, built railroad bridges, and explored the Mesabi iron range.

The number of cars loaded with revenue freight in 1939 was an increase of twelve per cent above 1938, but a decrease of 9.5 per cent below 1937.

Survey Game Agents Catch Game Law Violators

Though some 11 million Americans are actively celebrating National Wildlife Restoration Week from March 17 to 23, the Bureau of Biological Survey's law-enforcement staff is not relaxing its vigilance in pursuing violators of Federal and State game-laws, declared Carl B. Vogen, Refuge Manager on the Mud Lake Migratory Waterfowl Refuge.

Last year Survey game agents in cooperation with State officers and deputy game wardens furnished evidence in 2,560 cases prosecuted in State and Federal courts. Of this group, 2,444 convictions were obtained.

Federal and State game agents work together, Vogen explained, in forwarding to each other evidence of violations of State and Federal game-laws. "That makes it hard to get away with a violation," the Survey official said.

Defendants in the 2,444 convictions obtained last year were fined an aggregate of $71,284 and received jail sentences totaling 4,384 days.

Game agents apprehend not only hunters who violate the migratory hunting regulations, said Vogen, but many other violators as well: Duck bootleggers and buyers, fur smugglers, big game hunters who illegally ship their catch across State lines, and importers who fail to obtain permits before bringing wild birds and animal into the country.

When not apprehending violators, the Survey's game agents find time to do educational work, join in the annual inventory of migratory birds, feed birds and mammals suffering from severe weather conditions, speak before sportsmens organizations, and perform other conservation work.

"One of our biggest problems in enforcement work," declared Vogen, "is the racketeer who inlists on selling wild ducks and geese and the equally pernicious buyer who purchases this illicitly taken game."

That duck bootlegging is expensive to both seller and buyer was demonstrated on the Eastern Shore area of Maryland, Virginia, and Deleware last year, according to the Survey official. In a wholesale round-up of market hunters, night club owners, and buyers, 55 violators were convicted in Federal courts. Fines ranged as high as $300, and jail sentences as much as 6 months.

Now the agents have concentrated on Pacific Coast rings. Recently a group of bootleggers and market hunters in the San Francisco are was taken to Federal courts, where the defendants received fines as high as $500 each and jail sentences for as much as 6 months.

"Before the agents get through with that sore spot, there will be many more bootleggers and sellers taken into court," averred the Survey official.

Vogen complemented the majority of hunters for their cooperative spirit, declaring that "we are tough on the violators because they insist on taking the wildlife we are trying to save. While the majority of hunters are sportsmen who abide by the law and do their level best to protect the country's seed stock, a few chislers try to get away with flagrant violations."

But the "Chislers" can't get by for long, assured the wildlife expert. "Don't forget that more that 95 percent of the game-law cases that the Survey and cooperating State agents have taken to court have been convicted."

A birthday surprise party was held Saturday afternoon when a group of friends of Mrs. H. O. Hanson dropped in unexpectedly. Lunch was served by the guests. Mrs. Hanson was presented with many nice gifts and a cash purse

Apply Now For CMT Camp

It was announced today by Stafford King, Civilian Aide to the Secretary of War, that enrollment for the Citizens' Military Training Camp has been officially started. The Minnesota quota for the Fort Snelling Camp to be held during the period July 9 to August 7 is 1310. Over 250 young men have already sent in applications to Major Charles F. Sutherland, the State CMCT Officers, 375 New Post Office Building, Minneapolis, Minnesota. Mr. King urged that all boys who would like to attend this camp at Fort Snelling during the summer get their applications in as early as possible to be reasonably certain of being ordered to camp this year.

A County Chairman has been appointed for each county, and applications ahould be forwarded either direct to him or to Major Sutherland.

The varied program outlined for each day at camp will be found very interesting to all boys who attend. Aside from the work of the camp, an extensive line of sports is offered for entertainment and athletic training This training with no expense to the Individual, is an excellent opportunity for both physical and mental development.

Mrs. H. D. Inman visited relatives at Devils Lake, N. D. this week. She made the trip with her father John Tealy, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Swartz of Warroad.

Association Reorganized Here

Members of the Holt Cooperative Livestock Shipping Association met here on Monday afternoon and reorganized it for 1940. Members elected to serve on the board of administration are: R. A. Werner, President; Julian Rodahl, Vice-Pres; A. C. Conklin, Sec'y-Treas.; Directors, O. H. Nohre and John Sorum. Howard D. Inman was chosen as the manager for the association for the coming year.

Joyce Moberg of Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Moberg Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Sannes, Mrs. Oscar Lunke, Hilmer Moberg, Bertha Moberg, Mrs. Ludvig Sagstuen and Dorothy, Mrs. Knute Nelson; John Moberg and son Ole of Gatzke motored to St. Vincent Thursday for the funeral of Verna May Rees.

Another big farm sale will be held here on Monday when Anthony Maszk will sell out his horses, a large herd of cattle and farm machinery on the Wm. Koepp farm in the Ringbo area six miles northeast of Holt.

Card of Thanks

I hereby wish to express my thanks to all those who came to my house on my birthday. Also thanks to those who were unable to be there but sent gifts.

Ella Magdalene Dovre Died

Word was received here this week of the death of Ella Dovre, who spent all but the past 21 years of her life in Holt community. Following is the obituary:

Ella Magdalene Dovre was born to Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Dovre at Holt on March 6th 1889 and lived there with her parents until after the death of her mother in 1922.

Early in 1923 she went to live with her sister Mrs. Carl Lindholm, where she remained until the fall of 1937 when she was commited to the State School at Faribault, Minn. where she passed away on March 14th at the age of 51 years and 8 days.

Funeral rites were conducted for her at Faribault on March 16 by Rev. Oswald Volz of that city. Two songs were beautifully rendered by four girls.

Peace be to her memory.

Word reached here Tuesday of the death of Verna May Rees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Rees nee Delores Moberg. Her death was caused by pneumonia. She was born August 17, 1938. Left to mourn the loss of their darling baby are her parents, grandparents, a brother, Donald and a sister, Vida. Seven aunts six uncles and a host of other relatives. The News joins the community in extending sympathy in the loss of their dear little one.

Why Do We Have Banks, Anyway?

A strong bank is a fortress of financial strength for a community. Built through the joint strength of the community, the bank serves the community.

In the early days our ancestors joined forces and built strong forts to protect the community from savages. Today our dangers are financial rather than physical. And the community has joined forces to build this strong fortress of financial strength.

'As Thin as Thin'

Gold is one of the most malleable of metals and can be hammered out into sheets one 300,000th of an inch in thickness. Goldbeater's skin is the base on which the beaten gold is imposed. The gold itself is known as gold leaf, and it is of amazing thinness. Hence the necessity for a suitable base to carry it.

The best leaf is made from 23 carat gold, and is usually beaten out until it is only one 280,000th of an inch in thickness.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

HELP!

"The dancers face each other about five feet apart. They stand motionless for a moment, then rear their heads upward and bow low, fingers touching the floor. After a few seconds they arise, then greet each other by rubbing noses. The head is then put under one's left arm, then under the right arm, then raised toward the ceiling. The dancers then hold each other lightly by the waist, suddenly breaking into an extemporaneous bit of hula, and then, just as suddenly, they repeat the dance. This routine is performed three times."—From a description of "The Gooney," the new Hawaiian dance.

Thoughts On a Bank Closing.

Stonington, Connecticut, closed its only bank, the old First National, the other day because of lack of business. Stonington is rarely visited these days except by people who anchor there on a cruise, but it is a quaint New England seacoast town which once knew the pomp and the glory. Swift steamships on the Boston-New York line once made it daily. It was a buzzing ship terminal, and the rotting timbers of its ancient piers are still visible. The town itself still has some of the loveliest dwellings of a former day and it is like stepping into the quiet, calm and orderly past to visit it. Bank my eye! Stonington is too rich in other things to miss it, say we.

This Started With An Old Car Seat

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

WE KNOW what becomes of old automobiles for their graveyards are all too obvious. But how about that backseat cushion with springs almost as good as new? The sketch shows what became of one such seat.

It was padded out at the ends to make the back the same length as the front. Extra padding was also used on the top to make it smooth. A simple base with a back and wings was made of one-inch boards, to fit the seat. Next, came the cretonne slip-cover for the spring seat, with a box pleated ruffle around the front and along the sides up to the wings. A bright peacock blue tone in the cretonne was used for seam cordings and was matched in paint for the wings and back of the seat.

Now I eat sausage, bananas, pie, anything I want and never felt better."—Mrs. Mabel Schott. Two things happen when you are constipated. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, often bringing on sour stomach, indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Adlerika gives double relief with DOUBLE ACTION. BALANCED Adlerika containing three laxatives and five carminatives relieves STOMACH GAS almost at once. It often clears bowels in less than two hours. Famous doctor's prescription helps build pep, strength and energy in amazing, easy way

ARE you weak, run-down—appetite poor? Does the slightest effort exhaust you to the point you feel life isn't worth living? This is often Nature's danger signal—and here's sensational news! Mrs. Laura Bond, 809 Cumberland Street, Gloucester City, N. J. writes: "I felt so tired, weak and out-of-sorts. But after taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a while, I felt more like eating, had more energy, and felt like myself again."

This great medicine, formulated by a practicing physician, helps you combat that weak, run-down feeling two ways: (1) It stimulates the appetite. (2) It promotes flow of gastric juices. Thus, you eat more; your digestion improves; your body gets greater nourishment, and in this scientific way helps nature build up your pep, energy and resistance.

So successful has Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery been that over 30 million bottles have already been used. Proof of its remarkable benefits. Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from your druggist today. Let it help you feel joyfully alive again—full of pep and energy.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Scandinavia Works With Nazis To End Russo-Finnish Conflict; Feel Allies Aren't Dependable

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

EUROPE:

The Wars

Northern Front. Soviet troops captured the entire northern tip of Finland, placing the Arctic sea outlet in Soviet hands. Finns still held Viipuri, western anchor of the Mannerheim lines, repulsing furious Soviet attacks. Civilian bombings continued.

Western Front. Reconnaissance flights and patrol clashes.

Finnish Finish?

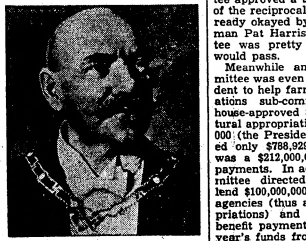
Off to Berlin one day went 79-year-old Per Evind Svinhufvud, former president of Finland. He made a brief flurry in the news, obviously a peace envoy. Then he disappeared, but Per Svinhufvud had done his work well. Within 24 hours Moscow had invited Finnish Premier Risto Ryti and three aides to visit the Kremlin and talk peace. That Germany's hand was behind all this none doubted, for Naziland would like to have Russia at peace, thereby making Soviet war materials available to the Reich.



PER SVINHUFVUD
. . . started something in Berlin.

Up north, Scandinavia cheered; a Russo-Finnish peace would relieve the terrific pressure Sweden and Norway have felt from France and Britain on the one side, and Russia and Germany on the other. The allies had sent Finland only a smattering of help, leaving friendly Scandinavia exposed should Russia win. But if Scandinavia worked for peace via the dictator nations, an early and safe peace might be arranged.

After several days a truce was reported near, leaving frontiers substantially where they have been pushed by fighting thus far. But there was still a good chance that it would bog down.

British Gesture

Off to Rome went Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to capitalize on an Italian peeve. Several days earlier Britain had clamped a blockade on Italian coal imports from Germany, hailing 16 of Il Duce's freighters into port. Angered, Rome dispatched threatening notes.

Obviously von Ribbentrop hoped to win Italian sympathy against Britain, but the Englishmen acted too fast. Without warning, London suddenly released all 16 Italian freighters and won an Italian promise to ship no more German coal by sea.

Herr von Ribbentrop, the wind taken out of his sails, eased back home after visits with Mussolini, King Victor Emmanuel and—unexpectedly—Pope Pius XII. Observers guessed that von Ribbentrop heard plenty from both Mussolini and Pope Pius about alleged German atrocities in Poland. They also guessed, but could not be certain, that he had urged Mussolini's mediation to help end the Russo-Finnish war. Still a third report: That he sought Italian co-operation to form an economic bloc of all eastern Europe, eventually including Russia and the Baltics.

DOMESTIC:

Farmers' Congress

"It is more than ever important to have a government . . . that can act to protect the interests of our farmers as well as our business men when foreign trade conditions are upset."

Thus did Franklin Roosevelt address 500,000 farmers in 24 states assembled at 50 and 75-cent dinners to celebrate AAA's seventh anniversary. For the President and the farmer, things were looking up. A few hours before Mr. Roosevelt spoke, the senate finance committee approved a three-year extension of the reciprocal trade program, already okayed by the house. Chairman Pat Harrison of that committee was pretty sure the measure would pass.

Meanwhile another senate committee was even out-doing the President to help farmers. An appropriations sub-committee upped the house-approved $749,561,000 agricultural appropriations bill to $958,000,000 (the President had recommended only $788,929,519). Chief boost was a $212,000,000 fund for parity payments. In addition, the subcommittee directed that RFC should lend $100,000,000 additional to farm agencies (thus avoiding new appropriations) and that $60,000,000 of benefit payments be shifted to this year's funds from next year. This brought the total to more than a billion dollars.

Gloom fell over the house, which had previously clipped some $300,000,000 from budget estimates on 10 different appropriations in the hope of saving enough to prevent new taxes or a boost in the national debt. When the senate appropriations committee okayed its subcommittee's action, and when senate leaders expressed certainty that the big farm bill would pass, the gloom became thicker. One salvation might be to make big cuts in relief and defense appropriations. Another, which President Roosevelt reportedly discussed with congressional leaders, was a revival of the new tax program.

Also in congress:

Hatch Bill. Not sidetracked for the farm bill, as everyone expected, amendments to the Hatch "clean politics" act were pushed through the senate. Aim: Curb political activity of 500,000 state employees.

Wagner Act. Chairman Mary Norton (Dem., N. J.) of the house labor committee charged that 21 amendments to the Wagner act, as proposed by a special house committee, would practically repeal the law." It was a good bet that the house would kill all the amendments.

WELLES AND LEBRUN

Welles Junket

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles continued marching through the chancellories of Europe in an attempt to dig out "the present phase of the European situation." Neither he nor anyone else could really dig it out, because the European situation was more perplexing than anything the world has seen in 20 years (see EUROPE).

Arriving in Paris after visits at Rome and Berlin, Mr. Welles lunched and dined with President Albert Lebrun, Premier Edouard Daladier and many a lesser statesman, receiving his baptism of fire when anti-aircraft batteries sounded off against a Nazi reconnaissance plane. He heard the same old terms: (1) No peace so long as Hitlerism reigns in Germany; (2) liberation of Poland and Czechoslovakia; (3) "guarantees for the security of peoples and the integrity . . . of all nations."

Next stop was London, where he was closeted with Foreign Minister Viscount Halifax. Expecting to discover nothing there, Mr. Welles nevertheless had important business: (1) to caution British leaders that war measures such as interference with U. S. mails and shipping were having an adverse effect on U. S. sympathy for the allies; (2) to buy six suits of clothes from a Hanover street tailor. In view of the utter confusion in which diplomacy found itself overnight, observers guessed Mr. Welles would have to visit Paris and Rome again.

There Was a Way, And Lass Knew It!

TWO people were walking along a road together. One was a young woman, the other a handsome farm lad. The farm lad was carrying a large pail on his back, holding a chicken in one hand, a cane in the other, and leading a goat. They came to a dark lane.

Said the girl: "I'm afraid to walk here with you. You might try to kiss me."

Said the farm lad: "You need not be afraid. How could I kiss you with all these things I'm carrying?"

"Well, you might stick the cane in the ground, tie the goat to it, and put the chicken under the pail," was the ready reply.

Jackie Movick visited school Friday.

On Friday we had our Easter party. Readings, songs, and contests were given. Eloise Saugstad was the winner in the contest for which she received a prize. After the program, games were played and riddles given. The Easter rabbit also visited us and left a picture of himself in the form of a candy rabbit. We have a week's vacation.

Visitors at our Easter party were: Mr. and Mrs. Movick, Mr. and Mrs. John Ness, Verna Johnson, Mrs. H. Johnson and Mrs. Carl Johnson.

The Eighth graders are busy studying Citizenship.

Earl and Betty Ness are the only two who have had perfect attendance since school started.

Joyce Moberg returned home from Kennedy Thursday where she had been employed the past 3 months.

HOW MUCH DID YOU PAY?

- Even if you paid no Income Tax, don't think for a moment that you paid no tax at all.
- No one can escape paying taxes in one form or another . . . but excessive taxes can be avoided!
- One easy and practical way is through maintaining industries which pay huge taxes and thus help to keep down our individual taxes.
- The Brewing Industry of Minnesota, as a whole, pays about $2,000,000 annually to the State Treasury for taxes on beer alone. To counties and municipalities it pays additional taxes for licenses, real estate and property. Its Excise Tax on beer to the Federal Government averages $12,000,000 a year.
- This huge tax revenue pays a large share of the cost of Federal, State and County governments. It helps pay for schools, old-age pensions, relief.
- If this tax revenue were lost, our individual taxes would surely be much higher!
- In addition to this, the Brewing Industry of Minnesota eases our tax burden by keeping over 25,000 in gainful jobs . . . buys over $3,000,000 of Minnesota farm products annually, and makes a mild, healthful beverage that promotes True Temperance by encouraging Moderation.

Issued Weekly From The Home Of The Biggest Co-operative Creamery In Marshall County

H. O. Hanson, Publisher; Mrs. Mabel Hanson, Editor — Holt, Marshall County, Minnesota, Friday, Mar. 29, 1940. — Volume 29, Number 48

Enumerators Taking Tests

Tests and examinations of the record of the several applicants for positions as enumerators in Marshall County have been completed, and the applicants below have been called in to take a course of instructions at Thief River Falls on March 28th and 29th. Final appointments will be made after the close of the training period. The course of instructions will include the population, agriculture and housing census. Moving pictures will be shown illustrating the taking of the census and the entire work of the enumerator will be outlined. The keynote of the instructions is completeness and accuracy.

The experience of 150 years of census taking is behind not only the questions that are to be asked but also the techinical features of the procedure devised to insure the minimum of inaccuracy. The cooperation of the public and each individual will greatly facilitate the work and help to bring about a complete and accurate count. The actual count will commence on April 2.

Those from Holt invited to take the course of instruction are: Ruth Fricker, Chester Larson and H. O. Hanson.

Student Gerhard Bergee returned to St. Paul on Sunday afternoon having spent Easter vacation serving the Middle River Call.

Worst Freak Storm In History

Many have wondered why their radios and telephones did not work so well on Sunday. This was due to one of the heaviest solar electric storms in all history. In the United States it centered the hardest at Minneapolis where it all but wrecked a lot of telephone and radio equipment. At one point in North Dakota near the Canadian boundary it was so severe for a short spell that it fused wires that run in cables and shorted out many lines of communication and stepped radio broadcast altogether.

Mrs. Clarence Johnson entertaind a number of younsters at a birthday party for her daughter Arlene at their home. The following were present: Dorothy Hanson, Irene and Leonard Ness Ronald and Jean Sorum, Dale and Betty Lou Lorentson, Kenneth Larson, Wanda Risberg and honor guest Arlene Johnson. A delicious lunch was served. Arlene received a number of nice gifts.

Rev. and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson spent Tuesday at Stephen where Rev. Hanson attend a meeting of the Lake of the Woods Bible Camp Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nohre of Pembina, N. D., spent Sunday evening at the O. H. Nohre home.

Annual Creamery Meeting Held

The stockholders and patrons of the Farmers' Cooperative Creamery here held their annual meeting at the Community Hall last Thursday afternoon. A large crowd was present.

A concert of seven numbers was given by the Holt Community Band before the meeting opened.

E. O. Waagedahl, chairman of the board of directors, presided.

The annual report of the creamery was read and explained by Walter Larson, manager of the institution and proved very satisfactory to the patrons.

The patrons of the creamery in 1939 produced 228,270 pounds of butterfat which they delivered to the creamery here, which was a substantial increase over last year. From this they received $47,963.58. Average net price received for all butterfat was 25.78 cents. Manufacturing cost per pound was 2.734.

H. D. Inman was elected to fill the place of T. B. Folden on the board. J. P. Augustine and E. O. Waagedahl were reelected. Carl Johnson and O. H. Nohre are the other members of the board.

The local creamery has total assets of $7,138.51. Liabilities of the institution amounts to only $1,836.18 which leaves the creamery with a net worth of $17,754.17.

Other important business of various kinds was taken care of after which the creamery served free lunch.

The Weather

The third heavy snowfall has hit Iowa and southern Minnesota accordidg to news reports. We had snow and sleet here on Thursday which made slippery going for awhile. Otherwise the weather the past week has been fine. It has thawed some and we are getting closer to spring all the time.

To Fort Garry In 1870

The hazard of travel in Minnesota in the 1870's are described in the diary of a trip from Saint Paul to Fort Garry, on the present site of Winnipeg, made by two Minnesotans, Nathaniel P. Langford and William R. Marshall. Langford, who kept the dairy, was one of the organizers of the expedition that discovered the Yellowstone geysers in 1870, the year he and Marshall made the journey to Fort Garry. He became the first superintendent of Yellowstone park. Marshall had just completed two terms as governor of the state. Both Marshall and Langford were presidents of the Minnesota Historical society—Marshall in 1868 and Langford from 1905 to 1911.

The diary has been presented to the society recently by Langford's nephew, Mr. Langford W. Smith of Berkeley, California. Written in pencil in a little leather-bound book, it is brief and to the point. "Left for Fort Garry," Langford wrote. "Ran over a passenger at St. Anthony Junction," a point within the present limits of Minneapolis. Traveling by stagecoach, Langford left St. Cloud on April 4 at 2:00 p. m. At three the next morning a stop of three hours was made for sleep, after which the driver of the coach pushed on in spite of a warning that the streams were high. At Getchell creek, over which the coach was ferried, two men had nearly drowned the previous day when their boat capsized.

Between Osakis and Alexandria the coach got stuck in the mud and the passengers had to disembark so it could be pried out. At Osakis, the driver of the coach was told that he could not cross the bridge over Fairfield creek, but he made the attempt and reached Pomme de Terre the night of April 6.

Langford and Marshall left the stagecoach at Pomme de Terre and purchased horses and carts to use from that point to Fort Garry. With their guide, they followed the Red river trail for some distance, stopping at settlers' cabins for meals and shelter. April 24 to 23 was spent at Fort Garry. Having finished his business, which was probably connected with the Riel rebellion, Langford returned to St. Paul. He reached Crow Wing May 11. There he took the stagecoach at at 4:00 a. m. and arrived at St. Paul at seven that night.

T. B. Folden, Clerk.

The Nazareth Lutheran Choir will be rorganized on Friday evening and work will begin immediately to complete the cantata, "Beautiful Savior".

Miss Carol Larson has been secured as the director and assisting her in the work will be Miss Virginia Fadden who will be the accompanist.

Veteran Director Retires

T. B. Folden is to be commended for his faithful service on the Farmers Co'op Creamery Board of Directors. Mr. Folden states that he was elected to serve on the board in 1911 and had served since with the exception of two years when he was of ill health. We owe our present successful cooperative institution to those who pioneered in that enterprise. No doubt it would often be easier not to take that day off from seeding, harvesting or other work, to spend in conference at a meeting of the Creamery Board, but Mr. Folden, as well as other members, who have served faithfully, realized that someone had to make that sacrifice. As he sits back to view the results of so many years of his life in that service we can say with his many friends "Well done".

Cleve Bergum Passed Away

Word was received here of the death of Cleve H. Bergum of Rosewood on Wednesday March 20. He was 55 years of age. Mr. Bergum was well known here having operated a store in Holt and also in Golden Valley for several years.

Mrs. Fred Peterson, who teaches near Plummer, is spending her Easter vacation at home.

"ELECTRIC Refrigeration is CHEAPER," says Reddy

This year's electric refrigerators are far more economical than ever before. And that's saying something! Reddy Killowatt, your Electrical Servant, now can protect your food for much less than the cost of old-fashioned refrigeration. But that's only half the story. With a family-size electric refrigerator you can buy in larger quantities, take advantage of bargain food prices. Visit our display room and learn how you, too, can afford electric refrigeration.

YOUTH

"THE best thing we can do for youth is to undertake to get back to real American thrift and economy in living—to get away from the idea that 'the Government owes us' one. We must get rid of the idea that youth and its elders too prevalently have today, that this is a good government to live in because it is a good one to live on and off from."

The Pleasant Way to Correct Constipation

Why let yourself in for all the discomfort of constipation—and then have to take an emergency medicine—if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble?

If your difficulty, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted cereal—a natural food, not a medicine—has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day, it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew!

Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Northern Front. Finn troops evacuated land ceded to Russia (see below).

In the Air. Nazi planes bombed Scapa Flow, hitting one ship and inflicting first British civilian casualties. In a counterblow, R. A. F. planes bombed Nazi patrol boats off Heligoland bight.

In Asia. Russian and Jap troops clashed on Sakhalin, jointly owned island. Both nations were reported reinforcing their Outer Mongolian-Manchukuoan frontiers.

INTERNATIONAL:

Holy Week

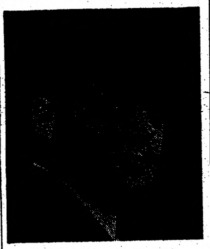
Europe was filled with shenanigans on St. Patrick's day. As Holy Week got underway the dictators sheathed their swords and tried to look righteous. The imaginary axis running from Berlin southward through the Brenner pass to Rome became a well-trodden highway as bigwigs of Naziism and Fascism hastened hither and yon. There was mystery in the air, and it made the allies shiver.



VON RIBBENTROP
. . . scurried . . .

The last Finnish bullet had hardly thudded into a Russian breast when Moscow, Berlin and Rome began concentrating their diplomacy in the Balkans, lately an allied stronghold. To Germany fell the task of mediating between two friends who are themselves enemies, for both Italy and Russia have interests in the Balkans. Probable outcome would be a three-cornered deal with Hungary and Rumania in the middle: Both Russia and Hungary would agree to conclude non-aggression pacts with Rumania, then the Soviet would come to terms with Italy. Their peace (if not their independence) guaranteed, the Balkans would thus keep producing oil and foodstuffs for Germany. The allies would be frozen out.

This conclusion made sense in the light of at least three important developments:

Iron Guardists

At Bucharest, Rumania's King Carol suddenly received a pledge of loyalty from 250 leaders of the suppressed Nazi Iron Guard, many of whose members had either been imprisoned or had fled to Germany. Only possible explanation for such an about-face was that Carol had begun co-operating with the Reich.

At Brennero

Without warning Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini sped to a rendezvous at Brennero, a tiny town on the Italo-German frontier. While the world waited expectantly, high Nazis in Berlin nodded knowingly and dropped strong hints that Italy was about to reaffirm emphatically her allegiance to the Rome-Berlin axis. Observers expected some announcement of German-Italo-Russian collaboration in the Balkans and elsewhere.

For Mr. Welles

Better informed on this skullduggery than any allied or neutral chancellor was Sumner Welles, U. S. undersecretary of state whom President Roosevelt sent to Europe in search of a meeting ground for peace. Far from gullible, Mr. Welles was nevertheless being played by the dictators for all he was worth. Observers recalled that he had no sooner ended his first visits to Rome and Berlin than Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop scurried down to Italy, scurried back to Berlin, then scurried to Brennero with Adolf Hitler just as Mr. Welles was ending his visits in Paris and London. This indicated that the dictators were hastening to patch up a peace plan which Mr. Welles could file in his brief case. Since the allies had refused to talk peace, a gesture from the dictators might woo the U. S.

But if Mr. Welles got any such plan after Brennero, observers were pretty sure it featured a definitely victorious peace for the dictators. Probable alternative: A Moscow-Rome-Berlin triangle.

NIBLETS

MARITIME—At New York it was hinted Britain's luxury liners Queen Mary and Mauretania, now docked in the Hudson river, will be used to transport Australian troops to the Near East.

COMMERCE—At Tokyo, Japan and Argentina signed a trade pact calling for a $7,000,000 annual boost in Jap imports from the Argentine.

DEFENSE—At Honolulu the U. S. fleet prepared its 130 ships for annual war games starting in early April. Problem: To fight off an attack from across the Pacific.

RELIEF—At Washington WPA announced 205,000 would be cut from its rolls in the next month, whittling the number of jobs to 2,120,000.

ASIA—Japan named Gen. Nobuyuki Abe, ex-premier, as envoy to the puppet Chinese regime which Wang Ching-wei will establish this spring.

HOUSING:

Farm Project

United States Housing authority now has a loan power of $800,000,000, of which $626,636 has been advanced for USHA's major activities, slum clearance and urban low rent housing projects. Now before congress is the Wagner-Steagall bill (passed by the senate) which would double USHA's loan power and include $200,000,000 for one phase of housing thus far ignored by the U. S., namely, the farm.

Whether or not the Wagner-Steagall bill passes, Franklin Roosevelt decided recently to get his rural housing program started. USHA was authorized to lend $2,522,000 for financing 1,300 new farm houses in six states. (Location of projects shown on map). The plan:

RURAL HOUSING TEST AREAS
New houses: Lonoke, Ark., 300; Thomasville, Ga., 200; Cairo, Ill., 150; Terre Haute, Ind., 150; Tupelo, Miss., 300; Florence, S. C., 200.

Owner-operators, tenants, sharecroppers and farm hands will be eligible, leasing new homes through a county housing authority. (The Wagner-Steagall act would let them buy the homes, paying like rent.) Average cost: $1,682, including wiring, kitchen sink, outside sealed well and sanitary privy. Average size: Living room, dining space, kitchen and from three to five bedrooms.

BUSINESS:

Tax Time Indices

In mid-March John Q. Public could procrastinate no longer. To meet the first quarter U. S. income tax deadline he filed some 8,000,000 individual and corporation returns, mostly at the last minute.

Though treasury officials could only guess, they figured March collections from this source would be $605,000,000 compared with $505,000,000 last year. Watched even closer, however, were results from three changes in the law:

(1) State and local government employees are paying this year for the first time. Early estimates placed this "take" at $16,000,000 from 2,600,000 persons; the treasury expects much more.

(2) For the first time since 1936 corporations are free of the controversial undistributed profits tax, but—

(3) Large corporations, formerly assessed 16½ to 19 per cent, depending on amount of profits distributed to stockholders, are paying a flat 18 per cent this year.

Though bigger income taxes looked like business was improving, Cleveland's Col. Leonard P. Ayres picked this time to wonder if the opposite weren't true. Said he, in his monthly business review: There are two reasons for thinking another depression may be on the way. First: We have never had a decline like the present, following peak production, that did not continue downward to depression. Second: "Perhaps the soundest reason for arguing that this decline will go a good deal further is the fact that it has already gone so far."

SEWING CIRCLE

THERE are two styles that you know right now you'll need, even if your Spring wardrobe is not entirely settled in your own mind! During the months to come, you'll want several free-and-easy sleeveless tennis frocks; and even before that, you'll want at least one "little suit" for street and runabout. Well, here they both are, in this truly money-saving pattern (8597). The tennis frock has a swing skirt, wide, inset belt and strap back. Add the pinch-waisted little jacket-blouse (the fitting is all by means of easy darts) and there's your suit-frock.

What's more, you can make the jacket-blouse two ways—with scalloped sleeves and neckline, and with a naive, round collar. So you can see what a help this clever pattern will be! Perfect for summertime in sports cottons, it will be very smart for right now in silk print, tie silk or flat crepe.

Pattern No. 8597 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 2½ yards of 39-inch material for frock; 1⅝ yards for jacket-blouse; 3 yards trimming.

Invented Propeller

It is just a hundred years since Frederic Sauvage, inventor of the propeller, died in abject poverty in a little hotel at Le Havre, France. Sauvage was a military engineer who left the army to devote himself to shipbuilding. After 10 years of painstaking research he invented the ship's propeller which was to supplant paddle-steamers and increase speed at sea tremendously.

Sauvage received little honor during his lifetime. His invention was at first laughed to scorn, and while he was in prison for a paltry debt of a few hundred francs, unscrupulous rivals stole his idea and started to produce propellers. Powerful shipping companies fitted their vessels with Sauvage's invention, but when he tried to sue them his case was thrown out of court. He died a bitter, poverty-stricken man.

Strange Facts

Music in Silence
Rowed the Atlantic
High-Cost Injuries

Many Shinto festivals in Japan include a religious orchestra whose members only go through the motions of playing on their instruments and, consequently, do not make a sound. This "music," which is directed toward the gods, is played silently because it is too sacred to be heard by human ears.

Since 1876, nine men have been known to cross the Atlantic ocean in rowboats. Six were in pairs, while the other three succeeded alone. The last one was Joseph Lawlor, who rowed from Boston to a small port in Spain in 1911.

The largest settlement ever made on an automobile liability policy for a single accident was $225,000, which was paid a few months ago to a group of persons who were injured in a wreck of a station wagon on Long Island. Settlement was made without litigation.—Collier's.

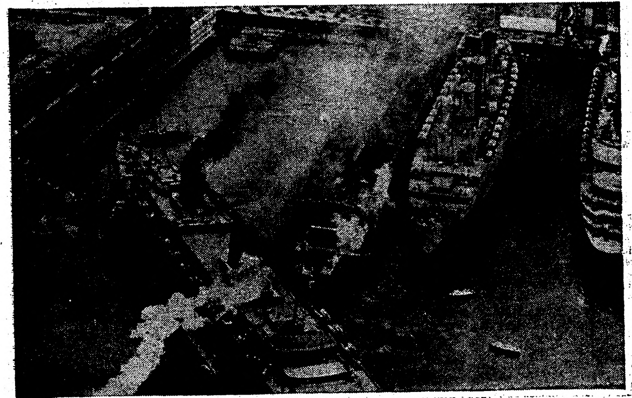
Superliners for War Debts Urged by New Yorker



Aided by a fleet of tugs, the Queen Elizabeth, British luxury liner, is warped into her New York harbor berth—haven from the European war. For neighbors she will have the Queen Mary, her sister ship, and the French liner, Normandie—the largest ships in the world. Combined value of the three superships is $103,750,000. Assemblyman John A. Devaney, Bronx Democrat, introduced into the lower house of the New York legislature a resolution proposing that the American government seize the three liners in payment of World war debts.

Soviet Oil for Hitler's War Machine

At Przemysl, town which was once well in the interior of Poland, but which is now on the dividing line between Russia and Germany, oil from Soviet railway tank cars is transshipped to German cars to be rushed for military use. THAT lace curtains are in fashion again is news! This easy-to-make and easy-to-hang valance is something that many of you have been wanting. All the dimensions for cutting it are given here. The glass curtains are hung on the lower rod; the side drapes on the upper rod; and the valance is draped over knob holders.

The color plan for this window began with the glazed chintz drapery material in tones of green, beige and golden yellow. The darkest green—a soft olive tone, was used in sateen to line the valance and make the tie-backs. The brass holders for the valance repeated the golden yellow. The cream glass curtains toned into the drapery background, and a plain olive green window shade was used.

HOW MUCH DID YOU PAY?

- ● Even if you paid no Income Tax, don't think for a moment that you paid no tax at all.
- ● No one can escape paying taxes in one form or another . . . but excessive taxes can be avoided!
- ● One easy and practical way is through maintaining industries which pay huge taxes and thus help to keep down our individual taxes.
- ● The Brewing Industry of Minnesota, as a whole, pays about $2,000,000 annually to the State Treasury for taxes on beer alone. To counties and municipalities it pays additional taxes for licenses, real estate and property. Its Excise Tax on beer to the Federal Government averages $12,000,000 a year.
- ● This huge tax revenue pays a large share of the cost of Federal, State and County governments. It helps pay for schools, old-age pensions, relief.
- ● If this tax revenue were lost, our individual taxes would surely be much higher!
- ● In addition to this, the Brewing Industry of Minnesota eases our tax burden by keeping over 25,000 in gainful jobs . . . buys over $3,000,000 of Minnesota farm products annually, and makes a mild, healthful beverage that promotes True Temperance by encouraging Moderation.

Round Up Range Horses

The bureau of animal industry says that there are 11 states of the Union known as western range states which round up range horses—namely, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Nevada, Wyoming, Oregon, California, Washington, Montana, Idaho and Utah. These horses are sold at auction under state laws.

R's And Oysters

WHAT nine letter word ending with R denotes a month of the year, and joy to millions?

It's not a cross-word puzzle. It's a fact, and the word is S-e-p-t-e-m-b-e-R. The prominent "R" denotes that oysters are again in season, which is the cause for the joy.

Oystermen tell a story that sets the date of the first joy over an oyster. They hang the story on an aboriginal man who, out beachcombing or sun-tanning, saw what he mistook for a queer-looking stone in the water. He ran and picked it up. No sooner had he done so than he let out a scream. His finger had been pinched. When he succeeded in prying his finger loose, to lessen the pain he stuck it in his mouth. A smile crept over his aboriginal face. You've smiled the same smile when you've said, "Walter, bring me another dozen on the half shell."

Wealth in Oysters

Ever since that memorable day we have been prying open oyster shells—till today we eat about $20,000,000 worth of oysters a year. Not only because they taste delectable, but also because they are a most healthful food—containing iron and manganese, rich in iodine and containing also well balanced amounts of proteins, carbohydrates and fats.

Pale women in Wales used to be advised to eat oysters. Doctors today advise them for men and women and children who need mineral to offset anemia. It is fortunate then, for pale women today, that they do not have to live in Wales or in some seacoast town to enjoy the health-giving properties of oysters. Canned oysters are available in all parts of the country, and besides being rich in nutritive value, they have that delicious tang of oysters freshly-opened on the shore.

Rebuild Part Of Highway 32

The Minnesota highway department recently called for bids on gravel base and bituminous treatment of 7.1 miles on Highway 32, extending from Thief River Falls to one-half mile north of Steiner. The project involves 37,315 tons of gravel, 110,000 gallons of bituminous material and 4,126 tons of mineral aggregate. This section of the highway at present is in poor condition. The local work is one of $500,000 worth of new state construction projects, the first major jobs of the 1940 construction season, on which bids will be opened today. Included are 13 projects in ten counties in the southern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre and Walter Wegge made a trip to Pembina N. D. Sunday to visit at the Harold Nohre home.

To Aid Joint Borrowers

The Federal Land Bank of St. Paul and the Farm Security Administration have recently made arrangements to cooperate to the fullest extent to increase the effectiveness of aid available through both organizations to joint borrowers.

The agencies will work together to help borrowers analyze problems plan soundf arm and home management practices and keep records.

In planning with Federal Land Bank borrowers who also have Farm Security loans, the FSA will emphasize the advantages of providing as much of the family living as possible from the farm.

FSA experience shows, said M. G. Flaten, state director for Minnesota that the non-cash income available from a sound live-at-home program, coupled with a carefully planned household budget, is a major factor in the rehabilitation of depressed farm families, he said that officials of the Federal Land Bank feel their distressed borrowers can greatly improve their status by adopting such a program to maintain constant check and control of their living expenses and income.

As a result of cooperation between the two agencies it is expected that many Federal Land Bank borrowers will once more regain independent ownership of their farms.

Large Army To Take Census

An army of 120,000 census-takers rested its arches Saturday, ready to trudge to each doorstep in America for the biggest question campaign in the decade.

The zero hour was at 12:01 A. M. Monday, though the count did not start until Tuesday. Everyone alive at that moment will be counted, disregarding either births or deaths a few minutes later.

Four other censuses will go on at the same time. The censuses of manufacturers and other business, such as wholesalers and retailers, started January 2, and are still operating. A tally of housing and agriculture will start this week.

Population enumerators started their rounds on Tuesday because of a technicality. Ten years ago congress ordered censuses to begin on April 2 each decade because April 1, 1930, was on a Sunday.

Things to be tabulated include not only the age, sex and location of every person, but such other items as individual income from wages up to $5,000, location five year ago, education, citizenship, employment status, marital status, and occupation.

In the housing census will be questions about value, type and size of structures, mortgage indebtedness and whether occupancy is by owner or renters. The agricultural census will tabulate the number, acreage and ~~value of farms and farm~~ buildings, nature and acreage of different crops, mortgage indebtedness and number of workers.

Population figures for the nation and each state must, by law, be reported to the president by December 1, and may be available several weeks earlier than that. In 1930, the count was 122,775,046. Now it is estimated at about 132,000,000.

Next to the population total, the figures most sought in the census will be the count of the unemployed—the first such tabulation in history. This figure may be the basis of far-reaching legislation in the future.

Another first-timer will be a tabulation of how people have moved around in the last five years—such as the migration of midwestern farmers out of the dust bowl.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Several times, in this column, I have asked certain questions pertaining to safe driving. Some of the editors have felt that this type of information is valuable and interesting.

The question today is: During any one hour period, when are automobile accidents most frequent?

There have been some wild guesses on this, but statistics show that the hour between 5 and 6 p. m. is the danger hour for accidents. This is due to several things. In a congested or metropolitan area, people on their way home from work, take unnecessary chances in hurrying through heavy traffic. On long trips, the average person becomes tired at dusk and, therefore, coming darkness together with fatigue, are responsible for many accidents.

Be careful at all time, but be especially careful at this time of the day.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been one of the greatest varieties in some time for this section of the state and for the entire nation for that matter.

It started on Thursday morning of last week with a light drizzle of rain that froze at once and made travel next to impossible for the day. Then late the same night we had a heavy wet snowfall which did not improve conditions any. Saturday and Sunday were nice warm days and it looked like we were thru with bad weather.

Monday it brewed all day and Tuesday night it broke loose again with a real heavy rain and thunder and lightning which was the hardest that has been recorded in the north that early for a long time. Late the same evening the rain turned to sleet and snow. Many localities got only snow. Warroad reports a foot of wet snow.

On Wednhsday it was windy and roads drifted up here while on the Iron Range near Duluth the sleet was heavy and all but ruined communication and power lines.

Yesterday morning the sun came out bright which made the world around us look like it was set with diamonds. Long icicles hung from every bush and the trees here appeared to be wrapped in cellophane.

Beckwith Will Speak Here

The Honorable H. S. Beckwith of Argyle will be the principal speaker at the Men,s Club at the Nazareth Lutheran Church on Tuesday evening, April 9, at 8 p. m. Mr. Beckwith is a member of the House of Representatives from this county in our State Legislature. His topic will deal with present day problems which should be interesting to all. Following the address, there will be the usual informal discussion consisting of questions and answeres,

Among those present from Holt at the Gustavus Adolphus Choir Concert at Thief River Falls Sunday evening were: A. O. Aspelin and daughter Caroline. Mr. and Mrs. M. Sandberg and girls, Mrs. C. Sandberg and son Robert, Rev. and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carlson, Marian Olson, Jean Sorum, Marian Backlund, Irene Ness, Virginia Fadden, Carol Larson, Helen Erickson, Emil Kaufert, Marlan Augustine and Murnet Johnson.

THE QUESTION THAT'S DRIVING US MAD

Problem Number One now facing all Americans is "How to Behave and What to Say" to the question, "Do you think Roosevelt wants a third term?"

• • •

The question is becoming irritating. It is driving many people mad to the point of violence. A survey by this department shows that more people go around asking "Do you think Roosevelt wants a third term?' than any other question, including "What time is it?" and "How is business?"

• • •

leading questions as of the past week:

| | |
|---|---|
| "Do you think Roosevelt w. a. t. t.?" | 11,546,789 |
| "Did you ever see a winter like this?" | 6,785,432 |
| "Do you think things are any better?" | 5,935,824 |
| "Do you think there is any chance of peace by spring over there?". | 5,436,890 |
| "Am I lifting my head or is it my grip on the club?" | 1,456,233 |

• • •

The interrogation is becoming a menace. It is getting on the nerves of America. The Twitchell Poll showed that 550,634 persons interviewed last week favored bashing the head of the person asking the question; 134,588 favored throttling; 25,678 were for the use of firearms.

• • •

Mr. Twitchell thinks there will be wide bloodshed if something isn't done about the matter. Always against violence, he believes the thing to do when anybody asks the question is to stare at the person intently and make no reply at first. When the person repeats the question he would answer: "Oh, I don't know. You've got to remember that the Yanks are a terrific hitting club."

• • •

But this course has its drawbacks. It foils the questioner, but is a strain on the other party. This column has asked some leading citizens what they now say when anybody chirps, "Do you think Roosevelt, etc."

SAFE AT LAST!

John Hamilton: "I just say, 'I'm all right; how are you feeling?'"

Al Smith: "My answer is always, 'It depends whether it's on white or rye bread.'"

Nicholas Murray Butler: "When anybody asks me 'Do you think Roosevelt will run again?' I just yawn and say, 'I don't know; I'm a stranger here myself.'"

Congressman Dies: "I just ask questions, I don't answer 'em."

Greta Garbo: "When anybody esk me if Roosevelt bane run again I always say, 'No; Jimmy no want it any more; he is satisfied to stay in Hollywood.'"

• • •

So there you are.

• • •

HOLLYWOOD CHATTER

"Looka, Marge. Here's a picture of Queen Mary."

"Whaddaya know about that! She looks just like Edna May Oliver."

• • •

"I hear M. G. M. is making a picture on 'The Life of the Bee.'"

"Yeah. But how are they going to work Tyrone Power into that one?"

• • •

Adolf, the dispatches say, has lost weight. That uniform he was never going to take off until Germany had won the war will present a serious problem. It's pretty hard to take in the slack of a pair of pants when they're still on the wearer.

• • •

When Hitler started the war he declared that he had put on his army uniform and would never remove it until Germany had won. It must be sticking to the skin a little now.

• • •

Mr. Chamberlain warns the British people that the war may start in earnest. We always had an idea this war might develop into a war.

• • •

THE REAL BLITZKRIEG

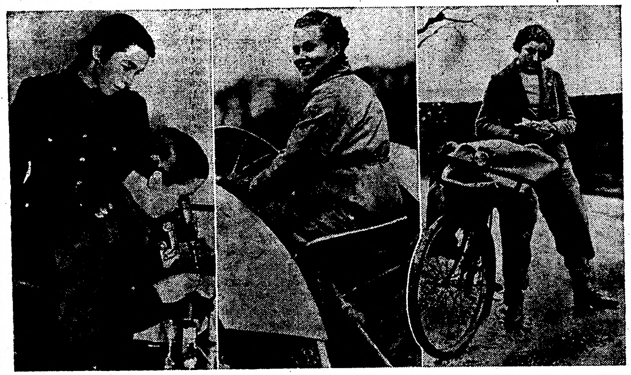
The United States has an airplane that will fly seven miles a minute and carries a cannon and four machine guns. If it only had a lady with an open umbrella it would terrorize the world.

• • •

A federal agency is investigating insurance companies. Insurance men must have slowed up a lot. If they were in old-time form they would have sold new policies to each investigator before the hearing had been under way a half hour.

They Also Serve: British Women Offer War-Time Aid



Because the men of England are occupied with a war, women are being pressed into service to a greater extent than ever. Left: Two women doctors recently appointed to the royal army medical corps, the first time in army history that women have filled these roles. Center: Plowgirl Thala Bowman is one of four women who banded together to reclaim unused farm land. Miss Bowman was a former tap dancer. One of the other four was a mannequin, one a stenographer, and the fourth an advertising woman. Right: Miss Rosemary Smith, 16, has taken over the postman's job in Glynde, England, while he is at the front.

Women Leaders Plan 1940 Centennial Congress

Problems concerned with the advancement of mankind, achievements of women during the past 100 years and the present status of women will be studied by delegates to the Woman's Centennial congress late in 1940. Planning the New York meeting in November are (seated) Miss Josephine Schain, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Miss Henrietta Roelofs and Miss Mary W. Hillyer. Standing: Mrs. Helsey Wilson, Miss Alda H. Wilson and Mrs. Albin Johnson. Other leaders are Pearl S. Buck, Frances Perkins and Dorothy Canfield Fisher.

Baseball's Heavy Hitters Compare Bats

A quartet of baseball's greatest sluggers compare bats (and batting averages) at Tampa, Fla., where stars of the National league beat American league topnotchers 2 to 1 in the all-star game. Here's amazing way to Relieve 'Regular' Pains

Mrs. I. C. Lawson writes: "I was undernourished, had cramps, headaches and backache, associated with my monthly periods. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for a while, gained strength, and was greatly relieved of these pains."

FOR over 70 years, countless thousands of women, who suffered functional monthly pains, have taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription over a period of time—and have been overjoyed to find that this famous remedy has helped them ward off such monthly discomforts.

Most amazing, this scientific remedy, formulated by a practicing physician, is guaranteed to contain no harmful drugs—no narcotics. In a scientific way, it improves nutritional assimilation; helps build you up and so increases your resistance and fortifies you against functional pain. Lessens nervousness during this trying period.

Don't suffer one unnecessary moment from such monthly discomfort. Get Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription from your druggist. Discover how wonderfully it acts to relieve you of "Regular" pains.

Pretty Frocks for Your Lamp Shades

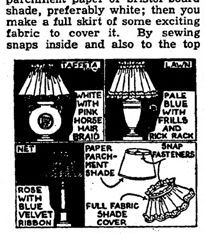
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A CHANGE of lamp shades gives any room a lift, and here is a smart, new transformation trick. You start with a plain parchment paper or bristol board shade, preferably white; then you make a full skirt of some exciting fabric to cover it. By sewing snaps inside and also to the top of the shade, it is easy to remove these for laundering or cleaning.



TAFFETA
WHITE WITH PINK HORSE HAIR BRAID
LAWN
PALE BLUE WITH FRILLS AND RICK RACK
NET
ROSE WITH BLUE VELVET RIBBON
PAPER PARCHMENT SHADE
SNAP FASTENERS
FULL FABRIC SHADE COVER

Taffeta, lawn, net, organdy, swiss, gingham—all are used and the imagination runs riot in trimmings. Frills or double ruchings at the top and bottom are favorites. Edges are pinked or machine stitched in heavy contrasting thread. Contrasting shirring holds the fullness at the top; and color is added by means of fancy braids, ribbons or bias tape, according to type. Sewing Book 1 and 4, contain directions for making a foundation frame, or you may use a shade that you already have.

NOTE: Each of the four booklets Mrs. Spears has prepared for our readers contains an assortment of 32 pages of curtains; slip covers; rag rugs; toys; gifts and novelties for bazaars. Books are 10 cents each—please order by number—No. 1, 2, 3, and 4—With your order for four books, you will receive a FREE set of three Quilt Block Patterns of Mrs. Spears' Favorite Early American Quilts. Send your order to:

Congress Flees New Tax Issue After Boosting Farm Budget; Look Covetously at Treasury

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

CONGRESS:

Morgenthau's Misery

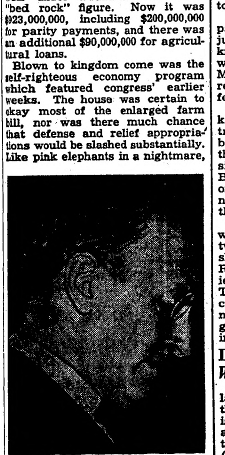
Clad in an expensive new Easter suit, the 1940-41 farm appropriation bill was sent back to the house. Only a few weeks earlier, dressed in threadbare tatters, the house had sent it to a big-hearted senate. At that time it stood at $714,000,000, well under Franklin Roosevelt's "bed rock" figure. Now it was $923,000,000, including $200,000,000 for parity payments, and there was an additional $90,000,000 for agricultural loans.

Blown to kingdom come was the self-righteous economy program which featured congress' earlier weeks. The house was certain to okay most of the enlarged farm bill, nor was there much chance that defense and relief appropriations would be slashed substantially. Like pink elephants in a nightmare, the ogre of too much spending appeared simultaneously before congress and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau. Anxious to spend, but not anxious to raise the debt limit or levy new taxes in an election year, many a legislator turned covetous eyes on the treasury's surpluses.



TREASURER MORGENTHAU

"... the time may come ..."

One possibility was the $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund. Hearing about this, Treasurer Morgenthau protested: "... the time may come when we will get down on our knees and give thanks that it's still there."

Another possibility was to take the $300,000,000 farm bill increase out of the treasury's working balance. Treasurer Morgenthau shuddered at this, pointing out that the working balance by next June will be only $500,000,000.

Frankly worried, Treasurer Morgenthau protested again when congressmen hinted that the 31.2 per cent gain in income tax collections might preclude new taxes. Next day, showing that he was disgusted with the nation's fiscal carelessness, he ordered that baby bonds could henceforth be sold only to private individuals. Reason: To hold sales at a minimum, thus keeping the debt from mounting too rapidly.

While Treasurer Morgenthau sweated, the senate, which had wreaked all this havoc, began discussing the reciprocal trade treaty bill and headed for a close vote

EUROPE:

Haymakers

Late March found neither European belligerent paying much attention to actual warfare. The terrific North sea aerial attacks of a week earlier had settled into an allied blockade of Scandinavian shores, aimed at stopping shipments to Germany in spite of Norwegian and Swedish neutrality protests. Britain and France were busy setting their houses in order. The dictators were busy making hay in the Balkans.

The Allies. Premier Paul Reynaud, appointed when Edouard Daladier's French cabinet resigned, got off to a humble start when the chamber of deputies gave him only a one vote majority in the first ballot. Later, when Reynaud stuck out his chin and announced his determination to fight the wars both at home and on the western front, the chamber increased its majority to 17.

France's political crisis had apparently passed, but Britain's was just beginning to brew. Nobody knew who would be ousted, but it was a virtual certainty that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain would reorganize his cabinet to include a few Laborites.

The Dictators. Turkey, only Balkan friend of the allies, was busy trying to patch up an agreement between London, Paris and Moscow, thus staving off a threatened expansion of hostilities into the near east. But the dictators, apparently bent on making the Balkans benevolently neutral, were playing every card in their deck.

Germany, with the most to gain, worked for a "reapproachement" between Italy and Russia. Meanwhile she also pressed new demands on Rumania, chiefly concerning speedier oil and agricultural production. There was every reason to believe combined Russian-German pressure made Rumania the next "Finland," given her choice between capitulating or being beaten to death.

NAMES in the news ...

- At Gibraltar, British authorities stopped the Conte di Savoia bearing Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles home from Europe. Reason: To look for Hjalmar Schacht, Nazi economic expert, thought to be aboard.
- At Paris died Dr. Edouard Branly, 96, credited by many with discovering the principles of wireless telegraphy.
- From Baltimore to his winter home at Miami Beach sped ex-Gangster Al Capone. A physician said he was "considerably weakened" by the trip.
- At Tokyo, Jap authorities convicted James R. Young, U. S. writer, on charge of "spreading false rumors." A six-month sentence was suspended.
- At Berlin another son was born to Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, and the former Russian Grand Duchess Kira, daughter of the late Czarist pretender.

DEFENSE:

Warplane Tempest

Ever since World War II began last fall isolationists have argued that sale of U. S. warplanes abroad is (1) blocking expansion of our own airforce; (2) exposing U. S. military secrets to the highest bidder; (3) boosting aircraft prices because of the rush of foreign orders.

By late March this tempest seemed headed for a showdown. Both house and senate military affairs committees planned hearings on the subject. President Roosevelt injected his two-bits worth by debunking the military secrets charge. He advocated mass sale of U. S. planes abroad to build up production channels. Next day an allied purchasing commission offered to place a billion-dollar plane order if secret mechanism were included. Shortly thereafter the war department brought down congressional wrath by permitting foreign sale of some 500 new 400 m. p. h. pursuit ships.

JUGGERNAUT'S TAIL

Europe and back, nonstop!

Meanwhile, the army had answers to the two other charges:

(1) It was maintained that sales abroad have helped development of newer and better planes for the U. S.

(2) Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson denied that prices were being boosted. Example: The Aluminum Company of America (which cut its ingot price from 20 cents to 19 cents a pound) notified him that mass production has resulted in a saving of 5 per cent on aluminum. On one unspecified bomber the price would drop $300.

To army air experts, more exciting than this argument was their purchase of the world's largest airplane (see cut), a 70-ton juggernaut capable of carrying 28 tons of bombs non-stop to Europe and back. Double the size of the famous "flying fortress," it will have a 210-foot wingspread and fly more than 200 m. p. h. The first will cost $1,000,000; subsequent ships, in mass production, will cost about $350,000 each.

JAPAN:

Eyes Abroad

For the nonce Japan's problems in China were settled. Gen. Chiang Kai-shek still had 2,000,000 men in the field but Nippon had made considerable progress. Puppet Wang Ching-wei planned to establish his Tokyo-dominated government at Nanking about the first of April, bigheartedly granting "autonomy" to vast and rich north China which thus came closer within Japan's own orbit.

POLITICS:

Farley's Inning

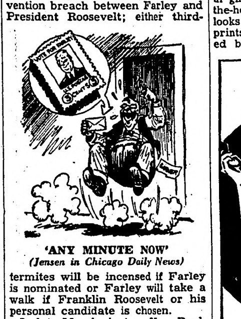
Most important political announcement of the year was Postmaster General Jim Farley's statement in Boston that his name would go before the Democratic national convention this year—"and that's that." Overnight observers began testing Farley's strength, wondering if he could be President or second mate. They forecast a positive convention breach between Farley and President Roosevelt; either third-termites will be incensed if Farley is nominated or Farley will take a walk if Franklin Roosevelt or his personal candidate is chosen.



'ANY MINUTE NOW'

(Jensen in Chicago Daily News)

In late March, just as New Dealers were beginning to fear Farley's tremendous following among Democratic state and local leaders, the postmaster general left on a business trip into the politically important border and southern states. It was obvious that political discussions could not be avoided, therefore observers expected Candidate Farley to tell his followers they should begin lining up behind someone like Secretary of State Cordell Hull. For himself, Farley was thought to be satisfied with the vice presidency.

Watching these goings-on, many another Democratic hopeful became worried. Indiana's Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, a staunch supporter of Candidate Paul McNutt, suggested frankly that Jim Farley should retire as Democratic national chairman. Said he: "I do not think it is fair that Farley should capitalize on the prestige which that office entails."

AGRICULTURE:

Cotton Woe

Last winter the U. S. saw a ray of hope in its cotton problem. The 1939 crop of 11,500,000 bales was 2,000,000 bales short of domestic and export demand. Thus supplies in storage under loans were withdrawn to supply the market. Meanwhile Great Britain took 1,526,000 bales in the seven months ending March 1, compared with only 320,000 bales in the same period a year earlier.

Then came the blow. At Washington, British trade officials announced that United Kingdom purchases of American cotton must be curtailed to save foreign exchange. A second reason is that British cotton ships have frequently come to the U. S. empty; by turning to South America for cotton the British hope to fill their ships with English-made goods which can be sold to pay for the cotton.

Unhappy, agriculture department officials predicted the U. S. would again be asked to advance large loans on unmarketable surpluses.

Also received was talk of a new export subsidy program next fall.

COMMUNICATIONS:

Chaos

Teletypes pounded out gibberish; Easter telegrams were delayed and radio stations found their transmission distance cut to 50 miles or less. European cables were completely "out" and long distance telephones barked with static. Such were the manifestations of Mother Earth's worst electrical bombardment since 1907, when the U. S. was isolated from Europe three hours. Studying the phenomenon, astronomers figured a solar cyclone had created a gigantic sun spot, many times larger than the earth. Much stronger (about 500 volts) than normal transmission power (160 volts), the bombardment came into conflict with normal directions of the earth's own electric currents. Result: Temporary chaos.

MISCELLANY:

Immoral Bath

At Los Angeles, pretty, 17-year-old Joan Aveline Lawrence complained because she thought mass bathing in her high school gymnasium shower room was "immoral." Next day the school's attorney announced a private shower room would be arranged.

- Into effect on eastern railroads went new low 2 cents-a-mile one-way coach rates with round-trip reductions. Meanwhile major bus lines cut their rates to keep pace, some as much as 30 per cent.
- At Disney, Okla., gates on the federal Grand River dam clanged shut and water began rising in a 52,000-acre reservoir which Gov. Leon C. Phillips charged would cause $889,000 damage to state-owned property. But a federal court ruled against his protest.
- At St. Louis, Circuit Court Judge Thomas Rowe took under advisement a contempt citation against the Post-Dispatch and three staff members whose editorials and cartoons criticized the dismissal in Judge Rowe's court of defendants in an extortion case.

Frock for Home Or Street Wear

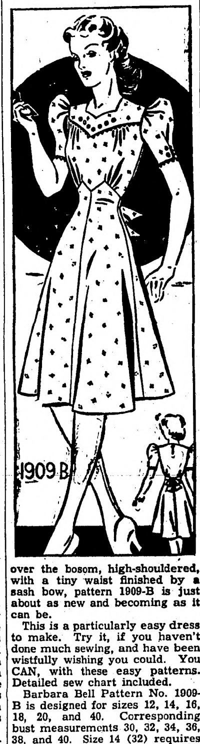
THIS charming little frock has such a beguilingly flattering figure-line, and it looks so crisply tailored, that you can appropriately make it up in spun rayon or thin wool for runabout, as well as in gingham or percale for round-the-house. Its piquant simplicity looks especially attractive in gay prints and high shades, punctuated by buttons and braid. Full over the bosom, high-shouldered, with a tiny waist finished by a sash bow, pattern 1909-B is just about as new and becoming as it can be.



This is a particularly easy dress to make. Try it, if you haven't done much sewing, and have been wistfully wishing you could. You CAN, with these easy patterns. Detailed sew chart included.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1909-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 3¾ yards of 36-inch material without nap; 1⅝ yards braid. Send order to:

The shop keeper was wondering how to dispose of three large cheeses which had spoiled.

He instructed his assistant to put one of them in the back yard to see if anyone would take it during the night. The assistant did so, and next morning he reported the cheese had disappeared.

That evening the second cheese was deposited in the yard, and in the morning it had gone.

On the third evening the remaining cheese was carried out.

"I suppose," said the manager the next morning, "that the third cheese has gone?"

"No," was the reply, "the other two have come back."

HOW MUCH DID YOU PAY?

- Even if you paid no Income Tax, don't think for a moment that you paid no tax at all.
- No one can escape paying taxes in one form or another . . . but excessive taxes can be avoided!
- One easy and practical way is through maintaining industries which pay huge taxes and thus help to keep down our individual taxes.
- The Brewing Industry of Minnesota, as a whole, pays about $2,000,000 annually to the State Treasury for taxes on beer alone. To counties and municipalities it pays additional taxes for licenses, real estate and property. Its Excise Tax on beer to the Federal Government averages $12,000,000 a year.
- This huge tax revenue pays a large share of the cost of Federal, State and County governments. It helps pay for schools, old-age pensions, relief.
- If this tax revenue were lost, our individual taxes would surely be much higher!
- In addition to this, the Brewing Industry of Minnesota eases our tax burden by keeping over 25,000 in gainful jobs . . . buys over $3,000,000 of Minnesota farm products annually, and makes a mild, healthful beverage that promotes True Temperance by encouraging Moderation.

GUARD AGAINST HOG CHOLERA

Although more than thirty years have elapsed since scientists discovered that hog cholera was due to a virus this dreaded contagion of swine still ranks as the hog industry's most important menace. For example over 14,600 swine carcasses were condemned last year at federally inspected packing plants because they were infected with cholera virus.

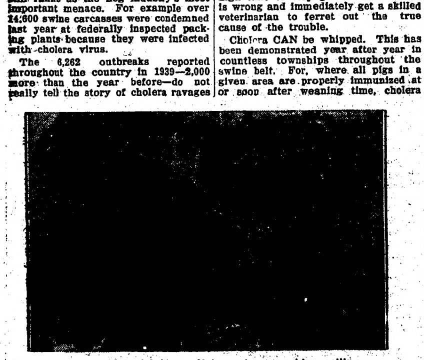
The 6,262 outbreaks reported throughout the country in 1939—2,000 more than the year before—do not really tell the story of cholera ravages for countless droves were handled locally without being reported to authorities.

All too often almost complete loss of a valuable herd of hogs occurs because the owner mistakenly thinks that a beginning sickness in the drove is due to a feeding error, to a change in the weather or to some other cause. Then when skilled help is obtained the virus may have spread so quickly that salvage is impossible.

Any time that one or more pigs in an unvaccinated herd hide in the bedding and show little inclination to eat; when they walk with a weak, staggering gait and show diarrhea, or when their eyelids gum shut . . . then it is high time to stop guesswork on what is wrong and immediately get a skilled veterinarian to ferret out the true cause of the trouble.

Cholera CAN be whipped. This has been demonstrated year after year in countless townships throughout the swine belt. For, where all pigs in a given area are properly immunized at or soon after weaning time, cholera losses rarely get a running start, and each immune drove serves as a living barrier against an invasion of the virus.

If every swine raiser will cooperate with his local veterinarian in seasonable immunization of all pigs the current twenty million dollar a year loss from hog cholera can be soon made a thing of the past.



Typical cholera-sick hogs. Note weakness, and hogs piling up.

Round Up Range Horses

The bureau of animal industry says that there are 11 states of the Union known as western range states which round up range horses—namely, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Nevada, Wyoming, Oregon, California, Washington, Montana, Idaho and Utah. These horses are sold at auction under state laws.

R's And Oysters

WHAT nine letter word ending with R denotes a month of the year, and joy to millions?

It's not a cross-word puzzle. It's a fact, and the word is S-e-p-t-e-m-b-e-R. The prominent "R" denotes that oysters are again in season, which is the cause for the joy.

Oystermen tell a story that sets the date of the first joy over an oyster. They hang the story on an aboriginal man who, out beach-combing or sun-tanning, saw what he mistook for a queer-looking stone in the water. He ran and picked it up. No sooner had he done so than he let out a scream. His finger had been pinched. When he succeeded in prying his finger loose, to lessen the pain he stuck it in his mouth. A smile crept over his aboriginal face. You've smiled the same smile when you've said, "Waiter, bring me another dozen on the half shell."

Wealth in Oysters

Ever since that memorable day we have been prying open oyster shells—till today we eat about $20,000,000 worth of oysters a year. Not only because they taste delectable, but also because they are a most healthful food—containing iron and manganese, rich in iodine and containing also well balanced amounts of proteins, carbohydrates and fats.

Pale women in Wales used to be advised to eat oysters. Doctors today advise them for men and women and children who need mineral to offset anemia. It is fortunate then, for pale women today, that they do not have to live in Wales or in some seacoast town to enjoy the health-giving properties of oysters. Canned oysters are available in all parts of the country, and besides being rich in nutritive value, they have that delicious tang of oysters freshly-opened on the shore.*

Awarded Road Contracts

Alley and Son, Roseau, and Ose Brothers, Excel township, were the successful bidders for Marshall county highway construction projects at a letting by the county board of commissioners last week.

Contracts awarded call for an expenditure of $26,202.46 on 83.-83 miles of road work on both county aid and state aid systems. Alley and Son bid 5 cents a yard for excavation on two sections of the awards in the first and third districts, while the Ose Brothers bid was for 7 cents a yard on two sections of work in the fourth and fifth districts, said H. J. Knutson, assistant county engineer, who gave this report to the Warren Sheaf.

The Roseau firm bid for highways 2, 27 and 29 totaled $4,780. 79 and for roads 4, 5A, 6, 37 and 58 the total was $8,263.68. Ose Brothers bid for roads 8 and 40 totaled $6,537.57 and for roads 42, 59 and 60 the total was $6,620.42. There may be some slight changes in these figures, as they are only preliminary.

There were eight contractors bidding for the various projects.

It is understood that one of the jobs the Ose Brothers got is for a two-mile stretch of road two miles east of Holt, running south from the gravel road on the northwest corner of the J. P. Benitt farm to the Wendt corner in Excel township.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hasien and family visited at the Henry Nohre home Friday evening.

To Aid Joint Borrowers

The Federal Land Bank of St. Paul and the Farm Security Administration have recently made arrangements to cooperate to the fullest extent to increase the effectiveness of aid available through both organizations to joint borrowers.

The agencies will work together to help borrowers analyze problems plan soundf arm and home management practices and keep records.

In planning with Federal Land Bank borrowers who also have Farm Security loans, the FSA will emphasize the advantages of providing as much of the family living as possible from the farm.

The Weather

The weather the past week has not been so very warm and the snow has had a rest as far as thawing is concerned. According to charts of the weather we are having the same as a year ago. Then it was only 10 above on the 11th of April and this year Fargo reported 8 above yesterday morning.

Farmers who are interested in getting buttermilk for their use on the farm will compete for the 1940 supply from the creamery next Monday when the board of directors meet and open bids.

Rev. and Mrs. Hanson and son spent a few days at Milan Minn. this week.

Many Farmers Participate

More than 2500 farmers in Marshall county have already indicated they intend to participate in the 1940 AAA program, reports Mr. Chas. N. Kranz, chairman of the county AAA committee. This number will be increased somewhat by April 30, deadline for signing the "farm plan" and indicating intentions to participate, Kranz predicted.

Under provisions of the 1940 AAA program, complete participation will enable a farmer to earn:

19 cents (9 cents conservation, 10 cents parity) per bushel on the normal yield of his wheat acreage allotment.

Approximately $1.10 per acre on the acreage available for general crops.

Special payments for carrying out approved soil-building practices.

Corn and wheat loans as authorized by the AAA.

Eligibility for full advantages of the Federal Crop Insurance program.

The county chairman urged this week that Marhall county farmers wishing to participate in the 1940 AAA program complete and sign "farm plans" soon, since no conservation or parity payments will be made on any farm for which a "farm plan" has not been signed before May 1. Those unable to attend sign-up meetings now in progress in the county are urged to contact their local AAA committeemen as soon as possible.

Last year farmers, operating 97 per cent of the cropland of Marshall County participated in the 1939 AAA program. Indications now are that the 1940 sign-up in the county will be about the same as last year, Mr. Kranz said.

Facts About Wheat Varieties

The Northwest Crop Improvement Association has conducted wheat variety tests for the past eight years for the purpose of securing commercial milling and baking information on many new varities. These trials have been made in comparison with well recognized, standard varities. The results of the 1939 trials were discussed by representatives of the Northwest Spring Wheat Mills on March 8, 1940. Following the meeting their recommendations were as follows:

"Thatcher is preferred stem rust retistant variety of spring wheat. Northwest mills have found that it will produce a flour readily acceptable to the baker and housewife. Ceres, Marquis and Reward likewise have acceptable flour qualities but lack resistance to stem rust."

Certain hard red spring wheat varieties have characteristics that make them very desirable to the consumer. Other varieties have characteristics that render them less desirable and often unacceptable for the high grade wheat flours. Varieties of proven inferior quality often appear under new names thus disguising their identity. Any variety that cannot be recommended by your experiment station and the Northwest Crop Improvement Association, because of low yield, lack of disease resistance of undesirable milling qualities, should be avoided.

War Hits Scandinavians

The Scandinavians in northern Minnesota were saddened this week when they heard that the Germans had invaded Denmark and Norway. The war which many hoped would not involve these peaceful countries has now moved right in on them. The Germans hold many ports in Norway including Oslo their capitol city. The government has moved from there to Hamar.

According to news of the radio yesterday morning, the British had taken Bergen and Narvik ports back from the Germans and that they landing British troops at many other places along the Noway coast. Another report from Stockholm, Sweden, stated that Wednesday night which was moonlight and clear near the Skaggerak, there raged one of the heaviest sea battles between the British and German fleets since the war started on September 3 last fall.

The report also stated that many German troop transport ships were sunk and that soldiers were floating up to the shores along Sweden by the hundreds and that a lot of them appeared to be youths of only 16 and 17 years of age.

A late bulletin states that the Norwegian army was fighting the Nazi hard in all ports and expected that as soon as the British get in line and contact with them, that it would not be long before they would capture the few Germans that so far have gotten into Norway.

Mr. and Mrs. Christ Saustad of Thief River Falls, Robert Forder of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Henning, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peterson and Ferne Peterson were guests at a turkey dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Saastad on Sunday.

Headache For The Mothers

Mud, water and wet snow are facinating play materials to the youngsters, but to mothers these heralds of spring may mean an extra "headache". Keeping children out of the mud is a problem that may be solved on the front porch.

Your porch can be converted into a dry, clean play space which will be especially good if exposed to the sun. Blocks, sand, a swing and boxes will satisfy play needs, and a temporary railing and gate will keep the tiny tots within bounds.

If your hair turns several shades lighter when you see young John shakily climb to alarming heights, remember that climbing is an instinctive growth need and not a naughty desire to worry parents. Children will welcome a short, lightweight ladder that they can carry around. Few ever have enough blocks to satisfy their creative talents. Make large hollow blocks for porch use from small wooden cheese or dried fruit boxes. To keep a sandpile under control, put the sand in a box built for the purpose or surrounded by side boards. Swings are always fun and are easy and inexpensive to make.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wegge and Carol and Evey visited at the Jesse Sorum home Sunday evening.

Beckwith Spoke At Club

H. S. Beckwith of Argyle, Representive in the Legislature from Marshall County was the speaker at the Men's Club here on Tuesday evening. Mr. Beckwith spoke on some very interesting subjects such as the Rural Electrification setup and also on the weed and seed laws of the state.

Taken up at this meeting also was the renewing of the charter of the local Boy Scout Troop Committeemen for the coming year. Sam Lorentson and Olaf Ness were reappointed. C. A. Larson was appointed to take the place of H. O. Hanson, retired. Mr. Hartley Peterson was reappointed as Scoutmaster.

Bernt Larson of Argyle accompanied Mr. Beckwith here and attended the meeting. At the close of the evening Mr. Tnompson, who is president of the organization was presented with an alarm clock as a remembrance of his birthday which he celebrates this month.

Mrs. E. Rolland of Thief River Falls visited at the home of A. O. Aspelin and Caroline on Wednesday and also attended the joint meeting of circles 5 and 6 at the church parlors.

Miss Erickson, Miss Fadden Miss Larson and Mrs. A. Carlson visited at the S. Lorentson home Tuesday evening.

EASIEST TIME TO CURE DRAFTS IS WHEN YOU BUILD!

WATCH THESE THREE PLACES IF YOU WOULD STOP THEM

There is just no excuse for drafts in your new home, because drafts are definitely curable if you will watch just three places—and all three places are around your windows.

First and foremost offender in the making of drafts in your new home is the window frame. Now you've never bought window frames so you don't know anything about them and that is one reason why so many home builders have drafty windows, because they were careless about the window frame that went into their homes. Now, we aren't going to go into detail about window frames. We just want you to remember that the most important thing about a window frame is how it joins the wall. If it makes a permanent leakproof weather-tight joint with the wall—fine and dandy. If it doesn't, you'll have drafts, no end of drafts. How can you make sure about a weathertight joint? Just specify that the window frames used in your new home have wide blind stop construction. This special construction should be familiar to your contractor.

Proper Fitting Necessary

Next in importance to window frame is the window sash (the part of the window that moves within the frame). Many home builders buy window frames in one place and sash in another with the result that the sash and frame never fit properly in spite of trimming and cutting on the job. And sash that don't fit properly cause drafts, and more drafts. The modern trend is towards what is known as complete window units that are delivered with frame and sash precision fitted to each other at the factory. Many of these window units are even complete with weatherstrip. In any event be sure that the window sash are fitted properly to the window frame and you'll eliminate another big source of drafts.

Glass Cools Air

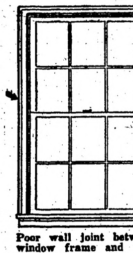
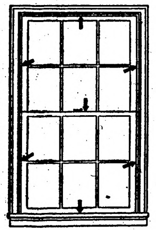
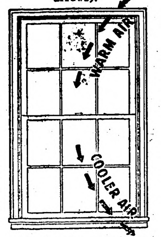
Now here is the third cause of drafts. It's warm air being quickly cooled against a single pane of glass. The cold air then drops to the floor. This flow of air causes drafts. What's the cure? A double pane of glass. Some windows are made so that this double pane of glass fits on the inside of the window, while the most common is the ordinary storm windows which are hung on the outside. Whether your double glass is inside or outside, the result is the same. The glass that is within the heated room is kept warmer by the dead air space between the double panes. Result: Warm air is not cooled so fast: no cool air—no drafts.



Poor wall joint between window frame and wall causes drafts (see arrows).



Poor fitting window sash allow cold air to leak in causing drafts (see arrows).



A single pane of glass cools warm air quickly. Cool air drops to floor causing drafts.

Baby Chicks

We are again in position to handle your orders for chicks through the Land O'Lakes hatchery. Order chicks 30 days in advance of date of delivery to get 3 per cent discount. Then you will be sure to get them when you want them. We have a full line of chick equipment such as brooder stoves, waterers, feeders and chick medicines.

Things to make

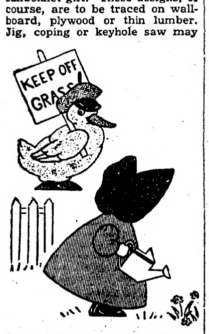
WE OFFER here two new cutouts. Practical as well as decorative features are incorporated in the duck; decorativeness alone is the purpose of the sunbonnet girl. These designs, of course, are to be traced on wallboard, plywood or thin lumber. Jig, coping or keyhole saw may be used to cut them out, and when painted they become attractive ornaments for your lawn.



Outlines for the 19-inch duck and his "Keep Off Grass" sign are on pattern Z9086, 15 cents. A "Use Walk" sign is also given. In about 24-inch size, the ever-popular sunbonnet girl and her sprinkling can are on pattern Z9088, 15 cents.

Select one or both of these clever cutout figures. General cutout directions, as well as specific painting suggestions come with each pattern. Send order to:

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Release of Polish 'Documents' Creates Furore in Washington; Hull, Bullitt Deny Nazi Charge

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

HITLER SAY:

The Roosevelt administration indignantly denied spectacular charges by Germany. Herr Ribbentrop's aggressive Foreign Office charged that it had possession of 16 crucial documents, found in the Polish government archives at captured Warsaw. These documents had been turned in by Polish diplomats, so the accusation went, and concerned the activities of the American ambassadors to London and Paris. It seems that these ambassadors, Kennedy and Bullitt, had egged on England and France against Hitler, with the teeming promise that the United States would eventually come to the allies' help. It also was alleged that Bullitt held out false inspiration to the bellicose Poles. Unquestionably, these sensational charges were the news of the week.

President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull, and Bill Bullitt hastened to deny the accusations, as storm clouds gathered over America. Roosevelt talked about taking it all with "three" grains of salt. Hull made a flat denial. Bullitt and Potocki, Polish ambassador to the United States, both said no-no in unison. But Congressman Hamilton Fish and the hardshell isolationists were infuriated, asserting that where there is smoke, there is a fire or two. Fish demanded a thorough investigation, and others defied the President to laugh it off, salt or no salt. It was a bad thing to have happen in a presidential, maybe a third-term, year.

COUNT JERZY POTOCKI—Poland's ambassador to the U. S., whose alleged reports to Warsaw on conversations with William Bullitt, U. S. ambassador to France, were published in Berlin. Said Potocki: "I deny the allegations . . . I never had any (such) conversations . . ."

ANGLO-FRANCE:

The allied war council met, somewhat bewildered by it all, in London. The French and English reaffirmed their unity, barred any separate peace by either, and announced that their financial, economic and imperialistic co-operation would continue after the present war was over. They intended, they let it be known, to take a more active part in pushing the war, and there was a lot of gossip about Chamberlain going the way of Daladier—into the prime-ministerial discard. Due to British naval losses, there was also talk of the axe for Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty.

It appeared that the neutrals would suffer, as the result of an increased war endeavor by the allies. Germany must be shut off from oil and iron, and if Norwegian, or Rumanian, or Russian neutrality suffered in consequence, that could not be helped. The special threat was aimed at iron-carrying ships, from Narvik, Norway, to Stettin, Germany, which have the habit of plodding safely along in Norwegian territorial waters, free from the frustrated allied blockade. The allied reasoning ran something like this: No Swedish iron; no German steel; no Nazi mailed fist; no Hitler.

But the neutrals were not too afraid of the allies. The Dutch shot down a British bomber that had violated their neutrality, and Rumania appeared to be turning more and more to the German camp. The Russian ambassador to France expressed rude opinions in a telegram to Moscow, and the French kicked him out on a variety of charges. France appeared to want war with the Soviets; England, most emphatically, did not, as a number of significant organizational elections across the channel showed.

Meanwhile, the Germans and Norwegians scored off one another 1 to 1. A German U-boat wormed its sinister way into Kirkwall, British base in the faraway Orkney islands, north of Scotland, and "singed" Churchill's whiskers, if any" by sinking a Norwegian freighter, which was "safely" held there by the British navy. This was considered another maritime coup; but the Norwegians countered by interning a stranded U-boat in Norwegian waters, which aroused the customary amount of furor Teutonicus. There was sensational talk of a U-boat base on the Pacific, at Whale bay, southwest of Vladivostok, in the Siberian maritime province.

FORODDS & FORENDS:

¶ Tokyo, capital of the Japanese empire of Nippon, claimed a population of 7,000,000. This is said to make the Jap-cap the world's second city, with New York first, and London third. London, formerly first in population, has been reduced by wholesale evacuations, blackouts, and utter boredom, so the story goes. Berlin is still fourth, and verminous Warsaw has doubled its population since the war began.

¶ With the Spanish civil war a year over, the grandees (noble families of rank No. 1) took stock. Dictator Franco recently restored them their estates, confiscated by the late lamented republic, but still they had paid a heavy toll. Records of the Council of Grandees indicated that 40 ermine-clad ducal ones had been killed in the civil war, and that no less than 116 more of them had been "assassinated." It was further reported that Spain was slowly gathering momentum in reconstruction; that her people and her leaders were pro-German; but that her economic life now was closely integrated with the fortunes of the allies. It is typically Spanish, that the Hispanic heart does NOT follow the dollar.

DICTATOR FRANCISCO FRANCO—A year after the Spanish war ended, his people took stock.

¶ Pope Pius XII called for more Christianity in all nations, and for a rebirth of human decency in the face of hell on earth, ill will to men. He deplored the bombin of civilians, the violation of treaties, and the whole conception of power-politics and super-tough Realpolitik. The Mohammedans, in India, usually the fast friends of John Bull as against Gandhi and his predominantly Hindu Congress party, denounced British treatment of the Mohammedan Arabs in Palestine, thus complicating both the Indian and Minor Asian toothaches.

Woman-of-the-Week

MRS. HJALMAR PROCOPE

Uncertain of his nation's fate, Finnish Minister to the U. S. Hjalmar J. Procope kept mum about his marriage plans until Finland came to terms with Russia. After that he lost no time. Bundled aboard a U. S.-bound steamer was Miss Margaret Shaw of Yorkshire, England. Minister Procope met her at the dock in New York. Next day they were married at the Fairfax, Va., home of R. Walton Moore, counselor of the U. S. state department, by the Rev. F. Y. Joki of the Brooklyn Finnish-Lutheran church. Ahead, before the Procopes settled down in Washington, was a southern honeymoon.

MON-MON-MONEY:

The house slapped through a mere billion dollar Labor-Security appropriation, voted down about a quarter of a million for the ailing National Labor Relations board, which has been getting a panning on many fronts, and approved $17,450,000 for the National Youth administration. The Civilian Conservation corps, one New Deal institution generally approved by Tories and pinks alike, stood in for $50,000,000 worth of government gold.

The President got back to his office desk after a lengthy and fevered cold. He talked to Sumner Welles, fresh in from Europe, and gave out indications of pessimism as to any early peace abroad. Opponents of the President hinted that he did not want peace abroad, until the allies won by a knockout. Senator Vandenberg got off an epic: "Let's swap horses, and stay on this side of the stream." Senator Taft hinted that the New Deal was heading toward a totalitarian state; a statement with which many calm political scientists, who neither like nor dislike fascism, tend to agree.

But, despite Vandenberg and Taft and others, Secretary Hull succeeded in beating the Pittman amendment to the Trade Agreements resolution, which would restore to the senate the power to ratify all future reciprocal trade pacts. Vandenberg, at this point, declared that the Roosevelt-Hull trading system would cost Uncle Sam his shirt. It was a close senatorial vote: 44 to 41. The New Deal tide was promoted by three anti-Roosevelt Democratic senators, who evidently preferred Hull, whom they consider One of the Boys. It was a lucky thing for the White House, that it had not succeeded in purging these three, way back in pre-war 1938.

SUPREME THE COURT:

Our top tribunal found guilty the Ethyl Gasoline corporation, in an anti-trust case. Ethyl, despite her attractive name, was accused of licensing jobbers in a way contrary to the public weal. At the bottom of the case was an anti-knock compound . . . Also, according to the court, the Federal Communications commission may license new radio stations freely, without bothering about the weal of other radio stations . . . Also, Judge Gordon, of the Washington federal district court, declared that trade unions were just as liable as anybody or anything else, under the Sherman anti-trust law, including the serious charge of criminal conspiracy. This decision was good news to capitalists the country over.

MURDER DE LUXE:

It is hoped that the English and Nazi newspapers do not go to town on tidings from Brooklyn, N. Y. There the mass-murder racket investigation continued under District Attorney O'Dwyer. It turned out that the mass-murdering outfit maintained branch offices in various cities, on a truly national scale. Kid Twist Abe Reles told astonishing details; one poor music publisher had been shot down on the erroneous suspicion that he was a Dewey witness. Three important Brooklyn witnesses were held at $100,000 bail apiece, "for their own safety." One gangster was arrested; he had given Scarface Al Capone that famous scar. His name was Frank Galluccio.

UP ABOVE:

The American airplane transport system is fast becoming one of the nation's good boys. We point with pride: Once we viewed with alarm. A full year has just passed without a single death or serious injury to any passenger, pilot, steward, or innocent bystander on the U. S. airways. This encouraging figure takes in well over two million travelers, and nearly 90 million aerial miles. The statement came from the Civil Aeronautics authority, which has no axe to grind.

ELMER SOUNDS A CALL

"I don't know no more than nobody else who will be the candidates for President this winter," declared Elmer Twitchell today, "but I would personally go for a sourpuss."

"A sourpuss?" the reporter asked, a little puzzled.

"Yes, sir," snapped Elmer, "a sourpuss. A deadpan candidate without a smile in his system. A fellow who can't photograph or screen well and who knows it. I am fed up with the old personality stuff in all public offices, and what is more I think a candidate with a severe mug and a what's-there-to-grin-over attitude might sweep the country."

SOURPUSS for President

"You don't mean that, Elmer," the reporter argued. "Everybody likes a radiant personality; everybody reacts to charm."

"Yeah," admitted Elmer, "and I'm for it, too, up to a point. But I think the personality theme has reached the point where the public is ripe for a swing the other way. This may be a sourpuss year."

Mr. Twitchell seemed quite serious about it.

* * *

"I like a genial, warm personality as well as the next man," he continued. "I am a sucker for charm, like the rest of the American public. Ordinarily I will vote for a man who screens well over a candidate who has nothing but efficiency to recommend him. Nine times out of ten I will go for the candidate with an appealing radio voice over the fellow for whom nothing can be said except that he would make a good President. But I now want a sourpuss. And for once I can be stampeded by a candidate whose voice on the air sounds like somebody filing a saw."

"It's a very strange argument you are making, Mr. Twitchell," the reporter put in. "A smile and a radio voice are generally considered important assets in any campaign."

"That's what you think," barked Elmer. "I think there's a reaction. And it gives me a pain in the blouse to observe all the candidates on all sides grinning from ear to ear, trying to look like personality - plus boys on the screen and trying to register as the Voice of the Year on the radio. I tell you that if I was a candidate for public office today I would have my picture taken only when I looked like I was having an argument with a taxicab driver, and I would open all my radio speeches with, 'Well, folks, I am a punk on the radio; I don't intend to bother acquiring a technique. All I expect to do is to quote facts and figures in a dull voice.' This alone would make me a sensation."

"You wouldn't get to first base as a candidate for inspector of manhole covers," the reporter insisted.

"Maybe not," said Elmer, "but I still think otherwise. And I hope I am right, because no country can stand government by personality and microphone charm indefinitely. Ultimately a sourpuss is necessary medicine. In fact, I am busy on the idea. I have already started organizing the Sourpuss for President Clubs. No candidate with charm can even get close to us."

Bonnet, Sun Suit and Frock for Tot

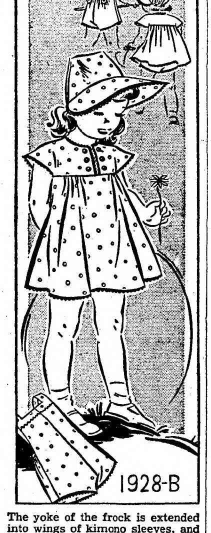
USING this one clever pattern (1928-B), you can make a pretty complete play wardrobe for your young hopeful. It includes a scrap of a sun-suit, a sweet little frock, and a nice, scoopy, eye-shading bonnet, and every one of the three trifles takes practically no time to make. They're all just as comfortable to play in as they are cute to look at.

The sun-suit consists of straps and gathers in the back, and is perfectly straight in the front.



The yoke of the frock is extended into wings of kimono sleeves, and rows of braid trim every possible edge of both the frock and the bonnet. Simple as it is, the pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart as well as complete directions. Gingham, seersucker, percale and chambray all come in colors which are particularly nice for tots' play togs like this.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1928-B is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 years. Size 3 requires 3⅝ yards of 35-inch material without nap for the ensemble; 5½ yards ricrac braid. Send order to:

CONSTIPATED?
Don't Let Gas, Nerve Pressure Keep You Miserable

When constipated two things may happen. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up the bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure often causes headaches, a dull, lazy feeling, loss of appetite, and dizziness. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach, acid indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Then you can't eat. You can't sleep. Your stomach is sour. You feel tired out, grouchy, and miserable. BALANCED Adlerika containing three laxatives and five carminatives gives you DOUBLE ACTION. It relieves that awful GAS almost at once, and usually clears the bowels in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight relief.

HOW TO SEW
by Ruth Wyeth Spears

HONEYCOMB SMOCKING BY THE TUCK METHOD — BASTE TUCKS ⅛" DEEP AND ½" APART AS AT A - TAKE A STITCH AS AT B; THEN CATCH TUCKS TOGETHER

A MOTHER writes: "I have enjoyed using the embroidery stitches in SEWING Book 2. I find a great deal of pleasure in handwork for the dresses of my little five-year-old, and am particularly interested in smocking."

Here is a trick that is useful for making honeycomb smocking in points without a special pattern. The fullness of any dress may be basted into tucks of graduated length, as at A. Even a little fullness in the center front or at the neckline may be smocked in one or two points. Always baste the center front tuck first and then work each way from it. The smocking starts at the left and is done with colored thread. Begin at the top of the second tuck. Catch it to the tuck at the left with three stitches. Work from the top down along each tuck as shown. The stitch at B is made by sliding the needle along inside the tuck.

NOTE: If you like to do handwork you will want a copy of Mrs. Spears' Book 2. It contains directions for making 42 embroidery stitches with their authentic names. Also illustrations of five processes of mending fabrics; making doll clothes, and gift items. Books are 10 cents each—please order by number—No. 1, 2, 3 and 4. ## Lowly Maggot an Aid To Flower Breeders

USE of the loathsome maggot in the development of more lovely flowers for the gardeners of the world constitutes a little-known phase of the science of flower breeding.

Often in his work the flower breeder obtains outstanding, single-plant specimens which give promise of becoming sensational, new flower creations. This remarkable plant individual must be protected from contamination (cross-pollination) by neighbor flowers. So the breeder encloses it, as it grows, in a muslin cage.

If the plant is to mature properly and produce seed, however, its flowers must be pollinated, but only with the pollen grains of that plant itself. Scientists call this "selfing."

Pollination by hand of all the caged plants on a flower breeding plot would be long, tedious work, so Gordon Morrison, Ferry-Morse Seed Station hybridist, enlists the aid of the maggot. It is the maggot of the objectionable blowfly, moreover. Blowfly maggots in the pupae stage are placed in the flower cage, subsequently maturing into flies. The insects are extremely active and they fly from flower to flower on the caged plant, doing an excellent job of spreading pollen from one blossom to another. The plant then proceeds to produce its prized crop of seed.

Thus the long-despised maggots do their part to help make the world more beautiful. Even so, let's hope flower breeders find a way to put them out of existence after they have done their pollination chore.

Making Amends Was Bit Out of Paperhanger's Line

Whitley was having some decorating done, including the repapering of the dining-room and the bath-room. His wife was away, so he left the men on the job when he went to business.

When he returned they were just finishing. But there had been some mistake. The dining-room paper was in the bath-room, while the dining-room showed an elegant design in green tiles and purple water-lilies.

"What are you going to do about it?" demanded the angry householder, when he'd pointed out the mistake.

"I dunno," said the paperhanger, scratching his head. "I'd willingly move the bath—but it's a plumber's job."

AGRICULTURAL STATIONS AID SOIL IMPROVEMENT

CHICAGO. — Benefits obtained from growing soil building crops such as alfalfa, clover and most legumes can be greatly increased by the intelligent use of the correct fertilizer, it is pointed out by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The average practical farmer realizes that obtaining more humus is not just a matter of sowing seed," the report says. "Clover, alfalfa and most legumes which are able to get valuable nitrogen from the air are sensitive to their soil environment. The problem of getting a stand and a crop worth turning under is simplified if the farmer applies mixed fertilizer of the right analysis.

"Agricultural experiment stations under the direction of capable agronomists are continually carrying on experiments with the soils of their states and have very comprehensive general reports ready for county agents, active field workers and farmers. They are glad to send them out or to answer any questions sent to them."

HOW MUCH DID YOU PAY?

- Even if you paid no Income Tax, don't think for a moment that you paid no tax at all.
- No one can escape paying taxes in one form or another . . . but excessive taxes can be avoided!
- One easy and practical way is through maintaining industries which pay huge taxes and thus help to keep down our individual taxes.
- The Brewing Industry of Minnesota, as a whole, pays about $2,000,000 annually to the State Treasury for taxes on beer alone. To counties and municipalities it pays additional taxes for licenses, real estate and property. Its Excise Tax on beer to the Federal Government averages $12,000,000 a year.
- This huge tax revenue pays a large share of the cost of Federal, State and County governments. It helps pay for schools, old-age pensions, relief.
- If this tax revenue were lost, our individual taxes would surely be much higher!
- In addition to this, the Brewing Industry of Minnesota eases our tax burden by keeping over 25,000 in gainful jobs . . . buys over $3,000,000 of Minnesota farm products annually, and makes a mild, healthful beverage that promotes True Temperance by encouraging Moderation.

R's And Oysters

WHAT nine letter word ending with R denotes a month of the year, and joy to millions?

It's not a cross-word puzzle. It's a fact, and the word is S-e-p-t-e-m-b-e-R. The prominent "R" denotes that oysters are again in season, which is the cause for the joy.

Oystermen tell a story that sets the date of the first joy over an oyster. They hang the story on an aboriginal man who, out beachcombing or sun-tanning, saw what he mistook for a queer-looking stone in the water. He ran and picked it up. No sooner had he done so than he let out a scream. His finger had been pinched. When he succeeded in prying his finger loose, to lessen the pain he stuck it in his mouth. A smile crept over his aboriginal face. You've smiled the same smile when you've said, "Waiter, bring me another dozen on the half shell."

Wealth In Oysters

Ever since that memorable day we have been prying open oyster shells—till today we eat about $20,000,000 worth of oysters a year. Not only because they taste delectable, but also because they are a most healthful food—containing iron and manganese, rich in iodine and containing also well balanced amounts of proteins, carbohydrates and fats.

Pale women in Wales used to be advised to eat oysters. Doctors today advise them for men and women and children who need mineral to offset anemia. It is fortunate then, for pale women today, that they do not have to live in Wales or in some seacoast town to enjoy the health-giving properties of oysters. Canned oysters are available in all parts of the country, and besides being rich in nutritive value, they have that delicious tang of oysters freshly-opened on the shore.

4-H Club Contest Winners

The North Star 4-H club and the Riverside 4-H club were the winners of the one-act play and music contests held at the Argyle High School last Saturday evening. The eight one-act plays that were presented and eight different groups that took part in the music contest kept the crowd of about six hundred people very well entertained during the evening.

The North Star group presented the popular play "Henry's Mail Order Wife" and did a very good job in presenting it. The second prize play was "Our Cousin From Sweeden" given by the Riverside club and third place went the Middle River 4-H club who gave "A Bachelor's Baby." All of the plays were well presented, and kept the crowd in laughter much of the the evening. Other groups that presented plays were the Bloomwood, West Prairie, Warrenton, Alma and Happy Corner 4-H clubs.

In the music contest, there was considerable variation in the music presented. The winners, the Riverside girl's quarttete had very good harmony in "The 4-H Field Song" and "In My Merry Oldsmobile." The Boxville girl's trio and the Viking mixed trio likewise did very well and placed second and third respectively. The North Star club presented their orchestra for the first time at a county gathering and proved quite popular. Middle River and the West Prairie 4-H clubs each had a girl's trio. Eagle Point had a mixed trio and Happy Corner a mixed group.

The contests were judged by Father Rousseau of Argyle, Miss Albertson and Miss Ridenour, members of the Warren high school faculty, and Miss Waites, member of the Argyle high school staff.

Can You Really Cure It?

Tens of thousands of men and women are alive today, well and happy, who have had cancer and been cured of it," declares the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

"Back of fears and doubts," the Society says, "that make the work of cancer control difficult lies the question, "Can you really cure it? The Gallup Poll found last year that one out of every three men and women did not know that cancer was curable. Yet the evidence is overwhelming. Cancer can be cured, is being cured, and will in increasing numbers of cases in the future be cured.

"Forty years ago an eminent physician, Dr. John Colt Bloodgood, pointed out that there were only a handful of patients who had been cured of the disease Today, the American College of Surgeons has records of 30,000 men and women who have had the disease — it was diagnosed by microscopic examination in each case — and who have been cured for five, ten or fifteen years.

"Cancer can be cured, but only in its early stages. For early discovery: the first step is a complete annual medical examination and the second is a visit to a physician should any of the following symptoms that may point to cancer develop: any persistent lump or thickening, particularly in the breast; any irregular bleeding or discharge from any body opening; any persistent and unexplained indigestion; any sore that does not heal normally, especially about the tongue, mouth or lips; any sudden change in the form or rate of growth of a mole or wart."

- It's more than mere luck that this young man's "check-up" has won him an O. K. for physical fitness. Day to day he has heeded the wise counsel of Nature's wise physician—Moderation.
- Moderation in all things, in work and play, in eating and drinking, promotes physical good health.
- That is why beer, the beverage of moderation, is preferred by those who cherish physical fitness. It is this sensible use of beer as a mild beverage which the Brewers of Minnesota seek to promote.
- Like all good things, its benefits are best distributed through wise regulation. The Brewers of Minnesota are cooperating with law-enforcement officers to make the retailing of beer as wholesome as beer itself.

BEER PROMOTES PROSPERITY and MODERATION

Farm Security Administration

Marked progress during 1939 by Farm Security Administration borrowers toward the goal of self-sufficiency was reported late last week by Milo G. Flaten, state director of the FSA.

Telling of a survey made of status of 8,514 borrowers at the end of the 1939 crop year, Flaten noted that they produced $1,684,773 worth of goods for home consumption last year, as compared with $933,730 worth before they came under the FSA program.

"This meant," Flaten explained, "that these families not only saved for other uses money they would have spent for foodstuffs but also had a higher standard of living, a better diet, and usually a marked improvement health.

"In helping rehabilitation borrowers to plan their farm operations," Flaten continued, "they are urged to get away from one-crop farming and to raise as much food as possible of their food and feed supplies.

"These families canned 1,804,372 quarts of fruits and vegetables last year, or an average of 212 quarts per family for home consumption. They also produced 2,910,426 gallons of milk, an average of 342 gallons; and 431,064 tons of forage, an average of 50.63 tons.

"We are proud, too, to report that FSA borrowers in Minnesota also increased their net worth and annual income, and also are making satisfactory progress in the repayment of their loans."

The families studied in the survey had an average net income last year of $601.88 per family, as compared with $377.49 in the year before they came to FSA for help. This represented an increase of 59 per cent. They also increased their average net worth—over and above all debts —by 69 per cent.

"In other words," said Flaten, "these famalies not only have added $5,482,590 to the wealth of their communities, but they also have increased their annual incomes by a total of $1,910,489. This expanding purchasing power has, of course, been a considerable benefit to the merchants and other business men of the state.

"At the same time, the survey showed that the borrowers already have repaid $2,670,757 into the Federal Treasury as installments on loans totalling about $9,543,172. The typical rehabilitation family in Minnesota has borrowed $1,150, and already has repaid $313. Since much of the money loaned does not fall due for four or five years, there is every reason to expect that the great bulk of it will be paid.

Flaten said that although the rehabilitation program is intended to meet long-rage problems which have been growing steadily worse for more than a generation, it is financed out of relief appropriations and takes the place of direct relief in rural areas. It is designed to help needy farm families become permanently self-supporting, instead of remaining indefinitely dependent on relief.

"In making the survey," Mr. Flaten concluded, "our field workers found that there are 6,460 families in Minnesota which are eligible and in need of rehabilitation loans but have been unable to get them because of our limited funds."

Blue Geese Fly Northward

Spring rode into Minnesota over the week-end on the thundering wings of blue geese as they re-enacted an age-old migration spectacle that has baffled scientists from earliest days.

Like a huge cloud, the birds, representing all the blue geese in America according to scientists, moved up the historic Big Stone-Lake Traverse flyway today northward toward Baffin Island in the arctic cirlce.

Arch Klawon, game warden for the state conservation department assigned to protect the birds, said the flight was delayed somewhat by cold weather. He termed it one of the largest on record.

Vanguard of the main advance, a few "advance cordons" of snow geese alighted in Lake Traverse ahead of the main flight. Then the geese movement proper, estimated by Biological Survey men into the hundreds of thousands, moved onto the lake.

Thousands of snow geese and numerous Canadian honkers interspersed the blues. Observers pointed out that while the blue goose flight is concentrated, the snow geese trickle through for a month or more.

Fantastic to many is the story of the snow geese. So concerted is its migration, the University of Minnesota has pointed out, that all the blue geese in the United States fly northward through western Minnesota in a few huge flocks each spring.

Their destination is on Baffin Island in the Arctic Circle—a nesting place only discovered in 1928. In the fall they move southward over two routes—the oceanic Atlantic flyway, and the midwest and Mississippi river lane.

Hundreds of sportsmen and nature lovers visited Traverse and Big Stone Lakes to witness the flight. So rapid and spectacular is the migration that frequently a quiet lake, still tinged with winter, is transformed into an amphitheater of wild life within a day.

The geese move northward with the advancing isotherm or temperature of spring.

Plans To Seek Reelection

Congressman R. T. Buckler expects to seek re-election to his post as representative of the ninth Minnesota congressional district, next fall, unless there are unforseen development, according to the Crookston Times.

This announcement was made recently by the congressman who was spending a week at his farm home near Crookston. He accompaied Mrs. Buckler home. She will remain on the farm to look after the spring work. Mr. Buckler went right back to Washington where he will remain through the balance of the congressional session.

Mr. Buckler said that he did not wish to be quoted as definitely announcing his candidacy for reelection, but said that the probabilities were that he would seek his congressional post again unles there are developments to change his decision.

District Music Festival

The district music festival will be held at Argyle on April 20th. Over four hundred contestants from the following schools will take part: Argyle, Lake Bronson Hallock, Newfolden, Karlstad, Stephen, Middle River. Lancaster and Holt. There will be instrumental and vocal groups taking part. The local school is sending a Girls Glee Club. This is the first time that our local group has entered the contest. The girls under the leadership of Miss Larson are looking forward to this event. Their achievement will be worthy of any backing that they may receive. The contest is open to the public.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been fine. The surface water has soon all disappeared and it will not be long before the farmers can get into some of the fields on high ground.

Mr. Engstrom also has a powerful electric arc welder in his shop and is now equipped to go to any job no matter how big and fix it night or day.

Time For Tree Planting

With the frost going out of the ground, it is soon time for tree planting, says County Agent R. A. Reierson. He suggests a few simple precautions which, if followed, will insure a much higher percentage of survival.

If several days will elapse after trees are received and before they can be planted, they should be "heeled in" a trench dug in a damp, shaded spot.

Spread the trees out along the trench, taking care that all the roots will be thorouhly covered, and pack the soil firmly about the roots. If the soil is somewhat dry, it should be watered.

While planting, care must be taken not to permit the roots of the young trees to become dry. Keep the stock in a bucket about half full of muddy water, removing a tree only after the hole has been prepared to receive it. A good practice while planting is to shade the tree and the hole with one's body, thus further reducing the possibility of excessive drying of the roots and the soil of the open hole.

During the operation it is very essential to get the soil firmly packed about the roots of the tree.

Wild stock dug on the farm needs the same care as nursery stock.

Churchill Key Man in British Cabinet Shakeup

Key men in Great Britain's new war cabinet are Winston Churchill, left; Sir John Simon, upper right, and Sir Kingsley Wood, lower right. In a dramatic cabinet shake-up, Churchill was named England's war czar, director of the nation's battle services. Simon, silent veteran of finance, will preside over the cabinet's economic policy committee as chancellor of the exchequer, and Wood heads the home policy committee, directing social and domestic problems, including food and agriculture. Chamberlain bowed to public clamor in making Churchill head of the vital service committee. He remains first lord of the admiralty as well.

Buss Family Counts Off for Census Enumerator

When a Chicago census taker asked Mr. and Mrs. Dan Buss of Blue Island, Chicago suburb, how many children there were in the family, he was confronted with a whole fleet of Busses. Pictured with Papa Buss, 43, and Mama Maud Buss, 40, are the 14 little Busses, from 1 to 24 years old. Grandma Buss, not present for the picture, also lives in the five-room Buss bungalow. Another son, Dan, 23, was not at home. The census taker was happy for he is allowed four cents for each name he lists. Had he called a month later he would have been four cents richer.

Maine Governor Wins 'Doughnut Duel'

Which state can claim honors for being the home of the inventor of doughnut holes? That question was decided in a doughnut-frying contest in Bangor, Maine, between Gov. Lewis Barrows of Maine, right, and Secretary of State Harry Jackson of New Hampshire. Barrows' claim that Hanson Gregory, a deceased Maine sea captain, invented the hole in the doughnut was upheld when he was declared winner of the contest. James Chute, hotel employee, dressed as the sea captain, stands in center.

HOME, SWEET HOME

"There's the doorbell."

"What! Again?"

"You'd better answer it."

"Why?"

"It might be somebody who ISN'T looking for any information."

"Optimist! You answer the bell. I answered it last time."

"No, you didn't."

"Yes, I did. I remember distinctly. It was one of those Gallup poll fellers."

"Well, I answered the Gallup poll before that one. It was the one where he wanted to know whether I favored public officers with or without whiskers."

* * *

"He's still ringing. Are you going to sit there and let him ring forever?"

"I'm standing on my rights."

"What rights?"

"Fifteen minutes between rings."

* * *

"After all, why so obstinate?"

"I'm sick of answering questions. A man's house is his castle, not a quiz program."

"Suppose it's the letter man?"

"Let him leave the mail and go away. I'm taking no chances on him asking me any questions, either. I answered a knock on the door from the milkman yesterday. And what do you think he wanted?"

"What?"

"He wanted to know the height of Mount McKinley and the name of the inventor of the buttonhook. It seems he was going on a radio program."

* * *

"There's the bell again. Please answer. It might be somebody WITH NO QUESTIONS TO ASK."

"WANNA BET?"

VOICE IN THE DARKNESS

I am a lost cause . . .
I am a forgotten virtue . . .
I am an abandoned tradition
And a forsaken leader.

I once ruled all civilized nations . . .
I held the respect of savages
And was not completely ignored
By the lowest of the barbarians.
Men held to me in moments of Mad impulses.

I ruled warfare . . .
Even on the battlefield
Among friend and foe; and in
The fearful heat of carnage
I was not forgotten.

Sorely pressed soldiers,
Grim and bleeding fighters,
Swayed by their patriotisms
And prejudices, paid me tribute . . .
Generals planning campaigns
Admitted me to their council tables . . .

"This far we shall go," they said,
"And no farther!"
At their side when swords were drawn
I took their word . . .
I knew it would never be broken.

Rulers respected me . . .
War lords took my hand and
Gave me their firm pledges
Before the first cry of "Forward!"
Before the first killing,
And until the last black death.

I saved the innocent millions . . .
I spared the toiling womenfolks . . .
I protected the little children . . .
I saved the unoffending home
From the raider and the torch . . .
From the unspeakable horror of High explosive bomb.

I saved the infant from poison gas . . .
I kept the family from
The pitiful refugee camps . . .
I made the bombing of orphan asylum,
Hospital, kindergarten and cottage
Impossible and unthinkable
In the heart and mind of Man.

Now I am betrayed and forsaken . . .
I am excluded from the councils,
The battle plans and
The fields of warfare.
At the side of the warriors
Stand Barbarism, Paganism, Bestiality, Hatred.

I am in the outer darkness . .
But I shall one day rule, emerge . . .
I shall one day rule again . . .
For it is not in the heart of
The world to exclude me forever . . .

I am
Chivalry.

All plants should be sprayed over at least once a week, using clear tepid water. In the ordinary living room there is certain to be considerable dust, no matter how careful the housewife is.

* * *

Basting threads may be removed easily by clipping them at six-inch intervals and pulling them out with the blunt ends of scissors. In sewing snaps on garments sew all the halves on one side. Brush them over with chalk. Press against the other side of the garment and the chalk marks will show where each additional half should be attached.

* * *

Garden makers too often try to sow seeds in the ground just before a rain. This is a mistake for the rain will pack the earth and the moisture will escape. It is far better to plant after a rain and as soon as the ground is dried out sufficiently. Firm the soil over the plants so that the seed will come into close contact with it.

Try tinting your ice cubes with vegetable dyes. A spring salad, for instance, is delightful to look at and unusually crisp if it is set in a bowl of green ice cubes. Desserts may be worked out in the same way.

Sprinkle chopped, candied ginger over thin biscuit dough. Then spread the combination with soft butter. Cut into strips a fourth of an inch wide and two inches long. Bake quickly. Serve hot.

Be careful not to fill baking dishes too full. Escalloped foods, rice puddings and fondues need about two inches of rising space. Foods made with baking powder, soda, cream of tartar or egg whites require at least three inches.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

HOW to cut a flared dressing table skirt without fullness at the top, is something worth knowing. You may be making a smartly tailored affair of white pique with pink bindings and buttons, like the one shown here; or an under lining for a full skirt of transparent material.

The diagram shows how to make a pattern for half of the skirt. The center front may be placed on a fold of the goods in cutting if there is no front opening. Cut the paper by the dimensions in the diagram. Mark point A in 14-inches from the upper left corner. Measure up from the lower right corner a distance equaling the length of the skirt from A to the left edge of the paper and mark point C. Connect these points with lines drawn, as shown.

Chinese Act Scenery

Chinese theaters use little scenery and properties, making the audience visualize them by the gestures of the players. When an actor is supposed to enter a room, he steps over an imaginary threshold; to close the door, he turns around and brings together his outstretched arms; and when he takes his girl for a boat ride, she walks in front of him, at a fixed distance, while he follows, pretending to row with an oar.—Collier's.

Tabby's Titles

Recently there was published a phonetic translation of sounds in different languages, and the cat's miaou was one sound which each of these languages interpreted in the same way. It is strange that the word "cat" is so similar in various languages.

In Scandinavia the animal is called "katt," in France "chat," in Germany "katze," in Holland "cat," in Italy "gatto," in Spain, "gato," in Russia "kats," and in Poland "kot." And the Romans had a word for it—"catus."

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!
An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.
If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.
Eat this crunchy toasted cereal regularly, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Fertilizer Attachment Got Empty

HERE'S what happens when fertilizer is omitted from one row of corn at planting time while it is being applied to the next row, says a bulletin of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. The fertilizer attachment on the planter became empty on one side. So the row on the right was unfertilized, while the row on the left received an application of 150 pounds of fertilizer. In the above photograph taken the middle of the growing season the corn on the right was 1½ feet shorter and not tasseled like the corn in the row alongside of it. And at harvest time the row on the right yielded a much smaller crop than its fertilized neighbor which had had the benefit of plant food.

Census Notice To The Public

The Bureau of the Census is grateful for the splendid cooperation it has received in the taking of the 16th Decennial Census in this community. Every possible means have been employed for including all persons in the Census. However, in spite of all care and effort, it is possible that a few persons have inadvertently been missed.

If you have and reason to believe that you, or any member of your household, such as absent members, lodgers or servants have not been included in this Census, it is requested that you fill in the blank provided below and forward it immdiately to the Census Supervisor named below, so that steps can be taken to add your name to the schedules If you know of any other person who has not been enumerated, here or elsewhere, such as late arrivals in the community, send in a like notice with correct address of such persons.

Hans O. Chommie,
Supervisor of the Census
Thief River Falls, Minn,

To the best of my knowledge, I have not been included in the 16th Decennial Census of Population which has just been taken in this community. In addition to myself there are also ..... members of my household who have been ommited.

Farm Security Administration

Any Minnesota farmer who has difficult debt problems can secure aid from the Farm Security Administration to assist in adjusting these debts, according to J. A. Halvorson, farm debt adjustment supervisor, who confered with Mr. Charley Ommodt, local FSA supervisor this week. Mr. Halvorson has direct supervision over the farm debt adjustment activities in Pennington and Marshall counties.

He explained that, "Because of shifting property values and market prices that accompanied the depression, the farms of many worthy families were lost to creditors, who, in many cases, were at a loss to know what to do with the land when they took it over. On one side was the farmer with the burden of a fixed debt and interest charge made when expansion was the rule. On the other side was the creditor, who in face of lowered values and stagnated credit had to liquidate or face bankruptcy."

When asked, "What can a farmer do who is worried about his debts?" Halvorson said, "Hundred of farmers are solving debt problems by presenting them to us for consideration. In a number of counties of this area, local committees are at the service of farmers without cost or obligation. The county committees, he continued, "are composed of farmers, doctors, lawyers, and businessmen."

Mr. Halvorson said that all information concerning cases is confidential. "The debt adjustment," he explained, "is a service carried on in strict confidence to avoid embarrassment to either creditor or debtor."

Creditors as well as debtors may request debt adjustment aid, according to Mr. Halvorson. "Strangely, a considerable number of cases brought before us for consideration are submitted by creditors. He may see foreclosure for the debtor and feel that such an action could be aversed if the debtor could be persuaded to organize his debt repayment or to get a new grip on his problen with the aid of some sensible outside advice. Thus he turns to the committee for help.

"Some of the cases are quickly solved by a simple solution arrived at through a fair and frank discussion. Other cases are infinitely more complicated and are in the process of settlement for months. A few cases are never settled, but FSA records show that the unsolved ones do not average one out of twenty." Mr. Halvorson said.

"Care is exercised in helping only those debtors who are doing their honest best to repay their obligations. Occasionally a debtor seeks help who is trying to use the debt adjustment as a tool to avoid repayment of honest obligations. A preliminary investigation of the facts usually singles out this type of debtor and he is frankly told that the committee cannot be of help," Halvorsen added.

In working out debt adjustment cases the farmer who is asking for help is required to list all his creditors and give a history of his financial difficulties. After this is reviewed, suggestions are made for reaching a fair settlement through refinancing, extension, and other means.

The FSA's debt adjustment service is available not only to FSA borrowers but to all farmers. Farmers desiring aid may contact Mr. Charley Ommodt, county FSA supervisor, at his office in Thief River Falls or write to Mr. J. A. Halvorson, District FDA Supervisor, Box 844, Detroit Lakes, Minnesota.

Discussing Aid For Norway

Dr. J. A. Aasgaard, president of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, makes a plea for assistance for Norway, in a letter to the local pastor, Rev. T. C. L. Hanson. Part of the letter is as follows: "I have conferred with the Norwegian Minister in Washington and plans are being considered as to the best way to approach this matter (of sending aid). At present it is advised that the different groups wait with an individual initiative until well worked out plans can be presented. Let us hold ourselves in readiness to enlist a united effort for that people and that country which today is making a supreme sacrifice for peace and liberty. As soon as a definite and workable program is arrived at, it will be announced in the press and in the churches. Let us, however, be prepared and ready to do our utmost when the call comes."

While plans are being prepared, it would be well for all to resolve to do something now, so that when definite plans are announced in the News, this aid can be sent with utmost speed and efficiency. It is inconceivable that any person of north-European decent will refuse to partake in this worthy cause. Let us all respond to the SOS from Norway as soon as possible.

Raise Better Stand Of Alfalfa

Practically everyone now realizes that a good stand of alfalfa yields a better return of high quality feed per acre than any other crop that can be grown on sandy soil, says County Agent R. A. Reierson.

But in some sections of Marshall County where the soil is light, this high yielding crop is not grown more generally because of trouble in securing a good stand, R. A. Reierson explains. Recognizing this problem the State Agricultural Extension Service at University Farm has prepared a new folder 84, Getting Alfalfa Stands on Sandy Soil.

Soils Specialist George H. Nesom, author of the folder, points to six reasons why stands may be poor, and gives tips on how to easily and cheaply avoid the trouble. These are: Lack of lime in the soil, poor seed, need for inoculation of seed, poorly prepared seedbed, improper depth of planting and a lack of sufficient moisture.

Recommendations in the folder are the result of experimentental work at the Coon Creek Sand Experimental Field. Free copies may be secured from the County Extension Offiice in Warren, Minnesota, R. A. Reierson says.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Parachute School Holds Graduation Exercises

At the parachute school of the Lakehurst, N. J., naval air station, "graduation" exercises take a very practical turn. Before students are awarded a diploma they must make a mass parachute jump with a 'chute packed by themselves. Left: Members of a class boarding a plane ready to take their last lesson. Right: With breath-taking speed the ground comes up to meet the student jumper. He has finished the regulation training period. The jump is his final lesson—and he knows that he has packed his parachute correctly.

JUDGE DUDLEY S. VALENTINE of the Los Angeles Superior court conducted an important trial recently—not in court, however, and the judge wore overalls instead of his judicial robes.

The issue at stake was whether or not he still retained his skill as a locomotive engineer. The scene was a movie location set, and the stars of "Torrid Zone" comprised the jury. It seems that years ago the judge was a railway engineer, and when he learned that an old-time locomotive would be run over its own private track on the movie location, the jurist accepted the invitation of the location manager—also a former engineer—to put the train through its paces.

With Pat O'Brien and Andy Devine in the cab, His Honor took the driver's seat, tugged the whistle cord and opened the throttle. He made the two-mile run in six minutes flat, cheered on by his two passengers.

If you liked "Topper" and "Topper Takes a Trip" you'll probably be delighted with "Turnabout," by the same author. Hal Roach is producing and directing it, and the cast is made up of people famous for their gift for smart, sophisticated comedy. It includes Carole Landis, Mary Astor, Veree Teasdale, Adolphe Menjou, William Gargan, Margaret Roach, John Hubbard, Donald Meek and Polly Ann Young.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has purchased the rights to "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," and is planning to produce it in England, with Robert Donat in the dual starring role. Many years ago it was the horror picture of the year, with John Barrymore playing the lead so magnificently that he scared audiences almost into fits.

Los Angeles is noted as being one of the athletic centers of the country, but when Ona Munson (the "Belle Watling" of "Gone With the Wind," and the "Lorelei" of radio's "Big Town,") landed out there she couldn't find any women to play squash with her. She is an avid squash fan, so she advertised in a newspaper for feminine partners, and received no replies. But Ona didn't let that stop her. She was determined to play squash—and play squash she does, with men. The Men's University Club in Hollywood has an ironclad rule—"No Women Allowed." She's an exception. She's admitted, to play squash—but on Sundays only.

ODDS AND ENDS—William Powell and Myrna Loy will next be co-starred by Metro in "I Love You Again" . . . When radio's "Screen Guild Theater" rings down its curtain the last of this month the motion picture relief fund will have added $570,000 to its treasury . . . Bing Crosby may spend this year's vacation in South America . . . Miriam Hopkins will appear opposite Melvyn Douglas in "Singapore," for Columbia.

Since his current program, "Musical Americana," took the air Raymond Paige has received thousands of letters from students requesting auditions and advice about careers. Paige's sponsor—Westinghouse—recently held auditions for a "Vocal Stock Company," and received enough applications to form hundreds of them.

In preparation for bringing Katharine Hepburn back to the screen in "The Philadelphia Story," Metro made a recording of a performance of the play. She has had a long and successful run in it, and it's one of her best roles. In the screen version Robert Taylor will have the male lead.

Edgar Bergen wasn't sorry to pack up Charlie McCarthy and go back home to Hollywood. During his recent series of broadcasts from New York the demand for tickets was overwhelming, and Bergen confessed to a friend that he didn't believe he'd ever dare come back—said he'd had to refuse tickets to so many people that he was afraid he'd alienated all his friends.

Things to do

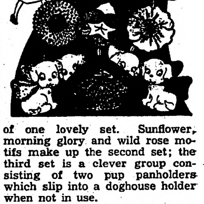
LET'S make some bright new panholders! NUMO hot iron transfer, Z9108, 15 cents, has just the motifs you've been wanting—pretty enough for any bride-to-be, and a gay tonic for your own winter-weary kitchen. The nine designs illustrated are all on this one pattern.

A pastel waterlily flanked by two lily pads of green is the basis of one lovely set. Sunflower, morning glory and wild rose motifs make up the second set; the third set is a clever group consisting of two pup panholders which slip into a doghouse holder when not in use.



So if you're in need of inexpensive shower gifts, order this pattern, then get out your scrap bag and start to work. You could give no more practical nor appreciated gift than one of these attractive sets. And, of course, the several stampings of this NUMO transfer will enable you to make sets for yourself, too. ## Stranger Was Quick to Acknowledge Introduction

The clergyman in a wayside church out of London was about to start his sermon when three strangers entered.

They were late and very conscious of it. One of them found a seat near the door, but the other two had to walk further up.

At that moment the preacher was finishing the announcement of his text: "—and Paul I know, but who are ye?"

The young men paused for a moment, looked bewildered, then one of them spoke up. "Glad to have the pleasure, Reverence," he said. "This is Harry MacTavish from Edinburgh, and I'm James MacPherson, from Edinburgh, too.

The Rescue of an Old Wicker Chair

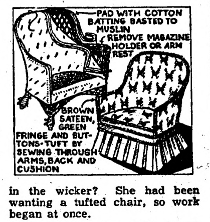
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THIS chair, now so smart in its sateen cover, button tufting and moss fringe trimming, barely escaped the trash burner. It had been such a comfortable chair that everyone hated to see it go. Sis said it was out-of-date and positively untidy. Someone suggested it might be covered. Mother said that wouldn't be a bad idea if it could be padded first! That gave Sis a brain wave. Why not tuft it? By pushing a long darning needle back and forth through the cover, padding and openings in the wicker? She had been wanting a tufted chair, so work began at once.



PAD WITH COTTON BATTING BASTED TO MUSLIN
REMOVE MAGAZINE HOLDER OR ARM REST
BROWN SATEEN, GREEN FRINGE AND BUTTONS-TUFT BY SEWING THROUGH ARMS, BACK AND CUSHION

The sagging arm rest, magazine holder and frayed-out wicker around the legs were removed. The chair was padded and covered, as shown, and a new seat cushion was added. The tufting was done by sewing through tightly with heavy carpet thread; adding a button on each side of the stitch.

NOTE: Detailed directions for changing an old iron bed into the latest style are given in Mrs. Spears' Book No. 3; also how to make "The Rug That Grew Up With the Family." GAS SO BAD CROWDS HEART
"My bowels were so sluggish and my stomach so bad I was just miserable. Sometimes gas bloated me until it seemed to crowd my heart. I tried Adlerika. Oh, what relief. The first dose worked like magic. Adlerika removed the gas and waste matter and my stomach felt so good."—Mrs. S. A. McAmis. If gas in your stomach and bowels from constipation bloats you up until you gasp for breath, take a tablespoonful of Adlerika and notice how the stomach GAS is relieved almost at once. Adlerika often moves the bowels in less than two hours. Adlerika is BOTH carminative and cathartic, containing five carminatives to warm and soothe the stomach and expel GAS, and three cathartics to clear the bowels and relieve intestinal nerve pressure.

British-Norse Forces Combine In Attempt to Drive Out Nazis; King Haakon Rallies His Army

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

New Routes to War?

If Scandinavia is to be the battlefield for World War Two, the routes shown on this map must be used by British expeditionary forces traveling to meet the enemy. Nazi air raiders may travel the same routes on bombing missions to England.

'NORDICS' VS. NORDICS:

CONSPIRACY AND TREASON

Invasion of Norway by Nazi forces was effected by the highest type of conspiracy and treason, according to special information revealed by the Chicago Daily News. According to this source, Oslo and other important Norwegian seaports easily fell into the hands of the invaders because of a gigantic conspiracy that included bribery, extraordinary infiltration, and treason on the part of a few important Norwegian defense officials.

For eight years the Nazis have quarreled with nearly everyone, but they always stood up for the Nordic race, and for Nordic supremacy. But the Danes and Norwegians are much purer Nordics than the Nazis ever thought of being, and so are the eastern English, eastern Scotch, and eastern Irish. A strong Slavic admixture is evident in most of the Nazi leaders, and rank and file.

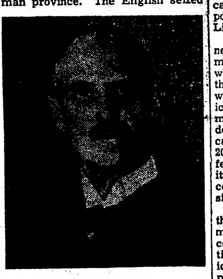
And so, the theoretical "Nordics" went to work on the actual Nordics, by land, and sea, and air. It was all very confusing. English planes would attack German warships in Norwegian ports, and German planes would attack English warships off the Norwegian ports. The losses in ships, and planes, and men, as reported by both thoroughly dishonest sides, were stupendous. Every Norwegian coastal town, up and down a long expanse, became a miniature "front"—at Narvik, Bergen, Trondheim, Oslo, the capital, and at several points elsewhere. The little German garrisons, in the Norwegian port towns, held on by their backteeth, pro tem.

According to latest reports from Stockholm, King Haakon of Norway was rallying his armed forces from a place of refuge in Norway's interior. A royal proclamation was issued calling upon the Norwegian people to "stand with me . . . and guard and fight for Norway's independence and freedom . . . The situation is such that I cannot tell you where myself, the crown prince, and the government are staying . . . God save Norway."

It appeared, currently, that German ship losses exceeded those of the English, and that hundreds, if not thousands, of German soldiers had been drowned as their troop-transports were sent to the bottom.

But neutral Swedish sources poured cold water on the redhot news of spectacular German losses. Winston Churchill was subjected to considerable panning, in England and elsewhere, for his alleged "usual" mishandling of the English fleet, in the face of German tactical success. His political future did not look overly bright. People remembered his high praise of Hitler, in a famous Glasgow blurb of 1937. Home folks began to call him "Winnie the Pooh."

Unhappy Denmark, which did not resist like the Norwegians, began to be treated, by the allies, as a German province. The English seized her Faeroe islands, and the Danish dominion of Iceland virtually declared its independence. In North America, misty Greenland is Danish, but it appeared that either the United States, or Canada, might take over that vast tract to the north. President Roosevelt talked about the Monroe Doctrine, and lesser lights defied the Germans to come and take Greenland, which they apparently had not thought of doing.



KING HAAKON
"God save Norway."

NAMES in the news . . .

Dr. Paul Ehrlich's name stood extra-high. This human benefactor's chemical cure of syphilis apparently reduced its time-treatment from many uncertain months to a flat five days, and this was reported to be true in 85 per cent of cases tested. Dr. John L. Rice, New York city's health commissioner, seemed especially interested and called a great inter-state conference of public health specialists.

Mlle. Eve Curie, so-confidant daughter of the French radium cure-alls, wondered why the Americans worry about the news of the war, and boasted about the grace of La Paree. She is half-Polish, and genuinely well liked. Also, stylists consider this brainy girl as a real something to write, sartorially, home about.

New York's Governor Lehman banned all fireworks in his state, except in experienced hands for public display. Sale, distribution, and possession were barred, to become effective August 1, 1940.

PRESIDENT:

Our President, now in better shape physically, vetoed a bill to automatically deport alien spies, saboteurs, criminals, and dopes. This action aroused considerable annoyance among some native Americans, who are prone to purge the Augean stables at historically chronic intervals.

The President praised highly the Civilian Conservation corps, and wished it a long life, even though the CCC is a child of the depression. Just the same, most Americans, liberal or conservative, approve of the young Conservators, although some pacifists fear it is a first faltering step toward universal military training. Such people, and some others, allege that Roosevelt merges nationalism and socialism in a high-diluted National-Socialist form.

The President conferred with New York Governor Lehman at the Hyde Park hideaway, and did not ask Vice President Garner to a White House legislative conference. This was unusual, and appeared to be a slap at Texas Jack, who is an anti-Third Termite, and a rival of Roosevelt in avowed terms. Texas Jack, however, is singularly nonsensitive to such digs, and went his own sweet, "poker-playing" way.

LABORITIS:

John L. Lewis, czar of C. I. O., took a beating on the Jersey front. There, the laborite Non-partisan league took a vote and plumped for Third Termism, even though the big chief is against it.

The Utility Workers Organizing committee in New York city demanded that Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick be fired by the much-beaten National Labor Relations board. The NLRB, however, refused the urge, did not send her to St. Helena, where her opponents thought she belonged.

SWEDEN WILL FIGHT

. . . all three, the Allies, Russia and Germany, if necessary to maintain her neutrality, according to Alexis Wenner-Gren, Swedish industrialist, pictured above as he arrived in Miami from Nassau. Star negotiator in the recent Russo-Finnish peace treaty, Wenner-Gren brought his yacht from Nassau to forestall seizure by the British in the event Sweden became embroiled with Britain. Said he, "We (Sweden) are going to fight for our neutrality. We may have to fight all three."

MEXICANA:

Apparently, our troubles with Mexico will never cease. If iron is the curse of Sweden, oil is the equivalent curse of Mexico. Secretary Hull, growing more impatient, denounced the seizure of American possessions below the Rio Grande, in a note demanding immediate arbitration of Yankee claims for compensation and a "just" pay-off. And, as usual, the Mexicans took the Hull volley, not sitting down, but decidedly standing up. They know, smartly enough, that with their Argentine friends, they are the perfect fly in the ointment to the so-called Hull-Roosevelt good-neighbor policy, at which so many laughed in Lima, 16 months ago.

The Mexicans, who have no good-neighborly illusions, turned out in masses to defy Uncle "Sam-Hull," while the Mexican press fired off thunderbolts of what Americans would call July 4 oratory. In Mexico City, with its magnificent climate and location, President Cardenas, No. 1 Indian of the Americas, with 50,000 others, watched 20,000 anti-Americans march in defense of their country, as they put it. Cardenas, generally quite sincere, said it was the most moving sight he had ever seen.

And that was not all. Just to clap the climax and out-maneuver the maneuverers, the Mexican federal council of conciliation and arbitration demanded that some 17 American and other foreign oil companies, cleaned out by the Mexicans two years back, should pay their former proletarians roughly $20,000,000 for a "severance" fee. This hurt aplenty.

WAR TRADE:

Harry Hopkins' commerce department announced that the value of American exports had gone up some 33 per cent during the first six months of the war abroad. Partly, of course, it was airplanes, which certainly are a profitable sale any time, anywhere. Trade to Europe was up by 27 per cent; to Asia, up 33 per cent; to Canada and Latin America, up 47 per cent. It is to Canada, direct, that most of the aircraft go. The Japanese against China and the Russians against Finland have done quite well with their useful imports from the United States!

MISCELLANY:

The Dies committee had another fearsome fuss with six workers-of-the-world, so-called, who would not answer questions or give away their fellow Communist members. The six came up in batches of three, the second batch more bothersome even than the first. The irritated house of representatives voted "contempt" citations. Red-minded Earl Browder, jailed for a passport fraud, was subpoenaed, with 19 others, regarding the passport racket.

General Francisco Franco, "rebel" Spanish dictator, indicated that he and his country intended to be neutral and stay neutral, despite the intense indignation felt, over Norway and Denmark, in Spanish America.

Rear Admiral S. M. Robinson, U. S. N., said that he thought England's big battleships were more important tactically than Germany's planes and submarines, and so testified before a senate committee of would-be military experts.

The 17 anti-Semitic Christian Frontists continued on trial at New York. They were accused of wanting to overthrow the U. S. government. Dennis Healy, chief prosecuting witness, told how he took notes on his carefully starched cuffs at Front meetings, and treated the worldly Frontlings to drinks and meals at U. S. government expense. "An old czarist trick," said one New Yorker. Before Mr. Healy collapsed from nervous strain, he said the Front talked of shooting a dozen congressmen, of making retired General Mosely dictator.

Patterns

SEWING CIRCLE

1905-B

THE shirtwaister is always an excellent choice for those of you who want to look slimmer than the scales imply, and this one (1905-B) is designed to look especially slenderizing. The paneled skirt is slim-hipped and almost straight. The plain front of the bodice continues the line of the skirt panel, to give a lengthening effect. The shoulders are squared out, but not gathered, and the fullness under the shoulder yoke takes care of correct fit over the bust.

A smart double-collar effect finishes the deep v of the neckline—and you can wear the dress merely with its self collar, if you like. A classic style like this makes up nicely in such street materials as spun rayon or flat crepe, and in linen or chambray to wear around the house. It's one of those comfortable patterns that you'll repeat many times.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1905-B is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4⅞ yards of 39-inch material; ⅔ yard contrasting. Send order to:

A view of Puget Sound, Washington, where the main line of the Great Northern railway follows the shores of the Pacific Ocean for the last thirty miles into Seattle.

"Paid in Full"

Into almost every discussion of the railroads—whether in the village store or in national forums—there comes, almost inevitably, the matter of "land grants."

And you hear amazing things about these land grants—even from persons who should know better.

Did you know that out of the 240,000 miles of railroad in the United States, only 17,627 miles were built with the aid of land grants? In other words, less than 8 per cent.

It is this so-called "subsidy" (which helped to make possible the building of less than 8 per cent of the railroad mileage) that is urged today as an excuse for continuously subsidizing highway and water and air transportation in competition with all of the railroad mileage.

Did you know that the Land Grants were not "gifts" at all? That the government has been repaid for them many times over?

For under the terms of the land grant contracts, the government has received a reduction of one-half of the regular freight charges and passenger fares on all government business moved over land-grant railroad, excepting mail, and on mail the reduction has been one-fifth.

Did you know that the Great Northern Railway extended its lines from Minnesota to the Pacific Coast without any land grants whatsoever?

If there is any justification at all for requiring other forms of transportation to be only PARTIALLY self-supporting while the railroads must be WHOLLY self-supporting, the justification is NOT to be found in the grants of land to a few of the early railroads which contributed so magnificently to the building of the West.

Medical examination, arrangements for hospitalization and field nursing services are among the benefits which needy crippled children of this district will receive through the orthopedic clinic to be held in Thief River Falls, May 11. Conducted for the third consecutive year, the Thief River Falls clinic will serve Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau counties. The clinic will be held in the High School with registration hours from 8:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m.

Patients attending clinic for the first time should have a letter of referral from their family physicians. The facilities of the clinic are avaiable to all crippled children under 21 from this district whose parents are unable financially to provide private orthopedic care.

The clinic in Thief River Falls, one of sixteen clinics which the Bureau will conduct during 1940. This is an increase of four over the number of clinics held when the Bureau was established in 1936. Field clinics serve two purposes. They make orthopedic examinations available to those who have not been cared for previously. They also afford a check up examination to those who have been cared for through the Bureau or Gillette State Hospital for Crippled Children.

This clinic has been approved by the county medical societies. Cooperating with the Bureau for Crippled Children is the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the State Department of Education, the staff of Gillette State Hospital, and the Minnesota Public Health Association. Arrangements are already under way by the local committee and participating groups for the clinic.

Foot Prints on the Sands of Time

The past record of a man or an institution is a reliable omen of the present or future. A long record of reliable, honest and sincere service, are factors that make up a part that can truly be pointed to with pride, these are "footprints" that lead to success.

The past record of this paper is our strongest recommendation.

We today pass into another stretch of time, having started Volume No. 30 of the News and hope that we have so served our readers and advertisers that we may merit your continued support in this field of business.

We have been at the piloting end of this paper for the past fifteen years and have seen some very exciting changes take place in this community. This paper is the historian of this peaceful community. In the files of it you can check back through the copies of 1,508 weekly issues. In these fifteen hundred numbers are recorded a lot of local history about Holt and the people in the entire community.

MODERATION.... the unseen physician

- It's more than mere luck that this young man's "check-up" has won him an O. K. for physical fitness. Day to day he has heeded the wise counsel of Nature's wise physician—Moderation.
- Moderation in all things, in work and play, in eating and drinking, promotes physical good health.
- That is why beer, the beverage of moderation, is preferred by those who cherish physical fitness. It is this sensible use of beer as a mild beverage which the Brewers of Minnesota seek to promote.
- Like all good things, its benefits are best distributed through wise regulation. The Brewers of Minnesota are cooperating with law-enforcement officers to make the retailing of beer as wholesome as beer itself.

Another Bangs Disease Test

Another complete test for the Bang's disease in cattle must be conducted in Marshall county in order to be a fully accredited county with results of the first county-wide test completed last week showing a herd reaction of 10.61 per cent, according to R. A. Reierson, county agent.

In order for a county to be considered as a modified area, the herd infection cannot amount to more than five per cent and the percent of reactors in relation to all cattle tested cannot exceed more than one percent. The percent of reactors in Marshall county was 1.456. Further testing will be maintained in the county until such time as the requirements are met.

There were 42,218 cattle tested in Marsnall county, including 2,677 herds. Of the 42,218 cattle tested, 616 reacted to the test. These reactors were found in 284 lots.

Below is a summary by laboratories of the county test:

Grygla — Lots 429, Infected herds 61, percent 14.22, cattle 7236, reactors 205, percent 2.83, suspected herds 15, suspect cattle 17.

Warren—Lots 1257, Infected herds 138, percent 10.98, cattle 19,298, reactors 233, percent 1.21 suspect herds 43, suspect cattle 46.

Middle River—lots 991, infected herds 85, percent 8.58, cattle 15,684, reactors 178, percent 1.135, suspect herds 13, suspect cattle 13.

Totals — lots 2677, infected herds 284, percent 10.61, cattle 42,218, reactors 616, percent 1.456, suspect herds 71, suspect cattle 76. —Warren Sheaf.

Public Invited To Wedding

The public of Holt is cordially invited to attend a Silver Wedding celebration given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Carlson of Middle River at the Village Hall in Middle River on Sunday afternoon, May 5, at 2 p. m.

All those who are willing to bring lunch for the occasion should contact the local serving committee. Mrs. Sam Lorentson and Mrs. Geo. Fricker are the members of the Holt committee.

Cleanup Notice

Notice is hereby given by the local Board of Health and the Village Council that the residents of this village are required at this time to clean up their premises. This means that you are required to clean up and haul away all piles of junk, tin cans ashes and other rubbish from your back yards and alleys. An inspection trip will be made soon to see to it that this order is enforced.

By order of the Village Council of Holt.

Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Ashcraft will conduct services here at the Free Mission Church starting Tues. April 30 and continue thru Sunday May 5. During the week the services will be held a 8 p. m and Sunday at 11 a. m.; 2:30 and 8 p. m. Mrs. Ashcraft will illustrate her talk with colored stereopticon views.

Highschool Play Postponed

The High School play to be given here tonight has been postponed until next Friday evening May 10th, due to road conditions.

Spring Brings New Hopes

Spring is the hope of season. New chicks, calves, pigs, lambs or colts arouse a hope for profit during the coming year.

The county agent's office relates that in the past these hopes have all-too-often been shattered by worms and disease that cause large losses of animals and investment. Much-needed dollars are spent each year on concoctions and "quick cures" of doubtful value, so the extension office has secured tips and advice on this subject for Marshall county farmers from W. A. Billings, extension veterinarian, of University Farm, St. Paul.

Billings says that in another month or so the letters start coming to him from all directions, asking what to do about pigs that have scours, worms, necro or mange. Baby chicks are reported dying from such diseases as coccidiosis and from worms. By and by the lambs may show signs of intestinal worms too.

In an effort to forestall heavy losses, the owners aften resort to innumerable cure-alls designed cure or eradicate these diseases. Their record, however, if far from impressive. If they did only half what is claimed for them, we would all get on the band wagon and preach their acceptance. The fact of the matter is, thousands of dollars are squandered each year on fly-by-night concoction. One advertising leaflet claims that if this particular stuff is used the hog raiser will have absolutely no losses, besides that, it would decrease feed costs at least one-half and still more, it is a sure preventative for hog cholera.

Folks, there is no medecine that will ever take the place of common sense sanitation, Billings says. About now, thousands of little pigs are being turned out into the old hog lot which has started pigs for 25 years. Here the little fellows play in the disease and worm-laden manure of their great grandmothers, and in just a few weeks the runts begin to show up. When this takes place the owner looks around for something to put in the slop, drinking water or the feed. Someone has said that about one-third of the little pigs each year never live to reach four months of age, another third live, but become unprofitable runts and the owner must make whatever profit he can from the remaining one-third.

The 1940 crop of little pigs should not be permitted to run in the old hog lot adjacent to the hog house. They should range in clean pasture or on a clean cement sun-porch alongside the farrowing house. No medecine is as helpful as a good start.

Dumpground Notice

Notice is hereby given that all who are hauling junk to the Village Dump Grounds southwest of town, be careful not to dump rubbish, ashes and junk on the adjoining farm land belonging to Mr. Flak. The council has been getting complaints about this matter and unless the practice is stopped, those who violate this rule will be required to go back there and clean up what they dump outside the dump ground area.

"The Name Is Familiar"

BY
FELIX B. STREYCKMANS and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Smithsonian Institution

THE Smithsonian Institution in Washington bears the name of an Englishman who never had set foot on American soil but who left his entire fortune to establish in this country what was destined to become one of the greatest storehouses of scientific knowledge in the world.

James Smithson

James Smithson, born in 1765, was the natural son of a widow, Elizabeth Keate Macie and Hugh Smithson, an English country squire. During his boyhood and college years he bore the name of James Lewis Macie, but after he was admitted to the Royal society and had won some fame as a scientist, he applied to the crown for permission to take his father's name. This was granted in 1802 and thereafter he was James Smithson. However, his father's title as duke of Northumberland went to his half-brother, Lord Percy.

Because of the bar sinister on his name he never married. He hated the monarchial system and left England to make his home in Genoa, Italy, where his life of tragic frustration ended in June, 1829. When his will was opened it was found that he had left a fortune of more than half a million dollars "to the United States of America to found at Washington, under the name of the Smithsonian institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

Why did he do it? That is one of the unsolved mysteries of history. Once he wrote, "My name shall live in the memory of man when the titles of the Northumberlands and the Percys are extinct and forgotten." That may afford a clue!

Bowie Knife

DICTIONARIES say a bowie knife is a stout, straight, single-edged hunting knife. But more than a hundred years ago, when hunting knives were more important as a means of self-preservation, a Bowie knife was known as "the kind that Jim Bowie carries."

James Bowie

History is not certain as to who invented the knife, but there is no question that it was named after Colonel James Bowie, a native of Tennessee. There is a story that Bowie thrust his butcher knife into an attacking Indian and his hand slipped down over the blade, cutting it severely. However, it was the Indian who failed to heal up, not Bowie, and at his first opportunity Bowie had a hunting knife made to order with a guard on it. Soon after he began to carry it he was attacked by three desperadoes and killed all of them with his new kind of knife. The men of the times began ordering knives like Bowie's and soon began merely to ask for Bowie knives.

Bowie was finally killed himself in the battle of the Alamo but when his body was found it was surrounded by dead Mexicans whom he had killed first. Col. James Bowie was the kind of man who, if he lived today, would be prominent in the testimonial advertisements.

Volts

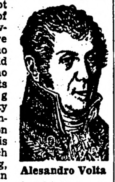
VOLTS—the units for measuring electrical force—are named in honor of Alesandro Volta, Italian professor who tamed the electric spark in the early 1800s.



Alesandro Volta

Up until then electricity was produced only by rubbing a piece of glass, resin or wax with the dry hand or a piece of dry cloth, making a spark. Electricity had no practical use—except as a novelty of the French drawing rooms. There gentlemen who wore laces would shock ladies who wore hoop skirts by generating static electricity and then touching the ladies on the cheek. This pastime is much less shocking, however, than some of the others that history says went on in French drawing rooms and perhaps we should not minimize the importance of static electricity.

At any rate, Alesandro Volta spent the greatest part of his life trying to generate electricity without rubbing anything. One day he tried piling silver and zinc discs of equal size upon each other with wet pieces of cloth between. He connected the first and last discs with a wire and got—not a shock, but the first steady current of electricity in history.

Popular Apron for Beginner to Make

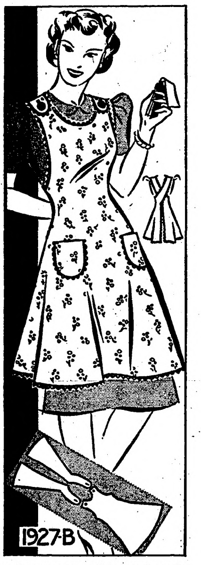
HERE'S one to begin on, if you've never done any sewing. Pattern No. 1927-B consists of just three pieces that go together to become the most practical and comfortable of pinafore aprons—and it is a pretty thing to look at, too, slim-waisted and bright with braid. It buttons on the shoulders and slips on over your head. And then it stays put! No fumbling over complicated cross-buttoning effects, no slipping and sliding. It protects the top as well as the skirt of your dress.

Three or four aprons like this, in percale, calico or gingham, will make your home life much easier and happier. It's a nice suggestion for occasional gifts, too, and a sell-out at club or church sales, because it's the type every woman wants! Send for the pattern right this minute, and you'll be as enthusiastic as is everybody who has tried it!



Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1927-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 2⅜ yards of 35-inch material without nap; 10 yards of ricrac. Send order to:

Braided Rug With Scalloped Border

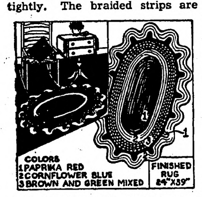
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ONE day a snap-shot came from a reader showing a half dozen braided rag rugs spread out on the grass. No two were alike. I thought this one with a scalloped border was particularly interesting and the maker wrote me that the scallops do stay flat on the floor.

She uses wool rags and frequently dyes them the colors she wants. She cuts or tears them into strips an inch or more wide, according to the weight of the material and then braids them tightly. The braided strips are sewn together with double carpet thread and she keeps the work flat on the table all the time she is sewing. For this rug, the center row is 15 inches long. Sew around and around this, using the colors indicated. When the oval is 31 inches long and 16 inches wide, divide it evenly around the edge with pins about five inches apart. Now, sew a row around with a 2-inch loop at each pin. Sew the next three rows around these loops easing the braiding in just enough to keep the work flat.



NOTE: "The Rug That Grew Up With the Family" is another interesting rug-making idea. Directions are in Mrs. Spears' Book 3, which also tells how to make spool shelves; streamlining an old style bed; and many other useful ideas. Write Mrs. Spears today, enclosing 10 cents in coin and book No. 3 will be sent to you by return mail.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Eat All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY ROGER SHAW

War Opens Up on Norway Front As British and French Arrive; Balkan Nations Fear Nazi Coup

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

YE WAR TALK:

Norway continued to hold the center of the stage, in what has been called the Second German war. In the south of that unhappy land, the German invaders extended their already extensive gains, based primarily on Oslo, the Norse capital. There was seemingly savage fighting around Trondheim and Narvik, ports on the Norse coast, but uncertainty and mystery continued to screen the accuracy of Norse Front news.

French troops swung into action, along with English and Canadians, in the various isolated landings from allied transports and warships, up and down the endless, inlet-studded coastline. The Germans flew in more troops and equipment. Estimates of the total German strength in Norway ranged from 18,000 (Washington) to 60,000 (Paris). This force would be merely a corporal's guard, in terms of modern totalitarian warfare.

As to warships, on both sides they continued sinking, or grounding, or puncturing, at a truly alarming rate, according to the propaganda stories wafted to America. One German garrison of marines, said the reports, consisted of 1,300 men—but then lost 1,600 men in action. Another report rumored that the English mines laid in Norse territorial waters (which precipitated the German invasion) were purely fictitious, and that Winston Churchill had bluffed the Germans with these "verbal" deathtraps. Other "good" rumors (Norway aside) included the fact that Prime Minister Chamberlain and Heinrich Himmler, of the Nazi Gestapo, were blood brothers in an esoteric cult, and that Secretary Sumner Welles was a Welshman.

JUGOSLAVIA'S TSVETKOVITCH—He nipped an uprising.
(See 'Trojan Steeds.')

As to the English-ultra Lord Haw-Haw, German broadcasting ace, he was variously reported to be a renegade English fascist, and the South African grandson of a rabbi. Daily he "sank" the British navy in Norse waters, by word of mouth, and the English public fairly ate up his words, while his Canadian audience was extraordinary. Most people laughed at Lord Haw-Haw, but a portion of the British proletariat were inclined to take him seriously, which led to hectic English counter-blasts.

TROJAN STEEDS:

The Germans penetrated Norway by deceit, trickery, and subversion. They used Trojan Horse tactics: "tourists," "peaceful" freighters, "business" men, bribery, spying and a general boring from within.

Other European nations took alarm at this novel method of Nazi invasion. Jugoslavia "isolated" her last year's premier, Stoyadinovitch, who had a pro-German and pro-Italian reputation. There was talk at Belgrade of a German invasion by the Trojan Horse method; for there are, in Jugoslavia, half a million Germans, many of whom are Nazi-minded. Late reports from Belgrade indicated that Premier Dragisha Tsvetkovitch (see cut) had succeeded in stamping out the uprising when he interned Stoyadinovitch. Jugoslavia, ever anti-Soviet and pro-Czarist in policy, nevertheless hastened to come to terms with Unholy Russia, agreed to a Russian trade treaty, and bargained for Russian-owned weapons, manufactured by the famous Skoda arms works in what used to be Czechoslovakia. It seemed, all round, that national governments were just as effective merchants-of-death as the so-condemned private profiteers ever thought of being.

There were echoes of the Jugoslav worriment, elsewhere. Holland went under martial law, to prevent Nazi boring from within, while Belgium counted foreign noses. Sweden stretched her blackout even to lighthouses, closed her important port of Gothenburg; while the sturdy Swiss planned mobilization of the entire little country, and called up 60,000 more homespun militia. As for the Turks, they began to throw out foreigners, especially tourists and visitors, who might be carrying automatic rifles in their golf bags, and wearing uniform Field Gray underwear. No Trojan steeds for the Ottomans and Osmanli!

But Trojan horsemanship aside, England threatened dire things to loud-speaking Mussolini, the tough Nazi Gestapo in Poland, and the Indian nationalists who want their independence. None of these gentry seemed overly perturbed by the lowering Lion of London. Mussolini, in particular, was urged by an English cabinet minister—to put up, or shut up. Some critics ventured to suggest that His Majesty's minister might better have so addressed the "kibitzing" Yankees, safely overseas.

POTOMAC PEPPERPOTS:

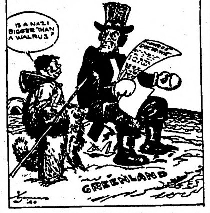
Germany occupied Denmark, and there was much talk of Uncle Sam taking over Danish Greenland, in the New world. Should Germany occupy Holland, there was much talk of Uncle Mikado taking over the Dutch East Indies, in the Far East. There was, however, one essential difference: Greenland is plenty poor, and East Indies is reeling rich.



IS A NAZI BIGGER THAN A WALRUS?
GREENLAND
'40

Remember, Chief, You Are in the Western Hemisphere.

Secretary Hull apparently viewed with alarm, and got out a statement to warn the Japanese against any meddle-meddle with the East Indies' oil, rubber, tin, and strategic location. The Japanese politely regarded this question as none of Mr. Hull's business, and some Americans were inclined to agree with them. It seemed that the Japs were as afraid of an English seizure, as the state department boys were of a Japanese seizure. Then Roosevelt entered the word-fray on Hull's side, lauding the status quo in the Pacific.

Meanwhile, the senate (after a mere four-hour chat) voted a virtual billion dollars to the admirals, to pay for the two biggest battleships in the world, two cruisers, an airplane carrier, eight destroyers, six submarines, and five other craft. This hasty balloting was regarded as a gesture against the Japanese, who were reported as also on the build-up. So-called experts said that Japan was slapping together some eight super-dreadnoughts, "for the American trade." At this point, the world's biggest warship is the 42,000-ton English Hood.

The admirals also renewed their chronic demand that insular Guam be turned into a major American aerial and submarine base: a pistol to be pointed, presumably, at the head of Nippon's Son of Heaven.

LABOR ELECTION:

The A. F. of L. took a signal beating in the General Motors general elections. C. I. O. won out by a total of 90,000 to 30,000, with another 15,000 workers balloting for scattering independent unions. Chief Green of the A. F. of L. had charged that Chief Lewis of the C. I. O. wanted a political revolution, to make himself U. S. dictator. But the Brotherhood of Consolidated Edison Employees, independent union, beat C. I. O. as bargaining agency for 30,000 Edison workers.

NAMES . . . in the news

Police Commissioner Valentine of gang-plagued New York city urged his bluecoat patrolmen to be "rough, tough, and obnoxious" to hoodlums; while Charles Laughton, of Anglo-movie fame, compared the great Dr. Sam Johnson to roast beef, Yorkshire pudding, English bluebells, or the Britannic woods and moors. One bookworm added that Laughton, in his way, was the greatest English rationalist since the dear, departed Eighteenth-century Sam.

A London truck-driver, knowing not what he did, hit and mortally injured a 75-year-oldster. His name was Herbert Albert Laurens Fisher. He was a former M. P. But more than that, he was one of the world's outstanding historians, and an international cultural figure.

There, too, died the equally famous Kid McCoy, whom the world's "madness" apparently drove to self-destruction. The Kid's real name was Norman Selby: a champ middleweight who either was on the up and up, or else on the down and down.

Checking Up . . .

. . . On the National Labor Relations board is a man-sized task judging from all the hue and cry raised currently throughout the country over the activities of that agency and Howard W. Smith (above), Democratic representative from Virginia appears to be in line for that job. He instituted a resolution calling for a special report on the board and will head an investigation committee of the house which will report to the next session of congress.

OUR PRESIDENT:

Our President warned the Pan-American Union governors to be tough, meeting force with force, if that force came from overseas. No mention was made of force coming from above the Rio Grande. He also tossed the opening pitch in the opening game, between Washington and Boston, and took Jim Farley along with him—a gesture of reconciliation, or a common love of sport? Farley is a ball player from way back.

Our President asked congress for close to a billion dollars, for the worthy purpose of relief over the fiscal year-to-be. He said he might have to spend it all in the first eight months.

Our President took a beating from the house when it passed the Logan-Walter bill, which subjects the actions of 130 federal bureaus to court review. Our President, and the New Dealers, were strongly against this "vicious thing."

CENSUS:

Still ringing doorbells and ferreting out information, Uncle Sam's census enumerators counted the 100,000,000th American, with about 30,000,000 to go. Actual counting was expected to be completed within a week, but the bigger job of tabulating and compiling the information obtained will take months and in some cases years. Totals for states and the nations should be available during the summer. Near Zanesville, Ohio, one footsore enumerator claimed he had made 11 unsuccessful trips to the same house. Local wits suggested that possibly some of Mr. Tobey's (Rep. Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, arch-opponent of the income question in the census questionnaire) relatives lived in the district.

MISCELLANY:

Barnstorming Tom—Republican-nomination-candidate Dewey barnstormed Indiana and the Southwest, raising hades about the New Dealers, and their new dispensation. He sizzled with a special vigor in Indianapolis, and in Oklahoma City. The Roosevelt Third Term motif loomed up clearer and clearer; but Secretary Hull was called, by the governor of North Carolina, the one Democrat who could unite the party.

Birthday — Hitler celebrated his fifty-first birthday, the controlled Germanic press turned on the eulogy-faucet, and the topmost press agent declared the Fuehrer was a genius living a century ahead of his time . . . !

Greatest—A New York Town Hall ballot for the Greatest American rated George Washington a mere third. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who emancipated the trade-unionists, and Abraham Lincoln, who freed the slaves of another sort, were tied, even-steven, for first.

War Planes—England and France put in a contract bid for 1,500 American warplanes, at cost of a cool $120,000,000, amid the joyful antics of our domestic aerial stock-holders.

Smears—The SEC was charged, by the president of the Georgia Power company, a man named Preston Arkwright, with a hideous charge—that of employing the fell methods of the Russian Ogpu and the German Gestapo. As for the New Deal as a whole, continued the irate Georgian, it was out to "smear" public utilities in general, and J. Edgar Hoover told the sympathetic D. A. R. that communists were out to "smear" the G-men.

Train Smash-Up—Some 125 people were killed and injured, when a New York-Chicago express train was derailed in central New York state. There were approximately 300 passengers aboard. The cars piled up for half a mile, and the engine exploded. Identification of many corpses, due to hideous mangling, was impossible.

The Missus—The basically good-hearted Mrs. F. D. R. put herself on the growing side of America-stay-out, by declaring at Battle Creek, Mich., that a neutral U. S. means "the one torch of hope in the world."

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

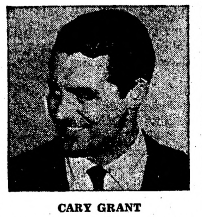
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN Columbia decided to film "The Tree of Liberty" they decided to give the public more than good value. Many of the scenes of the book are laid in Williamsburg, Va., at the time of the Revolution and just afterward. And since the Rockefellers have obligingly restored most of the buildings of the town so that they look as they did then, Columbia sent the company to Williamsburg.

They also invited newspaper writers down to see Cary Grant, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Richard Carle and others working, under the very able direction of Frank Lloyd.

Students from William and Mary college acted as extras; in a scene made in wind and rain in front of Raleigh tavern you'll see them, dressed as students of the college were in the seventeen hundreds. The wind and rain were artificially produced on a beautiful spring evening.

The next afternoon Grant was to be photographed riding up to the door of a famous old plantation. The governor of Virginia and crowds of enthusiastic fans assembled to watch. When you see that scene, imagine the governor and the rest of us shivering in a chilly wind from the James river, waiting for the sun to come out, while Grant patiently rode his horse up and down until somebody pointed a candid camera at it at close range, making it so nervous that it ran away. Grant lost his hat and got his wig rumpled, and by the time order was restored the sky was too cloudy for any pictures to be made.



CARY GRANT

The following day a mob was to storm something or other, and a torchlight parade was to be held. So it rained. The picture people were patient; they're accustomed to that sort of thing. The newspaper people were not, so they went home. The only news was that the title had to be changed to "The Howards of Virginia," because the other one sounded too much like a Warner Brothers patriotic short, and that Martha Scott, instead of Joan Fontaine, would play the lead.

It's going to be a swell picture, one of Frank Lloyd's best—that's recommendation enough for any movie.

Director John Stahl, who has been connected with only two studios—Metro and Universal—during the past 25 years, has broken away, along with such producers as Walter Wanger and Frank Capra, to enjoy the freedom of making his own picture selections. You must remember his "Back Street," with Irene Dunne, and "Only Yesterday," with Margaret Sullavan, to mention just a few of his successes.

He's chosen "The Life of Daniel Webster" for his first free picture, and has signed with James Roosevelt to direct "The Boy Grew Older" for him.

Spike Jones, drummer in Oscar Bradley's orchestra on the CBS "Screen Guild Theater," refused an offer of $200 for a drum head recently. The original cost of the drum head was only $10—but it's covered with signatures of famous Hollywood stars who have appeared on the program, from Shirley Temple to Bette Davis.

Lany Ross was recently nominated as the perfect date by a group of pretty girls who act as professional fashion models. To show his appreciation, he invited four of them to be his guests at a very smart—and very expensive—night club. When the night was over, Lanny, who was selected as the perfect date because he knows just what to do when escorting a woman, found that he couldn't pay the check—because he'd left his wallet at home.

Many commentators will air their views on the forthcoming presidential campaigns to be held this summer. To one, however, it will hold special interest. Many years ago Edwin C. Hill, "America's Star Reporter," covered the Theodore Roosevelt convention. From the time Teddy became President, Hill was referred to by the Rough Rider as "the unofficial member of my cabinet." This summer Hill will again cover a Roosevelt convention providing Franklin Delano Roosevelt runs for a third term.

Underground Movies

Two hundred and forty feet below ground the colliers of the Spruce mine, near Evereth, Minn., enjoy regular film shows. The theater is a disused pump-room in the pit, and there are seats for 200 spectators. At lunch-time, comedies, wild west and other short films are shown, as well as special "Safety First" features for instructional benefit.

There is no sound apparatus, but the miners provide incidental music with their own accordions, violins and harmonicas.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Reds Grab Millions Here

Few Americans realize the fact that the Communist Party and its various "front" organizations collect more money in the non-national election years than the Republican and Democratic parties put together.

Agents of the Treasury Department, working in cooperation with the Dies Committee, have recently completed an investigation of 43 Communist bank accounts. They found that in 1937 and 1938 combined the advocates of red revolt in America collected $10,164,000!

The official figures of the Republican and Democratic National Committees show that the country's two major parties took in less than $5,000,000 between them during that period of time. Counting all Democratic and Republican clubs and affiliated organizations, the total income of the two parties that believe in upholding our American form of government fell several million dollars short of the "take" of the apostles of revolution.

Americans who sit back and say "It Can't Happen Here" would be well to give some real thought to this fact. The Communist Party has now more members in the U.S. A. than the Russian Communist Party had when it overthrew the Czar. And the $5,000,000 a year war chest of the American Communists is more cash than their Russian brethren saw in a generation. Stalin and his henchmen were reduced at times to robbing banks to keep their party going. But Browder and his American reds need 43 banks to deposit the millions showered on them by a few conscious Communists and a host of dupes and many fellow travelers.

Grasshopper Egg Survey

A grasshopper egg survey recently completed in Marshall county shows that the threat of damage from grasshoppers this year will be equal to that in 1939, according to information received by the county agent's office at Warren.

Severe and threatening infestations are indicated for most of the county, with the Valley portion of the county having the most severe infestations. In the state, a report shows that spotted areas in the Red River Valley, in southwestern counties and in a few eastern counties will be hardest hit this year.

Although all the farmers are urged to cooperate in the control campaign now being organized, the 595 wheat growers who have taken out wheat crop insurance in this county are especially warned that they must - - - "use all reasonable means to develop, care for, and save the entire crop covered by the insurance contract." This language of the contract is interpreted to include protecting the crop from grasshoppers by spreading poison bait.

Also, it is well to remember that crop insurance premiums are based on losses experienced by each farm. By helping to reduce grasshopper damage, the growers are therefore helping themselves to greater insurance protection at lower cost in the years ahead.

Sheep Demonstration

Tips and demonstrations on the finer points of sheep growing which result in top grade market lambs and sheep and bigger profits for the producer, will feature Marshall county's Better Sheep Demonstration, May 16, announces County Agent R. A. Reierson, who is in charge.

W. E. Morris, extension livestock specialist, University Farm will be on hand to conduct demonstrations in drenching, castrating and docking sheep and to discuss up-to-the-minute methods and production problems with local growers.

The tremendous loss that growers take each year because of internal parasites which reduce the thrift of the breeding flock, reduce yields of wool by death loss, and increase feed costs can be prevented or greatly reduced, stresses Mr. Morris. Drenching for stomach worms will repay producers many times over for their necessary labor and equipment.

At the demonstration, sheepmen will see a wool grades exhibit showing these things that reduce grades, and will also have a chance to observe good types of feeding equipment.

The demonstration will be held at the farm of Charles O. Taylor, six miles north and one-half miles east of Newfolden in New Maine towship on State Aid Road No. 6, and will start at 1:30 p. m.

Mrs. Fadden, Miss Erickson, Miss Larson, and Miss Fadden visited at the G. Sanoden home Saturday evening.

Notica To The Public

The Bureau of the Census is anxious to make the 1940 Farm Census as complete as possibie in order that the farm conditions of each community may be clearly reflected in the returns. The farm census in this community is now practically completed. It is possible, however, that some farm enterprises may inadvertently have been missed. In the interest of a complete farm enumeration, it is requested that persons carrying on farm enterprises in 1939 or 1940, send in to the undersigned their names and addresses if such enterprises have not yet been enumerated. Such farm enterprises that are to be enumerated include general farms, greenhouses, mushroom cellars, nurseries, hatcheries, the keeping of cows or other livestock, chickens or other poultry, or bees, the growing of flowers, vegetables or fruit for sale, provided the value of the products in 1939 amounted to $250.00 or more, or, if less than $250.00, there were three or more acres in the place on which such farming operations were conducted.

The blank printed below may be used, or the necessary information may be written on a post card and addressed to the undersigned.

Cleanup Notice

Notice is hereby given by the local Board of Health and the Village Council that the residents of this village are required at this time to clean up their premises. This means that you are required to clean up and haul away all piles of junk, tin cans ashes and other rubbish from your back yards and alleys. An inspection trip will be made soon to see to it that this order is enforced.

By order of the Village Council of Holt.

"A Pair of Country Kids" given at the Holt School tonight is worth twice as much as you will have to pay.

Barbara Ann Simonson, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfin Simonson, was baptized at the parsonage on Friday afternoon, May 3. She was born on Sept. 23, 1939 and her sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Anderson.

Einer Loven holds the record as one of the best car salesman at Thief River Falls, having sold a car day the past two weeks. He is with the Ford sale agency in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Ness and Ruben, Hartley Peterson, and Rev. T. C. L. Hanson motored to Oklee Tuesday evening where the men attended the Boy Scout District meeting and Mrs. Ness visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Sovde.

Card of Thanks

We hereby express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors at Holt for the fine party they gave us at Middle River Sunday on our silver wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Carlson.

"Gone With the Wind" is not the title of the play given by the Holt High School tonight but you will like it anyway.

Walter Peterson closed a deal recently with Mrs. C. L. Sandberg in which he became the owner of her fine home in the east end of town.

Celebrated Silver Wedding

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Carlson of Middle River gathered on Sunday afternoon to help them celebarte their silver wedding anniversary. The party was given at the Village Hall in Middle River and friends and relatives from Holt, Argyle, Newfolden, and many other communities were in attendance for the happy occasion.

A very appropriate program had been arranged for the occasion and many representatives gave greetings from their communities to Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Carlson. Mr. E. M. Evans, Middle River, was the chairman of the program and he called upon many friends who gave short talks. Also on the program were many vocal solos and musical numbers given by those attending from here, Middle River and Argyle.

The honored guests were seated at a table nicely decorated with bouquets of American Beauty roses and carnations, and a wedding cake. Also at the table were their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carlson and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Carlson and family of Argyle.

At the close of the program they were presented with a cash purse as a remembrance of the day.

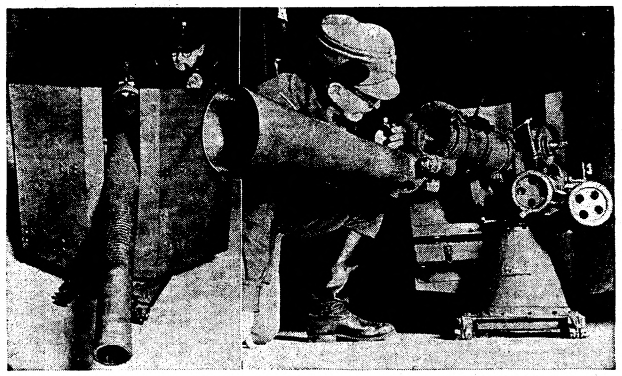
Captured 'Mystery Gun' Puzzles Military Experts



A Finnish gunnery expert is shown examining one of the strange weapons captured from Soviet Russian forces during the recent Russo-Finnish war. The gun, a field piece, is believed to be a non-recoil cannon. It is shown ready to fire (left). The funnel attachment is thought to be a device which utilizes explosion gases to produce a forward movement of the gun barrel, thus neutralizing normal recoil. Right: The funnel arrangement is swung aside to show the breech. Experts confess themselves baffled.

STAGE ✩ SCREEN ✩ RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THERE'S a superstition in Hollywood that an actor cast as a newspaper reporter goes right on into bigger and better roles. Robert Paige believes in it firmly, because it's worked for him.

He was brought into pictures from radio because of his ability as a singer—and then he was given one part after another in which he had no chance to sing. He seemed to be stuck in melodramatic roles. Then he was cast as a newspaper reporter in "Golden Gloves," and again played a reporter in "Opened by Mistake." And now he's booked for the leading male role in Paramount's "Dancing on a Dime," a musical comedy, in which he'll play opposite Grace MacDonald—and will sing and dance, at last!

At 75, May Robson has no idea how many roles she has played on stage and screen, but she's ready to tackle her newest one, that of Ellen Drew's grandmother, in "Texas Rangers Ride Again." It's one of the most strenuous parts of her long career, that of a salty old lady who looks upon modern Texas peace officers as poor successors to the ones she knew in her youth.

You'll be able to see Pat O'Malley, of radio's "Alec Templeton Time," on the screen before long. His first picture will be "Captain Caution," in which he will play a Cockney sailor who is captured during the War of 1812—and in which he'll sing the "Apple Song," which he has already performed on the Templeton program.

When you see "A Night at Earl Carroll's" you'll also see what was, two years ago, the community's most expensive night club. Remember when it opened, with a special section for movie stars? Nowadays it's a dime-and-dance emporium in the evenings, but during the days it's been returned to its former glory by Paramount. Ken Murray and Rose Hobart play the leads in the picture, Cobina and Brenda, radio's comedy team, and some of the much publicized Earl Carroll beauties will support them, and Earl Carroll, besides acting as producer, will play himself.

The Philadelphia-LaScala Opera company wants Deanna Durbin to make her operatic career under its auspices next season. James Melton's already signed with the company.

Ben Grauer has grabbed off the most coveted announcing assignment in radio. He's been selected to introduce Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt when she takes the air. Oddly enough, he and she will be in studios hundreds of miles apart, since she will be on the go most of the time; she'll broadcast from a city convenient to her schedule, and he'll chime in from a New York studio.

He is an energetic, jovial young man, who, since he joined NBC 10 years ago, has been working toward liberating the announcer from his stiff-necked, plush-voiced make-up. He's been trying to sound like a human being, and deserves a medal for the way that he has succeeded, and inspired other announcers to unbend.

Radio's "Uncle Ezra," (Pat Barrett) a confirmed bachelor in his National Barn Dance air show, found on his arrival in Hollywood recently that the screen expects him to have a wife. In the Bob Burns picture, "Comin' Round the Mountain," "Uncle Ezra" will find himself wedded to a movie actress, whether he likes it or not.

Nine years and 49 weeks ago Joan Blondell decided that she might as well leave Hollywood and go back to New York, because she'd never get anywhere in pictures. She was working in "Sinner's Holiday," with James Cagney, and she made up her mind that she'd stick it out till the picture was finished.

But she never got away. In fact, she's been so much in demand that she's had only a few trips to New York to do shopping, and the one she made with Dick Powell on their over-ballyhooed honeymoon.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Venetian Blinds to Simulate Windows

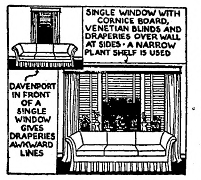
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HAVE you ever tried placing your davenport on the side of the room where there was a single window? You probably found that it did not look well, because the back was just high enough to give the draperies an awkward cut-off appearance, as shown in the upper sketch. The lower sketch shows how a friend of mine solved this problem, and changed her living room that had seemed hopeless, into an attractive, cheerful place.



SINGLE WINDOW WITH CORNICE BOARD, VENETIAN BLINDS AND DRAPERIES OVER WALL AT SIDES · A NARROW PLANT SHELF IS USED
DAVENPORT IN FRONT OF A SINGLE WINDOW GIVES DRAPERIES AWKWARD LINES

There are no windows under those lowered blinds. A painted box-like cornice board was made about 2 feet longer than the davenport and was fastened to the top of the frame of the one window. The venetian blinds and the rods for the draperies were fastened inside this. A narrow shelf for plants just the length of the davenport back was fastened securely to the window sill. The flowers increase the illusion that there are three windows and add a cheerful note of color.

NOTE: Sewing Book No. 1 tells how to make this cornice board. Also how to make curtains and draperies for every room in the house from child's room to kitchen. All about slip covers. Dressing tables from boxes, tables and old mirrors. You will be delighted with it. Send order to:

The film star, a practical joker, had an electrified chair, disguised as an ordinary upholstered one, in his home. He delighted in seeing a guest, comfortably seated, suddenly leap at the press of a button.

A pretty girl came to interview him. She sat in the chair, and he couldn't resist pressing the button. But she just sat there, conversing animately.

Finally he asked: "Don't you feel rather strange?"

"Yes," she replied. "As if electricity were going through me. But I always feel that way when talking to film stars. They're so magnetic."

Nazis Solidify Norwegian Gains As Fierce Fighting Is Reported; Britain Claims Sinking 30 Ships

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

II GERMAN WAR:

Nordic Phase

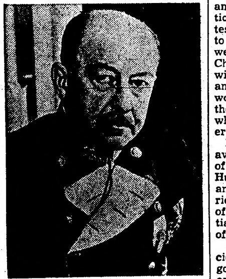
And still the Nordics fought among themselves up north — Norsemen, Germans, English, Anglo-Canadians and an occasional Norman peasant from Quebec. As some of the smoke and propaganda clouds lifted a bit, interesting news items revealed themselves to the American public. The Germans had captured Oslo, Norse capital, with an air-wafted force of 2,000 men. They had captured Narvik with a few hundred men. They had taken Bergen, second city of Norway, with a corporal's guard of 100. They had occupied Trondheim without firing a shot. So much for expert Trojan horsemanship.

It appeared, further, that many of the English troops dumped from the transports into Norway, were ill-equipped "territorial" militia, or half-trained regulars, without proper aerial support, heavy artillery, tanks, or even automatic rifles. The Germans facing them, had plenty of good, new automatic weapons, air bombers and fighters, anti-aircraft, tanks, and considerable knowledge of the Norwegian language. According to the military critics, the German leadership and staff work, too, seemed superior. As the German invaders worked their militant way along portions of the Swedish frontier, Sweden recoiled in terror, although German "promises" offered to soothe them. German "promises" make shaky Swedes.



ADMIRAL LINDSTROM

Under leadership of Admiral Lindstrom, Sweden's small but powerful navy is being tuned to full wartime strength.

Sea Losses

London claimed the loss of 30 German ships in two weeks: most of them troop transports. Four, said England, were captured; the rest were destroyed. Sinking transports is always a hideous process, and English sources reported 3,000 German bodies washed ashore on the eastern rocks of Oslo inlet. In the Skaggerak, the usually optimistic French reported the sinking of a couple of German patrol boats, at the hands of a flotilla of Gallic destroyers. Rumors from Berlin—and elsewhere — continued to whisper that more than half of England's 15 big capital warships were down or out.

But the English countered with the announcement of five coming new sea mammoths, an effort to fill up the decimated ranks. These water monsters would be payed for out of the coming fiscal year's budget of $9,000,000,000, including sales tax, "for the sake of victory." Excluding marines, sailors, deck hands, and flyers, England announced that its armed and armored man-total was now 2,000,000.

Norse Notations

Two Norse flyers stole a big German seaplane, painted out its insignia crosses, and flew it to England, where they joined the royal air force. The incident shows the evils of drink: the Nazi pilots had been beering.

C. J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, issued a statement that his country has definite proof that Germany planned its invasion of Norway for months. He also said that the night before the invasion a German whaling boat, crowded with hidden troops and supplies, sailed into the port of Narvik—flying the American flag.

Enterprising German troops, dropped by parachute behind the Norse lines, eddied down to earth carrying collapsible bicycles, machine-guns, radio-transmitting sets, cameras, saws, other tools, and gas-welding equipment.

President Roosevelt recognized officially the still undeclared Nordic war, and put Norway, like other belligerents, on a strictly cash-and-carry basis. Germany set up a puppet government in German-occupied Norway, modelled on that of German-occupied Czecho-Moravia-Slovakia.

HAIL COLUMBIA:

III Term

It looked more than ever like a Third Term effort by the White House white father. The President let out tentative plans for a three-weeks junket around the country in June, to counteract the Republican national convention at Philadelphia that month. Some of the political railbirds thought that Franklin would keep the Populus Americanus guessing until the very opening of the Democratic convention, at Chicago, in mid-July. Anti-duodecimals continued to yammer loudly against the President's seeming indecision. Pro-Rooses smiled sagely. Republican Publisher Frank Gannett of Rochester, N. Y., declared that four more Rooseveltian years might spell some great national calamity. Mr. Gannett seemed to indicate that there was a fiery Trojan Horse (of purest Norse breed) in the White House back-room. But Democratic Senator Guffey was renominated in Pennsylvania—on the ticket of a man who was a totalitarian for Roosevelt.

Taussig Tempest

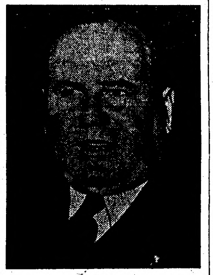
Rear Admiral Joe Taussig, assistant chief of American naval operations, stuck his neck out, when he testified on the navy expansion bill to a senatorial committee. He said we needed badly an independent China; that we better fight Japan with the help of England, France and Holland; and added that it would be, strictly, a naval war—as the Yankee buffalo and the Nippon whale could hardly get at one another by land.

Everybody scrambled around disavowing Mr. Taussig, "Cromwell" of the navy department. Secretary Hull, Secretary Edison, admirals, and "burocrats" all talked in worried, unhappy circles. Senator Clark of Missouri suggested a court-martial, to the open approval of masses of plain American citizens.

Japanese spokesmen took the incident with remarkable tact and good manners, considering that they are often labeled as Far Eastern "Prussians." They merely reminded their public that this was a Yankee election year, with plenty of "free" talk—to which they were too polite to add "cheap." Nevertheless, in service circles, Mr. Taussig ("would he were tongue-tied") is considered a good man.



MISSOURI'S SENATOR CLARK
He suggested a court-martial.

PROPAGANDA:

Anglo & Teuto

The Germans brought out still another propaganda job (White Book), to prove that the English had issued orders the first week in April, to seize Norse strategic points. According to the "plan," Norse defense against England, was to be phoney. Anglo-Norse "connivance" was the keynote of this masterpiece, ceremoniously distributed to the faithful, and to the press.

The London press tried turning on the pessimistic faucet, to explain Norse reverses, and English trimmings in Norway. The newspapers told their readers it would be a long, hard war up north, and appealed primarily—a clever propaganda dodge in England—to native Briton bulldoggery. On Germans, French, and Americans, this type of gloom-spreading has been proved disastrous; in Russia, as in England, it works!

It's a strange fact, but Americans know more about their war than Europeans themselves.

SUPREME COURT:

Pro-Picketeering

The nine, not-so-old any more, men stood up for labor again. They ruled as unconstitutional the anti-picketing legislation of Alabama and California, and said that free discussion of laborite lapses was a basic part of democratic government. Roosevelt-appointed Justice Murphy, now a "sophomore" on the court, wrote the opinions. Justice McReynolds, Wilson-appointed, hardly popular at any time, dissented.

Patterns

SEWING CIRCLE

BUSY mothers with lively little girls in the 2-to-8 size range can solve several important problems with this one clever, very complete pattern (8674). It includes a puff-sleeved blouse with drawstrings, panties, and a pinafore frock that can be used, without the blouse, as a sunback outdoor fashion for summer play, too.

The whole ensemble is adorable, with a touch of quaintness that adds much charm to its simplicity.

A linen or gingham pinafore, with mull or dimity blouse, will be pretty for general wear. Plaid or striped seersucker will be practical for the pinafore when she wears it as a sunback frock—can be tubbed so easily, and needn't be ironed. The step-by-step sew chart gives complete, detailed directions.

Pattern No. 8674 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 requires 2⅛ yards of 35-inch material for pinafore and panties; ⅞ yard for blouse, 2⅝ yards ribbon. Send order to:

Fishing Season Now Open

Gamey northern pike, walleyes and the battling muskelludge lured the Minnesota sportsmen into the outdoors Wednesday for the premier of a fishing season expected to rank with the best.

According to officials in charge of Minnesota's fish propagation program, they have reports indicating an excellent fishing season for 1940.

Cold weather and the late spring, some division officials said, may slow up the wall-eye catches somewhat in the Northern lakes. In many northern waters the best pike fishing, they pointed out, occurs in late May normal years.

Fish which may be taken in Minnesota beginning May 15 are pickerel or northern pike, walleyed pike, sauger or sand pike, and muskelluge.

The catch limit on pike is eight per day with 16 allowed in possesion; on northern pike eight per day, with 20 permitted in possesion; and on muskelluge two per day and two allowed in possesion.

Minnesota's fishing seasons will continue May 29 when the southern zone opens for sunfish, crappies and bass The northern zone for these fish opens on June 21.

Population Of Holt Increased

The population of Holt Village County of Marshall, State of Minnesota as shown by a preliminary count of the returns of the Sixteenth Census, taken as of April 1, 1940, is 209, as compared to 193 on April 1, 1930. The 1940 figures are preliminary and subject to correction.

U. S. Marines Want Men

The United States Marine Corps Recruiting Office in Minneapolis, Minnesota, announces that applications are now being accepted from qualified young men for acceptance into the ranks of the U. S. Marines.

In order to meet qualifications, men must be between the ages of 18 and 30 years, and for men who have had previous service the age limit has been set at 35. The period of enlistment is for four years, and men accepted will be immediately transferred to San Diego, California, for preliminary training. Young men should have at least one year of high school training or the equivalent thereof.

The U. S. Marines offer an unusual opportunity for men to advance themselves educationally through the splendid facilities of the Marine Corps Institute and other schools maintained for advancement in chosen lines of work. Service afloat with the U. S. Navy at home and in such foreign countries as Hawaii, Guam, Philippines Islands. China Panama and Cuba, is conducive to experiences and adventure not available elsewhere. Men desiring to avail themselves of this exceptional opportunity to enlist in the oldest of our military services should call at the office in person or communicate directly with the Officer in Charge, U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Station, 119 Metropolitan Life Building, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK

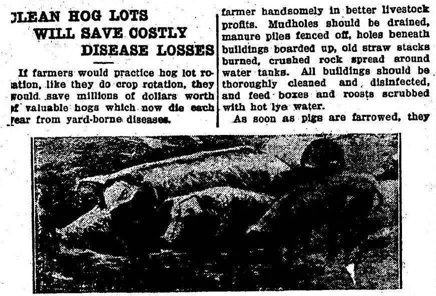
PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

CLEAN HOG LOTS WILL SAVE COSTLY DISEASE LOSSES

If farmers would practice hog lot rotation, like they do crop rotation, they would save millions of dollars worth of valuable hogs which now die each year from yard-borne diseases.



Old mud holes like this breed disease germs and parasites which kill many thousands of hogs annually.

Hog lots which have been used year after year are literally alive with germs and parasites. Some of the diseases found in these unsanitary lots are hog cholera, enteritis, "bull nose", navel ill, verminous pneumonia, scours, and lockjaw.

Two or three days spent in cleaning up livestock quarters and lots, at the start of the season, will repay any farmer handsomely in better livestock profits. Mudholes should be drained, manure piles fenced off, holes beneath buildings boarded up, old straw stacks burned, crushed rock spread around water tanks. All buildings should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, and feed boxes and roosts scrubbed with hot lye water.

As soon as pigs are farrowed, they should be moved out to clean, fresh pasture, away from any possible contamination of old lots and pens. About weaning time, the pigs should be vaccinated against cholera. They should be kept on clean pasture all summer. They will make 25 percent better growth and development under these conditions, and will be twice as safe from diseases and parasites.

Red Lake Indians Increased

Duluth, Minn., May 6.—Let it no longer be said that the Indian is the "vanishing American." Howard Doran, regional census supervisor, received the figures on the count at the Red Lake reservation. It showed an increase over the 1930 figure from 2,428 to 2,667. The one figure which did show a drop was the number of Indian farmers: The redman apparently is leasing his reservation farmlands to white men of nearby communities, J. H. Brott, district supervisor reported.

Labor Helping Farmers Fight

The Central Labor Union of Minneapolis, representing over fifty thousand labor men, and the Trades and Labor Assembly in St. Paul, representing approximately thirty thousand men, passed resolutions last week joining with the farmers of Minnesota in recommeding to Congress that the Emergency Seed and Feed Loans granted to farmers in the drought areas of Minnesota be cancelled.

The Central Labor Union in Minneapolis, and the Trades and Labor Assembly in St. Paul are affiliated with the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, and these large labor groups are going to do everything in their power to assist the farmers in having the Emergency Seed and Feed Loans granted prior to 1936 cancelled.

A national group for relief of Emergency Seed and Feed Loans has been organized among farmers in the western part of the state, and their officers requested the support of Organized labor in an effort to have these emergency loans made to farmers in drought areas cancelled. The Labor Groups received this suggestion very enthusiastically and have asked their officers and all of the local unions to contact their Congreesmen and Senators and urge that every effort be made to cancel these loans.

Judge Edward E. Barsness of Glenwood, Minn., is secretary of the national group for relief of emergency seed and feed loans, He presented the matter to labor and asked for labor support in aiding the farmer in this undertaking.

Labor is vitally interested in the welfare of the farmer and realizes that unless agriculture is established on a sound basis that it will be impossible for industry to prosper. The laboring man knows that the farmer provides the principal market for what industry produces, and that in like manner the salary paid to the laboring man provides a permanent substantial market for all articles and commodities produced on the farm.

Labor's 100 percent support of the farmers in using their influence to have the Emergency Seed and Feed Loans cancelled is a concrete manifestation of the good will that Organized Labor has for the Minnesota farmer.

The appearance of the officers of the farm organizations promoting the cancelation of the Emergency Seed and Feed Loans was arranged by Paul A. Rasmussen, Executive Secretary of the Farmer-Cooperative-Labor Council of Minnesota.

The play given by the Holt High School last Friday evening "A Pair of Country Kids" was a huge success. The cast was well chosen for their parts and was under the direction of Miss Helen Erickson. A large crowd attended.

N. W. Angle Count Delayed

Just how many residents the United States has in the Northwest Angle, the northernmost part of the country and located in Lake of the Woods county, across the Lake of the Woods from Baudette, will not be known until at least June 1 says the Baudette Region.

Although the census for the rest of the country is expected to be completed soon, travel difficulties will delay the count in the angle country which lies above the 49th parallel.

Because ice in the waters which divide the territory from the rest of the country is still too thick for boats and too weak for planes to land on, Howard Dean, census supervisor, plans to wait until June 1 to make the count.

Cleanup Notice

Notice is hereby given by the local Board of Health and the Village Council that the residents of this village are required at this time to clean up their premises. This means that you are required to clean up and haul away all piles of junk, tin cans ashes and other rubbish from your back yards and alleys. An inspection trip will be made soon to see to it that this order is enforced.

By order of the Village Council of Holt.

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

A SIMPLE wraparound style, with belt fastened in the back, this apron dress is the practical, easy-to-get-into kind that you need for morning every day of your life. No. 8673 has a comfortable, easy waistline and, as you see from the diagram, it consists of just a few pieces to sew together, with long, straight seams, so that you can finish it in a few hours. And to make matters even easier, the pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart.

The braid edging, which brightens it up and accents the length of line by running down the front seam, is repeated on the sleeve edges and around the pocket. Half a dozen comfortable, good-looking dresses like this, in gingham, chambray or percale, will see you through the spring and summer, so send for your pattern right now and get them speedily made. They'll be much prettier, and fit much better, than any routine morning dresses you buy.

Pattern No. 8673 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4⅝ yards of 39-inch material without nap; 4¾ yards braid. Send order to:

Modest Applicant Was Not a Bit Superstitious

The smiling, confident young man stepped up to the bank manager's desk.

"Good day, sir," he said. "Have you any need for a highly intelligent and trained man just out of college?"

"Well," said the manager, "what kind of a position are you seeking?"

"I want something in the executive line," replied the young man. "Say a vice presidency."

"I'm really sorry," said the manager sarcastically, "but we have twelve vice presidents."

"Oh, that's all right," came the eager response. "I'm not afraid of thirteen."

Much 'Flour' Gold

An age-old, open-air Greek theater, still standing in Epidaurus, proves that the ancient Greeks possessed an unusual mastery of acoustics. A whisper spoken on its open and uncovered stage is easily heard in every one of its 12,000 seats.

Since 1710, St. Anthony has been on the pay roll of the Brazilian army in recognition of his intercession in a successful battle with the French. First he was created a captain and, later, promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel, his pay being given to the church monthly during these 230 years.

Although the gravel in the Snake river in Idaho is estimated to contain about $2,000,000,000 worth of gold, much of the metal is in such minute particles, known as "flour," that few of the hundreds of machines made to recover it have been satisfactory. Some of these particles are so small that it would take millions of them to equal one cent in value. —Collier's.

Allied Troops Leave Norway As Spotlight Turns on Italy; Germans Hold Vital Air Bases

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

THE LONGEST WAY AROUND was the shortest way home for British ships in Italian waters when England, fearing Italy was getting ready to enter the war on the side of Germany, ordered these vessels to head for home ports via the Suez canal and Cape of Good Hope. This route, indicated by the broken line on the above map, is a distance of 15,000 miles. Normal route (indicated by solid line) is only 2,000 miles.

WOTAN WINS:
In Norway

Following Austria, Czecho Slovakia, Poland, came poor Norway. Said one neutral statesman, nervously, "The kiss of England is the kiss of death." Frightened Swedish, Netherlands, and Balkan leaders were inclined to agree. Norse writers and generals denounced John Bull, while the English cabinet was tottering.

The Allied troops debarked from Andalsnes and Namsos, in the strategic Trondheim area, and sailed away, under a terrific hammering from the German bombers. Much of their equipment was abandoned, and the Norwegian troops, poorly armed and trained, as is natural in a small democracy with no imperialist intentions, did not make much of a stand in isolated sectors. The English expeditionaries in Norway had been out-shot, out-flown, and out-generaled. Raw London militia, and half-trained regulars, had to face toughened German veterans of the 18-day Polish war, last fall.

The British marines, too, were not trained for landing operations, to be followed by a land war of maneuver. Good men all, their duties had been aboard ship, and as brass-button garrisons in far-flung colonies. U. S. marines have had exactly the right training for a "Norse" operation, and would have given the Germans a far more telling battle, according to American army and navy men. This was a technical matter of opinion.

Anti-Italics

English and French battleships were concentrated in the faraway eastern Mediterranean, and the British merchant marine was ordered out of the blue Mediterranean waters. The English itinerary to India—the imperial lifeline—was rerouted around the African horn, the Cape of Good Hope, to escape Italian submarines, seaplanes, and seasleds. For Italy has the third best air force in Europe, and perhaps the world's best submarine flotilla. And Italian sealed torpedo-carriers are a tested Roman specialty.

Roosevelt's ambassador to Rome, William Phillips, pleaded with Mussolini to keep out of the war, and Moscow accused Rome of blackmail (Finland is so easily forgotten!). The Aegean sea loomed up as a possible location for Italo-Allied warfare, but some observers believed that the badgered French might cede Mussolini their African Tunis (just below Sicily), in order to keep the Iron Duce quiet. There are roughly an equal number of Italians and French living in the predominantly Arabic colony. "France must learn to give," remarked a worried U. S. official.

One minor school of thought held that the English battleships were moved to the eastern Mediterranean, to get them away from "doomed" Scapa Flow, and the pestiferous German flyers.

THAT '40 ELECTION:
Nomination Notes

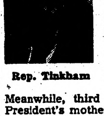
Tom Dewey, dashing Wunderkind of Manhattan, appeared to talk himself into indigestion out west, and was laid up pro tem. He lost some Republican convention delegates, too. Massachusetts primary voters plumped for an unpledged decision, instead of for Tommy. In Florida, a stop-Dewey campaign began.

Elliott Roosevelt, described as "talkative," said his father might not run for a third term. The father of the son said nothing.

Boss Green of the A. F. of L. accused Boss Lewis of the C. I. O. of presidential aspirations on a third ticket. Third term versus third ticket?

New York's Mayor LaGuardia was rumored to be considering himself either as a Republican, or as a Democratic, vice president!

There was, too, a lot of talk about a Farley-Garner, or Garner-Farley, ticket, and a lot of wishful thinking about Roosevelt's being tired. To his friends, who are many, Roosevelt did not seem tired at all. But Rep. Tinkham of Massachusetts declared that another term of Roosevelt, and Hull, would surely mean war for the United States. Meanwhile, third terms aside, the President's mother became ill from food-poisoning on her way to the World's fair, and had to be treated in a local drugstore for two hours.



Rep. Tinkham

SEEING RED:
'Protection'

Clarence Hathaway, editor of New York's community "Daily Worker," was convicted of criminal libel after a trial of three weeks. He faced a maximum penalty of a year in the concentration camp, like his party chief, Earl Browder, who got into trouble over phoney passports, and the Americo-Nazi chieftain, Fritz Kuhn, whose followers Uncle Sam "protected." Hathaway, 46 years old, is younger than Browder.

NAMES
. . . in the news

Alfred Duff Cooper, formerly England's secretary of war, and also her secretary of the navy, called the German governmental leaders a gang of "money-making murderers." Duff Cooper's wife is the beautiful Lady Diana Manners, who starred in America in the "Miracle" long years back. Duff Cooper, himself, has been a special student of that shifty old French statesman, Talleyrand, whose biographer he is.

Declared old Knut Hamsun, great Norwegian novelist and Nobel prize winner in 1920, "England is incapable of helping us, except with small flocks here and there, roving about our valleys, and asking for food."

In Newark, N. J., a man got a divorce. He said he had been compelled to move 27 times in six years. His name was Allan MacFee. He told the judge he never knew which bus to take home at night. "My wife was the moving man's friend," said he. Mrs. MacFee got the divorce, on grounds of desertion. Mr. MacFee did not contest.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and "cure" it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal, Kellogg's All-Bran. Eat it often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

First Nighter—Spinning Champ—'Desperado'

Three gentlemen, whose combined ages totaled 276, broke into the limelight recently—for three different reasons. "Shoshone Johnny," left, 100-year-old Indian, dropped into Hollywood from Death Valley to view a motion picture preview. Center: Jean Couterie, 106, of Quebec, is Canada's foremost exponent of the old fashioned spinning wheel. He wants Hitler to follow his calm example and end war. Right: Sentenced to serve 60 days in a Newark, N. J., jail for vagrancy was Charles Dean, 70, who was found to be one of the gang which participated in the historic Great Northern train robbery in Stillwater, Minn., in 1898.

Nazi Railway Gun Barks at Maginot Line

A Nazi big gun pictured in the instant of sending its load of death toward the French Maginot line. German militarists place a great deal of faith in the ability of these huge railway guns to help crack France's line of defense. When army communiques report "slight military activity on both sides," they usually mean that the big guns have been barking, spreading both death and destruction.

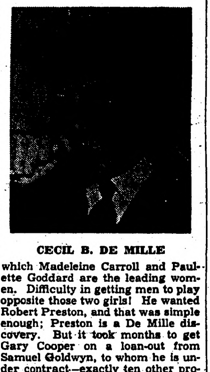
CECIL B. DE MILLE has a tip and a challenge—but not an invitation—for young men who can act. He urges them to come to Hollywood, though he's not promising them a thing.

"Hollywood today is suffering from a serious shortage of leading men," he declared recently. "Not just handsome 'glamour boys,' but good looking, fine-acting, upstanding he-men. There are only a few here—not one-quarter of the number we need—and those few are in such terrific demand that sometimes they're almost impossible to get."

You see, he'd had trouble in casting two of the three male leads in "North West Mounted Police," in which Madeleine Carroll and Paulette Goddard are the leading women. Difficulty in getting men to play opposite those two girls! He wanted Robert Preston, and that was simple enough; Preston is a De Mille discovery. But it took months to get Gary Cooper on a loan-out from Samuel Goldwyn, to whom he is under contract—exactly ten other producers were after the rangy Cooper at that time.



CECIL B. DE MILLE

He needed another leading man, one convincing in strength and acting ability, to be Cooper's rival for Madeleine Carroll's hand. It took another three months before he could fill that part with Preston Foster. Whereupon he decided that there weren't nearly enough good looking young he-man actors in Hollywood.

(To any young man thinking of accepting Mr. De Mille's challenge we suggest that you first prove to yourself that you can act and also prove that you have money enough to support you for a long, long time. It took John Carradine three years, as Mr. De Mille pointed out, to get a hearing.)

Mrs. Fred MacMurray is studying book binding, and her first efforts will be bindings for all the scripts Fred has done in pictures. We could make suggestions for the proper material in which to bind one or two of them, but she might not like them—and anyway, it's not an actor's fault if he finds himself working in a bad one.

It was Andre Kostelanetz, well-known orchestra conductor ("Tune Up Time" is his radio program) and husband of Lily Pons, who initiated the campaign for a United States stamp honoring Stephen Foster. It is the first stamp honoring an American composer, and as it is a one-cent stamp probably we'll all be using it. When the postmaster general notified him that it was to be issued, Kostelanetz promptly arranged a special Stephen Foster medley of six of the most beloved Foster songs, for "Tune Up Time," with Tony Martin singing them.

Tungseth Gets Appointment

State Senator, E. L. Tungseth of Thief River Falls has been appointed a member of the Resolutions Committee of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress which committee will present Resolutions relating to River and Harbor development, Flood Control and Waterways to the Republican National Convention to be held in Philadelphia, June 24th and the Democratic National Convention to be held in Chicago, Ill. July 15th.

This appointment is conferred upon the Senator because of recognition of his active interest in the promotion of Flood Control Projects. Senator Tungseth attended the National Rivers and Harbors Congress held at Washington D. C. March 12-15 this year in the interest of the Red Lake River Flood Control Project. He is chairman of the Red Lake River Flood Control Association. Mr. Tungseth has served two terms as mayor of Thief River Falls and he is now serving his second term as State Senator from the 65th Legislative District which included Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater Counties.

Public Invited To Wedding

Band Concert Tonight

Don't forget about the fine concert the Holt Community Band will give at the Holt School Auditorium this evening. The local school band will also give several numbers on this program and the entire community should turn out to hear these bands.

Friends Of Norway Meeting

The Greenbush Band has announced that it will hold a big mass meeting at Pelan Battleground Park on the afternoon of Memorial Day, for the Friends of Norway. All Norwegians and all those of other Nationalities who sympathize with Norway in her present desperate plight are invited to be present.

Outstanding speakers will be secured for the program which will begin at 2 p. m. The program will also include singing and band music. It is expected that this meeting will furnish an opportunity for all Norwegians of northern Minnesota and North Dakota to reaffirm their patriotic devotion to this County, and at the same time express their heartfelt sympathy for their beleaguered relatives in Norway.

School Election Well Attended

The annual school election of the Holt School District No. 35 held here on Tuesday evening was well attended. Geo. Fricker, treasurer of the district, read his 1939-1940 report to-date and according to his figures the district is in fine finanacial standing at this time.

Geo. Fricker and Olaf Ness whose terms expired at this time were reelected by a large vote.

Geo. Karvonen presided at the meeting and Edgar Horien and Walter Wegge were the tellers.

Commencement May 29

Due to Memorial Day falling on our usual day for commencement the Holt Consolidated School will have its program on Wednesday evening, May 29. A fine program has been arranged. Mr. Cochrane of Thief River Falls will be the speaker. The public is invited.

HOW MUCH DOES THE MINNESOTA BREWING INDUSTRY MEAN TO ME? Plenty!

I like my bottle of beer with my supper. That's all beer meant to me . . . just a good drink! Now I've learned how the Minnesota brewing industry helps me and everybody else in other ways. The facts are that:

"THERE ARE OVER 36,000 PERSONS employed to make, deliver, and sell beer in Minnesota. Thousands of others work in businesses supplying breweries and retailers. That keeps many off relief rolls and keeps taxes down.

"FARMERS GET MORE THAN $3,500,000 a year from Minnesota breweries for Minnesota grains.

"ABOUT $2,000,000 IN TAX REVENUE goes to the state each year for beer taxes alone! The brewing industry pays millions more for income, real estate, property, and license taxes! Without this revenue our individual taxes would go up!"

Besides, leading physicians and educators agree that beer satisfies the people's demand for a mild but stimulating beverage . . . that it is essentially non-intoxicating . . . and that it promotes the moderation that leads to true temperance.

Cantata Here Sunday Evening

"Beautiful Savior", a cantata arranged by Rev. M. Casper Johnshoy, will be rendered by the Nazareth Lutheran Choir on Sunday evening, with Miss Helen Erickson directing and Miss Virginia Fadden as accompanist.

The Choir has worked a long time to get this cantata ready for presentation. It is hoped that the congregation and its friends will show their appreciation for the finer things in life and also encourage choir work by being present at this very fine concert.

There is no admission charge but the choir finds it necessary to take a collection to defray the cost of the music and wipe out a small deficit in the treasury. It would be a fine gesture of appreciation to the choir if they could be greeted with a church packed to capacity on Sunday evening. All are invited. Plan to be there.

Sheep Shearing Contest

The management of the Greenbush Sheep Shearing Contest has sent out a call for all sheep shearers planning on entering this contest to send in their names and addresses to the Greenbush Farm Bureau at once, as entries for the contest close on May 25th. There is no entrance fee for this contest and the shearing machines will be furnished.

This contest will be held the afternoon of June 8th at Greenbush and will be conducted under the rules prevailing at the State Fair Contest. Each man will shear three sheep carefully picked for uniformity and good shearing characteristics. The five highest scorers will be eligible to enter the State Fair Contest and winners the can compete in the International Contest held in Chicago.

Under the rules of this Contest, speed counts for only twenty points, condition of the fleece counts 20 points, absence of second cuts 20 points, absence of cuts on sheep 15 points and manner of handling the sheep 15 points, and appearance of the shorn sheep 10 points.

This contest is being sponsored by the Greenbush Farm Bureau Unit with the active assistance of the Greenbush Commercial Club. While the contest will be held in the afternoon, the morning will be given over to lectures and demonstrations by experts from the State University Farm on care and handling sheep.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been fine and the farmers have been more than busy trying to catch up with their late seeding work. The few small rains we have had recently has sent the grass shooting out of the ground and pastures are coming along in fine shape.

It has been reported that one of the largest crowds ever to go fishing in this part of the state, was out over the week end after the finny tribe. Practically all good spots were crowded to the limit and many good catches were reported by fishermen.

The young married people of Holt enjoyed a Scavanger Hunt last Thursday evening. Some of the things to get were: Holt Weekly News for July 4, 1935; horned rimmed spectacles, two fried eggs sewed together, a 100 watt light bulb. a pair of black cotton stockings and many other articles. After the hunt they had a picnic supper. All reported a good time.

Phosphate Unloaded Here

The Marshall County Phosphate Test Demonstration Association received on May 15 and 16 at Argyle and Holt, 50 tons af "metaphos", a new TVA phosphatic fertilizer, for use in adjustments being made by local test-demonstration farms, Andrew E. Strandquist, president of the Association, announced.

This phosphate will be applied on sod crops, Mr. Strandquist explained, as the key material to procedures being sought for holding water and soil and building fertility. Thus, he continued, the demonstrators are pioneering for their neighbors toward a more productive and permanent agriculture in Marshall County.

The Test Demonstration Association cooperates with the Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service and the Tennessee Valley Authority in testing and demonstrating experimental fertilizers from the T V A plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala.

"Metaphos", know chemically as calcium metaphosphate, is more concentrated than any phosphatic fertilizer in common use by farmers. It contains over 60 percent available phosphatic plant food, whereas ordinary superphosphate carried little more than 16 per cent.

The present shipment is for the following test-demonstration farm:

Halvor Nomeland, Grygla
Roy E. Wiseth, Goodridge
Orris Halvorson, Viking
Henry S. William, T. R. Falls
John E. Isaacson, Middle River
Ben Fisher, Newfolden
John L. Johnson, Newfolden
Elmer Erickson and Ralph Erickson, Warren
Oscar Oswald, Newfolden
John G. Johnson, Argyle
A. N. Thorkildson, Stephen
Edward N. Johnson, Karlstad
G. A. Sustad, Viking
Harry Parr, Oslo

Chosen by their neighbors, the demonstration farms are practical test and demonstration grounds for the communities in which they are located, states, R. A. Reierson, county agent. The families keep farm and home records and obtain information as to the value, effect and best methods of use of the phosphate in the farming system evolved to control and utilize water.

Thus the demonstrators seek to determine the place of phosphorus in the type of agriculture they are trying to develop and the role of this essential element in the nutrition of the crops, the livestock and the people themselves, County Agent R. A. Reierson said. The whole farm as an operating unit is the basis on which changes are made and result measured.

In making changes, test-demonstrators have the assistance of the county agent, of Lester A. Lerud, assistant agent, and of Extension specialists from Saint Paul. Neighbors visit the test-demonstration farms, consult with the demonstrators and adapt practices to their own need.

The testing and demonstrating here is a part of a national program being carried on by 27,000 farmers in 20 states under the direction of their State Agricultural Extension Service. In Marshall County, fifteen farmers are test-demonstrators.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Henning who have been staying here the past winter, moved up to Middle River yesterday.

Norse Relief Group Formed

A public meeting of those interested in Norwegian Relief was held at Thief River Falls on May 6th. At that time, plans were formed to render assistance to the victims of war. A representative group from eastern Marshall and Pennington counties were present. To emphasize the need of those funds should not be necessary as that is apparent to all. Rev. T. C. L. Hanson, Hjalmer Peterson and Guy Anderson were the representatives of the Holt community at this meeting. Guy Anderson was elected to solicit funds and those who wish to give to this cause, kindly contact Mr. Anderson. It is hoped that when the ingathering is completed, the list of names of those who have given can be printed in this paper. According to the latest reports of Mr. Anderson the response is very good and a substantial sum is already collected.

Report On League Convention

The Thief River Falls Circuit Luther League Convention, of which Nazareth Luther League is a part, was held at Baudette from May 17 to 19. The convention theme was "Christ Leads the Way" and all the discussions were based on this theme. Holt was well-represented at the convention and should be proud it can add in such a way to the work of the circuit Luther League. Rev. Hanson conducted a very interesting and enlightening Bible study on 11 Peter during three of the meetings, and Mrs. Alton Carlson presented an excellent interpretation of "Christ Leads the Way in Stewardship." A trio from Holt, composed of Miss Helen Erickson, Mrs. Alton Carlson and myself also sang at one of the meetings. The fact we should be most proud of, however, is that Rev. Hanson was elected president of the Circuit for the coming year. Marlan Augustine was re-elected treasurers for next year also.

I would like to suggest to the young people of Nazareth Lutheran Church that they make it a point to use the opportunities given them to attend such a convention as this, and also the Bible Camp which is to be held in June. It will be an experience that you will never forget and surely one that will prove both enjoyable and beneficial to you,

'Uneasy Lies the Head That Wears a Crown'

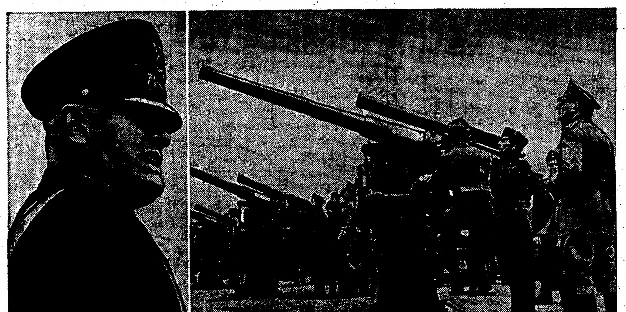
Premier Mussolini Views Italy's Defense Measures



Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, question mark in European warfare, views a formidable row of anti-aircraft guns located at Neptune Beach, near Rome. Mussolini repeatedly has warned his nation to be ready for war. Italy, herself, possesses an estimated total of 3,500 fighting planes, 1,600 of which are medium and heavy bombers.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

PARAMOUNT is paying out quite a lot of money because it's not safe to take a chance on an elephant — or rather, on a herd of elephants. You see, though Hollywood has plenty of practically everything else, it's short on elephants; rounding up a thousand unusually pretty girls would be child's play compared to putting your hand on a dozen of the animals just when you wanted them.

That's why O. C. Stratton, Paramount property department head, has arranged to feed 12 of them from now until next summer, when the filming of "Moon Over Burma" is scheduled to begin.

The elephants belong to the defunct Hagenbeck and Wallace Circus, whose receivers agreed to keep the stock on the West coast if the studio would foot their board bill. So the pachyderms are quartered at Camarillo, Calif., devouring dollars' worth of hay daily—and it is hay—while preparations for "Moon Over Burma" goes on. The story opens in Mandalay and shifts to the teak plantations of Rangoon, where the elephants will be shown hauling the heavy wood, while Paramount forgets about buying hay and just pays rental fees.

When you see "Comin' Round the Mountain" you can close your eyes and pretend you're at home listening to the radio—there are eight well-known radio names in the cast. Bob Burns, of course; Pat Barrett, whom radio fans know as "Uncle Ezra"; William Thompson, the "Old Timer," and Harold Peary, the "Gildersleeve" of "Fibber McGee and Molly"; Don Wilson of Jack Benny's program; and Jerry Colonna of Bob Hope's; Marjorie Bauersfield, the air waves' "Mirandy"; and Cliff Arquette, who's likely to bob up on almost any broadcast.

Bill Phillips, of the Warner Brothers studio, reduced 27 young girls to tears the other day, and got paid for it. You've guessed why, of course—he's the makeup man on "All This and Heaven Too," and they were shooting the scene in which Bette Davis tells her pupils the sad story of her life and makes them cry. So Phillips stood off at one side and blew menthol fumes at the girls, and they wept buckets-full of tears, right on schedule.

If you're going to New York for the World's fair this summer, remember Metro's Information Centre, located in the city—on the little island at Forty-sixth street between Broadway and Seventh avenue. The attendants will supply you with information about the city and the fair, (last year they helped more than a million persons,) give you free guide books and guide pamphlets, and speak to you in any one of 11 different languages if need be. Also, there is a visitors' registry at the booth—you can put your New York address on file so that your friends will know where to find you. Metro deserves a lot of thanks from its friends all over the country for this.

Del Sharbutt, announcer for Lanny Ross, is being ribbed by his friends because of a mishap while playing softball. He was playing first base with a team composed of members of the staff of Columbia Broadcasting System. A ball was hit slowly to him, and Del whirled to throw to third base for a double play. The throw was wild; it hit the pitcher on the shoulder, bounded back and struck Del on the head. Wonder why softball seems to have such a fatal lure for radio announcers.

Bertha Wished to Know Punishment—Just in Case

"Don't fidget!" snapped mother.

Little Bertha stopped toying with the lid of her chocolate box and endeavored to concentrate upon the play. But it was a dull affair.

In two minutes her small fingers were busy again.

"Bertha, don't fidget!" repeated her mother.

Again she was obedient, but once more the production failed to hold her fingers away from the lid of the chocolate box.

"Now, Bertha," exclaimed her mother, "I warn you."

When her mother spoke like that she was not to be disregarded. Glancing doubtfully at the dull stage, and then at the tempting lid, Bertha whispered:

"Would it be a hairbrush, mummy, or just your hand?"

PATTERN DEPARTMENT
SEWING CIRCLE

8631

HERE'S a beautifully graceful dress that has everything you need to make your figure look more slender and supple. Made with a long, unbroken line in the back, 8631 has a front panel widening toward the hem, (in itself creating the illusion of height as against width because it directs the eye up and down) bodice gathers and shoulder darts. Thus with a few easy details, it assures correct fit over the bust, slenderness of waistline and hips.

The deep, narrow v of the neckline adds to its becomingness, and you can trim that, and the sleeve edges, with dainty frills or lace without losing any of the slimming magic! Wear it now in small-figured print or dark sheers.

Pattern No. 8631 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires, with short sleeves, 4¼ yards of 39-inch material without nap; with long, 4⅝ yards of 39-inch material. 2¼ yards lace or ruffling to trim. Send order to:

4. A salutation.
5. A majority.
6. One chief reason: Owing to their size they require a minimum amount of testing substances.

Clothes From Trees

In parts of South America, natives skin the bark from certain trees, cut holes for the arms, and wear it like a shirt. In Rhodesia the inner bark is stripped from trees and soaked in water. Originally white, it becomes brown, soft and pulpy. It is then tapped gently with a club and twisted and stretched to about four times its original area. It is rubbed with oil, dried in the sun and worn as a cloak.

Bark cloth is as fluffy as a woollen blanket and very durable.

MR. AND MRS. NEWHOUSE looked out over their backyard and were in no mood to plant an acorn and wait for it to grow up to give them summer shade. Mr. Newhouse bought some second-hand pipe for a song and made a sketch for the frame of a shelter like the one I have shown at the upper right. He had a plumber cut and thread the pipe so it could be put together easily.

Mrs. Newhouse wanted the shelter to be as cool as a dell, so she avoided all the hot red and orange colorings. The pipe frame was painted bright blue. Then she selected green and white striped awning material for the top. This material was 30 inches wide and 12 yards were needed. About 15 yards of bright blue bias binding were used for the scalloped edge. The method of fastening the awning to the frame is illustrated. The fabric loops were made of the awning material stitched in place through heavy woven tape.

Strange Facts

'Realistic' Paintings
Suicide Excursion
Fire Ruins Granite

Many medieval Russian artists, when painting a holy personage on an icon, used an odd method to make each figure "realistic." They would first paint the skeleton, then the body organs, then the flesh and, lastly, add the clothes.

During Japan's last suicide wave, which occurred between 1933 and 1935, 313 persons succeeded in jumping into the volcano on the island of Oshima. Of the 1,208 others who were foiled by the guards at the crater's edge, 29 managed to jump off the boats on the way back to the mainland.

Although granite, like marble, is noted for its hardness and durability, granite buildings have been known to crumble and fall in devastating fires that have only scratched marble surfaces.—Collier's.

Harry Engen, Elmer Engstrom, Melvin Bottem and Chester Nelson spent Sunday near Clearwater Lake fishing. They reported good luck.

Trees of Thief River Falls will be sprayed for canker worm this week by a crew from the division of forestry headed by Arthur Oppel.

Last year many trees were stripped of foliage. To forestall another attack, the spraying is earlier this season.

Canker worms are destructive to elm, maple and basswood. Their infestation is local because the female is wingless and unable to travel any great distance.

In Memoriam

We cannot but halt a moment, as we cross the threshold of the beautiful month of May, in silent honor of those who gave their all that we might prosper and live in a world of happiness and peace. "Their" day comes in May. A single day out of a year of length - - yet more hearts, and minds, and love, will surrender on Decoration Day than on any other day of the year.

The torn hearts of the mothers who lost their boys on the battlefields of Europe will rest easier as the Almighty casts his reflection over the world on Decoration Day. The graves of those "boys" will again feel the tears of the loved ones left behind.

No honor is too great for those who laid down their lives in the wars of our nation since its birth. No flowers are beautiful enough to grace the graves of our "Soldiers".

It is our prayer, and the prayer of countless others in all parts of the world, that Decoration Day, this year will serve to tender the resting places of our great, and ease many heavy hearts.

Mrs. J. Hagberg, Mrs. K. Miller, Mrs. S. Lorentson, Mrs. O. T. Ness, Mrs. Jim Peterson, Mrs. H. O. Hanson, Mrs. C. A. Larson and Mrs. Jesse Sorum visited with Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson Monday afternoon and helped her celebrate her birthday.

Public Invited To Wedding

The people of Holt and community are cordially invited to attend a celebration of the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jens Ofierdahl of Middle River, to be held at the Middle River church at 2 p. m., Sunday, June 2.

Please bring something for lunch for the occasion.

Commencement Exercises

The Commencement exercises of the local school was held on Wednesday evening. A very fine program was given, centering around a very interesting address by Mr. William Cochrane, instructor at the Lincoln High School of Thief River Falls. Mr. Cochrane's topic was the Challenge Before Us. In his discussion he inspired the adults as well as the youth.

The student body's part in the program centered around Lorene Fluke and Marion Johnson, who gave the valedictory addresses and Gloria Risberg who gave the Salutatory. The Girls Glee Club directed by Miss Larson sang Deep Purple. Miss Fadden offered a piano Solo, White Peacock.

Mr. G. Sanoden presented diplomas to the following eighth grade graduates:

Oliver Backlund
Luella Fluke
Howard Horien
Alma Johnson
Morlan Kolden
Clayton Olson
Margaret Peterson
Gloria Risberg

The following are those who have completed their high school work at the local school:

Carlton Castle
Lorene Fluke
LaVerne Johnson
Marion Johnson
Clayton Larson
Marion Olson
Marles Peterson
Verna Peterson
Jean Sorum

The following were recognized for doing outstanding work in their respective grades in High School: Lorene Fluke, Marion Johnson, Carlton Castle, Ethel Larson, Wallace Peterson, Wayne Larson and Marilyn Movick.

Mrs. Annie Castle was taken to the University hospital, St. Paul, recently where she expects to have a major operation.

HOW MUCH DOES THE MINNESOTA BREWING INDUSTRY MEAN TO ME?
Plenty!

I like my bottle of beer with my supper. That's all beer meant to me . . . just a good drink! Now I've learned how the Minnesota brewing industry helps me and everybody else in other ways. The facts are that:
"THERE ARE OVER 36,000 PERSONS employed to make, deliver, and sell beer in Minnesota. Thousands of others work in businesses supplying breweries and retailers. That keeps many off relief rolls and keeps taxes down.
"FARMERS GET MORE THAN $3,500,000 a year from Minnesota breweries for Minnesota grains.
"ABOUT $2,000,000 IN TAX REVENUE goes to the state each year for beer taxes alone! The brewing industry pays millions more for income, real estate, property, and license taxes! Without this revenue our individual taxes would go up!"
Besides, leading physicians and educators agree that beer satisfies the people's demand for a mild but stimulating beverage . . . that it is essentially non-intoxicating . . . and that it promotes the moderation that leads to true temperance.

Many Hoppers Hatching

Despite the cool weather prevailing, grasshoppers are hatching in most parts of the county and are already causing some damage in grain fields.

Damage to wheat has been reported by E. A. Anderson in Donnelly township, while Simon Beaudry of Tamarac reports extensive hatching in his community.

The egg survey clearly indicates a very serious condition and from appearance at present, farmers can expect an outbreak of grasshoppers comparable with last year. Farmers should be on the alert and watch for hatching and be prepared to spread bait on fields as soon as the young hoppers are ready to start their migrating. All hatching beds should be baited.

A mixing station will be set up at Argyle operated by a WPA crew. This project started in operating on Monday, May 27.

A large supply of bait materials is on hand and enough poison bait will be available to take care of this emergency.

Controlling this year's grasshoppers is a community problem. Farmers can only control grasshoppers by spreading bait. The amount of damage which will be done depends entirely on the interest shown by farmers themselves and on the willingness of all persons to cooperate in this year's grasshopper campaign.

Cantata Was Huge Success

The Cantata "Beautiful Savior" given by the choir of the Nazareth Lutheran Church on last Sunday evening was a decided success. A large crowd attended. According to reports it was one of the best programs of singing ever given by the choir. Outstanding was the solo "The Holy City" sung by Russel Sanoden. The choir was directed by Miss Helen Erickson with Miss Virginia Fadden at the piano.

Clayton Gunheim Graduates

Clayton Gunheim, will be graduated from Concordia College, Moorhead, June 3 at the commencement exercises for a class of 94 seniors who will receive a bachelor of arts degree and 2 who will receive a bachelor of music degree.

Dean W. E. Peik, head of the education department at the University of Minnesota will deliver the address at 10 a. m. Monday. A dinner honoring parents and seniors will follow.

Clayton majored in history, and was affiliated with the Band and International Relations Club.

If you wish to help send someone to Bible Camp and feel that you cannot spare the whole $5 fee, here is your chance to give whatever contribution you wish by being present at Luther League Sunday evening. The proceeds will help pay the fee of those who go from Holt.

Notice To Farmers

Special Luther League Program

The Luther League of the Nazareth Lutheran Church will sponsor a special program on Sunday evening for the benefit of the Lake of the Woods Bible Camp on Rainy River near Baudette, High lights of the program will be the showing of moving pictures taken of the Campers from this congregation who were there last year. Other movies are being loaned from Rev. H. O. Aasen at Bauette who has a number of films on the life at Bible Camp. So again, as last year, we will have a pictorial description of the Bible Camp. Added to this, Rev. R. M. Fjelstaad of Thief River Falls, will speak on the importance of Bible Camp work. There will also be other numbers on the program.

The collection and sale of lunches will go toward the maintainence of the camp as the $5.00 fee from each camper pays only for the current expenses. The Holt community has had very fine representations at the camp and from early indications, this year will be no exception.

Rev. Hanson is assisting in the preparation of this program. He is Housing Manager of the camp and also serves on the Publicity Committee and Program Committee.

Due to the large crowd expected, the church will be used to accomodate all for seating capacity.

Those who have attended past years please bring cake or sandwiches.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson conducted the Baccalaureate services for the graduates of the high school at Middle River on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Art Moe returned home Saturday from a hospital at Thief River Falls where she has been a patient for the past several months. She is now feeling fine.

A parcel shower was given at the Davis home Friday afternoon for Mrs. Bill Davis. She received many nice gifts. A large crowd of women was present.

A number of Holt people attended Baccalaureate services at Thief River Falls Sunday evening. Father Merth conducted the services.

Mrs. Sam Lorentson, Mrs. Gust Peterson, Mrs. K. Miller, Mrs. L. Wegge and Mrs. C. L. Sandberg were visitors at the W. Wegge home last Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson and Elmer Nohre of Karlstad were Holt visitors Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Simonson and Mrs. C. Hagglund visited at the Alfred Anderson home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. C. Hagglund visited Mrs. L. Wegge Tuesday.

Mrs. Ben Lardy and son of St Hilaire visited at the O. T. Ness and O. B. Johnson homes Monday.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been fine and the farmers have finished their corn seeding.

Given Birthday Party

The following were present at a birthday party given for Mrs. L. Sagstuen at her home: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Leiran and Mrs. John Sundt of Thief River Falls, Mrs. O. L. Johnson and Gloria, Mr. and Mrs. H. Moberg, Clifford, Bertha and Gerald, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Ring and family Mr. and Mrs. H. Peterson and Donnie, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Peterson and girls and Mrs. C. Hagglund. The honor guest received many gifts and a large lunch was served. Three birthday cakes had been baked for the occasion. The party was held last Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Oakey and daughter left Wednesday for Stewartville where they will attend the commencement activities of the high school there. Their daughter Yvonne, who has attended school there this year, will graduate. Mrs. Alton Carlson went with them as far as Bertha where she will visit at the home of her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Peterson returned home Saturday from University Hospital, St. Paul, where Mr. Peterson had an operotion. He has been suffering with a back ailment for the past several years and now seems to be relieved of the pain and is getting along fine.

Advertise now for new business.

What Could Be Done?

Food for thought especially in these times may be found in a quotation by Nicholas Murray Butler that bears repeating. Said he back in August, 1934, "The World war, all told, cost—apart from 30,000,000 lives—$400,000,000,000. With that money we could have built a $2,500 house, furnished it with $1,000 worth of furniture, placed it on five acres of land worth $100 an acre, and given this home to each and every family in the United States, Canada, Australia, Wales, Ireland, Scotland, France, Belgium, Germany and Russia. We could have given to each city of 20,000 or over, in every country named, a $5,000,000 library and a $10,000,000 university. Out of what was left, we could have set aside a sum at 5 per cent that would provide a $1,000 yearly salary for 125,000 teachers and a like salary for 125,000 nurses." Startling comparison, isn't it?

Solons Test Efficiency of Disputed Army Guns

First-hand information on the relative merits of rival rapid-fire guns is obtained by a trio of legislators on the rifle range at Fort Belvoir, Va. Left to right: Sen. Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota, firing the Johnson semi-automatic rifle; Rep. J. B. Snyder of Pennsylvania, firing the Thompson submachine gun; and Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, firing the Garand rapid-fire rifle. The three were among members of the house and senate military affairs committees who sought information concerning the much-debated guns.

Fair Visitor . . . Relief Worker . . . Symphonist

Recent visitors to the United States, though for widely different reasons, include Mme. Teresa de Lopez Contreras, left, wife of the president of Venezuela, who is here as a visitor to the New York World's fair. Miss Kyllikki Polyala, center, member of the Finnish parliament, is in this country in an effort to speed up relief for her stricken country. She is working with Herbert Hoover, former President. Sir Thomas Beecham, right, famed composer and conductor of the London Symphony orchestra, pictured en route to Australia, where he will conduct several symphonies.

As John D. Jr. Goes to the Fair

Without high hat, tails or fanfare, John D. Rockefeller Jr., oil magnate and philanthropist, shows up at the turnstile of the New York World's fair and gets tagged by a fair employee. Rockefeller, famed for his dislike of ostentation, came as an ordinary citizen to see the big show. The tag, incidentally, bears the legend, "Hello, Folks, I'm from———." The visitor fills in the rest.

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I have made a pair of spool shelves like those you give directions for in your Sewing Book No. 3. They are painted watermelon pink to match the flowers in my bedroom curtains, and they are very pretty hung at each side of the windows. I would like to make some end tables of spools for the living room, but I can't think of a way to make them rigid. Have you any suggestions as to how this may be done? B. P."

Curtain rods are used through the spools to make the legs. Better take along a spool to try when you shop for the rods; and get the type that has one piece fitting inside the other. If the spools are a little loose on the rod, it won't make any difference for they must be glued between each spool, and also between the spools and the table shelves. I have shown in the sketch everything else you need to know to make this table. Good luck to you!

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

HERE'S a charming way to make your silk print for afternoon, and it's not too dressy for general wear, either. Everything about it is soft and graceful—the rippling skirt, the shoulder shirring that co-operates with waistline tucks to make your bust look prettily rounded, and the plain v-neckline that you can vary with flowers, brooches or white lingerie touches. Pattern No. 1923-B has a delightfully tiny-waisted effect, and a ribbon belt to call attention to the fact! Make this in time for your next afternoon date, and see if you don't have a particularly good time whenever you put it on.

This is a lovely style not only for prints, but for sheers like georgette and chiffon, in classic navy or black. It's an easy design to make, and includes a step-by-step sew chart.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1923-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material without nap; 1⅛ yards of ribbon for belt.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

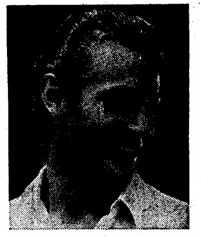
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

DOROTHY LAMOUR may have to remain in the sarong that made her famous, but Jon Hall has finally grabbed off a role that will enable him to wear regular clothes—the curse of "The Hurricane" has lifted for him, if not for her.

After his success among its winds and waves he was idle for two years. Then Producer Edward Small asked to borrow him for another South Seas picture, "South of Pago-Pago." Near the end of shooting on it, Small was planning to film "Kit Carson," and had already signed Randolph Scott for the leading role when Hall appeared at the studio one day wearing a ten gallon hat and a semi-cowboy outfit. He had a late call for work that day, and had spent the early morning hours riding with his wife, Frances Langford.



JON HALL

Small met Hall near the actor's dressing bungalow—and now it's Hall instead of Randolph Scott whom you'll see as Kit Carson.

It's been announced that Joan Blondell plans to retire from the screen indefinitely when she finishes "I Want a Divorce." She has been suffering from severe colds and inertia for the past year, and says that she will travel throughout America with a road company, (a novel cure for both severe colds and inertia!) and later on will make an extended tour of South America for a change of climate.

Felix Knight, starred on the airwaves' "All Star Revue," had a bad moment recently. After he had sung a medley of songs about the month of May, gardens and apple orchards, the Three Jesters strode up and down the aisles, tossing apples and other farm products to the audience. Knight swears he was scared to death for fear the fruit would be handed right back—hurtling through the air straight at him.

If Columbia's Wayne King wanted to start up in the pipe tobacco business, he already has a large clientele all over the country. For 15 years he has been smoking his own private mixture, but he won't tell anyone what it is. It's the result of four years of experimenting. But though he won't give away the secret of the mixture, he does give away the tobacco—12 pounds of it a month. When he travels on personal appearance tours there's always a large can of it on his dressing table—so if his orchestra is playing in your town, and you know anyone who smokes a pipe, you might drop in and get some.

When it came it turned out to be an autographed copy of Taylor's latest book on music!

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Greenbush Sheep Day June 8

William Eklund, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the Greenbush Sheep day program June 8 announced that Anton Carlson, winner of first prize in the state fair sheep shearing contest last year, will enter the contest here.

Carlson won third place in the contest here last year, being nosed out by Chester Abrahamson of Lancaster and Henry Chounard of Euclid. Abrahamson and Chouinard have indicated they will again compete here.

The program for the day starts at 10:30 a. m. with a lecture and demonstration by professor W. E. Morris of the Minneasota University farm. The shearing contest will be held at 1:30 p. m. under the supervision of a representative of The Farmer, St. Paul farmers' newspaper.

Numerous entertainment and instructive features have been arranged for the program that will take place on a raised platform erected in the heart of the village.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre returned Monday from Delhi, Minn. where they visited with their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Robert Starr.

HOW MUCH DOES THE MINNESOTA BREWING INDUSTRY MEAN TO ME? Plenty!

I like my bottle of beer with my supper. That's all beer meant to me . . . just a good drink! Now I've learned how the Minnesota brewing industry helps me and everybody else in other ways. The facts are that:

"THERE ARE OVER 36,000 PERSONS employed to make, deliver, and sell beer in Minnesota. Thousands of others work in businesses supplying breweries and retailers. That keeps many off relief rolls and keeps taxes down.

"FARMERS GET MORE THAN $3,500,000 a year from Minnesota breweries for Minnesota grains.

"ABOUT $2,000,000 IN TAX REVENUE goes to the state each year for beer taxes alone! The brewing industry pays millions more for income, real estate, property, and license taxes! Without this revenue our individual taxes would go up!"

Besides, leading physicians and educators agree that beer satisfies the people's demand for a mild but stimulating beverage . . . that it is essentially non-intoxicating . . . and that it promotes the moderation that leads to true temperance.

Glarify Issues On Relief

The Minnesota Committee affiliated with Norwegian Relief, Ino. seeks to clarify two issues about which there has been some question:

1. Norwegian Relief, Inc. is primarily concerned with rehabilitation in Norway. The current American Red Cross effort will be for immediate emergencies in each of war torn nations of Europe. All of us will wish to support both efforts.

In Minnesota there are many who have personal and cultural ties with Norway, and therefore are interested in doing something particular for that nation. Even without active solicitation many have given contributions to the committee already, some of them in good amounts.

2. No money will be sent out of this country by Norwegian Relief, Inc. until it is certain that it will be used for the right purpose by the right people.

With swiftly moving events in Europe it is difficult now to say just how and when money will be sent. The aim, however, is to gather funds and have them ready just as soon as they can be transmitted safely. The national treasurer unhesitatingly gave $25,000 to the fund himself, though no definite plan had been worked out for sending it over to Norway.

All should realize that the funds are being raised now. That takes considerable time. Not a cent has been sent out of this country nor will it be sent until it is absolutely certain that it will accomplish the purpose for which given. It must be emphasized that the only organization licensed by the State Department in Washington to gather and funds specifically for relief in Norway is Norwegian Relief, Inc., the national headquarters of which are at 135 So. LaSalle St., Chicago, and the Minnesota headquarters of which are at 425 South Fourth Street, Minneapolis.

Junior Short Course

The twenty-ninth annual Junior Short Course and 4-H Club Week at the Northwest School, Crookston, will be held on June 10-15. Miss Anne Thorbeck, acting district leader of 4-H clubs, states "The fifteen county 4-H club leaders in the Red River Valley counties have reported that county contests in music and dramatics have all been held and groups have been selected to represent their counties in the regional contests at Crookston. Indications at present indicate that the enrollment for the two camps will equal or exceed the record enrollment of 1120 for the 1939 camp. The counties including East and West Polk and south will meet on June 10-11-12; counties including Clearwater and counties north to the Canadian border will meet June 13-14-15.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gunheim made a trip to Moorehead over the week end and attended the graduation exercises at Concordia College Monday. Their son Clayton graduated from Concordia College.

Albert and Lawrence Haglund and Clinton and Carlton Castle motored to St. Paul Wednesday having been called there because of the illness of Mrs. Annie Castle who is a patient at University hospital.

Many Donate To Norse Relief

The drive for the relief of the distressed in Norway which was started some time ago under the auspices of Norwegian Relief, Inc., of which Guy Anderson is the local chairman, has been met with a fine success. This drive will last until June 30th and it is expected that many more will add their names to the list of contributors, as many have already signified their intentions to do so this month. This money has not been sent over yet but will remain here until we are assured that it will go to the people and not the enemy. Should this not be possible before winter sets in again, it will be distributed under the auspices of the American Red Cross which is a recognized relief agency by both friend and foe alike, in all countries.

The following is the list as of June 1st:

| Chas D. Wilson | 1.00 |
| Total | $58.00 |

Another list will be printed of those who are giving this month. Anyone desiring to help the Norwegian people in distress in their homeland, kindly contact Mr. Anderson.

Three families staged a moving circuit here over the week end. They were the Walter Peterson family who moved into the Mrs. C. L. Sandberg home in the east end of town, having bought it from her a short time ago. Mrs. Sandberg moved across the street from her home into the home which she inherited from her mother, Mrs. Anderson. A. O. Aspelin and daughter Caroline, who had rented that home for the past few years, have rented the Sollom home which the Peterson family vacated.

Walter Peterson has had a crew of painters and carpenters at work improving his new home the past week.

Mrs. John Coffey Died

Mrs. John Coffey of Excel township, a few miles southwest of Holt, died Friday, May 24, in the Warren hospital at the age of 50 years. Funeral rites were held Monday, May 27 from the Erickson and Lund chapel in Thief River Falls with Rev. J. O. Jacobson officiating, and the burial was at Emarado, N. D.

Mrs. Coffey, whose maiden name was Kathrine Neidhart, was born February 26, 1890, at Rice, Minnesota. She was married to John Coffey at Foley in 1914, and in that same year moved to Munich, N. D. There she resided until 1933, and since which time she has made her home in Excel township.

She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Bernice McKay of Excel twp; five brothers, John Neidhart of Huston, Texas, Lester and Joe both of St. Cloud, Frank Neidhart, Sauk Rapids, and Peter of Fergus Falls; two grandchildren. Her parents and two sisters are deceased.

Rev. and Mrs. Hanson and son left for Minneapolis Wednesday where they will attend the Biennial convention of the Norwegian Church of America held in the Central Lutheran Church. They were accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Fjelstad of Thief River Falls. They expect to return home Wednesday.

CCC Enrolment In July

Announcement was made today by the Marshall County Welfare Office that young men from Marshall County will be selected for CCC early in July. It is expected that all eligible men will be selected as the quota will be large enough to accomodate every qualified applicant.

Young men between the ages of 17 and 24 who are interested in going into CCC are urged to call at the Welfare Office and make out preliminary application. Veteran enrollees with less than 18 months previous experience in CCC can also apply for reenrollment if they are within the proper age and have an honorable discharge.

"The CCC is a splendid opportunity for young men who wish to secure training for future employment, " said Paul T. Steen, Executive Secretary of the Marshall County Welfare Board. "Full time employment with an opportunity to learn a trade plus a chance to further ones education makes the CCC an ideal opportunity for a career of future usefulness.

Mrs. Iver Larson and sons Irvin and Marvin left Wednesday for a visit at the home of the formers parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hanson at Inverness, Montana. Mr. Larson took them to Grand Forks by auto and from there they will go by train.

June Is National Dairy Month

June may be the month of brides, but this year it's National Dairy Month as well. And if producers, distributors and processors of dairy products have their way, every man, woman and child in the United States is going to know it.

National Dairy Month has as its objebtive an increase in the use of dairy products—milk, cream, butter, cheese, ice cream. In the interests of good health, of cash income to farmers, of increased national wealth, of a balanced national prosperity, a $3,500,000,000 industry spreads its wares before the American public and says, "Use more-- this month and every month."

Minnesota, leading butter producing state of the nation, has a big stake in National Dairy Month. So has our own community. A constructive program aimed at maintaining and intelligently expanding an industry that means so much to our community and our depositors have our hearty endorsement.

PATTERN DEPARTMENT
SEWING CIRCLE

THIS three-in-one sports pattern is not only new in the sense that it is fresh from the hands of our expert designers. It is also decidedly new in idea. You'll notice that the frock of 8719 fastens in the back, at neck and waistline only (with plenty of lap-over), leaving the front perfectly smooth. Thus you can lay it flat on the board for ironing. Made in the popular waistband style, it has a charming silhouette—small-waisted, round-bosomed.

The pattern also includes well-tailored shorts and a brief bolero that transforms your frock into a street style, in just a twinkling. Juniors will love it, in sharkskin, gingham, linen or pique.

Pattern No. 8719 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Size 13 dress requires 3⅓ yards of 35-inch fabric without nap. Bolero, 1¼ yards. 1⅛ yards for shorts. 3½ yards bias fold required to trim.

It's a Y-y-yes, N-n-no Go That They'll Make of It!

The young couple stood before the justice of the peace. Both seemed very frightened. The justice glanced at the young man.

"Do you," he said slowly, "take this woman to be your lawful wedded wife?"

"I—I—really don't know," stammered the young man nervously.

The justice turned to the girl.

"And do you," he asked, "take this man to be your lawful wedded husband?"

"Well," hesitated the girl, "I'm beginning to wonder."

The justice nodded.

"That's great!" he cried, grimly. "I now pronounce you man and wife—maybe!"

On some German destroyers, torpedoes are fired with the mouth. With his eyes at the range finder and his hands on the tube-aiming controls, the gunner merely has to blow into a "peashooter" to actuate the trigger.

THOSE WEEK-END JAIL TERMS

("Under a new law the courts in New York state may let prisoners serve jail terms on a part-time basis. If the convicted man has a job and must serve thirty days, a judge may let him serve it week-ends or on other specified days."—News item.)

* * *

"When I read items like this in the papers these days I never know for certain whether I am reading the funny papers or a report of an actual fact," declared Elmer Twitchell today. "Maybe sentencing men to the hoosegow for breaking the laws and then arranging it so the sentence won't interfere with their lives very much is a swell idea, but it still leaves me dizzy.

JAIL TIME CLOCK

* * *

"I always thought the idea of a jail sentence was to teach a lawbreaker a lesson and make him feel crime didn't pay, but if a fellow who cracks a safe, sticks up a bank cashier or ambushes a peaceful pedestrian knows that, even if convicted, the jail term won't be much of a hardship, I give up.

* * *

"The whole theory of punishment used to be that it would at least cause some inconvenience. The authorities used to hold that a term in stir was bound to take an offender away from his regular pastimes and industries. Nobody seemed to feel that these terms should be arranged so the prisoner would hardly notice 'em.

* * *

"It is going to seem funny to me, at least, when I read of a judge saying: 'I find you guilty as charged and sentence you to 60 days in jail. Would you like to serve it all in one lump?'

* * *

"Naturally the prisoner is going to reply: 'Well, I tell you, yerronor, I have a job when I work at it, and it would be a favor to me if I could get back to it and go to jail only after my working hours.'

" 'Just how would you like this jail term arranged?' the judge is going to ask.

" 'I do not work Tuesdays or Fridays, judge. Tuesdays I go to the ball game, but I would be willing to go to jail Fridays. It rains on a lot of Fridays, anyhow.'

JUST WHAT DAYS WILL BE MOST CONVENIENT?

* * *

" 'Well,' the judge will say, 'under this new law I guess Fridays in jail for you will be all right. Would you be able to fix it so you could report at the jail Thursday nights?'

" 'Not very well,' the prisoner will reply. 'My work is rather tiring and I would rather go to jail early Friday morning, say around ten o'clock.'

" 'Couldn't you make it eight o'clock?' the judge will plead.

" 'Not without great inconvenience,' the prisoner will reply.

" 'Very well, I will compromise and make it nine o'clock,' the judge will reply.

* * *

"It is all very interesting if somewhat disturbing," concluded Mr. Twitchell. "I hope the rest of the country don't copy the idea."

* * *

MEMORY

I remember once, so long ago,
A sweet springtime in the rain—
When a boy took me out riding
Whom I never met again.
We drove into the country.
Where the fields with grass were green,
And saw a weathered apple tree—
The first one we'd ever seen.
It's boughs were bridal robed in white.
There in the rain it stood.
The boy stopped near and wondered
If a few stolen blossoms would Destroy its grace and beauty—
If it still would be the same.
I can smell the rain-washed petals,
But I cannot recall his name!
—Sue Saltus.

Where Statues Wore Hats! Mystery of Easter Island

Science Finds Creators of Intricate Script Were 'Long-Eared' Artists.

ON EASTER DAY, 1722, the Dutch Admiral Roggeveen landed on a small Pacific island, which he named after the day. He must have thought that he was landing in a nightmare, for the shores were ringed with gigantic stone statues, wearing tall red hats, and standing on high platforms with their backs to the sea. And the whole island was literally covered with statues! They still stand there today.

Later visitors made further odd discoveries. It seemed that the inhabitants had suffered a devouring national passion for sculpture. Hardly a boulder or an outcrop of rock had not been turned into an enormous bust, a fantastic head with enormously long ears. At the same time, they discovered wooden tablets and other objects covered with a complicated script.

This started a series of the most extraordinary theories, including suggestions that Easter island had been occupied by Red Indians, Egyptians, and the lost tribes of Israel. But nobody managed to put forward a reasonable explanation of how this diversity of races got there, or went away when their work was done!

Long-Eared Artists.

Then science took a hand. First of all, local legends were investigated, and the islanders told of a migration in the past from a distant island in the west. Proof came from one of the Gambier islands, over a thousand miles away, in the form of another legend. It told of a defeated chief setting sail to find a new home for his people. Local legend also told of two distinct races inhabiting Easter island, the "long ears" and the "short ears." And here again, science found the proof; for skulls found on Easter island show that migrants came, not only from the Pacific islands, but also from the Australasian islands.

The "long ears" were the artists. It was their tribal custom to stretch the lobes of their ears, and they wore hats for ceremonial purposes. They were the creators of the intricate script which cannot be read, but, defeated by the "short ears," they have faded away and left no one to tell their story.

So far science can speak with authority, but science cannot say why the islanders who migrated to Easter island should have progressed so far beyond those of their race who inhabit other islands.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

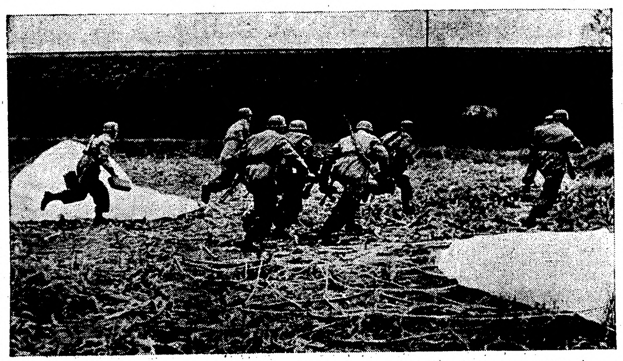
Nazi Parachute Troops Discard Chutes and Run



The Nazis' highly effective parachute troops, which have so materially helped the success of the German drive, are pictured in action here. Men of this detachment have just been dropped from a Nazi transport plane. They have discarded their parachutes, assembled their heavy machine gun, and are dashing for the protection of the strategic railway line which runs on the embankment in the rear.

Will American Battleships Come to This?

The whaleback battleship, heavily armored, may be the answer to the threat of the dive bomber, according to the Secretary of the Navy, Charles Edison. Just what a whaleback battleship would look like is shown by this drawing by Otto Kuhler, New York designing engineer. The rounded armored surfaces give maximum resistance to direct hits and deflect striking power. The whaleback fighting ship would present an ultra-streamlined appearance, even the smokestack being built like a teardrop. ## Hitler With His Parachutists at Front

In this picture of Adolf Hitler at the western front the Fuehrer is shown, according to the German censor-approved caption, with parachute troops whom he honored by awarding them the Iron Cross. The parachutists are credited with leading the attack on Fort Eben Emael, Liege citadel outpost. Note the crosses, Germany's highest honor.

Look 20 Years beyond the Refrigerator you buy today

Every NORGE ROLLATOR REFRIGERATOR is backed by the reputation and the resources of the great BORG-WARNER CORPORATION, world-famous manufacturer with 20 factories in 5 states

When you buy an electric refrigerator, look wisely to the future. Look 0 years ahead . . . or 20. Look beyond the refrigerator as it stands today, new and bright and gleaming. Visualize the greater needs which it may be called to meet in the years to come. Consider the satisfactions of service well rendered that can come only from a product ably engineered and ably built by an organization experienced in precision manufacturing.

Such an organization is Norge, backed by the resources and engineering skill, the seasoned reputation and world fame of the great Borg-Warner Corporation whose score of factories employ thousands in five states.

You will look today, of course, at the advanced features that distinguish the Norge refrigerator in its field . . . at the highlights of detail and design that are winning such high acclaim throughout the world. In the big SR-8 model, as shown above, you will admire extra size and ample capacity, a freezer of stainless steel, the convenience of the exclusive Handefroster and Coldpack, the sliding shelves, glass-covered drawers and Cellaret. You will appreciate the simple efficiency of the refrigerant-cooled Rollator Cold-Maker which Norge has built to almost unbelievable limits of precision for lifetime service.

But before you decide, look again at the record of integrity and achievement which Norge has made in the past. That, we submit, is the reason you also may look far to the future with faith in Norge.

Ole O. Finberg Died

Ole O. Finberg, pioneer of this vicinity who established the first post office at Holt in 1883, passed away at Thief River Falls on Thursday, May 30, at the age of 86 years. He had been in poor health for the past four years.

Mr. Finberg was born July 25, 1853, in Valders, Norway. He came to America with his parents in 1869, the family settling in Goodhue county, Minnesota. He was married to Anna Urness on April 4, 1879, and to their union were born eight children, five of whom survive.

In 1883 Mr. Finberg brought his family to Marshall county, and he established the first post offici here at Holt and operated a small country store in connection with his homestead. In 1901 he and his family moved to St. Hilaire where they resided for two years. Then, when the reservation was open, he took a claim north of Mavie. In 1914 he bought a home on the outskirts of Thief River Falls, and he lived there until his wife's death about two years ago. Since then he has made his home with his son Olaf in Thief River Falls.

Surviving are three sons, Olaf, Andrew of British Columbia, and Selmer of Grand Rapids; two daughters, Mrs. Irving Quist of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Ed Lambert of Nashwauk; and ten grandchildren.

Funeral rites were held Sunday afternoon, June 2 from the chapel of the Larson Funeral home, Rev. R. M. Fjelstad officiating, and interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Ice Cream Social Sunday

The Bible Campers are sponsoring an Ice Cream Social Sunday evening at the Nazareth Lutheran church and a good program will be given. Ice Cream and lunch will be served.

Clayton Gunheim, graduate of Concordia College, Moorhead, has recently signed a contract to take a position as instructor at Tolley, N. D. High School. He will also be leader of a 30 piece band.

Ruth Saastad of St. Paul, Mrs C. Doran and Patricia of Grygla, Robert Forder of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Saastad, Mrs. Fred Peterson and Ferne Peterson were entertained at the E. Henning home at Middle River on Thursday.

Notice - - All those desiring a ride on the special bus to the Lake of the Woods Bible Camp near Baudette, please communicate with me at once to assure you the ride. It will leave Holt at 1:30 p. m. on Monday, June 17th. The fare is $1.25 per person round trip.

T. C. L. Hanson.

Ferne Peterson, accompanied by Clarice Olson and Alice Silverness motored to Bemidji on Sunday where they will spend six weeks attending State Teacher's College.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carlson and Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson were fishing at Washkish Sunday. The big ones did not get away, thanks to Alton.

The Marshall County Fair

Let's all take a holiday!

Fair days will soon be here again and the Red River Valley residents are now making plans to spend their holiday at the Marshall County Fair at Warren on June 27, 28 and 29, where another elaborate program of education and entertainment has been arranged.

Premium lists for the big summer exposition have been distributed to prospective exhibitors and indications already point to a record number of entries to compete for the $1550 in premium awards. Copies of the list may be secured by dropping a card to O. M. Mattson, secretary, at Warren. Only Marshall and northern Polk county residents are eligible to compete for the awards.

The major improvement program at the fairgrounds this year is the remodeling of the 4-H club building in which Marshall county's 300 club members will exhibit their products. Attractive booths are being installed for the 4-H club booth contest, a new departure for the Marshall county fair.

Headlining the programs of the 1940 Fair will be Hunter's Hippodrome, which will be a feature each afternoon. This organization will feature nine separate acts in which a dozen thorobred horses will be used in Roman standing races, chariot races, high jumping horses and a high diving dog. Fair officials have been looking forward to bringing this organization to Marshall county and feel that they have secured absolutely the best afternoon attraction possible to arrange.

In addition to the Hippodrome performance, Lew Rosenthal will bring an unusual array of circus performers to the 1940 fair. His troupe will present 10 high class circus acts, all of them new to fair-goers in this section of the Northwest. The evening program will feature the big revue, "Fantasies of 1940" with talented artists from stage, radio and screen.

Children's day will be featured the first afternoon of the Fair when six 1940 model bicycles will be given to school children of Marshall and Northern Polk counties. Tickets were distributed through the schools during the spring. Children will also be guests of the fair management with free admission to the grounds and the afternoon grand stand program. Dee Lang's Famous Shows will provide all children with half fares on all shows and rides.

4-H Club day will be observed on Friday and for the evening program. Marshall county's 4-H club members will present a group of interesting numbers with a 4-H club orchestra as the main feature.

The last afternoon of the Fair will feature an address by U. S. Senator Henrik Shipstead, who will make a speedy trip from Washington to speak to visitors at the Marshall County Fair. Senator Shipstead will have an important message to give to his listeners and will discuss many of the major problems now facing the nation.

Bible Camp Opens Monday

The Lake of the Woods Bible Camp will open its eight consecutive season on the banks of Rainy river, near Baudette, on Monday evening June 17th. One of the best faculties ever in its history will be on hand to instruct the campers. High lights of the Camp will be the presence of Rev. Andrew S. Burgess, lecturer and author on Foreign Missions, St. Paul, who will teach Missions and in the evenings show motion pictures of the work in China, Madagascar, South Africa and here in America and Canada. The Bible Camp Program Committee has tried for many years to get the services of Rev. Burgess and this is the only year he has been available. Miss Crystal Gjesedal, office Secretary of the Y. P. L. L. will be in charge of Youth Problems. Rev. H. O. Aasen of Baudette will conduct the Bible Studies. Each day will be crowned by the evening inspirational with Rev. A. L. Abrahamson of Morris, Ill. formerly of Badger in charge. The charge this year will be $5.00 which includes everything while at Camp. Of local interest is that Miss Helen Erickson of Minneapolis, a member of last year's high school faculty, will be Recreational Director for the Girl's. Holt and community has been well represented at the Camp in years past and another delegation is expected to attend again this year. Rev. Hanson, a member of the Camp administration, has negotiated with a school bus driver at Baudette, who owns a large International custom built bus, to come as far as Thief River Falls to pick up Campers on the way. The round trip fare for each person is $1.25. As in years past, the Bible Camp offers growth in Christian knowledge, Spiritual inspiration, Christian fellowship and healthful recreation.

Girl Scouts At Bemidji

The local Girl Scout troop left Monday morning for a week's camp at Diamond Point Park, Lake Bemidji. Miss Helen Erickson came from her home at Minneapolis to be with the girls. Those from here who went were Irene Ness, Margie Swan, Ethel Larson, Jean Sorum, Betty Lou Lorentson, Geraldine Larson, Dorothy Hanson, Lois Hanson, Gloria Risberg, Eileen Larson, Sylvia Sandberg and Marian Larson, assistant leader.

George Karvonen, Mrs. Sam Lorentson and Milton Hanson took the troop there by cars.

Public Invited To Wedding

The people of Holt and Community are are cordially invited to attend the Silver Wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anderson to be held at the Nazareth Lutheran Church at 2 p. m. Sunday June 16. Please bring something for lunch.

Ruth Saastad left Saturday for St. Paul after spending her vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Saastad.

CCC Enrolment In July

Announcement was made today by the Marshall County Welfare Office that young men from Marshall County will be selected for CCC early in July. It is expected that all eligible men will be selected as the quota will be large enough to accomodate every qualified applicant.

Young men between the ages of 17 and 24 who are interested in going into CCC are urged to call at the Welfare Office and make out preliminary application. Veteran enrollees with less than 18 months previous experience in CCC can also apply for reenrollment if they are within the proper age and have an honorable discharge.

"The CCC is a splendid opportunity for young men who wish to secure training for future employment," said Paul T. Steen, Executive Secretary of the Marshall County Welfare Board. "Full time employment with an opportunity to learn a trade plus a chance to further ones education makes the CCC an ideal opportunity for a career of future usefulness.

30 Million Bottles Of Milk

Seems like a large order, but that's the number delivered daily to the doorsteps of Mr. and Mrs. America. Add to that another 15 million bottles delivered to stores, hospitals and institutions, and still America ranks only fourth among nations of the world in per capita consumption of milk. We're the world's leading ice cream eaters, but we rank only sixth in per capita consumption of cheese, and seventh in consumption of butter.

You can see there's still a big market for dairy products in America. Anything that expands that market helps Minnesota and the producers, distributors and processors of dairy products right here in our own community. And anything that maintains or increases income in the community helps us all.

So this month and every month when you use more wholesome, nourishing dairy products you'll be doing both yourself and the community a service.

Slip-Covered Boards Make Handy Screen

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

DO YOU need a screen to keep drafts from a child's bed? Or perhaps you would like to have a good-looking one to cut off the view from the dining room into the kitchen or from a bedroom into a bathroom? Well, here is an idea for that screen. Buy four well-seasoned boards each 1 foot wide; 1 inch thick and as long as the height you wish the screen to be; also 9 hinges of the 1-inch butt type used for cupboard doors. Next, select a smart chintz to cover your boards. To estimate the amount of chintz, multiply the height of the screen by three and

SLIP BOARD INSIDE OF COVER, THEN SEW END
CUT COVERS TO FIT BOARDS · STITCH INSIDE OUT LEAVING ONE END OPEN, THEN TURN

then add ¼-yard. Now, just follow the directions in the sketch and you will have your screen in no time.

And, by the way, if you are interested in making a collection of fabric toys, complete directions for the Rag Baby on the floor are in Sewing Book No. 2. The Sleepy Time doll on the bed and the Bandanna doll on the shelf are in Book 4; the Stocking Cat is in Book 3. You will also find full directions for the crocheted rug in Book No. 3. Directions for the lamp shades are in Book No. 1. Send 10 cents in coin for each book desired. If you order four books I will include patterns and directions for three of my Favorite Early American quilts, FREE. The Kaleidoscope; the Whirl Wind and the Ann Rutledge. Send order to:

Tricks of Sleep

Napoleon was credited with the ability to drop off to sleep at any time and in any position. It was this gift that enabled him to work almost round the clock for long periods at a time, and yet keep his brain and body fresh and alert.

Lloyd George of England is said to share Napoleon's secret to such an extent that he has been known to bring a conversation to an end by exclaiming, "And now I am going to have a nap," dropping at once into easy sleep.

Out-In Frock With BraidEdgedPanels

DON'T you think it's one of the prettiest ideas for cotton prints that ever bloomed in the spring—all set for a summer of great popularity? There's something so perky and young about 8716, with its choice of low-cut or tailored collar finished with a come-hither bow, and panels outlined in braid, to call attention to the supple slimness of your waist! It's simple and comfortable enough to wear around the house, but it's much, much too pretty to spend all its time at home. Wear it to market and for runabout, too.

Make this of plaid or checked gingham, polka dot percale or plain-colored chambray, with bright ric-rac braid. Step-by-step sew chart comes with your pattern.

Pattern No. 8716 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 dress with either neckline, requires 4⅛ yards of 36-inch fabric without nap; 8 yards ric-rac to trim; ¾ yard ribbon for bow. Send order to:

New Member of Press Was Promptly Rung Off

He had just received an appointment as junior reporter on the local paper and was full of his own importance. His first engagement was at a concert in connection with a working men's club, and, disdaining to use the ticket which had been sent to the office, he approached the doorkeeper and uttered the one word which he knew was the "Open Sesame" to anywhere—"Press."

"What's that?" asked the doorkeeper.

"Press," repeated the youth.

"And what do you think you are? A bloomin' bell-push?" was the disconcerting reply.

THOSE RADIO TAXICABS

There's another revolt in the offing. This time it's against radios in taxicabs. No man can serve two masters and no taxicab driver can do justice to three traffic lights and four or five radio programs.

* * *

A public cab should be a conveyance and not a loud speaker with hot brakes and loose fenders.

* * *

There is no reason why a man who wants to cross town in a hurry should be obliged to ride with a swing orchestra, a cooking program or a couple of radio comedians.

* * *

The taxicab companies insist that the customers prefer radio hacks. They say the riders regard an outside aerial as more important to transportation than four-wheel brakes. But this correspondent doubts it. He thinks the ride is tough enough without the incidental static.

* * *

For every cab fare who wants to hear "Oh, Johnny," "Town Hall Tonight" or the United States Marine Band while taking sharp corners on two wheels, there are at least ten who prefer to do their rough riding unaccompanied by symphony orchestras, radio tenors and masters of ceremonies.

* * *

It has sprung to the rescue of a long-suffering public with a demand that taxi driving by ear be forbidden, and that the hose be turned on the quaint notion that there isn't noise enough in a big city without radios in taxicabs.

* * *

The drivers won't give up without a battle, however. They contend that their lives are drab without music, wise cracks, hints on how to prepare a shrimp salad and a voice shouting from somewhere every five minutes, "Right, Miss Turpey! 100 per cent right! Lincoln's first name was Abraham, and you win five silver dollars!"

* * *

They insist that, with or without passengers, they are entitled to the full companionship of the Radio Corporation of America. If that contention is sound then a paper hanger is entitled to use his portable radio while papering your living room and a doctor is justified in listening to the Bison City Quartet while discussing your symptoms.

* * *

This department is also mildly opposed to radios in private automobiles. Driving is hazardous enough in modern traffic without giving the driver three extra switches, another glass dial and a lot of additional noises to worry over.

* * *

WAR NOTE

The servants are listening to the broadcasts all night and both German and French cooking is in a severe slump—in fact, it's terrible. That's why you see so many familiar faces dining out en famille.

R. ROELOFS JR.

* * *

A telling commentary on the contrast in living on two continents came over the radio the other day. "The French commander," the voice said, "has called on all men to die at their posts rather than retreat. The fate of the world is at stake," he declared. "Warneke now rubs a new ball. The count is three and two."

* * *

Roosevelt is still reported as considering Mayor LaGuardia of New York for vice president. Well, anyhow, the attempt to make Fiorello play second fiddle anywhere, any time would make one of the great radio features of all time.

* * *

A big airport recently went into bankruptcy. In selling stock for an airport is anybody ever offered a chance to get in on the ground floor?

Some candidates for the presidency are so full of intolerance, partisanship and bias that you could speak of them as tossing their "hates into the ring."

Springtime Is Season of Joy And Zest for Wild Creatures

With Nature in Her Gayest Mood, Animals Enjoy Their Own Games and Frolics.

SPRINGTIME in the wilds is playtime. The majority of our mammals have their young in the early months of the year, and in April and May it is possible to watch the most delightful games among the puppies of the fields. Badger, fox and otter cubs are very playful little creatures. The otter and badger appear to have a certain amount of method in their games, but fox cubs simply romp among themselves in a wild abandon.

On a sloping sand cliff near my home seven fox cubs came out of a large hole; on the ledge just outside they played with a round stone, pushing it with their feet, tossing it in the air and allowing it to run down the slope.

When tired of this they played a game which resembled "Follow the Leader." One would run forward, dodge and leap over all kinds of imaginary obstacles, and the others would follow in its tracks; then all would roll together in a rough and tumble, in which their small teeth would tug at the fur of their companions.

Bouncing Badgers.

Young badgers are among the most amusing cubs to watch at play. With their bold black and white markings they are quaint-looking little creatures, and rather clumsy, but there is no doubt that they thoroughly enjoy life, and their play is exuberant and strenuous.

First they poke their noses in the ground, searching for hidden grubs; then, without any warning, all stiffen their fur, making it stand upright, and now they look twice their size. With their short legs also stiffened they bounce round one another like footballs, then leap in, grip a mouthful of fur, and roll over and over. They break apart, and again play the bouncing game, and just as suddenly as they started to play they cease, and the next moment all are diligently searching for more food.

Fun in the Water.

Many young otters are born at an awkward time, that is at the beginning of winter, but they are hardy little creatures and appear to be able to stand any amount of cold. Otters, more than any other wild creatures, show us that they thoroughly enjoy life; a plentiful supply of food makes them contented, and both parents and young play the most delightful games.

What appeared to be a large brown ball was floating gently down stream, hardly making a ripple as it swept along. Suddenly the ball seemed to burst open with a loud splash, and four excited otters with their bright, eager eyes well above the water, started swimming round one another. One leaped right out of the stream and over its companions to dive on the other side, and as they floated along this acrobat made circles around them, those below trying to grip it as it passed over. Then they all joined up again, and seemed to be having a struggle as to which could pull the others under the surface, a sort of spirited ducking game.

They continue to play until all are tired. Then the parents lead their young off to a well-hidden lair, where they all sleep until hunger and high spirits call again.—Oliver G. Pike in London Tit-Bits.

Wise and Otherwise

THE hardest tumble a man can take is to fall over his own bluff.

Gospel Quartet Coming Here

A section of the musical organizations of St. Olaf's College, Northfield, will make its appearance at Nazareth Lutheran church on Sunday evening at 8:15 when the St. Olaf Gospel Quartette will render a sacred concert. St. Olaf College is well known for its splendid work in vocal music, largely through the worldwide recognition of the famous St. Olaf Choir. The quartette is touring the middle west this summer and has met with acclaim through its fine singing. There is no charge of admission but a free will offering will be taken to defray expenses.

Hartley Peterson, local painter and decorator, recently painted the interior of the 1st Lutheran Church parsonage at Middle River. This week he did some redecorating of the large Sjoberg residence at Badger.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reed and daughter of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Joe Poppenhagen of Warroad visited at the H. O. Hanson home Sunday evening.

Card of Thanks

We hereby wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends, neighbors, and relatives for the fine party and fine gifts given us at the Nazareth Lutheran Church on Sunday on our 25th wedding anniversary. We especially thank those who made the arrangements and those on the program.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Anderson.

The Bible Campers gave an Ice Cream Social Sunday evening at the Nazareth Lutheran church and a good program was given. Ice Cream and lunch was served. A large crowd was present. Rev. Burgess of St. Paul gave a very inspirational address.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre and daughter Gertrude and Mrs. W. Wegge and daughters Jean and Sharon visited at the Harold Nohre home at Pembina Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Holmgren and Arthur of Glyndon, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Nelson and daughter of Grand Forks and Toby Holmgren of Thief River Falls were dinner guests at the R. A. Werner home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sagstuen, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Myers and David, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Larson and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Larson and family were among those who attended a family reunion at the Arthur Moe home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Miller and family of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Millie Ness of Thief River Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Miller and son were dinner guests at the Sam Lorentson home on Thursday evening.

A. O. Aspelin and daughter Caroline and Helen Erickson visited at the E. Rolland home at Thief River Falls Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nohre and Mrs. Signe Nohre returned Saturday after spending some time visiting with relatives in Spring Grove and in Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Strong of Alexandria visited at the G. Swenson home and other relatives last week.

The Marshall County Fair

Plans are now complete for the 34th annual Marshall County Fair which will afford three big days and nights of education and entertainment at Warren on the 27, 28 and 29 of June.

The educational features will include exhibits of the home, the farm and rural youth who will compete for $1,550 in premium awards put up by the fair this year. There will also be an attractive industrial and home appliance show as well as the Northwest's greatest farm implement display.

Heading the grandstand programs Lew Rosenthal's company of performers which will feature 10 top notch circus acts, and a beautiful night reveu, the "Fantasies of 1940." Each afternoon Hunter's Hippodrome, a brand new attraction for the Red River Valley, featuring Roman standing races, Chariot races, jumping and hurdling horses, etc. will be the main attraction. This organization will provide the best afternoon attraction ever presented in the Red River Valley.

U. S. Senator Henrik Shipstad will deliver an address to county fair visitors on Saturday afternoon, June 29 at about 3 o'clock. The Minnesota senior senator will give his listners a word picture of what is happening in Washington during these trouble some times. It will be Senator Shipstad's first appearance at the Marshall county fair and preparations are being made to accommodate a record crowd for the day.

The Friday evening program will feature special numbers by the Marshall county 4-H clubs including the crowning of the Marshall County 4-H Queen. A 4-H club orchestra will also be featured during the 4-H program in front of the grandstand.

The opening day of the Fair is Children's Day, with free admission to the grounds and the grandstand program in afternoon. Tickets for this event have been distributed through the schools in Marshall and in Northern Polk counties, while additional tickets for children from other localities will be available on request at the gate. Six 1940 model bycicles will be distributed among the children. Half rate fares will be charged to all shows and on all rides until 6 p. m. on Children's day,

Celebrated Wedding Anniversary

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred B. Anderson honored them on Sunday afternoon at the Nazareth Lutheran Churchwhen they gathered there on Mr. and Mrs. Andersons 25th wedding anniversary. A program consisting of a reading by Mrs. John Nass, Vocal Solo "Twenty-five Years Ago" by Mrs. O. H. Nohre, talk by Rev. Hanson and several extemperaneous talks by guests was given. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and their son Stilaf expressed their thanks.

Before the program, Mrs. Anderson was presented with a huge boquet of roses and gladiolas, carried up to her by Betty Nass, flower girl.

In his talk Rev. Hanson, in behalf of the Nazareth Lutheran Congregation and community thanked Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and son Stilaf for their faithful service and commended them for their regular attendance at Church Services. Mrs. Anderson in her talk responded "Whatever we have done for the church and community is nothing compared to what the church and community have done for us." She also told of their wedding day 25 years ago in horse and buggy days when they drove to the homestead of Rev. and Mrs. Ordahl and two daughters in the Mud Lake community and of how Mrs. Ordahl had made their simple home festive with boquets of wild flowers. Thinking back to that, also gave her the thoughts of the beautiful things we can have in nature by being able to enjoy the simple things of life which cannot be bought by wealth but is free to all.

Stilaf Anderson gave an inspiring talk on the value of fellowship with parents and friends.

After the program lunch was served in the church parlors which had been decorated for the occasion with flowers and streamers. A table had been set for the honored guests and close friends and relatives. Two nicely decorated cakes had been prepared, a Father's Day cake given to them from Mrs. Anderson's sister, Nettie Borsheim, and a three tiered wedding cake from Mrs. C. H. Gunheim.

A cash purse was given to the Anderson family in remembrance of the day.

Out of town guests included; Mrs. Betsy Abrahamson, sister of Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. John Henning and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Abrahamson of Gatzke; Mr. and Mrs. Netteland and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Heinze of Thief River Falls; Mrs Martin Mattson and Phyllis of Crookston.

To check vandalism in state parks, Eagle Boy Scouts in Minnesota are tacking small signs along the hiking trails. These signs are put where birch-bark has been peeled, where initials have been carved in trees and where shrubs and wild-flowers have been dug up. They say accusingly: "Vandal!"

One of the most beautiful motorized shows on the road today, the Dee Lang's Famous Shows will feature its mile-long midway of clean and wholesome entertainment at the Marshall County Fair June 27, 28 and 29. Newer and better than ever before, the show will have to offer the public 14 big, modern rides, 14 high-class shows, and more than 35 fun booths.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been extremely hot and extremely cool. Sunday and Monday were hot and Tuesday cooled off and in the night there was a frost. Some damage was done to early potatoes, gardens and some flax fields.

The following are attending the Lake of the Woods Bible Camp this week: Eloise Saugstad Lowell Larsen, Ines Anderson, Evelyn Larson, Beatrice Larson, Marian Backlund, Delores Larson, Marian Augustine, Angeline Augustine, Clifford Stienhauer Miss Erickson and Rev. Hanson. Sunday is Rally Day and is especially for those who wish to visit the camp.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Holmgren and Arthur of Glyndon were Holt visitors Monday. They came to attend the funeral of Mr. Holmgren's mother at Thief River Falls on Monday. Others from here who attended the funeral which was held at the Swedish Lutheran Church at Thief River Falls were: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nelson Mrs. John Hagberg, Mrs. Jesse Sorum, Mrs. A. Hagen and Mrs. C. L. Sanberg.

Mrs. Leo Horien, Mrs. Walter Wegge and baby, Mrs. John Nass and Mrs. O. H. Nohre were guests at the A. B. Anderson home Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stienhauer Arno Stienhauer and Wm. Stienhauer left Saturday for Duluth to visit with their sister and other relatives.

June Is National Dairy Month

"Cow Country"

Once upon a time "Cow Country" meant the open range, home of great herds of beef cattle. To-day the term might fairly be applied to most parts of the nation, for on Jan. 1, 1940, there were more than 25 million milk cows and nearly 5 and a half million heifers from 1 to 2 years old on the farms in the United States.

The dairy industry today is a 5 and a half billion dollar industry and Minnesota, ranking first among the states in butter production, has a big stake in it. Producers, distributors and processors of dairy products have named June as National Dairy Month and are cooperating to tell the public what the increased use of dairy products means to the nation in the terms of health and wealth.

Working daily with men and women engaged in one phase or another of the dairy industry, we recognize its value and importance and welcome opportunities to cooperate in a business that means so much to our community and to the state.

Chevrolet Builds Its 900,000th 1940 Car

Here is the 900,000th car of Chevrolet's 1940 model production, as it left the assembly line at Flint, Mich., June 12, less than one month after No. 800,000 was completed. Beside the car are M. E. Coyle, general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Division (left), C. E. Wetherald, general manufacturing manager (right), and Arnold Lenz, assistant manufacturing manager, who were present in the plant when the car was produced.

"Chevrolet has built 300,000 cars in less than three months," Mr. Coyle pointed out. "The 600,000th of these models was built on March 21, the 700,000th on April 16, the 800,000th on May 13, and the 900,000th on June 12. This production rate closely parallels the consistently heavy sales volume since the introduction of the 1940 models last October, sales during March, April and May alone totalling 307,345."

Italy Joins Germany in War As French Retreats Continue; Allies 'Ready' for Mussolini

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE WAR:
Enter Italy

After nine months of watching his ally Hitler carry on the actual warfare against France and England, Benito Mussolini has finally thrust the armed force of Italy into the European conflict. In a dramatic announcement the Italian dictator told his people and the world that his country had decided to enter the war on the side of Germany.

From Berlin came reports that the first Italian troop movements had been directed into French Riviera, even as Mussolini was notifying British and French diplomatic officials that a special train was ready to take them out of his country as war against their native lands was already under way.

Italy's main war aim as outlined by Mussolini is control of the Mediterranean by that country.

This grave development presented a truly serious military problem for the hard-pressed French armies. While they have been expecting the move for some time, they were so busy fighting off the German advances in the north that the spread of battle to the south weighed heavily upon the high command.

BENITO MUSSOLINI
After 9 months—ACTION!

Italy's chief value to Hitler as an ally lies in the fact that the nation is geared to strike fast—in the blitzkrieg manner so well liked by the Fuehrer. Military experts generally agree that Italy is not in an economic position to successfully wage a long and costly war.

Naturally reaction to Italy's entrance into the war was varied. Here is a brief summary of this sentiment from the various world capitals:

London—An information ministry communique declared that preparations of the allies to meet Italy's war bid were complete and that Britain and France know how "to meet sword with sword."

Berlin—Cheering crowds hailed the reports as being added evidence that the end of the war for a victorious Germany was at hand. Hitler wired Mussolini that he was glad Italy had come in "of her own free will."

Washington—President Roosevelt declared in a speech made the same day as Italy entered the war, that Italy had scorned the "rights and security of other nations," by this move. He promised material aid to the "opponents of force."

Politics

Premier Reynaud dropped "appeaser" Daladier from his cabinet, and it looked as if "appeaser" Chamberlain was also on the way out of the Churchill dictatorship. Churchill and Chamberlain had been on bad terms from way back, and this was Churchill's chance to get even. Furthermore, the British veterans back from Flanders were especially bitter with Chamberlain and his friends because of the lack of British airplanes to hold back Goering's daredevils.

NAMES
. . . in the news

Said a Washington official, here perforce anonymous, to your correspondent: "We must stop Hitler, and save the British empire. We simply must! But if we save the British empire a second time, we will have to take it over, lock, stock and barrel."

Peter Gannon, age 18, of Long Island, joined the regular U. S. Eighteenth infantry. He was the sixth Gannon brother to enlist. Gannons now have been joining up with Uncle Sam for just 10 years—since 1930. This is supposed to constitute a regular army record, and a sarcastic pacifist spoke of "Gannon-fodder."

Said parliamentary Deputy Sam Valck of Chile: "Although I myself am the son of a German, born in Chile, I firmly believe that our government should investigate the activities of Nazi elements here."

Battle of France

With the battle of Flanders at an end, the follow-up battle of France began. The so-called battle of France was primarily a German drive for Paris, Normandy, and such additional channel ports as Havre and Cherbourg, and Seine port Rouen, where Joan of Arc was burned by the English in the Fifteenth century.

Twenty-four hours after Mussolini had entered the war, German tanks were encircling Paris and the city was under constant bombing by the Nazi air force.

Whether the Germans could keep it up or not, depended largely on the amount of their tanks destroyed by the allies in the battle of Flanders. The new Aisne-Somme front was 125 miles long, but probably only two-thirds of the northern French army was left to hold it. Meanwhile, the English army had been driven back to England, with the loss of all its mechanized equipment.

Generalissimo Weygand invented a new anti-tank strategy, which consisted of opening "free" lanes for the German Suhls and A. Y. V.s and then hammering them from all sides. These were exactly the anti-elephant tactics of the old Roman, Scipio Africanus, with which he finally beat the great Hannibal, that master of "tank" warfare. For Carthaginian war elephants were used just like Hitler's battle wagons.

LATIN AMERICA:
V Columns

There was a lot of fifth-columnar talk from Mexico, Uruguay, Ecuador, and Colombia. Many critics seemed to feel that the Nazis were at the bottom of anti-Yankee feeling in these countries, but that was hardly the whole case. For the United States has had serious trouble with Mexico, Nicaragua, Colombia, Chile, Haiti, San Domingo, the Argentine, and others, long before Hitler was ever heard of. Nearly a century ago, we annexed half of Mexico, and Latin Americans have a curiously unified feeling when it comes to Anglo-Saxons.

Naturally, tricky Nazi agents sought to fan these ever-present flames. But by a curious circumstance, the only truly totalitarian dictatorship in Latin America is our very best friend of the lot—Brazil, under Dictator Getulio Vargas. Most like ourselves in its institutions is the all-white Argentine, and the Argentine is our stoutest opponent among the 20 Latin American "republics." Nevertheless, Uncle Sam sent warships to South America, to save the South Americans from V columns. Their primary objective was believed to be Rio.

DICTATOR VARGAS
Warships to South America, anyway.

WAR HUMOR:
One Bright Spot

Most beloved of all English wits today is the famous P. G. Wodehouse, who always depicts his countrymen at their worst—and most likeable. He and his wife were giving a gay cocktail party at Le Touquet, an English resort on the French channel coast. Little did they care about the war. Then the butler "Jeeves" knocked and announced—the Germans! The latter arrested the comic author, but not Mrs. Wodehouse. Mr. Wodehouse's farewell words were strictly Wodehousian: "Maybe, my dears, this will give me the material to write a serious book for once."

U. S. DRAFT: ### Conscripts Again

The N. Y. Times, which some believe to be in a nervous state these days, published an editorial advocating U. S. conscription, which they called "compulsory military training." It created a stir. Roosevelt said he found the editorial most interesting, but declined to comment. War Secretary Woodring said it was a matter for the populus americanus to discuss. Secretary Wallace said that the populus americanus was waking up.

YE PRESIDENCY: ### Its Pet Names

Somebody just figured out the following tags for the present incumbent of the White House at Washington—

The President, if one reveres him.

F. D. R., if one likes him.

Mr. Roosevelt, if one is objective about him.

Franklin, if one despises him.

"Comrade" Roosevelt, or "Rosie," if one shudders at his name.

1. Is popular in the South, and in the N. Y. Times. Also, in wishful England.

2. Is popular with machine politicians.

3. Is popular with this column, etc.

4. Is popular in New England and the N. Y. Harvard club.

5. Is popular in "ultra-ultra" Philadelphian circles.

KING'S FALL:
And Rise Again

Former King Edward of England —"Bonnie King Eddie"—gave up his job as British major general and liaison officer between the London and Paris war departments in France. He retired to rest on the Riviera, so the story went, and some thought he had been forced out of office. His successor, strangely enough, also had an American wife, though not a Warfield of Baltimore.

There was an inner significance, some felt. King George has never had marked social sympathies like brother Eddie, and if England should lose the war, Eddie might regain the kingship. His support would come from the unemployed, the hungry and underprivileged, the Welsh coal miners, and Mosley's blackshirts, all of whom upheld him against brother George back in 1936. Strangely enough, Winston Churchill was also on Eddie's side at that time, while Chamberlain stood for George, as did the dowagers and archbishops.

Eddie, however, is reported as without any strong personal ambition, although his wife, reputedly, had vague fascist sympathies before the II German war. As for brother George, phony rumor persists that his two little princesses are tucked away in some fool-proof Canadian hamlet, and that he may soon follow after.

GUNS:
Instead of Butter

New York state planned to incorporate three anti-aircraft regiments in its National Guard outfit. Two of these would protect New York city, and a third would look out for the western part of the state. New York's historic Seventh (fashionable) and Sixty-ninth (Irish) infantry regiments would be converted into anti-aircraft units, according to the scheme. This would class them as, officially, "coast artillery."

It was reported from Washington that some 600,000 old World war rifles and 2,500 W. W. field guns would be sold to the allies, plus ammunition. This stuff is not considered "satisfactory" for U. S. requirements, but might help to replace material lost by the British in Flanders—material which, the Germans said, would serve to equip no less than 40 fresh Nazi divisions. A ruling by Attorney-General Jackson appeared to have cleared the way, legally, for a highly profitable sale.

MONEY:
They Toss It Around

The tax subcommittee of the house ways and means committee took on a formula to permanently broaden the base of the federal income tax. Some 2,000,000 new taxpayers would be annexed, and $800 "singletons" and $2,000 marrieds would now be made to hand over.

The house committee also decided that the legal national debt limit should be raised by a mere four billion—to $49,000,000,000.

DOMESTIC:
Oddses and Endses

Earl Browder, serving a four-year jail term, was yet again nominated by the Americo-communists, to run for red President of the U. S. this year. The communist convention was held in New York. Browder probably will run against such presidential perennials as Norman Thomas and Franklin Roosevelt.

The Belgian exhibit at the New York World's fair took out the handsome white marble bust of King Leopold.

Star Dust
STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

EACH year Hollywood makes a "sleeper"—a picture that, during the making, created no excitement, but during the preview showing had all the earmarks of being one of the best of the year. "It Happened One Night" and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" are two of the better known sleepers. This year's, according to some of the people who have seen it, may be "Down Went McGinty."

Written and directed by Preston Sturgis, with a cast including Muriel Angelus, Brian Donlevy and Akim Tamiroff, it is the "saga of a bum."

It may be the making of a new star, Muriel Angelus. In England she is one of the foremost musical comedy stars; she played the lead in "Balalaika" on the stage there—you'll recall that Nelson Eddy and Ilona Massey did the picture version. She has been in this country for two years; last year, while singing on the New York stage in "The Boys From Syracuse," she was signed up by Paramount, and "The Light That Failed," with Ronald Colman, was her first picture. Then she did "Safari" and "The Way of All Flesh," followed them with "Down Went McGinty."

MURIEL ANGELUS

When John Barrymore seemed to be unavailable for the role of John Barrymore in "The Great Profile," at Twentieth Century-Fox, Adolphe Menjou was engaged for it. Then Barrymore's plans changed, he took the part, and Menjou took his salary, as the studio had no other picture ready for him.

*

Rod Cameron, a young, six-foot Canadian, went to Los Angeles a year ago to learn the dime store business. That didn't work out very well, so he quit, took up little theater work, and now finds himself acting for Paramount.

Death brought him his first role, that of "Corporal Underhill" in Cecil B. DeMille's "Northwest Mounted Police." Earl Askam, a former stage star and war hero, was to have played it, but he died recently of a heart attack, and young Cameron (whose real name is Rod Cox) was summoned for it. By a grisly coincidence, the role includes a death scene, but he's so elated over getting the part that he can't afford to be superstitious.

*

Now that they need passports to sail for a tour of South America, it has been discovered that many of Toscanini's NBC Symphony musicians are men without a country. It seems that there was a general impression among them that all they had to do to become American citizens was to file their intentions of doing so; now they're not Americans, and, as they renounced their native lands, they don't legally belong anywhere.

*

George Brent, working in Warner Brothers' "The Sentence," offers to put up $10,000 at 10 to 1 odds that he won't marry for another three years. "That's no reflection on Ann," he says, meaning Ann Sheridan, whom gossips have him wedding soon. "It's just that I'm going to wind up my picture contract then, and I'm not making any marriage plans until I do."

Miss Sheridan (working in "They Drive by Night," same studio) is equally vehement. "George and I haven't even discussed getting married," says she. But—it's the kind of buildup that so often leads to an elopement, in Hollywood!

*

Carl Hoff, on the CBS Al Pearce show, drew an impressive crowd the other day and wished he hadn't. He parked his new coupe and then tried to get out of it, and couldn't. He went through assorted acrobatic convulsions, thrusting his feet and arms out of the windows in all possible combinations, while the crowd offered advice hilariously. The new coupe has patent thief-locks on its doors. Only after he had struggled till he was limp did it occur to Hoff to pass the key to one of the amused bystanders.

Velveteen Frames For Your Pictures

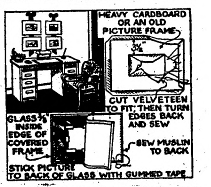
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

DO YOU remember Miss Fixit who, a week or so ago in one of these articles, made over an old rocker? Today's sketch shows how she used that chair at her desk. The full description of the transformation of the chair is in Sewing Book 5, which is offered here for the first time. This new book contains 32 pages of helpful ideas for homemakers and is available to readers of this paper for 10 cents in coin to cover cost and mailing.



HEAVY CARDBOARD OR AN OLD PICTURE FRAME
3½"
CUT VELVETEEN TO FIT; THEN TURN EDGES BACK AND SEW GLASS ⅛" INSIDE EDGE OF COVERED FRAME
SEW MUSLIN TO BACK
STICK PICTURE TO BACK OF GLASS WITH GUMMED TAPE

Miss Fixit painted an old desk blue to match her chair. She had some enlarged snapshots that she wanted to hang over the desk but she also wanted to repeat the blue color and some of the red in the chintz used for the chair. So, she decided to make blue velveteen frames for the pictures and then hang them with red ribbon. The diagrams show you exactly how the frames were made for I have a feeling that you are going to want to hang some of your photographs in this colorful way. Betsy, who streamlined an old iron bed, which she found in the attic, will be with us again next week with more "attic magic." Meanwhile better send your order for your copy of Sewing Book 5 to:

KA-CHOO GET COLD CLOGGED NOSE WORKING ON ALL 2 AGAIN—WITH 2 DROP TREATMENT OF SELF-SPREADING PENETRO NOSE DROPS

Future Ours
Remember this also, and be well persuaded of its truth: The future is not in the hands of Fate, but in ours.—Jules Jusserand.

The Better Way to Correct Constipation

One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and "cure" it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headachy days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention"?

If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it regularly—and drink plenty of water—you can not only get regular but keep regular, day after day and month after month! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Forgive Faults
Two persons will not be friends long if they cannot forgive each other's little failings.—La Bruyere.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Britain's 'Rock' Under a Double Threat

An aerial view of Gibraltar, Britain's mighty fortress at the entrance to the Mediterranean, one of the key points of the European chessboard. Great Britain may be forced to defend Gibraltar against both Mussolini and Gen. Francisco Franco, who has been urged to repay Spain's debt to the Rome-Berlin axis by co-operating in any axis operation against the "Rock."

The Allied Troops Retreat From Dunkirk

The picture shows the allied troops wading out from the beach to the rescue boat in the right foreground, during the evacuation of Dunkirk. This was one of the most remarkable retreats in history, 887 British craft taking part in the operation. A correspondent reports that every building in this city of 33,000 persons was destroyed by the Nazis.

$230,769,230 Per Ounce!

Between 1935 and 1940 federal expenditures have increased by $3,000,000,000, and the budget has gained 13 ounces in weight. This means that every time the budget becomes an ounce heavier the spending increases, on an average, by $230,769,230. The picture was prepared by the National Small Business Men's association with headquarters in Chicago.

SEWING CIRCLE

THIS dress has a beautiful line—slim-hipped, high-busted, exactly the silhouette in which women's sizes look best. And it's so simply designed! The bodice is fitted in with long darts above the waistline, and gathered just beneath the shoulders, where narrow ruffles add a soft, dressy touch, without any suggestion of width or weight. The paneled skirt flows into graceful fullness at the hem, accenting the narrow-hipped look.

Make this design (No. 1971-B) of small-figured print, flat crepe, georgette or chiffon, with decorative buttons down the bodice in the front. The plain v of the neckline invites all sorts of different jewelry and necklaces.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1971-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material without nap. Send order to:

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Always keep flour in a warm, dry place. Damp flour will never make light cakes and pies.

* * *

Never leave sugar, raisins, currants or peel in paper bags. They all go moist and sticky very quickly.

* * *

For whiter mashed potatoes or boiled rice, add a pinch of cream of tartar to the cooking water.

* * *

Never serve food in a dish that is too large for amount of food served. It detracts from the appearance of your table.

* * *

To remove whitewash from a ceiling, dissolve one pound of alum in one gallon of strong vinegar. Apply with brush, let soak in well and scrape and wash as usual.

Probably most of the stories about the origins of the 1,500,000 cattle brands registered in the West are legends. One such outstanding tale, still told and published as a true story, is that Burk Burnett adopted the famous brand "6666" in 1900 because he won his great Texas ranch in a poker game with a hand containing four sixes.—Collier's.

IN PROBATE COURT

In the matter of the estate of David G. Sandberg, Decedent.

Order For Hearing On Petition To Determine Descent Of Land

Elisabeth Sandberg having filed in this Court a petition representing, among other things, that said decedent died intestate more than five years prior to the filing thereof, leaving certain real property in Marshall County, Minnesota, and that no will of said decedent has been proved, nor administration of his estate granted, in this State and praying that the descent of said real property be determined and that it be assigned to the persons entitled thereto;

IT IS ORDERED, That the hearing thereof be had on the 8th day of July, 1940 at 10 o'clock A. M., before this Court, in the Probate Court Room, in the Court House, in Warren, Minnesota, and that notice thereof be given by publication of this order in the Holt Weekly News, a weekly newspaper and by mailed notice as provided by law.

Dated June 10th, 1940.

Farmers Seed Pasture Grass

Farmers who are short of units for meeting their soil building goal still have an opportunity to earn the full payment for carrying out their soil building practices.

The 1940 docket allows one unit of credit for each 10 pounds of good seed of adapted pasture grasses and legumes seeded on depleted pastures. If timothy or red top or mixtures of timothy and red top are used one unit of credit is given for each 20 pounds of seed used.

From the above it is apparent that the seeding of 100 lbs. of grass seed, other than timothy or red top, on depleted pastures will earn a farmer 10 units of credit. The area to be covered is not specified.

For each unit of soil building goal which a farmer is short $1.50 will be deducted. This amounts to exactly the same as what is included in the total payment for the farm for soil building practices. For example if a farm has a soil building goal of 20 units $30.00 of the payment for the farm is for carrying out soil building practices. If this farmer does not carry out any soil building practices he would be short 20 units and $30.00 would be taken off his total Agricultural Conservation payment.

Card of Thanks

We hereby wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends, neighbors, and relatives for the fine party and fine gifts given us at our farm home on Sunday on our 50th wedding anniversary. We wish to especially thank those who made the arrangements and those on the program and for the cash purse and flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Sorum.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson Sanders and son from Superior, Wisc. and Emil Larson from St. Hilaire visited at the Walter Larson home Monday.

George Leslie from Alberta Canada is visiting at the home of his sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson and family. He is also visiting relatives near Gatzke.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hanson, Mary Ann Andeen and Lyla Urtess of Warren visited at the H. O. Hanson home Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Larson and Bill Stortroen of St. Hilaire and Mr. and Mrs. John Gullingsrud and family of Thief River Falls visited at the W. Larson and Mrs. C. Sandberg homes Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Rolland of Thief River Fnlls accompanied A. Aspelin and daughter Caroline to Lake of the Woods Bible Camp and Wheelers Point on Sunday. They also visited friends at Rainy River, Ontario.

Miss Helen Erickson returned from the Lake of the Woods Bible Camp on Saturday. She left that same evening for Willmar where she will chaperone a group of girls on an outing.

Mrs. Jana Oppegaard of Crookston arrived Tuesday of last week for an indefinite stay at the parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lindholm and Dianne of Strandquist visited at the Mrs. C. Sandberg home Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Borchert and Russel Sanoden of Mentor visited Sunday at the G. Sanoden home. Mrs. Borchert remained to visit a few days.

Shipstad To Speak At Fair

Senator Henrik Shipstad will definitely keep his speaking engagement at the Marshall county fair in Warren Saturday afternoon, with the address scheduled to take place in front of the big grandstand at three o'clock, O. M. Mattson, secretary, announced Monday on receipt of a telegram from the senator.

Senator Shipstad's telegram follows:

"Congress will recess for one week. I expect to keep my engagement at Warren on June 29th." Henrik Shipstad.

Northwestern Minnesota will be interested in hearing Senator Shipstad at the fair on Saturday afternoon, as undoubtedly he will devote much of his address to the crisis confronting the world as a result of the war. He will also undoubtedly express his views as to the United States neutrality and the actions taken by Congress during recent weeks in preparation for National Defense.

Senator Shipstad cancelled his speaking engagements in Minnesota for last week and in a telegram to the newspapers of Minnesota stated: "I consider it my duty to remain here and do everything in my power to keep Congress in continuous session and to prevent so far as we can any further involvement of the United States in European War. The question of national defense and taxation to pay for it is before the senate now. Problems of international relations are pending in the senate committee of foreign relations of which I am a member and must be disposed of this week. France has territory in this hemisphere and the collapse of the French armies may raise a question of grave impertance here any day."

The reason for the Congressional recess this week is because of the National Republican convention now in session in Philadelphia. Senator Shipstad, not being affiliated with the Republican party, is making use of the time of the recess by making a trip to Minnesota and incidently to fulfill his engagement at the Marshall County Fair.

Mrs. Wm. Fluke and daughters Mae and Janice returned home Wednesday evening after spending several days at the H. Heinze home at Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Olson spent last week end visiting relatives at Fargo.

Mr. and Mrs. Manvel Moe and daughter visited at the C. O. Larson home Sunday.

Norman Peterson returned Tuesday from the University hospital where he spent the past week.

Arnold Hagen, local painter, has recently completed the job of painting the Bennes Confectionery.

Mrs. Carl Lindholm and Eunice or Thief River Falls visited friends in this community on Saturday afternoon.

Albert Knutson of Gary visited this week end at the K. T. Knutson home.

Bennes Confectionery has installed a modern ice cream refridgerator.

Mrs. M. Sandberg and Mrs. C. Flak visited Mrs. C. Sandberg Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. G. Sanoden and Mrs. O. Backlund visited at the Mrs. C. Sandberg home Friday afternoon

Celebrate Wedding Anniversary

Neighbor whispered to neighbor and by evening on Wednesday a group of 40 men and women knew that Rev. and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson had been married 4 years that date. They gathered at the parsonage to help the couple celebrate the occasion. The evening was spent socially and Rev. Hanson gave a very good account of what happened on the day four years ago. Mrs. Hanson also spoke briefly. Pot luck lunch was served and a small cash purse was left with Rev. and Mrs. Hanson.

Scoutmaster and Mrs. Hartley Peterson and Boy Scouts Duane Larson, Dale Lorentson, Wayne Larson and Roy Johnson went to the Marshall County Fair at Warren Thursday to take part in the Model Boy Scout Camp there.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Oppegaard of Minneapolis spent Friday and Saturday with Rev. and Mrs. Hanson. Mr. Oppegaard is Mrs. Hanson's uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Ness of Red Lake Falls and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larson and family spent Sunday fishing at Bemidji.

Luther League Sunday Night

June Is National Dairy Month

"When Pennies Mean Millions"

Competent authorities estimate that an increase of one cent per pound in the price of butter means an increase of approximately three million dollars in the income of the Minnesota farmers.

As the leading butter-producing state of the nation, Minnesota has a big stake in the dairy industry and the increased use of dairy products. Prosperity in the dairy industry means greater buying power on the farm and is reflected in factory payrolls and the general welfare of the state as a whole.

Because the dairy industry means so much to this community, we're glad to join producers, processors and distributors in urging the public to use more dairy products this month — and every month. Further we offer to men and women engaged in the dairy industry all the constructive help within the limits of sound banking.

At That, We Doubt Ready Answer Saved the Day

A certain gentleman was very fond of golf, and of a little refreshment after the game. He arrived home very late one night, and was met by his wife in the hall.

"Well, and what excuse have you got to offer for coming home at this unearthly hour?" she asked angrily.

"It was like this, my dear, I was playing golf with some friends and—"

"Playing golf!" she cried in disgust. "Are you trying to tell me you can play golf in the dark?"

"Oh, yes, my dear," he said quickly. "You see, we were using the night clubs."

II GERMAN WAR:
Honorable Peace

Premier Paul Reynaud of France had often and sincerely pledged that he would lead his country in a "fight to the finish" against the German invader. Thus when the government announced his resignation and the appointment of 84-year-old Marshal Henri Petain to take his place the French people knew without further information that a peace offer was in the offing.

And soon it came. Marshal Petain declared to his people that he was asking the enemy to end the war by giving to France a "peace with honor." Negotiations were immediately begun. While peace terms were being arranged, the badly crippled and out-fought French army was forced to carry on its battle against Germany and Italy even after its leaders had asked for peace.

England meantime was rallying every force at her command to prepare for the next German blitzkrieg. Home defenses were bolstered and a firm resolution held sway over the island center of a world empire: "Even alone, we will fight on."

Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared in a radio address that the British empire would fight on "until the curse of Hitler is lifted from the brows of mankind." British leaders expressed the hope that despite any peace arrangements, that France's resources would not be used against England.

Should Germany gain control of France's fleet (second only to England's in Europe) Britain would have a very serious naval problem on her hands. For the combined fleets of Germany, Italy and France are equal to or stronger than the British fleet. England's effective sea blockade of the axis powers would thus be put to the extreme test.

Russia meanwhile had not been idle. Exactly what the Soviet Union had in mind, few men except Joseph Stalin could be sure, but Russian troops marched into Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia and the governments in these three tiny Baltic nations were being "reorganized" on a basis "favorable to the Soviet."

'EX-PREMIER' REYNAUD
After him, a peace offer.

Italy Itemizes

Egypt broke off relations with Mussolini, and put all her bases at the disposal of John Bull, but Mr. Bull had control of these anyway, even in times of perfect peace.

The Italians flew over Toulon and Malta and Kenya colony, and the allies flew over Turin, Genoa, and Italian East Africa. Some lives were lost, mutually, and some names were called, Mayor LaGuardia of New York (half Italian) taking part in the name-calling himself. Everyone agreed that Italy was hardly heroic, but old-timers remembered Italy's parallel action (in reverse) back in May, 1915, when Mussolini again was war-active.

Spain Stirs

Spain, in the Sixteenth century, was the greatest and strongest of all imperial powers. There was nothing to beat her. Then, like the Romans, she declined and virtually fell. But Dictator - Generalissimo Franco was kicking her into stirring again. Spaniards yelled for the return of Gibraltar in street mobs.

Mussolini and Hitler helped Franco in the Spanish civil war, and his group are duly grateful. When Italy went in, they declared Spain not neutral, but merely non-belligerent, and Spanish-owned Moor troops seized the International Zone (supposedly neutralized) at Tangiers, in North Africa, which is too near Gibraltar for solid comfort.

WASHINGTONIANA: ### Foreign Policies

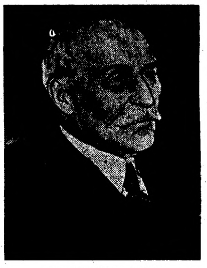
Following the President's speech at the University of Virginia, there was a storm. Part of it was a storm of applause by third termites, New Dealers, warhawks. The rest was a storm of protest by Republicans, pacifists, independent Democrats. Senator Wheeler of Montana began to emerge as heir to the laurels of the late Senator Borah of Idaho. He indicated he might break with Roosevelt, if the Democratic party turned into the "war" party. Republicans planned to label the Democratic party by that tag, in the 1940 campaign.

On the other hand, some of the New Dealers wanted to repeal the Johnson act, and Roosevelt's own neutrality act, with its cash-and-carry provisions. France kept making frantic appeals to Roosevelt, and to Americans generally, and this aerial propaganda had its effect. Some Americans went so far as to favor a declaration of war against Hitler, although for the time being, Mussolini was even more unpopular.



MARSHAL PETAIN
They knew what he meant.

The senate passed, by 67 to 18, the presidential policy of trading in government-owned weapons to private corporations, for re-sale to the allies. Old rifles, older ammunition, airplanes; and there was even talk of "obsolete" U. S. naval destroyers, for England to hunt submarines and seasleds with. U. S. Steel, for example, was reported as planning a $37,000,000 deal, via the war department, for the allies.

The house of representatives passed an increase of 95,000 privates for the regular army, and there was congressional talk of running our armed forces up to a million men, including the National Guard. The house also approved the national defense tax bill, to yield a billion additional dollars during the coming fiscal year, and increasing the national debt limit to 49 billions—a jump upward of four billions.

V Column

Congressman Van Zandt of Pennsylvania demanded that Roosevelt begin a drive against the fifth column here in America. Roosevelt was requested to fire the 563 people listed by the Dies committee, as government employees who belonged to the reddish League for Peace and Democracy. But the fifth column charges became wilder and wilder—each American making up his own list of fifth columnars, and putting on it special grievances. A complete list of "amalgamated" fifth columnists was assembled. It included Republicans, Democrats, third termites, anti-third termites, pro-Germans, pro-Russians, pro-Italians, pro-Britons, aliens, communists, socialists, the Bund, pacifists, "professional" Irishmen, Jews, Catholics, atheists, gossipers, defeatists, parlor pinks, roaring reds, anarchists, pietists, and conscientious objectors. Readers of the column may add to this partial compendium, at their pleasure.

INTERNAL INTERESTS:

Ex-Gov. Richard Leche of Louisiana got 10 years in a federal jail for using the U. S. mails to defraud the state in the purchase of trucks. Leche had held gubernatorial office from 1936 to last June, when he resigned.

A new 35,000-ton battleship, the North Carolina, was launched in the Brooklyn navy yard. Sabotage, spying, and insidious camera work were carefully guarded against, as the great ship slid down the ways.

The $4,000,000 Italian building at New York's World fair kept open, despite the U. S. domestic roasting of Italy, and a reduced clientele.

Pennsylvania supports half a million people, unemployed and on relief. A major purge was scheduled to oust single, able-bodied men from the rolls, for the sake of economy.

At Albany, N. Y., an organization known as the First Column was organized. Its purpose was to block Earl Browder for communist president of the United States—a movement which seemed hardly necessary under the conditions.

Smart Three-Way Sports Ensemble

USE this one inspired pattern to make your whole outdoor play wardrobe! Think what a convenience and saving that will be! Pattern No. 1949-B includes a sports shirt with convertible collar, a double swing skirt, and shorts and slacks that are cut the same way—only the slacks, of course, go to greater length, clear down to your instep, in fact. So you see by making all three parts of this generous pattern, you'll be smartly equipped for active sports and looking on as a spectator while vacationing. They are all exceptionally well-cut and they fit beautifully as sports things, however casual-looking, simply must be.

Denim, flannel, sharkskin, gingham and sailcloth are excellent, style-right materials for this design. You'll find it easy to make, guided by the step-by-step sew chart.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1949-B is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Corresponding bust measurements 29, 31, 33, 35 and 37. Size 13 (31) requires 6¼ yards of 35-inch material for suit with shorts; 7¼ yards for suit with slacks; 2¾ yards for skirt. Send order to:

Many Farms On Tax Rolls

As one offset to farm tenacy, the Federal Land Band of St. Paul last year put 43 per cent of the farms it sold in Minnesota back into the hands of tenant farmers, thus starting them on the road to farm ownership. Some of these new owners, the bank says, were young men, just starting out for themselves. Some, working as hired hands, had saved up enough to make a down payment. Commenting on the figuers, an officer of the land bank said this week:

"It takes no argument to convince any thoughtful person that generally the man who owns the farm he operates is going to do a better job of farming, make the property more valuable, and be a more interested local citizen than the man who is farming land owned by someone else, and who is continually facing the possibile necessity of moving onto some other farm.

"As an institution organized and operated in the interest of agriculture, we are glad to note any increase and stabilization in farm ownership. Whenever we can put back into the hands of an owner, a farm that has come into our possession we believe the bank is doing a public service."

Last year the land bank sold to tenants 36 percent of all the farms disposed of in Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin and Michigan. Throughout these 4 states 1,041 tenant farmers, most of them with families, bought farms from the land bank under terms which it is believed will enable them eventually to become full fledged farm owners with a minimum of difficulty and financial outlay.

Population Has Increased

A preliminary count released this week by Hans O. Chommie, Thief River Falls district supervisor of census, show that the population of the county has increased from 17,003 in 1930 to 18,342 in 1940. The number of farms in Marshall county as of April 1, 1940 was given as 2,898. In 1935 there were 2,971 farms in Marshall county and in 1930, 2,508. The 1940 figures are preliminary and subject to correction.

Mixed Million Pounds Of Bait

The demand for grasshopper bait has been so heavy at the Argyly mixing station that it has necessitated the adding of another WPA crew. On Monday of last week, 150,000 pounds of the bait were mixed and delivered to farmers in the townships. To date over a million pounds of bait have been mixed. Last week the mixing plant was in operation 16 hours a day.

Because the end of the year falls on July first for all governmental agencies, WPA officials declared that WPA workers will be required to get in their time before that date. As a result no bait was mixed from June 29 to July 4. Grasshopper committees should caution farmers to save bait. Fifteen pounds of bait per acre is just as effective as fifty pounds per acre.

With dry weather prevailing, it is only likely that much damage will be done to grain crops in the near future. Some damage has already been done. The application of bait this year has been very effective. Good kills have been reported from all sections where bait has been spread.

Farmers should bait hatching beds, roadsides and the edges of fields if hoppers are present and there is damage or any possible damage.

Rev. and Mrs. Gerhard Bergee arrived from Boyceville, Wis. on Friday and stayed at the parsonage until Sunday. Rev. Bergee was recently ordained into the Lutheran ministry and has accepted the Call to the Middle River Parish, where they will make their home.

Last Thursday daughters and son of Mr. Lorents Flak gathered at the Flak farm home for a family reunion. This was the first time in 22 years that Mr. Flak, his son Cliffnrd and daughters Mayme and Gladys had been together. They had family pictures taken and Grandpa Flak also took pictures with his 10 grandchildren.

Those present at the reunion were Mr. Lorents Flak, his son Clifford and family, at whose home it was; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Reierson and family of Velva, No. Dak.; and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Newton and family of Mc Intosh.

Mr. Ernest Gjelten, of Lake Park, who is a Parish Assistant in the Lanstad congregation, near Gatzke, visited with Rev. and Mrs. Hanson on Sunday afternoon. He returned again the 4th and stayed until Sunday evening.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Nelson, June 25th, a boy.

Many Grasshoppers Hatching

Wheat growers in Marshall County are especially urged by C. N. Kranz, chairman of the Marshall County AAA committee to protect their crops against grasshoppers by properly spreading poison bait immediately.

Wheat growers who have insured their 1940 wheat crop under the government "all risk" crop insurance program are not relieved from the responsibility of using every means possible to save their crops, Mr. Kranz says. A crop insurance contract protects the grower from unavoidable losses caused by migratory hoppers, for example, that swarms in and destroy fields before any defense can be made; but when growers are warned that a severe infestation is developing, as is the case in Marshall county this year, they must make every reasonable effort to fight them or losses will not be paid them from the insurance funds. Because premium rates are revised yearly, the man who suffers a low yield one year may be required to pay higher premiums for wheat insurance in the future and it therefore doubly pays him to protect this year's crop.

Reports from T. L. Aamodt, state entomologist at University Farm, St. Paul, indicate that sections in the Red River Valley and west central Minnesota are now literally alive with tiny hoppers in exactly the right stage to be poisoned with the least bait and effort. Bait is now available at Argyle, while material for the mixing of bait in the townships are available oyer at Newfolden.

Tax Hike Started Monday

American consumers began paying taxes on Monday for the nation's five-year - five - billion-dollars re-armament fund.

In several instances, they will pay more than during the World war.

Excise, commodity and service taxes will advance by from 10 to 50 per cent on various items from present rates.

An additional $1 per barrel on beer will add a third of a cent per bottle; an extra 75 cents per gallon on liquor will add 19 cents per quart; and 25 cents more on each 1000 cigarettes will add half a cent to each standard package of 20.

There should be no one that would object to the small increase in taxes on the items so far mentioned as they are all classed as luxuries.

The gasoline tax will jump from 1 to 1½ cents; radios, from 5 to 5½ per cent of their value; passenger cars, from 3 to 3½ per cent; and so on for 30-odd other items.

Amusement admission taxes will begin at 21 cents, instead of 41. Tee scale of 1 cent for each 10 cents of admission price will continue. A total of 2,200,000 new income taxpayers will join the 2,900,000 to whom the government already sends "please remit" notices every March 15.

They will be made subject to tax on their 1940 incomes as a result of lowering the personal exemptions of married persons from $5,500 to $2,000 and of single persons from $1,000 to $800.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Casmey Mrs. Cora Teal and Margie Leas of Mentor and Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson were Sunday dinner guests at the G. Sanoden home.

Mrs. Iver Larson and sons Marvin and Irvin returned home last Thursday from an extended visit at the home of the former's parents at Inverness, Montana.

Miss Alma Herseth of Scottsbluff, Nebraska, Mrs. N. J. Roos Mrs. Carl Herseth and Norman Roos of Hitterdahl and Mrs. Henry Hitterdal and Allan of Thief River Falls visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carlson on Monday afternoon.

Of 2,500 jobs for Minnesota young men in CCC camps that will become available July 1 to 20, 12 of the state's quota will be assigned from Marshall county, it was announced in St. Paul this week. Information and application blanks can be obtained from the office of the County welfare Board, at Warren, in the Court House.

And They Say It Can't Happen

It has always been said one good turn deserves another. We find that in the appointment made to the National Administration by President Roosevelt when he took in two good Republicans recently. The Republicans at their National Convention at Philadelphia reciprocated by nominating a good Democrat as their standard bearer in the race this fall.

Hjalmer Johnson, one of the up-and-coming farmers in Holt township, is improving his farm a great deal by rebuilding the home on it. Since he bought the place he is now on, Mr. Johnson has opened up a lot of new land, drilled a new well and put up several other buildings. He is doing the work himself, besides attending to the farm work.

Mrs. Fred Peterson spent Monday afternoon at Thief River Falls attending the graduation exercises for the Pennington County Rural School pupils. Clarence Haugen, Marjorie Ofstedahl and Roy Tranby, her pupils were among the graduates.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Davis Sunday, a girl.

Ness-Silverness Wedding

A quiet wedding took place in the Holt parsonage on Saturday forenoon, June 29th, when Miss Myrtle Ness became the bride of Mr. Arnold Silverness of Newfolden. Their attendants were Miss Sylvia Silverness, a sister of the groom and Mr. Ellsworth Gillespie, a friend of the couple. Mrs. Silverness is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nils Ness, living near the village. Mr. Silverness is a son of Mrs. Hulda Silverness living south of Newfolden. The newly-weds will make their home on the groom's farm south of Newfolden.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson officiated using the single ring ceremony.

Clifford Flak left for Minneapolis where he will look for work.

"When Pennies Mean Millions"

Competent authorities estimate that an increase of one cent per pound in the price of butter means an increase of approximately three million dollars in the income of the Minnesota farmers.

As the leading butter-producing state of the nation, Minnesota has a big stake in the dairy industry and the increased use of dairy products. Prosperity in the dairy industry means greater buying power on the farm and is reflected in factory payrolls and the general welfare of the state as a whole.

Because the dairy industry means so much to this community, we're glad to join producers, processors and distributors in urging the public to use more dairy products this month — and every month. Further we offer to men and women engaged in the dairy industry all the constructive help within the limits of sound banking.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY ROGER SHAW

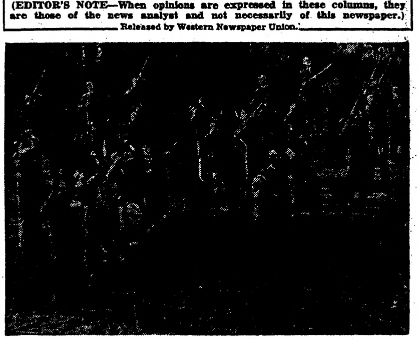
Terms of French Armistice Denounced by Great Britain; Fighting on Continent Ceases

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.



With France humbled, England becomes the immediate objective of German and Italian blitzkrieg tactics of invasion. Citizens throughout the British Isles have been organized into various semi-military groups to resist in all possible manner such an invasion. In the above picture a detachment of "parashots," an organization designed to "take care" of parachute troops that may be dropped, is shown at practice, "somewhere in England." "Parashots" use rifles and shotguns, ammunition being supplied by the government and targets of clay pigeons and toy balloons are used.

II GERMAN WAR:

French Terms

Within six weeks after Adolf Hitler had begun his invasion against the low countries, France had signed an armistice with Germany and Italy (a combatant for only two weeks) and the "battle of France" was ended.

In a war that has been strange in many respects it was not surprising that the first news of the terms ending the struggle came from London rather than Berlin, Rome or Paris. British officials announced that "through friendly French sources" they had learned that terms of armistice included: (1) Complete demobilization of French land forces (2) surrender of the French fleet; (3) German occupation of more than half of France; (4) merchant shipping to remain in home ports until further traffic was authorized by Germany and Italy; (5) all French information about naval mines to be given Hitler and a portion of France's navy is to engage in mine-sweeping along French ports.

These in the main were the conditions of peace demanded by Germany and her ally Italy. The French government headed by Marshal Henri Petain as premier, signed the armistice, declared a day of mourning. Winston Churchill, British prime minister, was quick to scold his old ally and declared in effect, that while peace had come to France—it was not the "peace with honor" that Petain had sought. Rumors of a provisional French government with headquarters in London were heard in official quarters.

After the fighting had ceased on the continent, one major fact stood out: the mighty armed forces that are Hitler's now had but one objective—the complete defeat of Great Britain. Berlin and Rome were optimistic that it could soon be accomplished. London was sure that it could not, and British circles reminded the world that the Rome-Berlin axis had still to break the iron ring of England's powerful navy.

German Terms

To complete the record, the terms the Germans got at Versailles in 1919 included: loss of all colonies, a million square miles; loss of a seventh of Germany in Europe; loss of nearly all the German iron supply; loss of the entire German navy; loss of the entire German merchant marine; more than $30,000,000,000 to be paid in war "reparations"; limitation of the German army to 100,000 12-year regulars; abolition of German tanks, planes, submarines, big guns, big warships, general staff, gas, etc. Germany also was forced to admit its "war guilt," in a self-condemnatory clause of the treaty.

French 'Debacle'

The critics went to work on the French army. It was brave, well equipped, perfectly trained. But it was trained for defensive fortress warfare, which was to its credit, and did not know how to maneuver in the open field. All modern forces need armor, but French armor went into the static Maginot line, while German armor went into highly mobile tanks and armored cars. The guns of the Maginot line pointed due east, and were too cumbersome to turn into reverse. Hence, when the Germans flanked the line, and took it in the rear, after the capture of Paris and the breakthrough at Sedan, the line and its really gallant "shellfish" became almost helpless. Meanwhile, the German motorized columns cleaned up the French channel coast down to Nantes in Brittany, took Tours and Lyons, and captured 700 new French tanks, 400 just-delivered American airplanes, and two 35,000-ton French warships, nearly completed. The French government had moved from Paris, to Tours, to Bordeaux, to Biarritz; the fascist-minded Corsican, Jean Chiappe, Daladier's mortal foe, had taken charge in Paris; and the two surviving Paris newspapers, Victoire and Matin, were more anti-Reynaud than they were anti-German. The great Zola wrote a book about the Franco-German war of 1870, called "Debacle." This 1940 debacle was 1870, all over again.

THIRD TERM:

The Campaign

The President, Mr. Roosevelt, appointed two conservative Republican colonels to his cabinet, to head the army and navy departments. They were Stimson, Hoover's old secretary of state and Taft's old secretary of war, and Knox, Republican vice presidential candidate in 1936, when he ran with Landon.

The Roosevelt action blew the lid off, and the bitterest campaign in American history got under way. People said that the third term and the World war depended on one another, and had become an interlocking directorate. Congressmen asked Roosevelt to resign, or said in private that he ought to be impeached. Roosevelt's Charlottesville speech came in for increasing condemnation, and so did Stimson and Knox, both of whom admittedly are extremists in their help-Ally viewpoint.

Within Roosevelt's own cabinet, Farley and Garner were apparently against the cabinet shift, and Garner was reported as opposed to the Roosevelt "meddle" policy in European wars. Roosevelt, who is notably short-tempered, was beginning to bridle under the heavy fire, and the fact that his popularity was constantly on the up-and-up in England, it was feared, would not help him over-much with plain American voters.

But Mr. Roosevelt replied, in self defense: "overwhelming sentiment of the nation for national solidarity in a time of world crisis, and in behalf of national defense, and nothing else."

U. S. DEFENSE:

Addenda

Roosevelt asked congress for 84 more warships, to give America the largest fleet in the world. It was to be a two-ocean navy, capable of defending the country in the Atlantic and the Pacific simultaneously. Many Americans felt that there was some rhyme and reason in this, but continued to ask how the United States could spare anything, of any military sort, for the armies of any European power.

NAMES

. . . in the news

"No bombs—no England," said 22 anonymous Chinamen, who deserted an oil tanker, bound for England, in the safer New Jersey.

Belgian Premier Hubert Pierlot, who ousted his own King Leopold recently, fled into Portugal. He had been sojourning in France.

In the middle of the German successes in France, with Hitler's power at its very apex, Mr. Alfred Duff Cooper, British propaganda minister, urged the down-trodden, disarmed Czechs in Bohemia to revolt against harsh German overlordship.

It was reported repeatedly from Paris, that U. S. Ambassador Bill Bullitt had become unpopular with needy Parisians, due to his "pro-war" efforts. Paris proletarians, said the reports, rudely called him "warlord" and "strike-breaker" and "sale Yanque"—and said his embassy staff looked too well fed.

REPUBLICANA:

'Read Out'

Frank Knox
(Navy)

Henry L. Stimson
(War)

The Republicans read Stimson and Knox out of the party, with various expressions of condemnation, and Roosevelt indicated that Philadelphia was putting partisanship ahead of total U. S. nationalism. The Republican counter-answer, to this, was "totalitarianism." Colonel Knox was supposed to have said that the President agreed not to run for a third term, and Roosevelt was understood unequivocally, to have told him so. That remained to be seen. Earlier, the President had said that any coalition cabinet conception was "cockeyed." Things were becoming more—and more—complicated.

RED CROSS:

Looks Things Over

International Red Cross officials personally investigated war-prisoner camps in England, France and Germany, and pronounced things uniformly decent, humane, and proper. This came as a cheerful verdict in a dark hour.

It seemed that Germany had 10 Anglo-French prisoners, to every one German in Allied hands. And if it counted in the Belgians, Dutch, Poles, etc., the ratio became startling—50 to 1. Germany still had a quarter million Poles, many of whom were working in labor battalions.

The Red Cross further reported it had handled nearly a million letters and communications, between war prisoners and their relatives back home — wherever "home" might be. Apparently, there have been few war atrocities in Norway, Holland, Belgium, France; but additional atrocity data came leaking out of Poland—data that reflected equally unfavorably on Germans, Poles, and Russians.

AMERICA:

At Odds & Ends

Margaret Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the late President Wilson, was reported to be happy in a life-long Indian mystical sect. Marge, they said, was peaceful and secluded.

The Harvard graduating class cheered, to the echo, their class orator, who said to stay out of European wars. It booed, to the echo, an old grad who talked about repeating the events of 1917-18.

John Lewis, of the C. I. O., praised ex-President Hoover and said he had nothing to do with the great American depression, blaming politicians for this libel.

Doctors over the nation, reported that Euro-blitzkrieging had made Americans literally sick, due to nervous emotion and worry: the war of nerves, they added, was producing neurotics.

Twin bombs, within an hour, went off anonymously in New York city, outside the German commercial agency, and Communist party headquarters. Ten people were hurt, and district attorney (candidate) Dewey got down to work at once.

New York city, according to census figures, now has 7½ million people, which is half a million more than 10 years ago. The borough of Queens has the largest gain: 20 per cent. The Bronx borough is most populous, with famed Manhattan only third. Brooklyn is second, Queens fourth, and little Staten Island fifth. Tokyo is now the world's second city, with London (on the down and down) third.

WAR REACTIONS:

'Many and Varied'

England and Germany kept bombing each other from the air. The English strafed the Berlin suburbs, and the Germans hammered hundreds of miles of the English east coast, where the "true" Anglo-Saxons hail from. Canada, Australia and New Zealand proved their loyalty. Canada put in conscription, for service within the limits of the dominion. The new governor-general, Queen Mary's brother, Athlone, arrived from England, to pep up the Canadians even more. But another British dominion, South Africa, was debating a separate peace with Germany, as Premier Smuts deadlocked with ex-Premier Hertzog, and the Dutch Boers squabbled with the British colonials down there.

Soviet Russia tightened its hold on the three little Baltic states of Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia, with an aggregate population of perhaps 6,000,000. Tiny Estonia underwent a workers' communist putsch, and ousted its middle-class rulers. The Red army aided in this "revolutionary" development, and other "developments" were expected in Latvia and Lithuania. What would become of honest, steadfast, debt-paying Finland, was the next question, and one that agitated some Americans more than the sad fate of brave M. Reynaud.

Star Dust

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE first actor in Hollywood history ever to be elected a delegate to a national political convention, Melvyn Douglas wonders if he will be able to enjoy the honor.

"Of course I can always be represented by proxy," he said the other day. "But a chance like this comes only every four years, and I'd hate to miss it."

Douglas made preparations to be in Chicago July 15 for the big conclave. But he temporarily forgot that he is also an actor, involved in the new Columbia comedy, "He Stayed for Breakfast," along with Loretta Young, Eugene Pallette, Una O'Connor and Alan Marshall.

Alexander Hall, the director, is making every effort to hurry things along, and is making all the scenes with Douglas first.

If you think you'd like to be a motion picture producer, pause and consider what happened at the Paramount studio recently when Joel McCrea withdrew from the cast of "Arise My Love" because of ill health. (1) Because of McCrea's withdrawal, Ray Milland was plucked from the cast of "Virginia" to take the McCrea assignment, opposite Claudette Colbert. (2) That meant that "Virginia" wouldn't start on time. (3) That meant that Franchot Tone, who was to have co-starred in "Virginia," had to withdraw from the cast, because he had another commitment, and could appear in "Virginia" only if it started on schedule. (4) That meant that Fred McMurray stepped into the role for which Milland had been scheduled, playing opposite Madeleine Carroll, but (5) She flew to England recently; at the moment of writing there's no telling when she'll be back.

Dorothy Lamour traded a $10,000,000 (according to her studio) head of hair for 30 cents' worth of calico, and it wasn't just a stunt in a movie scenario either. Seems she's been wanting to bob those 40-inch tresses, which played quite a part in establishing her as a draw at the box-office. The studio wanted her to make some more pictures in which she wore a sarong, and she was determined not to. So both sides gave in; she had her hair bobbed by Wally Westmore, head of the make-up department (and cried a little, as most girls do when they hear that first snip of the shears) and consented to do three South Seas pictures — "Moon Over Burma," "Aloma of the South Seas," with Jon Hall, and "South of Samoa," with Bing Crosby.

A custom has been initiated during the rehearsals of the Rudy Vallee show to mark the scripts with asterisks to denote the laugh allowed. The reason for this is to clock for timing when the show is actually broadcast. Four asterisks are tops in laugh pauses.

The other night someone in the cast asked scriptwriter Sid Fields what it meant to see five asterisks instead of the customary four. Replied Fields, "Then you know that you have the Fred Allen script by mistake."

—*—

When you see the Bing Crosby picture, "Rhythm on the River," you may be surprised to find that Ken Carpenter, Bing's announcer and chime ringer on the air, plays a radio announcer named "Ken Carpenter." It's the result of an accident. Scenarists had given Carpenter another name in the picture, but John Scott Trotter, who's Bing's broadcast band leader and plays a band leader in the picture, made a long film take in which he called Carpenter by his real name. It was simpler to change the name than to do the scene over again.

—*—

Arthur Lake's desire for realism on the "Blondie" radio show nearly disrupted the program recently. In one scene he had to fall down, with the proper accompanying sound effects; usually that just means that the sound man makes the noises. But Arthur insisted on doing his own fall. The show was on for the eastern broadcast. Arthur fell wrong, the script flew in all directions, and Penny Singleton had to rush over with her script and let Arthur read his part from it until his script had been reassembled.

Inexpensive Chintz, China and Ingenuity

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

IT WAS with a thrill of pride that Betsy's mother looked over a list of the nicest girls in Betsy's class. She had said, "yes," when Betsy wanted to give a luncheon for them. Now what would she do about the shabby old dining room with its veneered oak chairs, short, faded curtains and bare buff-colored walls?

Here is the answer and it cost exactly six dollars. An inexpensive green and yellow flowered chintz was used for draperies from ceiling to floor. The trick of making the windows higher is explained in the diagram. The old window shades were painted a soft, clear green. The backs and seats of the chairs were slip-covered with the chintz with green bindings, and a set of green and yellow china was brought out to lend color to the walls and add a note of interest on green painted stands in front of the windows. The stands were made of empty spools as described in the new Sewing Book 5, which is now ready for mailing. This book also gives directions for a buckram stiffened valance of the type shown here. All of its 32 pages are packed as tight as I could make them with ideas to make your home attractive without breaking the bank. You can have your copy for 10 cents to cover cost and mailing. ## A BIT OF FUN

Maybe So

A teacher was trying to explain the word "widower" to a little pupil.

"What would you call a man who had just lost his wife?" he asked.

"Very careless," replied the youngster.

Love is just a game which frequently ends in a tie.

Night Came

"Whatever are you doing?" cried father, as he saw Jimmy emptying a bottle of ink into the goldfish bowl.

"I'm turning it to night, Daddy, so the fishes can sleep," replied Jimmy.

AS DAD SEES IT

"When your son has completed his studies what will he be?"

"Oh, about 78 years of age, I should think."

Frozen There

May—I can't bear that man. He always smiles to himself whenever I say anything silly.

Fay—I know, dear. A sort of perpetual grin.

Back to First Love

"Getting married, I hear?"

"Yes, old man, to the very first girl I fell in love with."

"Well, I congratulate you on your memory."

Too Good for Him

"The best thing for you," said the doctor, "is to give up drinking and smoking, go to bed early every night, and get up early in the morning."

"Doctor," replied the patient, solemnly, "I don't feel somehow that I deserve the best; what's the second best?"

Not Safe

"And why won't you let me take you on the river in a nice boat?" asked the visitor.

"Oh, please, because I heard dad tell mother that you can hardly keep your head above water, and—and—I can't swim," replied Tommy.

CREATING NEW WEALTH TO ORDER
● Advertising creates new wealth by showing people new and better ways of living, and as it creates new wealth it contributes to the prosperity of everyone touched by the flow of money which is set up. In this way, don't you see, advertising is a social force which is working in the interest of every one of us every day of the year, bringing us new wealth to use and enjoy.

Their Motto Is, 'Be Prepared'

IN 1775 FLINTLOCKS DEFENDED AMERICA GIVE US PLANES & TANKS TO DO THE JOB TO-DAY

BUNKER HILL JUNE 17, 1775 DEFEND AMERICA JUNE 17, 1940

Bearing posters demanding a strong national defense "to preserve the freedom won for us by the founders of our nation," these five girls, dressed in Revolutionary war soldiers' uniforms, rode up Fifth avenue, New York city, in a horse-drawn victoria, to observe the 165th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

War Planes Stalled by French Peace

These former U. S. army Northrup A-17-A fighting planes, destined for Canada, to be shipped to Europe, are shown at Mitchell field, L. I., where they are held pending word from the British government. The planes were for France, but the British may take them over.

Another Notch for a Nazi Flyer

Like the gunmen of America's wild west pioneer days who notched their guns for every killing, the pilot of this German fighting ship has a white stripe painted on the tail of his plane for every enemy shot down. The stripe is topped with the colors of the nationality of the vanquished pilots. This Nazi now has a "score" of eight.

More Airplanes

A worker at the Wright Aeronautical factory in Paterson, N. J., uses a J-6 cylinder head for a hat and comes to a salute to "mass production," as vast new plane-motor manufacturing unit is opened.

President Visits 4-H Boys and Girls

President Franklin D. Roosevelt is here shown visiting with one hundred and seventy boys and girls from forty-three states encamped at the fourteenth annual parley of the 4-H clubs. The 4-H club members are, evidently, keenly enjoying this visit with the Chief. Josephus Daniels, United States ambassador to Mexico, is sitting in the car with the President.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPARTMENT

LET'S play out in the summer sunshine, in an air-conditioned pinafore, with panties for propriety and a bonnet to keep the sun out of our eyes! All three, in 8721, have frills in just the right places. All three are completely comfortable, and cute as dimpled elbow. The pinafore has pockets for trimming and for trophies.

Take a look, mothers, at the pinafore spread out in the little sketch, and you'll see how absurdly easy it is to make, and that's a good thing because this play trio is so attractive and practical that you'll want your little girl to have three or four made just like this. Gingham, percale, gabardine and chambray are sturdy, sunfast cottons for this. Step-by-step sew chart included in pattern.

Pattern No. 8721 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 requires 3⅛ yards of 35-inch material for the ensemble; 4½ yards ruffling. Send order to:

Largest American Airport

Contrary to popular expectation, the largest airport on this side of the Atlantic ocean is not to be found in the United States. It is the new British-built transatlantic landing field in Newfoundland, about 150 miles from St. John's. Located on a high, dry plateau 500 feet above sea level, this airport contains 1,000 acres. Its landing areas and approaches cover 350 acres, while the paved runways will eventually cover 254 acres—three times the runway area of any airport in the United States. Four 1,500-yard runways are already paved.—Pathfinder.

DAIRYMAN CAN MAKE OWN COOLING TANK

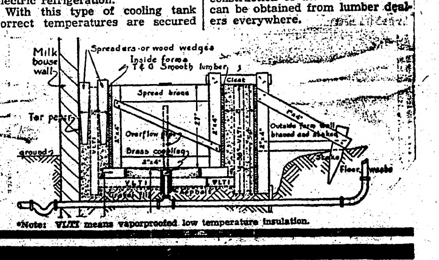
Milk can be quickly cooled, and kept cool, in homemade insulated cooling tanks like the one pictured above. Farmers can easily and economically construct their own cooling tanks with farm tools and ordinary experience.

Insulated on bottom, all sides and cover, the cooling tanks are adaptable to water flow, ice cooling and electric refrigeration.

With this type of cooling tank correct temperatures are secured with any method of refrigeration and in winter the insulation also provides protection against freezing. The satisfactory control of temperature made possible with this cooler enables farmers to meet important requirements of milk ordinances with a small investment.

The type of insulation used in the construction of the tank illustrated can be obtained from lumber dealers everywhere.



*Note: VLTI means vaporproofed low temperature insulation.

Mrs. Garfield Bakke Died

This community was shocked to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. Garfield Bakke (Maybelle Peterson) of Middle River, following an appendicitis operation. early in the morning of July 4th, She was well known in Holt as she spent much time here with the E. Loven family here. Funeral services were held at the 1st Lutheran Church at Middle River on Monday and several from Holt attended. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and an infant daughter, Mrs. August Peterson and Mrs. E. Loven and many other relatives. She had been adopted and brought up as one of the Peterson family, her mother having died at her birth.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Anderson and daughter Inez and Rev. and Mrs. Hanson expect to leave on Monday morning for a vacation trip to the West Coast. They plan to visit the Black Hills, Yellowstone and Glacier Parks, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco's World's Fair, Los Angeles, Grand Canyon, Salt Lake City, Denver, and other points of interest, They expect to be gone a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bottem and family spent Sunday afternoon at the Emil Helquist home in Rosewood.

Made Trip To Canada

Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Davidson from here and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Davidson of Middle River made a trip to Shipman, Sask. Canada, over the fourth to visit with Svenke G. Svenkeson, a former Holt resident who moved up there in 1928. They report that Mr. Svenkeson is a busy man and that he has a fine homestead upon which he has a large saw mill and much lumber and that he also has a fine retail yard in town. Hilmer Davidson stated that he saw some of the finest crops in Canada that could be found anywhere at this time.

Rev. T. C. L. Hanson, Marlan Augustine and Ernest Gjelten attended Luther League in Bethany congregation, west of Newfolden, on Friday evening. Rev. Hanson was the speaker.

Use Marshall County Butter

Butter from Marshall County, Minnesota, this year will be spread on the bread of 125,006 persons living in the eastern half of the United States, according to an analysis of butter distribution sponsored by the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, futures trading center for butter and eggs.

Minnesota butter production in recent years has totaled near 300,000,000 pounds annualy and production reports to date indicate a probable make approximating the same figure for 1940. Production in Marshal County is expected to total 2,350,000 lbs.

The biggest single market for Minnesota is the New York metropolitan area where more than 70,000.000 pounds are received annually. Shipments to Chicago reach to nearly fifty million pounds annually, much of this being re-shipped later to other states.

The probabilities are that consumers in New York City will eat nearly 500,000 pounds of Marshall County butter during this calendar year, the analysis indicates.

Butter from this county will find its way into Maine, south to Florida, into Louisiana and all states east of the Mississippi, as well as several states west of the river. While government bureaus tabulate receipts by states of origin only at major receiving points, chain store distributors, who buy 125,000,000 pounds or about 40 per cent of Minnesota's annual butter production, declare they ship the product into every state in the east without exception.

The widespread demand for the Minnesota product has been built by emphasis on quality by buyers for the large mass distributors and in their advertisements to consumers, according to observers.

The distribution analysis shows that only about ten million lbs. of Wisconsin butter is sent into New York each year. Iowa, however, ships more than eighty million pounds to New York.

These three leading dairy states are concerned primarily with the eastern market, shipments to the west being small. Movement of Southwestern butter is restricted largely to the area itself, with some shipments reaching Chicago and New York. The West Coast moves a small amount of butter into the east and occasionally a fair quantity to Chicago and the midwestern states, but this movement is unimportant compared with the big Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin shipments.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Voth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nyval and son, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stienhauer and son, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Augustine and Marlin and Angeline, Bernice Kolden and Lawrence Lubitz spent the 4th picnicing at Tindolph Park, in Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Peterson and sons Arthur and Glenn spent a few days at a summer resort near Bagley. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Albin Knauf of Thief River Falls.

Farmers Notice!

I will ship stock on Saturday, July 20 for Holt Shipping Association. See me on Friday for listing.

And They Say It Can't Happen

The war in Europe is still going strong and the British are now starting to get in some very hard blows at their enemies. They have taken over the entire French fleet and are now in position to start to tell the others what they might expect instead of them telling the British so much.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lorentson took their son Howard to Grand Rapids Saturday where he will take part in an Eagle Scout Trail Building Camp. There were only 15 boys selected for this from the entire state and Holt Boy Scout Troop has scored again in having one chosen from their ranks.

The Weather

Everybody were jubilant here on Wednesday when it really did cloud up and rain. It was not a very heavy rain but it did revive the late crops and helped to freshen up the pasture grasses which were becoming rather stale for dairy herds.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Moline and family of Crookston made a trip to Holt Thursday.

Held Family Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Larson and family, Mrs. C. O. Larson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sagstuen, Mrs. Arnold Myers and David were among those who attended the family reunion at Tindolph Park in Thief River Falls Thursday. Others in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Hans Langlie of Newfolden, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Anderson and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moe and Arlette, Mr. and Mrs. Manvel Moe, J. Olson and Daniel Reinstad of Agdar. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dahl and Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moe, Merline and Curtis, Mrs. Annie Brye, Mrs. Marie Settingsgaard, Miss Gunda Moe and Henry Moe all of Grafton No. Dak. Mrs. Karen Knutson of Superior, Wis. and Engebret Moe and Florence and Maurice Moe of Duluth.

Band To Give Concert

The Holt Community Band will sponsor a picnic and band concert at the H. D. Inman farm six miles east of Holt on Sunday afternoon, July 14. After the concert a baseball game will be played and they will also have a refreshment stand on the grounds.

Summery Frock For Slim Figure

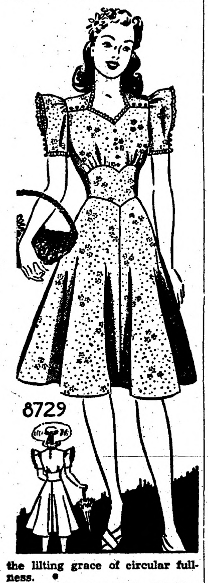
SWEET and summery as a basket of flowers, this frock (8729) is perfect for warm afternoons. In printed silk, or flower-patterned cottons like voile or batiste, it will look so cool and fresh and feminine, with its open-topped sleeves, heart-shaped neckline, and frills that put all the emphasis up at the top, an effect always becoming to slim figures. The skirt has the lilting grace of circular fullness.



And notice how little detailing is required—just a few gathers at the waistline; otherwise it's all straight, easy seams. Even beginners can make it, guided by the step-by-step sew chart included in the pattern. In fact, you'll probably repeat this design many times.

Pattern No. 8729 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 4⅓ yards of 39-inch material without nap; 2¾ yards of ruffling. Send order to:

Sea Bed Reveals History

In 10 feet of sand and mud on the Atlantic ocean bottom scientists can read a million years of history of the Ice age. Samplings have been taken from the sea bed across the North Atlantic with a cannon-like tube that is shot by gunpowder into the floor as it touches bottom. From these samplings the United States Geological Survey scientists have found evidence of advancing and retreating ice, of one-celled animals and of periods of volcanic activity, the latter indicated by layers of ash thrown off perhaps by eruptions in Iceland.—Popular Mechanics.

Russian Drive Into Rumania Alters European War Picture; G. O. P. Picks Willkie, McNary

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

King Carol of Rumania is pictured here inspecting one of his army's tanks. This particular machine is one of a number made for Rumania in England while that country was still on the allied bandwagon. Now, harassed by Russia, Rumania has shifted her loyalty and has appealed to Berlin and Rome to keep Russia from "grabbing" more territory.

III RUSSIAN WAR:
Bessarabia, etc.

This so-called World war is a peculiar affair—a war of in-and-outers. Russia, for instance, is always popping in and out of it. One never knows where she is. For example, the Soviets popped into the latter stages of the Polish campaign last September, and took most of the eastern half of what they used to call "Polonia Restituta." Then, at the beginning of December, and thereafter, Russia popped in again, and fought the Finns, picking up Finland's second city of Viborg (Viipuri), the Finnish Mannerheim line and other bases and odd bits. Also, on and off, Russia has virtually annexed the three little Baltic states of Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia, which used to belong to the czar and his navy, prior to 1917.

Then came another Russian putsch, quite impersonal, like the others. This time it was Rumania, which had grabbed off a Russian province called Bessarabia, in 1918. The Soviets took it back, and also took handy bases at the mouth of the river Danube, and on the strategic Black sea coast. Comic King Carol, playboy of the western world, appealed to Germany and Italy as a matter of course, then took the Russians rather calmly. Rumania also "owed" territory to Hungary and Bulgaria (from 1918), and has treated her racial and religious minorities badly. Nobody wept much over comic King Carol, and his Merry Widow setup.

II GERMAN WAR:
Mr. Shaw . . .

George Bernard Shaw made some really pertinent remarks on England, France and Germany. G.B.S. said that anybody who introduced 100 per cent military communism, a la Hitler, could not fail to beat anybody who didn't introduce it. He said that England, under Churchill, had gone through the motions of introducing military communism, too, but that it was, thank goodness, still merely a blueprint. He indicated that there were better things than military conquest: which is pretty obvious. Then, he got around to la belle France. He said that England should have declared war on France, when Petain quit the war, just as England declared war on Russia, when Lenin quit the war, in 1917. He said that France was more dangerous to England as a phoney neutral, than as a militant foe.

G.B.S. added that he wished he was prime minister, in order to deal with the French in proper style. When he was asked why he didn't talk more these days, he hinted delicately that the U. K. police wouldn't let him. This appeared more than probable.

Mr. Balbo

In the hot summer days of 1933, your commentator stood on a Hudson river pier, and watched an Italian aerial squadron form and reform over his head. The squad was en route for the big doings at Chicago. It had flown in from "faraway" Europe, amid great eclat. At its head was a glamorous, bearded figure, Gen. Italo Balbo. Balbo, the great airman, was the No. 2 Fascist, after Mussolini. He had marched on Rome, and helped put Benito in power, in 1922.

Balbo's American flight made him too popular in Italy. There was only room for one man on the stage. So Mussolini sidetracked Italo to govern African Libya, where that tough gentleman did a good job. He stayed there seven full years, and built up its armaments, and threatened England's Egypt. Then the great airman was killed, out there, in a piddling airplane accident. Mussolini (perhaps) breathed easier.

WILLKIE:
McNary

The Republicans met at Philadelphia and nominated liberal, able Wendell Willkie on the sixth ballot. The chief rivals to Willkie were Dewey and Taft. The Willkings finally outvoted the Dewbirds and Taftisti, amid a rather acrimonious row.

Moreover, Willkie did not differ much from Roosevelt on matters of foreign policy. The Republicans had adopted an elaborate "peace" plank in their platform, but Willkie's earlier war utterances did not check with it. It looked perhaps as though the Republican party watchdogs would have to watch Willkie.

Sen. Charles McNary of Oregon, farm progressive, got the Republican vice presidential nomination. It appeared that, somehow, many interventionists had attended the Republican convention, to cheer for Willkie, when logically they should be cheering for Roosevelt: for "peace" is the Republican issue, this time, of most significance.

F. D. R. & W. W.

Roosevelt was late to a press conference, and apologized by saying that somebody had turned off his elevator's electric power, and he hoped it didn't stem from Philadelphia—a crack at public-utility Willkie. Then Roosevelt said he would like to talk over foreign affairs with Willkie. The wary, wily Willkie replied that he would be delighted to discuss national defense with Roosevelt—if that was what Roosevelt meant by "foreign affairs." "I think one should be most courteous to his predecessor," said warrior Willkie, who can be an extremely mean talker. That meant that the 1940 campaign was on—with a bounce and a bang.

FORODDS & FORENDS:

The ailing League of Nations finally liquidated itself. The last 89 employees were given notice at Geneva, and Woodrow Wilson's ghost sighed from the treetops. Mr. Wilson, Sir Robert Cecil, and General Jan Smuts of South Africa, were the joint architects of the league edifice in 1919. Many people, throughout the world, including even brutal Germany, hoped that, phoenix-like, the league would rise again, from its 1940 ashes.

Japan's Birthday

Kensuke Horinouchi, Japan's ambassador to the U. S., cuts the ornate birthday cake during ceremonies in New York, which marked the 2600th anniversary of the founding of the Japanese empire. Sideline wits were wondering whether Japan is trying to cut her cake in China and still have it, too.

RUMORS:
Believe or Not

There was increasing talk—despite denials—about Neville Chamberlain rising from the political grave, as a possible peace-maker. The great "appeaser" was still popular in conservative British circles, which did not altogether trust Premier-dictator Churchill and his totalitarian setup. Chamberlain has been better liked by the Germans than Churchill, and the rumor-mongers said Neville might be able to turn the peace trick, without incurring too much expense. The trade-unions disliked the "umbrella bearer," but old England is well over half female in population, and the ladies traditionally have preferred "Chambers" to "Church." They swing a very heavy, organized feminine vote. One critic observed that the far-flung dominions of the seven seas seemed more bellicose than the British Isles proper. The anti-French element in England, always strong, was pointing a finger, tipped with gall, at the "back-stabbing" Gallics across the narrow channel. In New York, opinion indicated some sort of peace by, at very latest, mid-August or September 1. As you know, your commentator likes to sidestep predictions.

THREATS & THRUSTS: ### Might of Mars

England was threatened by Germany. Rumania was more than threatened by Russia, and also by Bulgaria and Hungary. French Indo-China was threatened by Japan. French Morocco was threatened by Spanish Morocco. British Malta was threatened by Italy. Marshal Petain was threatened by Winston Churchill. Uruguay was threatened by some Nazis. London threatened to conscript the humble Hindus. Hindu revolt threatened London. The French navy threatened to join England, to join Germany, to commit suicide. The southern Irish threatened the northern Irish, or vice versa. The Chinese threatened to make peace, and threatened to go on fighting. The so-called fifth column threatened America (so they said)—then subdivided into campaign Republicans and campaign Democrats, who threatened one another.

INDUSTRY:
Change of Pace

Current reports of Federal Reserve banks plus other commercial indices reveal that a downward trend of industrial activity which has marked U. S. business since last December has now been reversed. Expanding production is noted in many key industries.

Steel production is now booming along at capacity speeds and new orders from foreign and domestic buyers which are currently pouring in should keep blast furnaces roaring for many months to come.

Automobile tire shipments have shown large increases and leading rubber companies say these more than offset a seasonal decline in sales to car manufacturers.

TASTY TRIFLES:
Hysteria

A Wyoming crowd showed the current hysteria. They tarred and feathered a member of a harmless religious sect, who had been distributing pacifist literature, and who was against compulsory flag-saluting. The poor fellow did not know how to salute the flag—and accidentally gave what looked like a Nazi salute. Of course, as a pacifist, he detested Nazis. Nevertheless, he was a dangerous fifth-columnar.

Boston school children can split their infinitives to suit themselves, according to a sensible proposal by a school committeeman, named Joe Lee. There really is no such thing as correct English spelling, pronunciation, or punctuation, as George Washington was forever pointing out. "Language, obviously, is a tool, and not a musical instrument," as one linguistic cynic put it.

It was 6,000 airplane engines for England, to 3,000 for America, that revolted Henry Ford, although it did not seem to revolt Secretary Morgenthau.

NAMES
. . . in the news

At its thirty-sixth annual convention in Chicago, the Advertising Federation of America selected as president Elon G. Borton, advertising director of La Salle Extension university, Chicago.

Mrs. Wendell Willkie's maiden name was Wilk. She comes from Indiana, too. To match that, Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt was a Roosevelt, before her marriage.

Col. Thurston Hughes, U. S. A., was announced by the war department as chief of defense of the American Panama Canal Zone. The colonel has been adjutant general of the Panama canal department. He succeeds Gen. Jacob Devers, U. S. A.

Dr. Wilhelm Stekel, once Dr. Freud's No. 1 psychoanalyst, another exile, died at 74, in London. Dr. Freud, in exile, had died previously, in England. Stekel was strongly anti-dictatorial and an expert on sadists (Nazis?) and masochists (Fascists?).

Exercise Is the Best Way to Reduce Weight

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

THERE is often the argument as to which is the better way to reduce weight, exercise or a reducing diet.

The reducing diet is the simpler because if enough food is not eaten to supply the body's needs, then some of the fat on the body must be used and so that much weight is lost.

Exercise is really the better way for the average healthy overweight because exercise not only burns up fat but replaces the fat with muscle, and with this extra muscle he is more willing to exercise or work, and so more and more of the fat is lost. Unfortunately, there are many cases where the exercise so increases the appetite that more food is eaten and no weight is lost. Another difficulty is that exercise makes the individual thirsty and he drinks more water, thus increasing his weight. I have spoken before of an amateur oarsman who took off three pounds of weight daily boxing in the gymnasium yet at the end of the month he was the same weight as when he started. He had not lost a pound.

Why? Because he drank a great quantity of water. Similarly with the Turkish bath. Two to four pounds may be lost during the bath but the drinking of water as you rest a short time before dressing puts all the weight back on your body.

Dr. Barton

If the overweight is willing to exercise more, yet not increase his food intake nor drink more than his usual amount of water, the results will be much better than by dieting alone.

Must Make 'Sacrifice.'

It is just as hard for some fat individuals to cut down on their appetite, especially for starch foods, as it is for another to take vigorous exercise. Cutting down on food or taking vigorous exercise both mean "sacrifice." It is by sacrifice, however, that one loses fat and gains figure.

An item in Newsweek some time ago put the matter of reducing weight as follows:

Careful eating, not exercise, is the best way to reduce, according to Dr. C. C. Sturgis of the University of Michigan. Although a football player may get rid of 14 pounds in a strenuous game, only 4¾ pounds comes from fatty tissue; the remainder is water loss that will soon be replenished.

Treating Diabetes With Insulin

WHEN Drs. Banting and Best of Toronto discovered insulin and Dr. Collip, now of Montreal, made it safer to use, it was felt that all had been learned about insulin in the treatment of diabetes. Many research workers then began experimenting with insulin in the treatment of other ailments such as lack of appetite, dementia praecox (persistent dream state) and others.

In the treatment of diabetes however, research workers sought to prepare insulin in such a way that it could be taken by mouth instead of by the hypodermic needle three times a day. While no method of preparing insulin so that it will be effective taken by mouth has been discovered, what is helping the situation to some extent is the new treatment by protamine zink insulin.

Increase in Number of Cases.

What would, on first sight, be considered a most unfavorable result from the use of this new insulin compound is the apparent increase in the number of cases of diabetes. Dr. E. P. Joslin, Boston, whose name has been associated with diabetes for many years—long before insulin was discovered—points out in the Michigan State Medical Journal that protamine zink insulin has probably increased the number of diabetic patients using insulin by 70,000. This due almost entirely to the fact that the new insulin is injected but once a day, whereas the original insulin is injected three times a day, a regulation that many diabetics would not or could not follow.

Ban Animal Flesh

¶ The brightest lights ever created by man are the 800,000,000-candlepower carbon-arc searchlights that are owned by the United States army. Their beams, when directed vertically into the night sky, can be seen for a distance of two hundred miles.

¶ There are no such things as a double joint in a human being, a revolver silencer outside of fiction or a blood test through which it is possible to determine whether an unknown parent of a child is of the white or Negro race.

¶ Several Americans pay a larger federal income tax than is collected from all persons in any one of about 12 states.

¶ Scientists have found single plants of crested wheatgrass the total length of whose roots was 319 miles.

¶ Many orthodox Brahmans of India are so fearful of pollution by animal flesh that they take a purifying bath even after receiving a letter from a meat-eating country.—Collier's.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of worldwide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

TEACHING A CHILD VALUE OF PENNIES

A child of a wise mother will be taught from early childhood to become a regular reader of the advertisements. In that way better perhaps than in any other can the child be taught the great value of pennies and the permanent benefit which comes from making every penny count.

Old High-Back Chair Changes Personality

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HERE comes the Bride again! Many of you have met her in Sewing Book 5. She is the same resourceful young lady whose adventures with an old dresser, a fish bowl and a piano stool are described in that book; and who remodeled one of the old rockers in Book 5. Today's sketch shows another of her slight o' hand tricks with a chair.

There it was in a junk shop window. "Did you ever see anything so impossible?" I said, "It looks like a pompous old dowager with a pompadour." And the little bride said, "Yes, but I think its personality could be changed; I can see it as a jolly little old lady sitting in the corner with a gingham apron." Sure enough, the next time I went to see the Bride, there was the chair sitting in a corner painted a cheerful green and with white gingham cushions. The legs had been shortened, as shown here, and the pompous top-heavy back had been cut down. That was all, but the change was complete. If you are interested in adventures in homemaking be sure to send for Book 5. It has 32 pages of money saving ideas that you can put to use at once. Send order to:

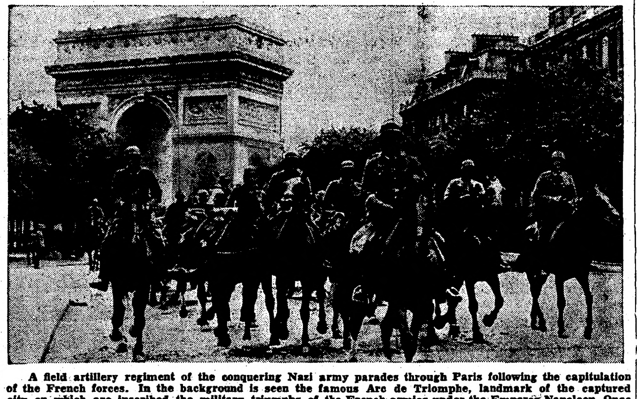
Nazis' Paris Parade Recalls Days of 1871



A field artillery regiment of the conquering Nazi army parades through Paris following the capitulation of the French forces. In the background is seen the famous Arc de Triomphe, landmark of the captured city on which are inscribed the military triumphs of the French armies under the Emperor Napoleon. Once before—in 1871—a conquering German army occupied Paris, following the Franco-Prussian war.

Kindergartners Wear Gas Masks at Play

Toddlers at a British nursery school who learned to play while wearing their grotesque gas masks have become so accustomed to them that they no longer want to take them off for greater freedom under exertion. This fact may save their lives some day. The tots are proud of their ability to don the masks in a jiffy.

Running Mate

Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Wendell L. Willkie's running mate on the Republican ticket. The candidate for the vice presidency has been a senate leader for a number of years and a strong advocate of farm relief. He is said to have been Willkie's own choice for second place and is expected to be a strong running mate.

Rabbit Foundlings Adopted by Spitz

"Doing nicely, thank you!" is probably what Tootsie, eight-year-old Spitz, would say if she could, concerning these six wild rabbits she found in the back yard of her mistress, Mrs. Valeria Lewis of Washington, D. C. Letting her maternal instinct have full sway, Tootsie took charge of the foundlings, washed them and fed them.

Best for Juice — and Every use!

Oranges can help you to feel your best

When you want refreshment, eat an orange! Or help yourself from the big family pitcher of fresh orangeade! "Hits the spot"! you'll say.

But that's not all. Oranges add needed vitamins and minerals to your diet. And fully half of our families, says the Department of Agriculture, do not get enough of these health essentials to feel their best!

The best way to be sure of getting all the vitamin C you normally need is to drink an 8-ounce glass of fresh orange juice with breakfast every morning. You also receive vitamins A, B₁ and G and the minerals calcium, phosphorus and iron.

There's nothing else so delicious that's so good for you. So order a supply of Sunkist Oranges right away. They're the pick of California's best-ever crop of wonderfully juicy summer oranges. Copr., 1940, California Fruit Growers Exchange

County Historical Society

A new type program with no formal addresses will feature the annual summer picnic of the Marshall County Historical Society and Old Settlers association at the Fair Grounds in Warren Sunday, July 28, H. M. Hanson, picnic chairman, announced this week.

Headlining the afternoon's picnic will be the dedication of the historical marker which will be placed in Island Park in recognition of the late Charles Wentzel, Warren's first citizen, who settled on the banks of the Snake river, near the park in June, 1874. Nels M. Engen, Warren attorney, will give the historical background of Mr. Wentzel and will dedicate the marker in behalf of the society.

Two prominent state officials, both former, residents of Warren Julius J. Olson, associate justice of the Minnesota Supreme Court and Mike Holm, secretary of state, expect to return to Marshall county for the big picnic and will renew acquaintances with their many friends in the community. It is expected that both men will relate some of their early day experiences in Warren and Marshall county, said Mr. Hanson.

The committees plan to make the picnic an "old timers" reunion and urge the pioneers of the county to be present at the picnic. Former residents are also urged to return home for the gathering. ~~The new grandstand~~ at the fairgrounds will provide comfortable seating space for more than 2,500 people while the beautiful trees will provide ample shade for picnic lunches. There will alse be several concessions operating on the grounds for the sale of food and refreshments.

The Warren high sahool band will play a concert and several vocal and choral numbers will be arranged. Following the historical society program the Marshall County Old Settlers association will hold its annual meeting.

Plans for the Ole Settlers meetings are in the formative stage but will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Herseth and family of Bertha, Minnesota are visiting at the home of their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Carlson.

Area Under State Supervision

Reserved once more for forests and wild life, the 1,500,000 acre Beltrami and Pine Island conservation areas were under State Conservation Department supervision this week after five years of federal developement.

Approval of a 50 year contract by which the state assumes custody of the area from the federal Soil Conservation Services was awaited at Washington. Minnesota conservation officials have already signed the document.

Completion of the contract will give the state active management of Minnesotas great wilderness bog -- an area that bristled with drainage projects in 1915, that saw futile attempts at settlement and witnessed a mass resettlement project in 1935.

Starting in 1935 the U. S. Resettlement Administratisn moved more than 700 impoverised families from submarginal land in the area. They were placed on arable acres farther north. At present only a dozen families remain.

More than 200 small dams were constructed in the area when the Federal Soil Conservation Service began bringing back the land to its original purpose. Game management was practised widely. Rare game species were encouraged.

Forests--which represent the econmic salvation of the area--will be brought back. State Officials see the day when the huge Pine Island area will again be producing millions of board feet of saw timber, and thousands of cords of pulp logs.

With the land once more dedicated to wild life, the Soil Conservation Service turned the project over the State Conservation Department July 1. Only minor details of the 50 year custodial contract remain to be settled.

A wilderness of the first order the Beltrami-Pine Island areas contain five major game species-bear, deer, elk, caribou and moose. It in the only area in the united States to contain this combination of valuable game.

Fur-bearing acquatic animals such as beaver, mink, otter, and fisher abound in the area. The only United States herd of caribou makes its home deep in the wilderness confines. Recently an attempt is underway to perpetuate the animals through introduction of Canadian caribou.

Most of the area is in the Upper Red Lake game preserve.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Starr returned to their home at Delhi on Sunday after having spent some time visiting at the Nohre home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Larson and frmily visited relatives at Mentor Sunday.

Vegetable Symphony Tea Towels Motif

RADISHES, carrots and onions—in fact the whole vegetable garden has been worked up into delectable tea towel motifs. Bright cross stitch borders frame these seven corner designs, and a clever idea is illustrated suggesting the use of vegetable motifs on an apron.

From hot iron transfer Z9194, 15 cents, you receive the tea towel motifs and the apron designs. Any of the tea towel motifs could be made up into a panholder to make a complete kitchen set. Send order to:

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY ROGER SHAW

Democrats Meet Amid Rumbles Of Naval Action in West Indies And Threat of Third Party Action

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Here you see Martinique—uncomfortably close to the Panama Canal and the United States. Here there had been transhipped 300 U. S.-manufactured airplanes for France before that country succumbed to the Hitler juggernaut. Here British war vessels were maintaining a blockade to keep the planes from falling to Germany. And here American naval craft were dispatched to make observations. Here was a new—and complex—angle to the Monroe doctrine.

STORMY ISLAND:
Martinique 'On Spot'

In Chicago the Democratic convention was meeting to nominate the 1940 candidates.

In Martinique, American airships previously sold to France, formed the prime reason for a British blockade and the rush of several American destroyers to the scene for observation.

What had the one event to do with the other? Much, since the Monroe doctrine occupied both the attention of the platform makers at Chicago and the foreign departments of several nations. A rather pointed exchange of viewpoints on the Monroe doctrine was made between Secretary of State Hull and the Hitler foreign office. "Europe for Europeans, America for Americans," the Berlin statement seemed to say. Skeptics were not reassured. They believe they already saw evidence of Fifth Column work in some of the Americas.

The entire episode also prompted much "isolation" talk in the U. S. and threats of the formation of a third party, avowedly "isolationist" were heard.

U. S. CAMPAIGN:
Warming Up

Now that the Democrats have met in convention, the campaign is due to warm up plenty with or without a third party ticket.

Right up to the convention opening Senator Wheeler of Montana kept right on saying he would seek the Democratic nomination at Chicago, no matter what Roosevelt was up to. John Lewis of the C. I. O. thought that Wheeler was the only man who could beat Willkie. Wheeler felt, apparently, that both Roosevelt and Willkie were interventionists, and that he had inherited the classic mantle of the late Senator Borah and the magnificent elder LaFollette.

Wendell Willkie tried to show himself democratic, of course, with a small D. He limited campaign contributions to $5,000, and no more than $10 apiece in cash. He said he wanted no cash contributions from corporations, and asked for a hurricane of one-dollar bills. He added that he wasn't going to reward his wealthier backers with diplomatic jobs, or anything else like that.

Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts, Republican leader of the house, was Willkie's selection for campaign manager. When the Democratic convention opened, Jim Farley, aside from presidential talk, was also discussed as prospective head of a New York big league baseball team. At that time there was little belief he would again accept the national chairmanship which he held since 1932.

II ENGLISH WAR:
Extraordinary

This is a most peculiar war. Russia dips in and out of it at will, against the Poles, against the Balts, against the Rumanians, against the Finns, against the capitalists of the world. Italy stays out, talks big, and then stabs a man in the back, although some claimed vociferously it was tactless of Mr. Roosevelt to put it that way. But there were stranger things than that.

Your correspondent was the first New York radio commentator to predict flatly that France would quit the British, and make a separate peace with Hitler. There was nothing very novel about that. The British army sent only 10 divisions—200,000 men—to France, and then lost 1,000 royal cannon and all the royal tanks. French conscripts were twice the age of the British conscripts, and there was the age-old friction between the French and British officers.

Then the unbelievable happened. War broke out between old Marshal Petain and Winston Churchill. It was over the French navy, fourth largest in the world. It was to be demobilized for duration of the war, according to the armistice terms, but the British did not believe it. So they attacked the French fleet at Oran, in Algeria, and also at Alexandria, Egypt. The British sank French battleships, seized many more of them, and killed about 1,000 French sailors. It was a rather ghastly business. The French were furious, and Petain broke off relations with England. The Germans sat back, and smiled with satisfaction. So did the Italians, whose "heroic" Mediterranean fleet took absolutely no part in the tragic battle of Oran. Things were going from bad to worse.

Background

There has always been a pro-British and an anti-British faction in French politics. Through the 1890s, the anti-British group were in power, and France and Germany were on very decent terms. In 1904, the pro-British faction got control, and agreed to the Entente Cordiale, with Edward VII of England. This led directly into the first World war.

During this war, Clemenceau led the pro-British faction, and Caillaux led the anti-British group. Clemenceau put Caillaux in jail, for advocating an early peace. The pro-Britons called the anti-Britons "defeatists."

Anglo-French victory, in 1918, made the pro-Britons stronger than ever, but the antis were gathering strength. With the collapse of 1940, they came back into power for the first time in 36 years—since 1904. As to the French people, they are divided, and probably have no special love for either big neighbor.

NAMES
. . . in the news

◖ George Bernard Shaw thought that Hitler should be supplied—by England—with food, so they could all fight it out to a finish. Was G. B. S. turning into an insular warhawk?

◖ Cross-eyed Ben Turpin, plenty beloved, died in Hollywood at the age of 71.

◖ Pat McKenna died, too. He had been White House door-keeper from Roosevelt to Roosevelt. He was 65. Everybody that knew him liked him.

◖ Max Aitken, son of the British "Hearst," Lord Beaverbrook, a self-made Canadian, won the distinguished flying cross for double-crossing four German aviators. He shot them all down—or, at least, that was his story. British flyers have shot down 107 German planes, in or around the British isles, since the start of the war.

◖ Germany demanded that the Norwegians depose their king, Haakon VII, who had fled to England. The ex-allies previously deposed Belgium's King Leopold, and so the crowned heads kept a-falling. England was packed with them.

◖ Earl Harrison, Philadelphia attorney, got the job for finger-printing aliens (and registering them) under the new federal law, which begins to operate by September 1. Harrison said "no witch-hunting"—and planned an extensive alien educational program.

To keep bread in the best condition store in a clean, well-aired, covered, ventilated container and keep in a cool place.

• • •

A slice of lemon in the water in which clothes are boiled will make them whiter.

• • •

Tumblers that have been used with milk should always be washed in cold water before they are washed in hot. When this is done the milk will not stick to the glass and they will not have a cloudy appearance.

• • •

Pomanders, oranges stuck with cloves, will scent dresser drawers and clothes closets.

• • •

Scorched Linen—The marks can be taken out by rubbing with a cut onion and then soaking in cold water. This takes out both the smell and the marks.

• • •

Sometimes perspiration stains on dresses can be removed and the color restored by holding the stained portion of the garment over a bottle of ammonia.

A BIT OF FUN

Under Orders

Jones leaned over the fence and watched his friend Brown hard at work in the garden.

"Been at it long?" he asked.

"Yes," sighed Brown, dejectedly; "since seven o'clock."

"Good gracious!" gasped the other. "I wouldn't think of such a thing."

"I wouldn't, either," Brown explained, casting a nervous glance towards his house. "My wife thought of it."

Up and Off It

"Hey, boy, what are you doing up my pear tree?"

"Well, sir, there's a notice below which says 'Keep off the grass.'"

Fresh Eggs

"Are your hens good layers?"

"Splendid. They haven't laid a bad egg yet."

That Kind

"What kind of watch have you got?"

"A wonder watch."

"Wonder watch?"

"Yes. Every time I look at it I wonder what time it is."

Light Baggage

Mr. Smith had been lecturing in a neighboring town.

"How did you get on, dear?" asked his wife. "Did you carry your audience with you?"

"No," he replied. "But I could easily have done so. It was small enough."

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPARTMENT

IT'S smart for mother and daughter to dress alike—and here's a dashing sports ensemble suggested by the garb in which two popular movie stars — one grown-up and one little—romped through a recent comedy. Design No. 1977-B is an identical copy of 1978-B—pleated shorts, convertible neckline, pockets and all. Each includes a separate, tailored skirt, which transforms the play suit into a spectator sports frock with shirtwaist top.

Sharkskin, gabardine, gingham and denim are good fabric choices for mother and daughter alike.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1977-B is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. Size 4 requires 3 yards of 35-inch material without nap.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1978-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 5⅝ yards of 35-inch material without nap. Price of patterns, 15 cents each. Send order to:

Valueless Minerals

Fortunes are now being made from minerals which a few years ago where considered almost valueless. In a large gold mine in Colorado a bright blue copper ore accumulated for years. It was too low-grade to be marketed. Then a chemist discovered that it could be made into pigment, and now is worth almost as much to the owner as the gold.

In another mine in California jets of steam, heavily impregnated with sulphur, issued from fissures in the rock. One day some copper plates were accidentally hung near them, and soon they were covered with beads of mercury. Today the sulphur-steam makes good money for the owners.

Your Tax Money Helps U. S. Build Battleships

As Uncle Sam's mammoth naval building program gets under way, Rear Admiral C. H. Woodward, commandant of the Third naval district, drives the first rivet to lay the keel of the new United States Battleship U. S. S. Iowa at the Brooklyn navy yard. Observing the ceremony are Captains C. A. Dunn of the navy yard, (left); T. B. Richey, production officer of the yard; and Commander J. E. Kiernan. The public was not invited to the keel-laying, because of the necessity for privacy and speed.

'Dog House' Would Be Cool Place for Summer

Dog members of Rear Admiral Byrd's Antarctic expedition were given the utmost care and attention. This section of the East Base camp pictured above was called "Dog Town" by members of the expedition. Each dog had an individual hut supplied to him for the duration of his stay which was made snug and comfortable against the Antarctic weather. The Eskimo dogs were specially trained for hauling sledges and were regarded as extremely important members of the party. Antarctic birds may be seen in the background.

Son Gets Pilot Wings From Father

Gen. R. C. Richardson Jr. is shown pinning the wings of a full-fledged U. S. army pilot on his son, Lieut. R. C. ## Strange Facts

Off-Color Whites
Adopt a Skunk?
Low Oil Production

◖ At least 40 per cent of the Caucasian race, which is generally supposed to comprise the white branches of the human species, is composed of people such as the Hindus and Arabs, whose skin is dark brown, and others such as the Ethiopians, whose color is nearly black.

◖ As the London zoo is low in funds, several hundred people have come to its rescue by adopting an animal. They pay for its food and, in return, have their generosity acknowledged on a sign attached to the animal's cage. Three lions, two giraffes, a gorilla and a skunk are still awaiting adoption.

◖ The blind people of the United States are engaged in about 425 different regular occupations.

◖ Although there are oil wells in this country capable of producing up to as much as 185,000 barrels a day, the average daily production per well is less than 10 barrels. In Pennsylvania, it is less than half a barrel.—Collier's.

HOW TO SEW
by Ruth Wyeth Spears

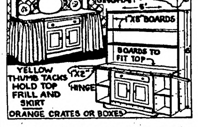
SO MANY of you have written me letters of appreciation about the new SEWING BOOK 5 that I want to thank you all here at one time. In Book 1 is sketched and described methods of making slip covers, curtains, bedspreads, dressing tables and other things for the house. Next came Book 2 with gifts, novelties and a glossary of embroidery stitches. Then, in Book 3, I began to share with you some of the human interest side of this fascinating job of mine, and to tell you about the adventures of many clever women who make the things that they want for their homes—sometimes from almost nothing. There were more of these adventures in Book 4, and there are still more in Book 5.



I am glad that everything needed is in today's sketch about this remodeled washstand because I have used up all my space now; and the frill around the top shelf is five inches deep. Books are 10 cents each. Send order to:

Common Sense About Constipation
A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to "cure" it afterward—you can avoid having it.
Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.
If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need.
Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Village Clerk Fricker, offered the following Resolution and moved that the same be adopted;

Resolution: Whereas, the Village Council has received various complaints in regards to the sale of Non-Intoxicating Malt Liquors within the Village of Holt and Whereas, the license fee received for the sale of Non Intoxicating Malt Liquors and the finances of the Village does not permit the spending of additional funds for the proper police protection, the hours allowing the sale of Non Intoxicating Malt Liquors should be reduced, and that section Twelve (12) as amended, of the Ordinance Regulating the Sale on Non Intoxicating Malt Liquors be amended as follows:

"No sale on Non-Intoxicating Malt Liquors shall be made between the hours of Eleven o'clock P. M. and Six o'clock A. M., nor on any Sunday, nor on any Primary Election, General Election nor on any other Election day nor on the following holidays: New Years Day, Good Friday, Easter Sunday, Memorial Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day; excepting that the sale of Non Intoxicating Malt Liquors for both "On Sale" and "Off Sale" purposes will be permited on Saturday evenings until One o'clock A. M. on the following Sunday; excepting that the sale on Non Intoxicating Malt Liquors for "Off Sale" purposes will be permited on all Sundays, except Easter Sunday, between the hours of One o'clock P. M. and Eleven o'clock P. M.

This amendment shall take effect upon passage, publication and recording thereof".

Upon being put to vote the following members voted in favor of said Resolution: Hanson, Sanoden, Ness and Fricker.

The following members voted against said Resolution: None.

Moved by Fricker and seconded by Ness that the Village clerk be instructed to advice the holders of Non Intoxicating Malt Liquors licenses that the Village Council will meet on Monday evening, July 22nd, 1940, to act on the above amendment and will also receive application for the renewal of present licenses.

There being no further business, a motion was made and carried to adjourn.

Geo. Fricker,
Village Clerk.

Filed For District Judge

County Attorney of Marshall County Candidate for Judge of the District Court.

Mr. Trost was born at Nelson, Wisconsin, in 1887. When a small child he came to Minnesota with his parents who first settled at Wabasha, and shortly thereafter moved to Norman County where his parents operated one of the A. L. Hanson farms. Three years later his father purchased a farm about three miles southeast of Ada where the family lived until 1905 when they moved to Moorhead, Minnesoa.

Mr. Trost received his early education in the rural schools of Norman County. He is a graduate of the State Teachers College of Moorhead. He worked in the First National Bank of Moorhead six years before entering the St. Paul College of While attending law school he was employed as a clerk in the Peoples State Bank of St. Paul and later as a bookkeeper in the City Water Department. Mr. Trost was admitted to the bar in the spring of 1918 and that year began his practice of law on the Iron Range at Eveleth, Minnesota. Here he continued his practice until the fall of 1930 when he moved to Marshall County and took over the law practice left by the late A. N. Eckstrom of Warren who had died that summer. He was elected County Attorney of Marshall County in the fall of 1934 and was re-elected in 1936.

Letter From Rev. Hanson

Kalispell, Montana
July 21, 1940

Dear Friends:

"See America First" is the slogan adopted by a railroad company. From what we have already seen, it is very true. We have seen the Badlands and the Black Hills of South Dakota. The Badlands were so called by the Indians, who called it Land Bad. It has thousands of acres a reddish clay substance that is very hard, nearly a rock composition. It reaches mounts of great heights forming grotesque pinnacles. Then Black Hills is another scenery of wonders in America. A scene never to be forgotten is the Rushmore Memorial. Stone faces of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theo. Roosevelt carved out of the solid granite on a mountain peak. The face of Roosevelt is under construction and touch ups on the other faces is being done. We were told that 13 years had been spent on this work and 5 more years are needed for completion. The Needles are rocks or pinnacles protruding high in the air. Not one or two but I am sure that there were hundreds. We had our first experince in mountain driving and the best seems to be to drive in second either up or downhill. One drawback about Black Hills is the commercialism—paying for seeing so many things. However the real worthwhile things to see are free.

From Spearfish, S. Dak., we drove thru Wyoming. As we approached Sheridan, Wyo., we saw the advertisement of a Rodeo. So having never seen a real western Rodeo, we stopped for awhile and it was more than we expected. Along with westerners, there were thousands of Cheyenne and Crow Indians. On this hot, dusty Wyoming day with the sun just blazing down among the bare mountains, the Indian Squaws, yes yound Indian Maidens, were wearinn their usual woolen shawls. In the Indian Camping ground, they had conveyances from 1940 model cars to covered wagons.

The Big Horns Mts. rise up to 9,000 to 10,000 feet where we crossed at Bear Lodge and thence down Shell Canyon. Cody, Wyo. is a beautiful town on Shoshone river, at the west end of the Shoshone Canyon. This city was made famous by the Old Character of the West "Buffalo Bill" Col. W. F. Cody. Everything in in Cody has the Buffalo Bill motif. We have been told that the western cowboys has disappeared and it is only drug store cowboys from the east left. That is not true. Stopping in western Sonth Dakota, Wyoming and western Montana the cowboys are much in evidence. The ten gallon hat and the high heeled boots is common appareil. The performance at the Rodeo in broncho busting, steer throwing, cattle lassoing, etc. further confirm this. As we left the Rodeo we were given "pass out" tickets. None of us has to use them.

Yellowstone Park cannot be described. It has all that it is noted for and much more. The Yellowstone River Falls is the most beautiful sight the human eye can comprehend. I hope the Movie Camera will not fail me in this as I used color film. We spent the night at Mammoth Hot Springs in a cabin, more fit for a sheep shed than a tourist cabin. Here at Mammoth are the large hot springs. Hot water trickles out of the earth forming terraces by its chemical reaction. From thence it flows off in smaller or larger hot water falls and finally into the rivers and creeks that drain the park. Then as one drives along, one sees hot water freaks of nature everywhere. In one place, there is a hole in the ground where mud is cooking; a few feet away, one sees the most perfect green emerald pools, where one sees way to the bottom, often deep into mother earth.

Old Faithful geyser is the most famous geyser. Here about every 66 minutes, water comes spouting out of the ground, reaching the height of 180 feet in the air the day we saw it. Old Faithful is the principal geyser but there are many more. As to hot water phenomena, there are about 3000 geysers and hot springs in the park. So much for this mysterious wonderland of the west.

Today we drove through the Flathead Country, Flathead National Forest and Indian Reservation and out the grand Montana highway out the west side of Flathead Lake. Flat Lake is the most beautiful body of water we have seen so far. The Emerald green of the water is magnificent, topped of by towering mountain peaks on the east with snow still there. So the snow lies longer on these peaks than even in Marshall County.

Tomorrow (Monday) we are leaving for Glacier Park, the grandeur spot of the Rocky Mountains. After our visit here, we will leave the West for the Pacific district. From there we hope to have another News letter. We are staying in Kalispel, Montana, a beautiful city in the Flathead Glacier Country. Much more could be said. I hope that pictures will tell a little more vividly than I am trying to do.

We are all well and enjoying it immensely. We are seeing more scenery and spending less money than we expected. Have had no trouble whatsoever, save a puncture near the Big Horn Mountains. After all the things we have seen and hope to see, we still suppose that the best scene will be when we see the elevator in Holt coming from south.

With kindest greetings from all of us to our many loyal, kind and good friends in Holt, I remain,

Sincerely Yours,
T. C. L. Hanson.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

II GERMAN WAR:
Air Murder

Terrific German air raids on eastern England went on and on in endless waves of bombers, protected by fighting ships. German losses were very heavy—at least 75 planes in a single week. But the German airmen nearly potted King George from the blue, and a rumor circulated all over England that they had wounded Winston Churchill. This proved untrue, however, for Churchill escaped, in southeastern England, into an air raid shelter. The British blasted back at France, Belgium, Holland, and the Rhineland, but were generally outnumbered. Man for man, their hard-boiled, long-service regulars were much more effective than General Goering's hot-shot youngsters, but there the British advantage ended.

The British public, under fire, was showing its usual courage and endurance. The very heart was blasted out of one English city, which remained unnamed. Ghastly time-bombs (an effective form of assassination) were being dropped by both sides, and each side blamed it on the other.

F-W-198

The Germans were producing a brand-new fighter plane, called F-W-198. It was good for 400 miles per hour, as against the 387 of the British Spitfires, and the 350 of the British Hurricanes. The new German freak had the propeller in back, to push, instead of in front, to pull. It was a "flying wing" design, with no tail, but with a couple of sticks running back to support the two rudders. It had two cannon, mounted out on the wings, and four machine-guns, stuck in the nose of the pilot's cabin. It was heavily armored, and outweighed the Hurricanes and Spitfires, the two standard types it has to fight against. F-W-198 was a monoplane worth watching.

SHIP NEWS:
Arrivals

Maurice Maeterlinck arrived at New York on a Greek liner, with his wife, and parents-in-law. He is now 78, and ferociously anti-German despite his Blue Bird philosophy. Somebody commented on "the weary calm of the Belgian Shakespeare."

President Hambro of the Norwegian parliament was also in New York. He had held the job for 15 years; then he lost it.

Also in New York was young Otto Hapsburg, Austrian pretender to various thrones; and there was talk about his imperial mother, ex-Kaiserin Zita, coming over too. Duke and Duchess Warfield-Windsor were to be on the way, en route to the duke's new bathing preserve, the Bahama islands. The rich Anglo-Americans were trickling home at a great rate, but their hearts belonged to Churchill.

AN ALLY:
Selassie, Etc.

One of the oddest war bits yet to evolve, came to light. England made Haile Selassie a full-fledged war ally, against Italia. London formally recognized the little exile as Emperor of Ethiopia, Lion of Judah, etc., and told him that he was now back "on" the Ethiopian throne. Mussolini was reported as enormously amused by it all, though Selassie's revival may aid native rebels against Italy, in the Ethiopian sector of Italian East Africa. England had formally and officially recognized the Italian conquest of Ethiopia by an agreement of 1938. Haile is still only 49 years old, and was said to be rarin' to go. But where?

Another British ally was the sultan of Jehore. Jehore is near Singapore, in the Malay peninsula. The sultan met a rude Canadian in a London air-raid shelter. The sultan said he was the sultan. The rude Canadian said: "That's nothing. I'm the king of Ireland." But the good-natured sultan laughed, and proved his point. Once the French police arrested him for photographing the Maginot line area. His sultana was Scotch, but he divorced her by saying, under Moslem law, "get out" four times. She got out, pronto.

1940 CAMPAIGN:
Phases & Phrases

Now, no doubt, begins the season of straw polls. The big political conventions are over, but the campaign has scarcely begun. The Democrats had the limelight for the past week or two. But Willkie also managed to get a bit of publicity here and there.

Battling Willkie chose Chicago for his campaign base and his national headquarters. He rented a large suite of offices in the Loop, the Chicago headquarters to be run by John Hamilton, former national chairman for the G. O. P., and now executive director of the national committee. New York was designated as eastern headquarters. Candidate Willkie made holiday in Colorado, where his breezy ways got breezy greetings.

ENIGMA
On-and-Off Molotov

MOLOTOV

Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia does not break into print often—at least not so often as some of his predecessors.

Of all of them, he has been the most enigmatic. And thus Russia's place in the European drama remains mysterious. Is it Germany's ally? Or is it preparing for war with the Nazis?

Russia's "grab" in Rumania of area formerly belonging to it does not answer these questions. Berlin's recent warning to Hungary to behave with relation to demands on Rumania only complicated the "dope" of the experts.

Whether Molotov and his Berlin "allies" are on friendly terms or off is Molotov's secret still. The situation has furnished an open season for commentators. Speculations of every fancy have appeared.

Most of them were highly conjectural.

MARTINIQUE:
What a Mess

The little French West Indian island of Martinique was still blockaded by British warships. They were after the French naval units there, including the one French aircraft carrier, loaded down with American-made planes. Anglo-French bitterness was growing apace, and a naval battle threatened, with Uncle Sam as the unhappy referee.

How to feed Martinique? That was the question. It seemed possible that American steamers might bring in supplies to the beleaguered French, who were out on a limb, and far from home. Some critics hoped the French would scuttle their ships, and get it over with, thereby strengthening neither Hitler nor John Bull.

The Monroe doctrine was being further confused and twisted every day, and wee little Uruguay appeared to be its chief Latin American upholder, while the Mexican presidential aspirants twisted Uncle Sam's coattails.

Chile was a perfect example of it all. Here were five communist daily papers, and four distinct Trotskyite parties. Germany was its second-best customer, and 40 per cent of the Chilians were illiterate. In Peru, two-thirds of the people were "straight" Indians, who knew and did nothing. South Americans were talking about the four horsemen of the apocalypse. The four horsemen were labeled Hitler, Stalin, John Bull—and Uncle Sam! This was exemplified in a bitter Chilian cartoon.

FORODDS & FORENDS:

London now has a Polish daily newspaper, transferred from the previous "Polish" capital of Angers, in France. It is London's first stab at morning Polonian journalistics.

The Renault automotive factory, outside Paris, was reopened by the Nazis. It employed 15,000 workers in good times. Renault cars are famous. They always carried the radiator behind, not in front of, the hood.

Sweden seemed to be fitting into the new united Europe, though without any enthusiasm. It made trade agreements with Germany, Norway, Russia, Denmark, Italy, and Hungary. Much of it will be based on goods for goods; that is, by barter, instead of via "plutocratic" gold.

The U. S. liner Manhattan brought in 1,000 American refugees from Lisbon, Portugal. The export liner Exeter brought 500 more of them. The U. S. liner Washington brought in some 1,500 Americans from Galway, in Ireland. These were considered last-minute "emergency" voyages.

MORE ODDS AND ENDS

Italy banned necking and petting, believe it or not. The prefect of police, at Milan, put an end to "frivolous activities, in contrast to the present international situation." Buggy rides, during blackouts, were a special consideration. What price romance, and the resultant birth-rate?

Lithuania "liquidated" the Zionists, and the "reactionaries." Reactionaries, apparently, were any non- or anti-communists.

The Bridle Path

BURMA ROAD:
Nippon Wins

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek has been holding out for a long time against Japan. For this, he has needed military supplies. These came to him through British Burma, and through French Indo-China, and they came in large doses. The Japanese were enraged, and the collapse of France, in Europe, threatened to halt the traffic through Indo-China. But still the war stuff passed along the Burma road to Chungking, Chiang's capital. So Japan got hard-boiled about it. Nippon threatened the British "capital" of China: Hongkong, with its billion of invested mazuma. At first the British held out and defied the Japs, but finally they gave in. They agreed to prohibit the transport of arms and ammunition, trucks and gasoline, and to allow Japanese inspectors to help enforce the air-tight agreement. This eased the Jap-British tension in the Far East, though it may prove to be a death blow to Chiang Kai-shek. But England was in no condition to take on fresh opponents.

AIR BASES: ### Should We Take?

Three members of the house military affairs committee made a survey of our northeastern coast defenses. They were Smith of Connecticut, Faddis of Pennsylvania and Byrns of Tennessee. They recommended that the United States should acquire and fortify fleet and aerial bases in Nova Scotia and Bermuda. They considered that coast defenses for the Yankee northeast were "deplorably" weak. The usual demand is for Newfoundland, Bermuda, and Trinidad, all of them British. Nova Scotia is British-Canadian. They might be traded in to us, as a part payment on the war debt from the last World war.

The three congressmen appeared to be definitely New England-minded, and they thought 18,000 mechanized troops should be stationed "down east."

NAMES
. . . in the news

The Cromwells, who lost their own child and will take care of 500 refugees.

Doris Duke, world's richest woman, lost her baby, born prematurely in the past fortnight. At about the same time, there was up for consideration in Britain a proposal by the tobacco heiress and her husband, James Cromwell, former U. S. ambassador to Canada, to take over the care of 500 British refugee children. This constitutes the largest number to be "adopted" by a single private family.

• • •

Seven American ambulance men in France were decorated by the Gallic government, for conspicuous bravery. The seven were Thomas Esten of Massachusetts, Charles Willen of New York city, Jack Calhoun of Paris, Laurence Jump of Nantucket, Lloyd Moore of Washington, Edwin De Nevu of Paris, Draper Kauffmann of California. Jump was captured, then released, and is in Stuttgart, Germany.

King George VI got a brand-new aide-de-camp. His name is Brigadier J. C. Wickham, age 54. Wickham has the Distinguished Service Order: the D. S. O.

President Albert Lebrun resigned as French chief, and Marshal Philip Petain took his place. Under Petain, ruled a triumvirate of Pierre Laval, Gen. Max Weygand and Adrien Marquet.

Gen. George Marshall, chief of staff of the United States army, urged that we adopt compulsory military training, and call a general mobilization of the National Guard. Marshall addressed the senatorial military affairs committee. The whole defense and re-armament program was getting more and more confused.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPARTMENT

IF YOU have weight to consider, you couldn't choose a more attractive and becoming fashion than this gracious, softly detailed dress (8679) with high-cut front panel that diminishes the waistline and flattens the diaphragm. It fits beautifully over the bust, thanks to gathers at the waistline and beneath the cleverly shaped yoke. The bow at the deep neckline adds a soft, dressy touch, without fussiness.

The skirt is classically plain and slim-hipped, with moderate fullness at the hem. Make this for bridge parties, luncheons and club affairs, choosing chiffon, georgette or voile, with frills of lace or ruffling. And for all its expensive, distinguished appearance, this dress is easy to make.

Pattern No. 8679 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires, with short sleeves, 5⅞ yards of 39-inch material without nap; 1⅔ yards ruffling. Send order to:

All Could Not Be Peace And Quiet at That Gallery

"If you want to spend a quiet hour," said the solicitous native to the visitor, "there is no better place than our art gallery. You will be well repaid for your time spent there."

"Just a minute," replied the stranger. "I've been reading about it in the guide book. It says that the visitor, on entering, is struck by a statue of Hercules. Then he is stunned by the splendor of the great staircase. A picture in one room is full of punch, while farther on one is crushed by the overwhelming magnificence of another painting. Finally, brilliant colors run riot everywhere. No, sir, if I want a quiet hour I'll take a boxing lesson!"

Sew This Dress for Some Child Refugee

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

WHEN war came to Finland a Red Cross group to sew for refugees was started in our community. Now 14 women meet faithfully and make about 50 woolen dresses every week, in sizes 9 to 14. The group is financed through gifts of money and material which they themselves have solicited. They bought the simplest dress pattern that they could find and then eliminated every unnecessary detail. "Work for quantity—don't bother with a collar," the county Red Cross leader urged. "Never mind the pocket—there will be nothing to put into it anyway."

I have just sketched here some short cuts used to speed up production; and as I write this, looking out of my studio window over a beautiful and peaceful garden, I am trying not to think of winter and what it will be like in Europe when some child is wearing this little blue woolen frock.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

We Can All Be
EXPERT BUYERS
● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.
● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.
● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

Cut Made In 1940 Tax Levy

A cut of $10,000 in Marshall county's tax budget for 1940, payable in 1941, was made by the county board of commissioners at their semi-annual session held at Warren the first two weeks in July.

The 1940 budget will total $166,000 whereas the budget adopted last year totaled $176,000, Levi G. Johnson, county auditor, pointed out.

Decreases in the 1940 budget were made in the welfare, tuberculosis sanatorium and bond and interest funds. The welfare board requirements were cut from $63,000 to $60,000; the sanatorium requirements from $20,000 to $15,000; and the bond and interest fund from $12,000 to $10,000. The revenue fund and road and bridge fund were left at the 1939 figures which were $46,000 for revenue and $35,000 for the road and bridge fund.

Commissioners devoted much of their sessions to examination of the county treasurer's books, waiting upon delegates for road improvements, considering adjustments in taxes, granting of beer licenses. selecting jurors for the fall term of court and auditing bills against the county.

Official proceedings of the county board and the board of equalization are published in a supplement in the News today.

The Weather

The weather the past week has been hot and damp. We had a general soaker here early Sunday morning when about a three inch rain came down in four hours from midnight until early morning. Another heavy rain fell here late Wednesday nihgt.

All this moisture has helped the late crops and potatoes and greatly improved conditions of pastures which were getting kind of dry and staler

A group of young people were entertained at the J. Hagberg home Tuesday evening in honor of Jean Sorum and Roy Hagberg who had birthdays this week. A delicious lunch was served and a good time had by all.

Sugar Beet Web Worm

Complaints have been received by the Extension Office of alfalfa and flax being damaged by the Sugar Beet Web Worm. This is quite general over most of the county. Its habits and appearance are similar to the Army Worm.

The adult stage of the Web Worm is a moth, a large number of which have been observed during early July. Each Female moth is capable of laying 200 to 250 eggs. The eggs are usually laid in the borders of fields where such plants as pig weeds, lambs quarter, and Russian thistle are growing. These weeds being the preferred wild food plants. From the hatching places the worms migrate to fields and commence doing damage. They mature in abont three weeks.

The dusting of fields with 4 pounds paris green to 100 pounds of air slacked lime has been quite effective in their control. if paris green is not accessible 10 pounds of calcium arsenate to 100 pounds of air slacked lime can be used as a dust.

Where the insects are migrating from weeds to fields the use of poison bran placed in their path has been effective. A furrow should be plowed ahead of the advancing larvae. Poison bran should be prepared as follows: 100 pounds bran, 2 gallons mollasses, 5 pounds paris green, 10 gallons of water.

Holt Won Kittenball Game

"Collins All-Star" Kittenball team of Middle River played the "Holt Scavangers" here in a seven inning contest Friday evening. Final scores were Holt 20 and Middle River, 10. ## Filed For District Judge

Oscar R. Knutson, of Warren, filed as a candidate for Judge of the district court last week.

Mr. Knutson was born in Superior, Wisconsin, the son of Norwegian immigrants, who first settled in Warren in the early nineties. They later moved to Superior, Wisconsin, where they operated a dairy farm for many years. Mr. Knutson attended the elementary schools and his first two years in High School in Superior. In 1916 his parents purchased a farm in Marshall county and moved with their family to the vicinity of Warren where they lived several years. In the fall of 1918 Mr. Knutson entered the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston, graduating therefrom in 1919. That fall he entered the Warren High school where he finished his high school education in 1920. In the fall of 1920 he commenced his college education at St. Olaf College at Northfield. He remained there one year and was compelled to leave school for lack of funds, but entered the University of Minnesota the following year where he completed his preparatory and his legal education, graduating from the University of Minnesota law school in 1927 with a degree of LLB. He worked his entire way through college, doing any kind of work that he could find.

Oscar R. Knutson

After completing his legal education Mr. Knutson returned to Warren in the summer of 1927 and was admitted to practice law and entered ubon the practice of law as an associate in the office of the Hon. Julius J. Olson, now one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of this State. He remained with Mr. Olson until December, 1930, at which time Justice Olson was appointed judge of the district court to succeed the late Andrew Grindeland. Since that time Mr. Knutson has continued the practice of law at Warren, alone.

Besides conducting an extensive law practice Mr. Knutson has been active in many civic and community affairs. He has been Mayor of Warren for three successive terms and now occupies that position. He has served as chairman of the Marshall County chapter of the Red Cross for many years and has taken part in many other community activities. He has been President of the 14th Judicil District Bar Association and has served on committees of the Minnesota Bar association. He is also a member of the board of directors of the Marshall County Agricultural association. He is well known to many communities as a public speaker at commencement exercises, memorial days, and other public gatherings.

In his law practice, where he is best known, he has represented several villages and school districts in litigation. During his early experience he learned to sympathize with the common man and has much consideration for the average man and woman, and understand their problems, because from 1918 to this date he has been one of them.

In 1934 Mr. Knutson was married to Louise Halvorson, a native daughter of Warren, and they are the parents of three young children, twin boys and a girl.

Achievement Day At Argyle

The election of county winners on the various club projects and activities and the awarding of state fair trips will be the main feature in connection with 4H club achievement day at Argyle High School on Tuesday, Aug. 6. Attractive premiums are also going to be awarded to club members who exhibit and take part in the contests.

According to the County Agents Office Ethel Marmarine and Carl Ash, club agent and county agent respectively in Polk County and Ann Thorbeck, district club agent will conduct the judging of exhibits and demonstrations. Mr. Ash will judge the dairy calves, colts, beef heifers, purebred ewe lambs and breeding poultry and agriculture team demonstrations. Trips will be awarded on the basis of his placing.

The home economics demonstation and exhibits will be judged by Miss Thorbeck and Miss Marmarine. A new feature in connection with the achievement day will be a girls judging contest and also a contest on the judging of foods. These contests are being arranged by a number of local leaders. The judges will assist in conducting the contests. They are being held primarily for the benefit of girls in order that the 4H members may become more familiar with the factors that are concerned with in judging home economics exhibits.

Exhibits in order to compete for prizes and trips must be at hand by ten o'clock and will be released early in the afternoon or as soon as judging is completed. The livestock show will be released early in the afternoon or as judging is completed. The livestock show will be at the Dziengel farm, just west of Argyle.

The following tentative schedule has been set up for demonstrations and judging contests:

10:00 A. M. Individual silent bread demonstrations.

11:00 A. M. Individual cake and canning demonstrations.

1:00 P. M. Canning and clothing team demonstrotions.

Agriculture team demonotrations. Individual handicraft demonstrations. Individual safety demonstrations.

1:00 P. M. Clothing judging contest.

The 4H leaders council meeting scheduled for Monday evening, August 5 has been postponed until at some later date in August.

Those from Holt who attended the Luther League program at Silverton on Sunday were, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anderson and Stilaf; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holst and family; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Larson and family; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fosholm; Murnet Johnson, James, Linda, Ray and Edna Gusa; Marlan Augustine, Lawrence Lubitz and Marion Backlund.

Board Buys Motor Bus

The Board of Education of the local school purchased a motor bus from Johnson Brothers of Middle River at their last meeting. This motor bus is to have a seating capacity of thirty six pupils. It will be used to transport pupils of our high school. The bus will make it possible to increase the enrollment as well as to provide more satisfactory service to people within the area.

The route for this bus is not definitely established. The proposed route is so planned to take care of practically all of the resident pupils. High school pupils within our area that have not been contacted by Mr. Karvonen are urged to contact him as soon as possible so that they can be taken care of on the route. Information as to the route and other details can be had. from Mr. Karvonen.

About 200 neighbors and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Silverness gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Ness on Sunday afternoon and gave the newly wedded couple a reception. The afternoon was spent socially and a delicious lunch was served. The honor guests received many nice gifts.

Fundamental Strategy of War Undergoes Major Alterations; Presidential Raee Warms Up

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

This map graphically shows the many points of attack on the British Isles open to Hitler's air raiders.

GERMAN WAR:

Strategy

It is about time that we examined the fundamental strategy of the German war, at this point. For the whole situation has changed, in England, in Germany, and in the United States.

The German aim was a simple one. It was to attack England by land, sea, and air, without wasting much time or effort in other theaters of war, which were trifling, anyway. Italy was expected to take Malta, and Spain was expected to enter the war and take Gibraltar, with the possibility that Japan might take Hongkong, but all these were side issues as compared with the basic battle of Britain. Here the preliminary German air bombardment proved highly effective, and English Portsmouth and Welsh Cardiff were believed already to be gutted. Edward VIII, duke of Windsor, was called a fifth columnist by some Englishmen, and hailed as the next monarch by others.

Churchill Plan

The English war plan was this: to hold out, like a besieged fortress, if possible for two or three months. Then, late fall would put an end to German operations against the island fortress. At this point, the English would swing into offensive action in the following way: by an intensified sea blockade that would bring famine to the entire continent of Europe. There have been crop shortages, and failures, on the continent, and another war-winter might bring untold horrors to the Dutch, Belgians, French, Norse, Danes, etc.—and even to the Germans. This was exactly what Winston Churchill was counting on.

There was one hitch in this plan. What food there was on the continent, would go (1) to the German army, (2) to the German home folks, and (3) to the Dutch, Belgians, French, etc., etc. Thereby, the British would make the Dutch and French suffer for Hitler's wrongdoings. But this was only the beginning of the repercussions. It was expected that this plan—the "Churchill plan," they called it—would have the following astounding effect in the United States: it would turn the isolationists into interventionists, and the interventionists into isolationists. The reason for this was as follows: the humane isolationists could not stand the continental starvation, and would want to intervene to break the British blockade and feed the starving French, Dutch, and Belgians, with American foodstuffs (of which we would have a surplus). This would make the isolationists take an interventionist position. Meanwhile, the interventionists would cry "hands off" the British blockade, and would want the continent to stew in its own juice, which would turn them into isolationists. This, then, was the keynote to the European war situation as a whole. Meanwhile, Hitler liberated the Belgian war prisoners and sent them home, having long since done the same by the Norwegian and Dutch soldier-captives. The French were expected to be next on the parole list. Not so, the "tough-and-ready" Poles, of whom there were more than a million in German military hands.

CAMPAIGN:

Up-Warming

The 1940 presidential campaign race was busy up-warming. It was, in fact, getting warmer and warmer. The third term attempt, by Mr. Roosevelt brought forth many dire predictions from newspaper editorial writers. One excellent quip went the rounds. A lady said to a gent: "But a third term's un-precedented!" To which the gent replied, "So was General Washington's first term."

Some thoughtful students of political science believed that the third term phenomenon was a pale American reflection of totalitarian dictatorships abroad . . . just as our Civil war of 1861 was a pale reflection of "civil 1848" in Europe Henry Wallace was put up as Democratic vice president in order to match the Republican McNary, for both were agricultural experts of the very first water. The choice of Wallace brought out that this New Dealer was an ex-Republican, and Mr. Roosevelt had passed over a number of regulation machine Democrats.

Wallace, Ickes, Stimson, Knox, Hopkins, Miss Perkins: none of them had had a Democratic background. But then, of course, the ex-Democrat Willkie had only been a Republican for but two scant years. Hoover, too, was a former Democrat, while it was expected that Al Smith would continue to take a walk. It looked as though the old party divisions were breaking down all along the line, and the terms New Deal and Old Guard were increasingly taking the place of the Republican and Democratic tags. The loss of Jim Farley, the political genius who managed the party machinery for Roosevelt, was a heavy blow to many of the Democrats.

More of It

While a good many Democrats were muttering about the III term, Wallace, and Farley, Willkie stressed his own humble origin, and inferred artfully that Roosevelt's path had been a lot softer. Willkie said, furthermore, that he was making no sacrifice, but that he really wanted to run—which was certainly obvious to almost anybody.

OIL, OIL, OIL:

Petroleum

Large shipments of oil have been going through to Spain, from American Texas, and also from South American Venezuela and Colombia. Something like 2½ million barrels had been sent from the United States in eight months of the war. Was Hitler getting much of it? Probably, they thought in Washington.

Some, in fact, believed that Germany had been getting far more oil from America, than from Russia.

NAMES

. . . in the news

New York city's Mayor LaGuardia strongly advocated universal military service.

President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines told American high-commissioner Francis Sayre (Woodrow Wilson's son-in-law): "We must do our own thinking and learn lessons from contemporary history — or bust!"

Claude Dornier Jr., son of Germany's outstanding aircraft designer, was in New York, and planned to enter an American university in the autumn. Dornier bombers were being massed for the battle of Britain: all-metal monoplanes.

Gen. Eugene Mittelhauser's famous Near Eastern French army was reported, at last, ready for final disbandment, under the direction of an Italian war mission. Mittelhauser succeeded Gen. Max Weygand when the latter went to France to wind up the war and help reorganize the government.

An Emphatic No

To Adolf Hitler's "last chance peace offer," Prime Minister Churchill of England sounded the expected "no." Long an enemy of Hitler, Churchill has been particularly obnoxious to the Fuehrer. Even when Churchill was just a private citizen, Hitler singled him out for oratorical attack.
(See—Hitler Talks.)

HITLER TALKS:

Endlessly

Hitler's speech came over the radio, translated into an extreme, ultra, English accent. It must have been Lord Haw-Haw putting it across. It went on endlessly. Hitler said he didn't want to destroy the British empire. He said he shrank at the destruction which hung over England, and suggested an "honorable" peace. Hitler reviewed his conquests, his methods, and his diplomatic wrangles with Chamberlain and Daladier. He said he spoke not as a victor, but as a rationalist, anxious to terminate futile misery. Some 31 Pacific coast radio stations cut off his speech because it was trying to "justify his crimes against civilization itself."

Hitler also made Goering something brand-new in the staid history of the Prussian army: a Reich's Marshal of Greater Germany, and gave him the Grand Cross of the Iron Cross. Goering designed himself a new, different, extra-special uniform—"the only one of its kind in all German officialdom." Hitler also created nine new field-marshals and two new field-marshals-general, and 17 new colonel-generals (German military grades run different from the American).

BURMA ROAD:

So Silly

The Burma road controversy took the silliest turn on record. That road carried war supplies to Chiang Kai-shek and his armies. The British foreign office closed it, on the heated demand of Japan. Then Secretary Hull protested that the Burma road was necessary for world trade and international commerce (Hull is an old free-trader). At this point, part of the British parliament supported Hull against their own foreign office, with cries of "no appeasement." China, infuriated, threatened England with dire threats. Germany, of course, took the side of Japan. Thereby, Hitler took the side of the British foreign office, against Hull and Chiang Kai-shek. It was Anglo-Germany, plus Japan, versus the U. S. A. Meanwhile, England was trying to negotiate the finish to the Jap-Chinese contest, but apparently our own state department was opposed to "appeasement" in the Orient. All this hit a new low in foreign relations.

ANGLO-SHIFT:

Turnabouts

While Hitler was promoting all those glamour-boy generals and airmen, and scattering decorations to the four winds, England was kicking various people upstairs. An arrogant-looking gentleman named Lieut.-Gen. Sir Alan F. Brooke, recently general officer in charge of the southern command, became commander-in-chief of the home forces. He took the place of Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside (it was Oliver Cromwell's ironsides that founded the British regular army).

Sir Ironside, a huge, hulking fellow, who once commanded Gibraltar, was kicked into being a field-general. Viscount Gort, former commander of the ill-fated British expeditionary force in France and Flanders, had the same experience. He became inspector general of forces for training. Previously, Gort had received the sacred order of the bath, which evoked considerable criticism. But Gort, everybody admitted, was a good organizer. Brooke had commanded the II corps of the British expeditionary force.

Vitamin B

Simultaneous with the military turnabouts, England went in for a new kind of white bread. It was rich in vitamin B and calcium salt, to help overcome the wartime strain of nerves and physical fatigue. It was a revolution in nutrition. The scientific food ministry was enthusiastic about it, and it might turn out to be a real boon to medicine, and to humanity in general. The British public began to buy it up, and gulp it down, prontissimo.

IT'S PICNIC TIME!
(Recipes Below)

Household News By Eleanor Howe

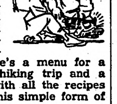
Summertime is picnic time, and you pack up your troubles as you unpack your picnic kit. Perhaps one reason why a picnic is such a popular outdoor sport is because its preparations are so easy on the lady of the house . . . sandwiches, stuffed tomatoes (or just small whole tomatoes) with hard cooked eggs and a steaming cup of tea, are a traditional picnic lunch—and that's an easy meal if there ever was one!

No dishes to wash afterward . . . paper cups and plates eliminate all such labor. Carry the tea in a thermos bottle, if you like, or brew it "fisherman style" over an open fire.

One hot dish is important at a picnic; it might be stew, or chowder, baked beans, or a macaroni dish—but do have something hot!



There are picnic hints and menus that you'll like, in my cookbook, "Easy Entertaining"; there's a menu for a beach party, a hiking trip and a steak fry, too—with all the recipes you'll need for this simple form of entertaining.

Broiled Baked Bean Sandwiches.
Bread, sliced
Baked beans
Cheese, sliced or cut in strips
Bacon slices, cut in halves

Arrange bread on broiler. When bread is toasted on one side, turn. Then cover the untoasted sides of the slices of bread with baked beans. Place cheese over the beans and top each sandwich with one-half slice of bacon. Place under broiler and broil until bacon is crisp and brown and cheese is melted.

Ginger Creams.
(Makes 3 dozen 1½-inch squares)
½ cup shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups flour
¾ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ginger
1 cup dark molasses
1 egg (separated)
1 cup boiling water

Cream shortening and sugar together. Sift flour, soda, salt and ginger, and blend with the creamed mixture, using a pastry blender or a fork. Add molasses and egg yolk, and beat well. Then add boiling water, gradually, and beat well. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Spread batter in greased jelly roll pan (about 11 by 16 inches) and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for, approximately 18 minutes. Cool, and frost with boiled icing or confectioners' sugar icing. Cut in squares.

Deviled Eggs.
4 eggs, hard cooked
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 tablespoon butter, melted
½ teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard

Cut the hard-cooked eggs in halves crosswise. Remove yolks, mash, and add salt, pepper, melted butter, vinegar and prepared mustard. Refill whites with this mixture.

One-Dish Meal for a Picnic.
1 pound country style sausage
2 medium size onions (sliced)
1 can lima beans
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 teaspoon chili powder

Shape sausage into flat cakes and fry with the onions until the sausage is well done. Drain off all but ½ cup of the fat, add remaining ingredients, and simmer for 30 minutes.

Baked Macaroni—Creole Style.
(Serves 4)
½ package macaroni
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons onion (minced)
1 green pepper (chopped)
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 tablespoon granulated sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ pound country style sausage
⅓ cup soft bread crumbs (buttered)

Cook macaroni in boiling, salted water. Brown onion slightly in the butter. Add green pepper, and tomatoes. Add sugar and salt and cook until the green pepper is tender. Make sausage into flat cakes. In a buttered baking dish place a layer of macaroni, then a layer of sausage cakes, and another layer of macaroni. Pour the tomato mixture over the macaroni and top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 45 minutes.

> Remember the wonderful ice cream you used to love, as a child—the kind you had at parties and picnics and Sunday school socials, too? Eleanor Howe has a collection of her favorite ice cream recipes to give you, next week, and recipes for frosty drinks, as well. Watch for her column next week—and then serve one of the delicious desserts or beverages the next time you entertain.

Raisin Drop Cookies.
¼ cup butter
½ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
1½ cups cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup seedless raisins
1 tablespoon milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Cream butter and add sugar gradually. Add eggs, well beaten, and mix thoroughly. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk and vanilla, beginning with the flour mixture. Add raisins. Drop from a teaspoon on a greased baking sheet and place a raisin on the top of each one. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes.

Crazy Cake.
1 cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup cocoa
½ cup lard
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups flour (sifted)
½ cup boiling water

Place all of the ingredients in a bowl in the order given. Do not stir until boiling water is added. Then beat 3 minutes, using a rotary beater, or 2 minutes if an electric mixer is used. Place in greased 8-inch square pan and bake 35 to 40 minutes in a moderately hot oven (325 degrees).

Let 'Better Baking' Solve Your Baking Problems.

True it is we all have baking problems. Yet, if solved correctly, we save time because fallen cakes don't have to be made over again and we save money too—because the family simply won't eat tough, chewy pastry, heavy, soggy cakes, etc.

In fact, it is to avoid just such baking failures as these (and many more) that I have compiled this cookbook, "Better Baking." "Better Baking" brings to you a whole series of baking hints, as well as a compilation of many of my own favorite baking recipes, including such unusual good-to-eat ones as a frosted nut spice cake, gumdrop cake, chocolate fudge cake, quick apple cake, and even a maraschino cherry cake.

To secure your copy of this book, simply send 10 cents in coin and please address, "Better Baking," care of Eleanor Howe, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Gives It Tang

A little horseradish added to salad dressing or white sauce makes a piquant sauce for fish. Horseradish also may be added to whipped cream and served with baked, boiled or fried ham.

Use Chicken Fat

Chicken fat may be substituted for butter in cakes and cookies or for creaming or browning foods. Beef drippings may be used for seasoning sauces, meats or fowl stuffings or meat loaves.

Conservation News

St. Paul—July 22—Radio fans will get an insight to why Carlos Avery State Game Farm near Forest Lake boasts the crown of "Most Modern Game Farm in The Nation" during a program Friday from 5:45 to 6:00 P. M. over KSTP and the Minnesota Radio Network.

Entitled, "Carlos Avery Farm—National Leader", the program is one of the "Land of Plenty" series sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Conservation. It will also be carried by stations KFAM, St. Cloud; KYSM, Mankato; and KROC, Rochester.

St. Paul—The blue-berry crop was frozen out in several sections of the Northern part of Minnesota according to reports of field workers from the Conservation Department.

Heavy frosts late this spring have prevented buds from maturing. This will cut heavily into the incomes of many settlers who depend upon good blue-berry crops.

St. Paul—Anglers were cautioned by the Department of Conservation to observe the aggregate daily catch limits of 15 fish per day with 20 the aggregate or mixed bag possessions limit for two or more days.

To clear up apparent misunderstandings among anglers, the Department reiterated the aggregate daily and possession rule:

"Provided the fixed catch limits of any one species are not exceeded, fish may be taken in the aggregate up to 15 per day with 20 permitted in possession for two or more days angling."

Under this rule, a crappie angler can possess the crappie possession limit of 25 fish only if he does not include fish of another species. The same pricipal applies to other fish with possession limits of more than 20.

Forest Lake, Minn.—Consideration for a flock of nesting bank swallows prompted a change in grading plans on Carlos Avery State Game Refuge.

Nursery Manager Dick Dorer planned to grade down a gravel bank about two miles east of Camp Number one on the refuge. Just before the project got underway, he noticed bank swallows had tunnelled into the grade.

Dorer ordered the bank grading 'indefinitely postponed." The swallows are nesting unmolested.

Buffalo, Minn.—The Deer Lake control project was completed this week, stabilizing 2,047 acres of water.

Levels of Deer Lake, Buffalo Lake, Mink Lake and Tamarack Lake, which formerly fluctuated with the rise and fall of the Crow River, will now be maintained through a 4-foot control dam on Dee Lake. The outlet is thru a creek to the north fork of the Crow River.

Wright County officials cooperated with the Department of Conservation on the project. Special projects that coincide with the building of the dam are the spawning areas set aside in Buffalo Lake, new roads leading to picnic grounds and tree planting.

Watch Children Around Water

Minnesota Doctors Warn of Drowning Dangers to Small Children

St. Paul—Far too little attention is given to protecting young children from drowning, the Minnesota State Medical Association's Committee on Public Health Education declared in a bulletin issued today.

The general problem of preventing deaths by drowning concerns everybody at this time of year, according to the doctors; but precautions against accidents to swimmers do not meet the problem.

More one-year-old children than persons of any other single year of age drown annually in the United States and two-year-olds also contribute a number of drowning deaths far out of proportion to the number in the population. The total is approximately 400 for both each year.

There is only one way to prevent these tragic mishaps, according to the doctors. That is to watch the babies constantly if they are anywhere near water.

Only a small number of the drownings take place at beaches or other resorts, according to figures quoted from a June report by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Most of the fatalities occur in the back yard at home, many of them in fish ponds, lily ponds or in ditches, cisterns, cess pools or nearby small streams or lakes.

Partly filled bath tubs are also a source of great danger if the baby or youngster is left even "for a minute or two" to his own devices, the bulletin points out. The responsibility for preventing drownings among these very young children is, of course, in the lap of the parents.

"Children of one and two or three years must be watched constantly," the doctors declare emphatically. "They cannot be left alone safely even for a moment outside the house where there are natural or artificial ponds, nor inside near tubs or pans partly filled with water."

BOYS FIND MAN ON HIGHWAY

Pillager—While driving to Staples, Gordon Peterson and Sam Richardson of Pillager, found a young man, later identified as Frederick Bosley of Brainerd lying on the north side of the highway a half mile east of Motley. He had been driving a motorcycle and had evidently skidded fracturing his skull. The injured man was taken to the Staples hospital by the boys.

DOG BITES MAN—MAN SHOT

Rochester—One morning recently when Bert McHenry, Rochester fireman was driving his car from the garage, he accidentally hit his dog and immediately jumped out to lend sympathy or first aid. The dog, however, would have none of it, and stopped McHenry's intentions by biting his owner. The fireman, instead of the dog had to be shot—with tetanus anti-toxin at the Colonial Hospital.

Bemidji, Minn.—Wild rice problems—a vital topic to Northern Minnesota Indians—were discussed by Chippewas and Conservation Department Officials at a meeting near here.

Indian leaders asked Conservation Commissioner W. L. Strunk to cooperate in controlling water levels on rice lakes to facilitate maximum crop production.

Indian tribes were present from Red Lake, White Earth, Nett Lake, Bois Fort, Grand Portage, Mille Lacs, Cass Lake, and Fond du lac.

St. Paul—Fishing fun is returning to the Mississippi River near the Twin Cities where an $18,000,000 sewage disposal plant has functioned for more than a year.

Game wardens along the river immediately below St. Paul and Minneapolis look for a greater improvement after the recently inaugurated South St. Paul sewage disposal plant has a few months behind it.

Game fish that formerly could not live in the water because of insufficient oxygen are returning. At some points banks are lined with fishermen of all ages and types in Ramsey county and Dakota county.

Good sized rock bass and wall-eye pike, some up to nine pounds, have been taken. A shacker recently caught a 22-pound northern pike in the Pigs Eye slough south of St. Paul.

It's Easy to Make And Easy to Wear

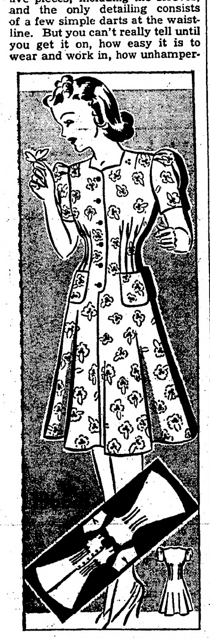
MAKE it in a few hours, and wear it day after day after day! You can see, from the small diagram sketch, how easy this dress is to put together—merely five pieces, including the sleeves, and the only detailing consists of a few simple darts at the waistline. But you can't really tell until you get it on, how easy it is to wear and work in, how unhampering and becoming. The waistline looks slim but is completely unrestraining.



The front fastening makes it easy to get into. This is an easily tubbable dress, too. Make up design No. 1966-B in seersucker, linen, percale or gingham.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1966-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 3½ yards of 35-inch material without nap. Send order to:

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

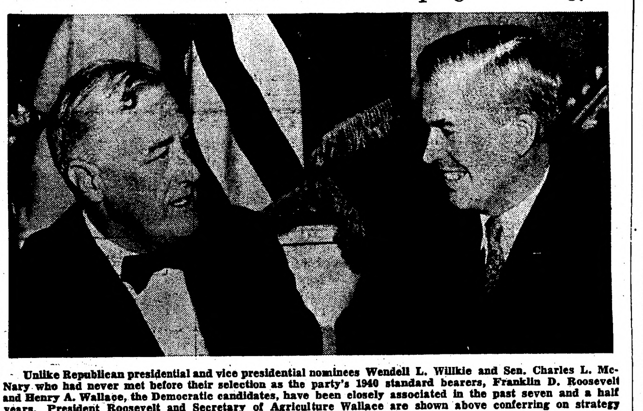
TEACHING A CHILD VALUE OF PENNIES

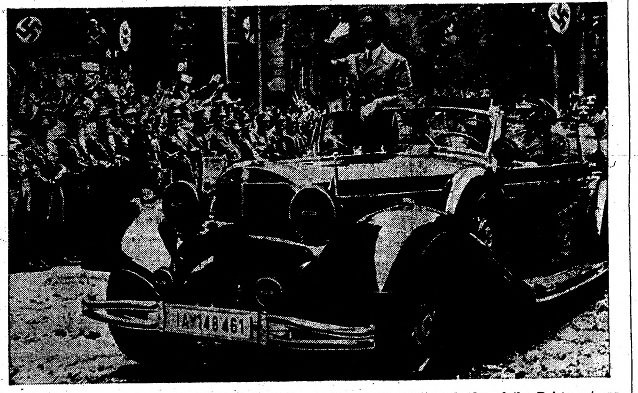
A child of a wise mother will be taught from early childhood to become a regular reader of the advertisements. In that way better perhaps than in any other can the child be taught the great value of pennies and the permanent benefit which comes from making every penny count.

Democratic Nominees Plan Campaign Strategy



Unlike Republican presidential and vice presidential nominees Wendell L. Willkie and Sen. Charles L. McNary who had never met before their selection as the party's 1940 standard bearers, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Henry A. Wallace, the Democratic candidates, have been closely associated in the past seven and a half years. President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace are shown above conferring on strategy for the coming campaign in which the President will seek a third term.

When Hitler Returned in Triumph to Berlin



Storm troopers with arms linked hold back the crowds as Adolf Hitler, leader of the Reich, returns to Berlin in triumph after the successful military operations of his armies in France. One of his first acts on his return was to promote a number of his generals to the rank of marshal. Goering was made a "Reich's Marshal." Hitler stands upright in his official car and returns the salutes of thousands of his greeters.

Sino-Japanese War Goes Savagely Ahead

While the war in Europe has diverted attention away from the Sino-Japanese conflicts, scenes like the one above show that hostilities are still in progress. The Japanese soldier is one of a party wiping out the streets of Ichang, one of the most important strategic points in the defending army of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. A bomb explodes in the background.

Young Briton Inaugurates Big Push

This young citizen of Southgate, England, is doing his bit for king and country, following a call by the mayor of his city for citizens to turn in their old scrap metal and help make the sinews of war for the defense of Britain. The youngster went from door to door with his homemade cart collecting odds and ends. The campaign in Southgate was duplicated in other English towns with citizens turning in scrap metal.

'Phonies' Beware

As a means of aiding citizens to detect counterfeit bills and coin, paper match folders such as the young lady above is holding are being issued by the U. S. secret service in Washington, D. C.

LEGS, MIRROR, DOOR CARVING AND HANDLES WERE REMOVED SCREW HOLES FILLED WITH PUTTY-PLAIN KNOBS AND A BASE OF 1"X4" LUMBER ADDED-CHEST PAINTED BLUE TO MATCH CURTAINS AND CHAIR SLIP COVER

YOU have heard quite a good deal in these articles about Grandmother, who is just "Gram" to her family. Also about her favorite grandson, Bill, and his up-and-coming bride, Marty — the same for whom Gram made the stunning rag rug in Sewing Book 3. Then there is Bill's kid sister, Betsy, who streamlined the old iron bed illustrated in Book 3. You all know "Mom," too. She has become almost famous because of her curtains and slip-covers and "The Rug That Grew Up With the Family." And there is "Dad" who is handy with hammer, saw and screw driver.

Well, recently the family have "ganged-up" on Gram about her fancy out-of-date buffet. They think she deserves and can afford something new. Gram decided to get rid of the buffet, then Marty said that she wanted it! This sketch shows you one of the things she and Bill did with it. Watch next week for what became of the mirror and legs.

NOTE: That is white rick-rack that trims the blue chambray curtains and slip-cover. The chair is the one made over from an old rocker described in the new Book 5. To get your copy send order to:

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Camphor will remove the white rings left on tables by water glasses.

• • •

When rag rugs are washed they should be rinsed thoroughly because soap left in them makes them catch dirt more easily.

• • •

To dice or cut marshmallows easily, dip a dry scissors into powdered sugar.

• • •

To clear the living-room of stale tobacco smoke: Prepare a jar with a few drops of oil of lavender on a lump of crystal ammonia. Pour on a little boiling water and leave the jar in the room. You will be pleased with the pleasant fresh scent it leaves behind.

• • •

To keep cream fillings from soaking into cake layers, sprinkle a thin layer of confectioner's sugar over the cake. Then add the filling and sprinkle it with a little more sugar before the next layer is put on the cake. To avoid excess sweetness, use less than the usual amount of sugar in the filling.

• • •

If one-half cup of butter is required in making a cake and you have only one-fourth cup, add three tablespoons of sour cream and you will have a light, fluffy cake.

• • •

Keep spice boxes away from the stove to prevent the essential oils and flavor from drying out.

Select pot-holders that are easy to launder and large enough to protect your hands. Hang a generous supply of them near the stove—or keep them in a nearby drawer.

Do Not Go WITH ADVERTISING

Advertising and high prices do not go together at all. They are extremely incompatible to each other. It is only the product which is unadvertised, which has no established market, that costs more than you can afford to pay.

Whenever you go into a store and buy an item of advertised merchandise, it doesn't make any difference what, you are getting more for your money—more in quality and service—than you would get if you spent the same amount for something which was not advertised.

The first minister to preach a sermon at the source of the Mississippi River in Itasca State Park was honored in a ceremony recently arranged by the State Division of State Parks.

He was the Reverend J. A. Gilfillan, who, in May 1881 chose as his text "Then had Thy Peace Been a River." He spoke on a site now known as Morrison Hill between Elk Lake Itasca. A plaque, to commemorate the event was unveiled.

A lumbering bull moose became a lifeless carcass when it tried fence jumping on a farm near Kittson county village of Donaldson.

When this huge animal tried vaulting the fence, the game warden learned, it tripped on the topmost wire strand and crashed headlong, fracturing its neck.

It was Minnesota's second reported moose casualty in ten days. A moose was killed by an automobile near Rauch in Koochiching county the week previous.

Millionth 1940 Chevrolet to be Contest Award

ONE MILLIONTH
1940
CHEVROLET

Some conception of the demand for the 1940 Chevrolet may be gained from the fact that the one-millionth model of this year's production left the assembly line at Flint, Mich., on July 12. In celebration of the public appreciation reflected by this tremendous production record, M. E. Coyle, general manager of Chevrolet, shown (left) above with W. E. Holler, general sales manager, announced that the one-millionth 1940 car, together with a trip to the New York World's Fair, would be awarded in a contest which is open now and will close Aug. 31. Details are obtainable at any of the company's dealers.

Big Show Heads Toward Us

The Ringling Bros. and Barum & Bailey Circus, with the world's largest big top in solid blue, improved air conditioning, a new opening spectacle "The Return of Marco Polo", created and costumed in France by Max Weldy, and an all-new performance, star-studded by a tremendous array of new European features, will exhibit in Grand Forks, Monday, August 12.

Foremost among the impressive importations is the great Alfred Court, Europe's most famous trainer, with his three famed mixed groups of performing wild animals — Polar bears, Himalayan bears, Bengal tigers, lions, black and spotted leopards, Siberian snow leopards, black and spotted panthers, cougars, pumas, jaguars and Great Dane dogs, all working together in breath-taking violation of jungle law. Never before has a trainer accomplished this startling mixing of so many species of natural enemies. This is Court's first appearance.

The leading horsemen of Europe—Hans Strassburger, Vas Concelos and Los Aserveras—with their renowned troupes of dressage and liberty steeds bring the Big Show's horse displays to a new high. The war and big money made their importation possible, as it did scores of other troupes and stars who hitherto would not budge off the Continent.

The Greatest Show on Earth, steaming toward this territory on four long trains, with 1,600 people, 50 elephants, 1,009 animals and hundreds of horses will open its performances at 2:15 and 8:15 daily with doors open at 1 and 7 P. M., for public inspection of the huge menagerie, including Gargantua the Great, and the long lines of performing steeds in the new horse fair tent adjoining it.

Given Wedding Reception

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nohre left Tuesday for Keen, N. D. to attend the funeral of the latters brother, Gerhard Ellestad.

Geo. Karvonen attended the funeral for his grandfather at New York Mills Sunday.

Lost—Saturday in Holt, a coin purse containing nine one dollars bills and small change. Finder please return same to Mrs. C. O. Saastad, Holt, Minn. Reward will be given.

Buckler Filed For Third Term

Congressman R. T. Buckler filed recently for congress. He is the sole Farmer-Labor member of the U. S. House of Representatives. He made the following statement.

"Because of the urgent and insistant requests of friends and liberals in my district, I have decided again to enter the race for Congress in the coming campaign.

Rep. R. T. Buckler

The next two years are going to be most critical years for our State and Nation. As I view the situation, we are confronted with these and other important problems and great tasks, namely: to make this country strong in national defense so that no foreign nation or combination of nations will dare attack us, to keep out of war; to solve the "money question"; to advance the welfare of the farmers and workers and the small business man; to not only preserve, during this period of national emergency, the social gains we have made but even to expand them, and especially, in this connection, to provide a much more adequate old age pension; to open up job opportunities for the unemployed men and women and youth of America.

I have supported the "New Deal" legislation, whenever, in my opinion, I thought that it was in the interest of the common people to do so. I have pledged that under no circumstances would I vote to send American boys to fight on foreign battlefields. I reaffirm that pledge. Furthermore, my efforts will continue to be directed toward keeping America at peace."

Mr. and Mrs. George Saurbrey of St. Paul arrived here Saturday to spend a week visiting at the home of the latters parents Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Saastad and other relatives.

Moved To Grand Forks

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Sorum and family moved their household goods to Grand Forks Wednesday where they will make their future home. Mr. Sorum is employed on the Great Northern Railway with headquarters at Grand Forks.

Olaf Dahl and daughter Gladys and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dahl of Argyle visited at the Johnnie Nelson home Sunday. They also visited the Mud Lake Game Refuge.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hagen were dinner guests at the Dennis Wegge home in Thief River Falls on Sunday.

The men of Holt gave Jesse Sorum a farewell party on Tuesday evening at the schoolhouse.

Population Increase At Angle

The population of Northwest Angle, the farthest north community in continental United States, and which is part of Lake of the Woods county, is 143, as compared with 75 in 1930. It also has 15 farms and 10 business places. These figures were turned into the census department by Phil Smith, census enumerator, U. S. Commissioner, justice of the peace, deputy sheriff, game warden, notary public, advisor and woodsman, who recently completed the work of counting noses in the farthest north community. Phil made the rounds in his launch and it required several days to scoot in and out among the islands and along rivers to reach all of the inhabitant.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Heinze Carolyn and Marilyn, Mr. Nels Evenson of Fergus Falls, Minn. Mr. and Mrs. H. Heinze of Thief River Falls called at the Wm. Fluke and Knute Glennen homes on Monday enroute to Lake Bronson to visit relatives and friends.

WALL, TABLES, AND LAMPS BLUE-DRAPES, STOOL AND SHADES CREAM-BOWS WINE

LAST week Marty helped to talk Grandmother out of her old buffet. The Martindale family were in a dither when she told them that she was going to furnish a combination guest and sewing room with the mirror and two legs of the old buffet; plus some spools, a butter tub, unbleached muslin, some old rags and other odds and ends.

The rags were used for the hook rug in this sketch of a corner of that new guest and sewing room. Directions for the rug and for making the spool tables shown her are both in Sewing Book 5. The mirror was hung end-wise and is marvelous for fitting dresses. The muslin drapery was used to cover the irregular edge of the mirror and makes just the right background for the blue spool tables. You can see in the sketch how the lamps and stool were made. Next week the bottom shelf of the buffet will be used and Gram will teach Marty another trick or two.

Achievement

Achievement is the answer to accepting responsibility, duty. Why do some rise faster than others? Answer: They invite responsibility—they accept cheerfully and courageously agreeable and disagreeable duties, and they do them promptly.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Responsibilities

Be thankful for responsibilities. The more heavy they are the more thankful you should be. Responsibilities are what make men of those who might otherwise be failures.

Cathedral on Tour

The oddest cathedral in the world is probably a movable affair planned by the Rt. Rev. Henry Wise Hobson, youngest Protestant Episcopal bishop in America. It bears the name of St. Paul's Wayside cathedral, and contains a bishop's chair, altar, library and cinema equipment. The "cathedral" stands on a trailer and tours the country.

Though only 24 can sit inside and listen to the sermon, a loudspeaker makes it possible for thousands of holiday-makers to listen to and take part in outdoor services.

STAGE ☆ SCREEN ☆ RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

RITA HAYWORTH won a victory when Director Charles Vidor offered her a chance to become Brian Aherne's leading lady in "The Lady in Question." Because the sultry-eyed actress wears clothes so well she's been labelled "the best dressed girl in filmland." And because she's what she is, she found herself in danger of acquiring another label—that of a glamour girl.

But the lovely Rita wants to act. If you've seen her in "Susan and God," with Joan Crawford and Frederic March, you know that she can do it, too.

But in that one she was beautifully dressed. She wanted a role that would give her a chance to show what she could do in spite of being dowdily dressed. Vidor certainly gave it to her in "The Lady in Question."

Her entire wardrobe for this one cost less than $45. A drab suit, shoes with run-over heels, and a very simple afternoon frock—that's what this "best dressed" young woman was given to wear. She was delighted. But she couldn't go dowdy all the way—she had to wear silk stockings.

Remember Marie Wilson, the cunning blonde who was clever enough to put herself across in Hollywood by playing dumb?. Her most recent picture was "Boy Meets Girl," which isn't exactly recent, after all. She has just concluded a 20 weeks' personal appearance tour, and now she's back in pictures; you'll see her in "Virginia," playing a neurotic young New York society woman who wants to buy an historic Virginia plantation owned by Madeleine Carroll and transform it into a night club.

MARIE WILSON

Grim fate pursues Bette Davis on the screen. She's died, gone insane, lost her eyesight, faced certain death on a plague-ridden island, been murdered, and caused a scandal that rocked the world. In her new picture, "The Letter," she starts right out by killing a man. However, her roles haven't affected her private life—she's taking rhumba lessons in her free moments.

Speaking of free time—Raymond Gram Swing (whom Radio Guide recently named "the wisest and most scholarly of the war commentators") has had but two free weeks for vacation in the past four years. And with the European situation what it is there's no telling when he'll ever again have time off.

A honeymoon that was delayed for five years started recently, when Laurette Fillbrandt ("Virginia Richman" of "Girl Alone") and her husband, Russ Young, finally departed for Hollywood and points north. He's a radio announcer, and ever since their marriage, when he wasn't booked to announce she was committed to acting—getting 16 free weeks together was something of a triumph.

Are you one of these movie fans who implore the stars to do something on the screen that will really be a message to you? If you are, you annoy your favorite star no end. George Brent has one of those fans, a girl who wants him to tap his cigarette three times on an ash tray at least once in each picture, just to let her know that he was thinking of her. He did it as a gag in one picture, and regrets it—says since then she's been so insistent that he'd be muscle-bound if he acceded to her demands.

Pretty Brenda Marshall (now working in "East of the River") gets regular letters from a youth who wants her to mention his name just once during the picture. And Jane Wyman receives roses to wear.

When the roses arrived when she started work in "Tugboat Annie Sails Again" Jane took steps. She wrote him that she couldn't do it if she wanted to, because she has to do what the script tells her to, that she has rose fever and can't stand the flowers—and besides, that she's married.

SEWING CIRCLE

DECIDEDLY young, and just as fresh-looking as a spray of apple blossoms, this frock (8680) will be lovely in silk print or flat crepe, with airy white frills. Notice how cleverly the frills are used to accentuate the torso which is not only the newest news in silhouettes, but potent to give you the long, limber look for which we're all striving. The full skirt, little pairs of buttons down the front and sash bow add to the youthful charm of this frock.

With your big hat and patent shoes, it will make you look as if you had stepped from the pages of the latest fashion book—and it proves once more that to get real individuality as well as newness, you'll be wise to make your own. A step-by-step sew chart makes the easy pattern even easier.

Pattern No. 8680 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material without nap and 2¾ yards of ruffling. Send order to:

Reveller Had Had Enough To Do With the Stranger

The reveller came home with a wicked-looking eye.

His wife was perturbed.

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed. "How did you get that awful eye?"

He sighed. "I was standing on a street corner, minding my own business, when a perfect stranger walked up and clipped me right on the eye."

"That's ridiculous," frowned his wife. "A perfect stranger walking up and giving you a black eye! Did you ask him why he did it?"

The husband shook his head. "Of course not," he returned. "Why should I butt into a stranger's business?"

Unstable Pound
Odd Chicken Coops
All Sworn In

In some parts of China, weight instead of price of food fluctuates with market conditions. For example, a housewife always pays the same price for rice, but she gets a "big pound" when it is plentiful and "a little pound" when it is scarce.

Such places as old city warehouses, factories, breweries, hotels and churches provide housing for more than 40,000,000 egg-laying chickens in tiers of individual cages equipped with feed, water and egg-transportation troughs. For instance, a $1,000,000 Florida hotel that failed a short time ago is now a "chicken coop" with 60,000 caged hens.

UNPREPAREDNESS OF AMERICA IN WORLD AT WAR SHOWN BY ANALYSIS

BLITZKRIEG TIME TABLE

Sept. 1—Germany invades Poland.

Sept. 3—Britain and France declare war.

Sept. 10—Canada enters war.

Sept. 27—Devastated Warsaw falls, ending Polish campaign.

April 9—Denmark occupied; Norway invaded by Germans.

May 2—British admit defeat in southern and central Norway.

May 10—Invasion of Low Countries begins.

May 14—Netherlands capitulates.

May 14—Germans break through at Sedan.

May 28—Belgian Army surrenders.

May 29—Dunkerque evacuation starts.

June 3—254 killed in air raid on Paris.

June 10—Italy enters war.

June 14—Paris falls.

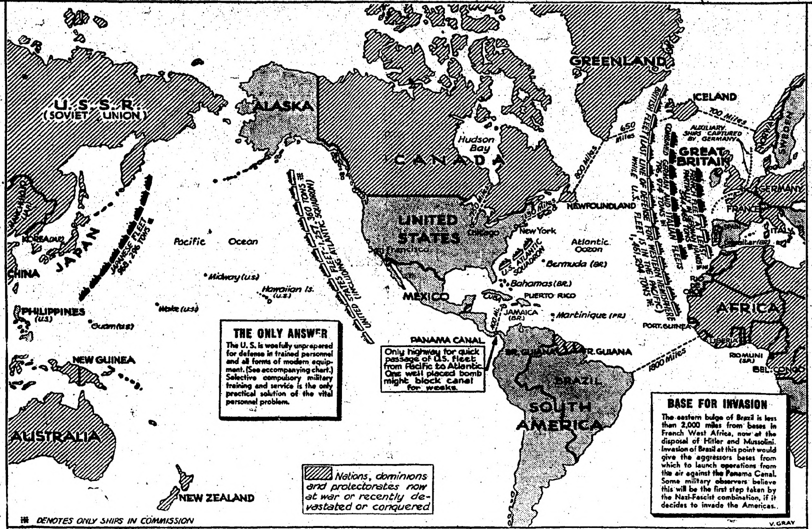
June 17—Petain admits defeat of France.

June 22—France signs armistice

June 24—Fighting ceases in France with Germans in complete control.

Next—Assault by sea, land and air on British Isles.

NOW—The United States cannot afford to gamble on what might happen to British seapower. WE MUST PREPARE FOR DEFENSE NOW!



THE ONLY ANSWER
The U. S. is woefully unprepared for defense in trained personnel and all forms of modern equipment. (See accompanying chart.) Selective compulsory military training and service is the only practical solution of the vital personnel problem.

Only highway for quick passage of U.S. fleet from Pacific to Atlantic. One well placed bomb might block canal for weeks.

BASE FOR INVASION
The eastern bulge of Brazil is less than 2,000 miles from bases in French West Africa, now at the disposal of Hitler and Mussolini. Invasion of Brazil at this point would give the aggressors bases from which to launch operations from the air against the Panama Canal. Some military observers believe this will be the first step taken by the Nazi-Fascist combination, if it decides to invade the Americas.

▨ Nations, dominions and protectorates now at war or recently devastated or conquered

DENOTES ONLY SHIPS IN COMMISSION

LIGHTNING war in the Low Countries and France has brought home to Americans a consciousness of the inadequate defense establishment of the United States. While 30,000,000 men are under arms in Europe, Africa and Asia, there are less than 750,000 regular troops in the twenty-one republics of the entire Western Hemisphere. Counting reserves and U. S. National Guard, these nations could put into the field approximately 2,500,000 trained men—less than the number recently called to the colors in Rumania alone.

BECAUSE of this weakness, the Western Hemisphere, with its vast natural resources and raw materials, now is as great a lure for conquest as ever existed. With our Navy in the Pacific, the British Fleet is our first line of defense in the Atlantic. Our second is our regular army of 264,000 men and a National Guard of 242,300, ill-equipped for mechanical warfare. How long can we continue to depend on the supremacy of the British Navy in the Atlantic?

PROVISIONS for the speedy expansion of our armed forces on a scale great enough to insure the continued safety of the nation are included in the selective compulsory training and service bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Edward R. Burke, Democrat, of Nebraska, and in the House by Representative James W. Wadsworth, Republican, of New York. Under this measure, sponsored by the National Emergency Committee of the Military Training Camps Association, a gigantic reservoir of manpower would be trained and be on call for service in emergencies, in numbers determined by the President and the Secretaries of War and Navy.

Seasonal Hazards on Highway

Motorists driving in rural areas of the state were urged to exercise special caution and alertness against seasonal traffic hazards prevalent at this season of the year in a statement issued today by W. E. Rosenwald, Traffic and Safety Engineer of the Minnesota Department of Highways.

"With the harvesting of small grains already underway in the southern part of the state", said Mr. Rosenwald, "the highways are frequently used by farmers for the movement of farm machinery and the hauling of bundle grain in hayracks to threshing rigs and from one field to another. Several accidents already have been reported in which harvesting equipment on the highway has been a contributing factor."

Farmers who have occasion to use the highways in the course of their harvesting operations are cautioned to observe the rules of the road, thereby preventing possible accidents to themselves, their equipment, or motorists.

Among those from here who attended the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Baily Circus at Grand Forks Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peterson and Ferne, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Engen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson and daughter and Lois and Dorothy Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Carlson, A. Aspelin and daughter, Caroline and Stilof Anderson.

Hartley Peterson, local painter and decorator, and Ludvig Sagstuen are this week painting the Ringbo School.

Karlstad — Nick Kalinowski was driving his team on a recent hot day, and naturally the horses were sweating. It is said that bees are attracted by salt, and the team being sweaty, came in line with the bees. The bees alighted on the team and stung the animals so badly that one died. Had the team been cool it is dubious that the bees would have attacked it.

Murnet Johnson was hired by the local Board of Education on Saturday to drive the new school bus recently purchased. Several drivers had applied for the job.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bennes were dinner guests at the Al Fredricksen home at Thief River Falls Monday evening.

L. M. Bennes of Fertile is visiting at the A. Bennes home.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Sorum and family of Crookston visited Sunday at the John Sorum home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Olson and family of Spooner and Mr. and Mrs. Birkeland of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Tideman, Dorothy Olson and Marcella Olson all of Fargo visited at the Paul Olson home Sunday of last week.

Milton Hanson has been working for Carl Beck in the harvest field part of this week.

Chester Nelson moved his family back to the rooms of the old hotel after living on what is known as the Rux farm this summer. Mrs. C. Hagglund and son Irvin moved into the place vacated by them last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hetland are spending this week at Minot, N. D. visiting relatives.

Roadside Weeds Public Enemy

Roadside weeds are public enemies in more ways than one, according to T. M. McCall, Superintendent of the Northwest School and Station, Crookston. Roadside weeds that spread to adjoining fields are recognized and generally kept under control, but the noxious nature of weed species that produce irritating pollen is often overlooked. Pollen from common ragweed, King head, Russian thistle, many of the wormwoods, common aster, and a host of other plants, states Mr. McCall, are just as troublesome and poisonous to hay fever sufferers as poison ivy is to those susceptable to its poison. In order for Minnesota to be a haven for hayfever sufferers, it will be necessary for farmers to cooperate with township, county, and state highway officials in keeping weeds from blooming by frequent mowings of the roadsides. At least two mowings per year should be given roadsides to keep noxious pollenplants from blowing. The third or fall mowing will be a good follow-up for many weeds and leave the roadsides in good shape for winter. Where common ragweed is very prevalent, more frequent mowings than the three recommended may be required.

Weedy roadsides should be worked up and re-seeded to perennial grasses and hay crops. Sod forming grasses such as brome grass, help choke out annual weeds and withstand a considerable traffic. Good farm practice in the Red River Valley controls the pollen-bearing weeds in the fields but roadsides when left to be a no-man's-land become new sources of field infestations.

Youths To Register for Work

First effect, locally, of the National Defense program came recently when it was announced that the National Youth Administration and the Division of Employment and Security had completed an arrangement to register, at the local Employment Service office, young men who are interested, under revised regulations, in NYA work in the defense training program.

Registrations for the Holt area will be at the office of the Division of Employment and Security which is located at 117 So. Main St. in Crookston, in charge of Mr. Ray Pope. This office is open during regular business hours.

As the registration gets under way, major changes have been made in certification procedure in anticipation of the part NYA will play in the defense program.

Eligibility for NYA employment, work experience, or training. Heretofore need of relief has been the controlling factor. To be eligible to register, individuals must be between the ages of 18 and 25 inclusive, be citizens of the United States and unemployed. Youths attending high school or college during the regular school year are ineligible.

Registration does not assume a probability of immediate NYA employment, since quotas that cannot be exceeded will be assigned to each area. However, any person eligible and interested should register at once as local quotas doubtless will take into consideration the number of applicants in each community.

Rev. and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Anderson and daughter, Inez, returned home Monday from a four weeks tour of the western part of the United States. Points of interest visited were The Badlands and Black Hills in So. Dak.; Yellowstone Park; Glacier Park; Grand Coulee Dam; Seattle, Wash.; Portland, Oregon; World's Fair in San Francisco; Los Angeles; Mojave Desert, Boulder Dam on the border between Neveda and Arizona; Grand Canyon in Arizona; Zion National Park and Bryce Canyon in So. Utah; Salt Lake City and Denver. They all reported a marvelous trip with weather and roads ideal in most cases and no other trouble of any kind.

The oldest son of Mrs. Oliver Molstad was severly injured in an auto accident Saturday night and is at this writing in a critical condition at St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls. He is 18 years of age.

H. O. Hanson spent a few days at St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls being treated for hemmorhage of the stomache.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lappley and Jean of Milwaukee came Sunday for a visit at the S. Lorntson home.

V. E. Oakey and Bill Sorum attended the Legion Conventirn at Hibbing the first part of the week.

Howard Lorentson returned home recently from Grand Rapids after taking part in a months Eagle Boy Scout Trail Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nelson and Vernon visited at the Theo Norby home at Thief River Falls on Sunday.

Roy Rustad visited at the Mrs. C. Hagglund home Sunday.

Luther League Met Sunday

The Silverton Luther League gave a fine program at the at the Nazareth Church Sunday evening. Their choir sang several numbers, June Barstad a solo, readings by Estelle Hanson and Martin Barstad and devotion and remarks by Evelyn Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sanoden and Opal visited at the H. O. Hanson home Tuesday evening.

Showing a New Use For Candle Wicking

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

WHEN we last heard of Marty and Bill the curved bottom shelf of that old buffet had not been used. Well, Bill made it into a cornice board for the bathroom window, and painted it blue. Then Marty went into action on curtains to match.

Grandmother is an expert at doing old-fashioned candle wicking, so together they made the tufted curtains illustrated. They used plain white muslin marked off diagonally in three-inch squares. They found the blue they wanted for the tufting in a soft string type of cotton yarn. The sketch tells you the rest. The dipping is what really turned the clipped stitches into tufts; then the curtains were stretched into shape to dry but were not ironed. All this about curtains has given Gram the most wonderful idea for something for a bride's kitchen shower that is coming off soon. It is pretty clever, we think. Watch for it, next week.

Centenarian Must Have Grieved Over Wasted Life

It was a great day for the village when the oldest inhabitant celebrated his hundredth birthday. And the excitement grew intense when it was learned that a newspaper reporter had come in search of an interview.

After various questions, the answers to which were prompted by fond and anxious relatives, the press representative asked:

"And now, tell me what you would do if you could have your time over again?"

There was a long silence while the old man thought. Then he said slowly:

"I think I would part my hair in the middle!"

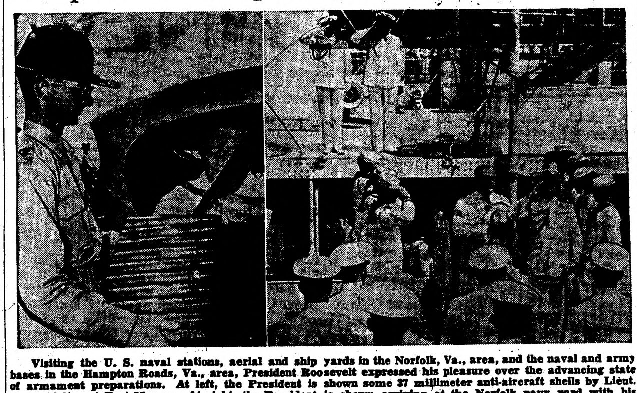
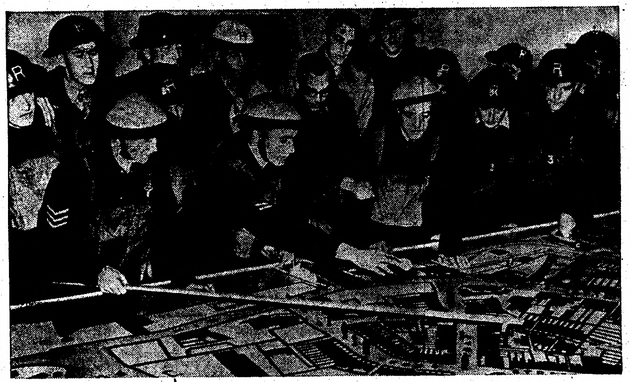
Preparedness Is Speeding Ahead, Says F.D.R.



Visiting the U. S. naval stations, aerial and ship yards in the Norfolk, Va., area, and the naval and army bases in the Hampton Roads, Va., area, President Roosevelt expressed his pleasure over the advancing state of armament preparations. At left, the President is shown some 37 millimeter anti-aircraft shells by Lieut. E. H. Walter at Fort Monroe. At right, the President is shown arriving at the Norfolk navy yard with his naval aide, Capt. Daniel J. Callaghan. The presidential yacht Potomac is in background.

Skull Practice Perfects A.R.P. Wardens' Work



Efficient rescue work by air raid precautions wardens in England following bombings by Nazis is due to their rigid training. Above is shown a squad of wardens during a "skull drill" in a tactical table in one of the air headquarters in London. By using this table the men are carefully drilled in handling traffic, administering aid to the injured and extinguishing fires during the raids. Credit for an unusually low casualty rate during the raids on England following France's capitulation was given them.

Bottle Tops Make Guns for Tommies

Miss Lillian Hall, a London clothes model, appointed herself a committee of one to collect all the metal bottle tops she could find. Her quest was in response to the government's appeal for old metal to be transformed into guns and munitions with which to meet the onslaught of the Nazis. Among other articles being collected are pots, pans, old cannon and tin cans. The movement which was started in London spread to other cities in the British Isles.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THERE'S never a dull moment at Big Bear, Calif., these days. No sooner did 20th Century-Fox's "Brigham Young" troupe finish work on location near there than Monogram's "Queen of the Yukon" moved in.

The town has just one important street, and it's jammed nightly with bearded extras (whose beards earn a living for them) and members of the cast. Irene Rich, Charles Bickford, Melvin Lang, Dave O'Brien, and June Carlson are in the lineup.

Melvin Lang and Dave O'Brien had to stage a fight the other day; in preparation, Bickford spent several days teaching O'Brien how to avoid injuries. But—when Director Phil Rosen called "Cut!" O'Brien fell to the ground, and the company doctor found that he had a broken rib. He'd been too much excited to remember Bickford's instructions.

*

When young players in Hollywood get discouraged they remind themselves—and anyone who'll listen—that it takes just one good picture to make a star.

"Look at Pat O'Brien in 'Front Page'," they'll say. "Look at Cary Grant in 'Topper'—Shirley Temple in 'Little Miss Marker'—Errol Flynn in 'Captain Blood'—May Robson in 'Lady for a Day.'"

IDA LUPINO

Another name has been added to the "Look" list—it's that of Ida Lupino, who did a nice job in "The Light That Failed" and has won her spurs as a result of her "mad" scenes in Warner Brothers' "They Drive By Night." She'll co-star with John Garfield in "East of the River."

*

We may have another Rogers-Astaire picture, if RKO can find the right story for it. Fred Astaire is free-lancing at present, and Ginger is booked for three pictures, one of them being a picturization of the very popular novel, "Kitty Foyle." But some time next year they may be dancing together again.

*

Herbert Moulton has a new idea for screen entertainment, and he hopes you're going to like it. After six months of hard work he has finished an abridged version of "Love Me Tonight," starring Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald and Myrna Loy, and originally released in 1932. It will run just 45 minutes.

Other old-time successes being considered for streamlining are "Design for Living," "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," "Night After Night," and "One Hour With You."

*

Betty Field left the stage for Hollywood a year ago; in that time she's played four big parts, so different from each other that she's the envy of all the other young actresses. In "What a Life!" she was the nice high school girl who was Jackie Cooper's sweetheart; in "Of Mice and Men" she was the sultry, amorous young woman who attracted Lon Chaney Jr. In "Seventeen" she was a giddy young siren, and in "Victory," her latest picture, she's warm, tender, understanding.

*

Three years ago Ralph Edwards hitch-hiked from his home in Oakland, Calif., to New York for a job. A couple of weeks ago he returned to his home in a plane. These days he's so busy that, when he decided to take a six-week vacation, five other announcers had to be called in to sub for him.

Six months ago he turned up as creator, director and master of ceremonies of his own program, the hilarious "Truth or Consequences." It was tried out on four eastern stations, and soon will be launched on WEAF in New York.

*

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Geraldine Fitzgerald returns to the screen to co-star with George Raft in "South of Suez" . . . Looks as if Charlie Chaplin's "The Dictator" would be released about the middle of September . . . Susanna Foster has a gold powder box which, when opened, plays "Fight on for U. S. C."—given her by the boys of the University of Southern California's band, who worked with her in "There's Magic in Music" . . . Tyrone Power will do a series of pictures based on tales about Zorro, the California bandit—his current one, "The Californian," is a re-make of the old Douglas Fairbanks "The Mark of Zorro."

Life is short—too short to get everything. Choose you must, and as you choose, choose only the best—in friends, in books, in recreation, in everything.—Anon.

There Are Two Ways to Get at Constipation

Yes, and only two ways—before and after it happens! Instead of enduring those dull, tired, headachy days and then having to take an emergency cathartic—why not KEEP regular with Kellogg's All-Bran? You can, if your constipation is the kind millions have—due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. For All-Bran goes right to the cause of this trouble by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this toasted, nutritious cereal regularly—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if your life isn't a whole lot brighter! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY ROGER SHAW

German and British Airmen Raid Vital Industrial Centers; Political Campaign 'Roars On'

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

YE CAMPAIGN:
Roars On

Boss Ed Flynn of the Bronx, a man with a surprisingly fine library, who likes to read, took Jim Farley's place as national chairman of the Democrats. He was the same general type as Farley, with a similar background, except that Farley was a country boy, and Boss Flynn was a city laddie. Like Farley, Flynn is respected around New York, and well liked by many.

Willkie came out and said he would not get into personal arguments with members of congress, individual hecklers, or anybody like that. Willkie went on to say he had very determined views about conscription, and about helping the Bullmen abroad, but he wouldn't admit what those views were. Some Republicans remarked that they felt they had signed a blank check made out to Wendell Willkie esquire. And yet, more than 90 per cent of the newspapers of the United States were supporting him against the III term. More and more, people were showing themselves anti-Roosevelt, rather than pro-Willkie.

EDWARD J. FLYNN

Dilemma

An evidence of this was the continued drift of Democrats, over to the Republican fold. As each Demo moved over, Roosevelt would denounce him, but still they moved. Lewis Douglas, Roosevelt's erstwhile budget director, had been one of the first. Now came Edmund Toland, counsel to the house committee, investigating the National Labor Relations board. Toland resigned, in order to work for Willkie.

On the other hand, a fair number of liberal Republicans were none too sure about Willkie. They stressed his "non-savory" background, and his "anglophile" war expressions.

THE WAR:
Aircraft

While the world waited wearily for the German invasion of England, air fighting raged to and fro between the Royal air force and the Goering flying circus. The Germans forced the port of London, biggest in the entire world, to close, and also the ports of Newcastle on Tyne, Hull, and Newcastle. This meant that all sorts of commodities had to be unloaded in the still solvent west of England, and shipped east, which dislocated the British timetable no end.

On the other hand, the British claimed they had peppered Hamburg to a really serious degree. This is Germany's third biggest city—after Berlin and Vienna—and by far the friendliest city to England of them all. Its inhabitants speak a local dialect closely akin to Anglo-Saxon, and its sea-going and commercial ties with John Bull have always been strong. After the Napoleonic wars, Hamburg's republican senate petitioned England to take them over.

Bremen, Hamburg's sister city, also got it in the neck, but not so bad. So did Duesseldorf, Essen, Wesel, and Duisburg, in the valley of the river Rhine. Essen is the German Pittsburgh, where the vast complex of the Krupp works spreads out. It is an easy aerial target. Sheffield, the English equivalent of Essen and Pittsburgh, was scheduled to be "next" on the list, while Welsh Cardiff and English Portsmouth were reportedly already badly gutted. One ex-Englisher was excited by all this. He was living in faraway Chicago, but he bought a Spitfire fighter and presented it to his home town: Leamington Spa, in Warwickshire.

Anti-Aircraft

In the German service, the anti-aircraft department is an integral part of the Goering flying circus, which is an independent branch of the national defense, co-equal with army and navy. (In the American service, anti-aircraft is part of the army's coast artillery.) During the first 11 months of the present war, the crack German anti-aircraft brought down 1,230 enemy planes, knocked out more than 400 tanks, sank 10 ships, and damaged 10 more of them.

The Catch

There is a catch to all this aerial warfare, between the British island fortress and the long seacoast under Germanic domination. It is this: the Germans do their air raiding by day, and the British do it by night. Air raiding by day is much more dangerous to the flyers, but it is also much easier to hit land targets when the sun is up. Night bombing is safer for the pilots, but it is far harder to "reach" the objectives. This accounts for the much heavier German air losses. The Germans outnumber the British in the air by perhaps 3 to 1, so they can afford to "take" it. The Royal air force has to be economical in its expenditure of men and machines.

U. S. ARMY
Parachutes

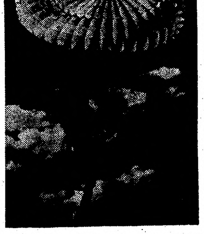
At Hightstown, N. J., some 48 infantry regulars from Fort Benning, Ga., gave a parachute jumping demonstration from two 125-foot steel towers. High army officers looked on with grave attention, for it was sensational stuff in the line of troop training. The Benning infantry jumped in four "easy" stages, like this:



This unusual picture was made as the first doughboy made his jump at the army parachute training center in Highstown, N. J.

Stage 1 was a drop in an open parachute, equipped with a comfortable seat. That wasn't so bad at all. Stage 2 was a drop in an open parachute, with harness instead of a seat. Stage 3 was a "free" drop with an open parachute, and stage 4 was a "free" drop with a packed parachute, which had to be opened up in the air. In any man's country—Russia aside, for some reason—it is none too easy to recruit parachute jumpers. Goering, in Germany, had to start it off by using the daredevils ("mordskerls") of his own bodyguard. Even these toughies grumbled, the first time up and down.

'Headache'

Meanwhile, the U. S. army had a new headache. It found that its 800 best airplane reservists were working on the wide network of American commercial and transport airlines. Here they are vitally needed, and so is the flying equipment. Some of these topnotch civil pilots are military, some are naval, and some are marines, but all of them will have to stay—in case of war—right where they are. This was the U. S. general-staff verdict.

'Pauline Revere'

"Pauline Revere" in the person of Miss Elane Summers, 19, University of Wisconsin beauty queen, pictured about to mount her white horse in front of Chicago's city hall en route to Washington, D. C., with an anti-conscription bill or scroll to be presented to President Roosevelt. Her ride is sponsored by the Committee to Defend America by Keeping It Out of War. This gives but one side of the conscription problem, as proponents of the plan claim that America's interests can best be served by a universal military training program.

COMMONS:
It Laughs

The house of commons, at Westminster, is pretty grim these days. But it got a good laugh for once. One member announced that no less than 14 Italian submarines had been sunk by the British navy in the Mediterranean. In Parliament, there is a rough and tough Scotch Labor deputy named J. J. Davidson, who loves to wise-crack the Tories and the "furriners." When he heard about the submarines, he yelled out: "Is it true the British sailors at sea, only have to call out, 'waiter!' and Italian subs come to the top?"

But the Italians had an answer. They were actually shipping "pocket" submarines over the Alps, to help Hitler in the English channel operations. Once the great Hannibal of Carthage shipped his elephants over the Alps to harry the Italians, and now the Italians were turning the same fantastic trick with their fiery sea-serpents. And strangely enough, historians have always referred to England as the "modern" Carthage, because of its shipping, banking, colonizing and trading.

SPORTS:
Porkers

The Wimbledon tennis club, in England, is the best known in the entire world. Every American champ and she-champ has played there on the green turf. It is glamorous and top-drawer. It was announced that the Wimbledonians would turn to pig-breeding for the duration of the war, and would deal in porkers instead of lob-lollies and back-hands. It was revolutionary, and it certainly wasn't cricket, or tennis either. It seemed that the Davis cup was turning into a bitter cup of misery, to be drained by a new champ, the great god Mars. So with English polo, as well. Its fields were plowed up!

Britons are good sports. England needs aluminum, and needs it bad. One veteran of the last war turned in his aluminum false leg, to a scrap metal depot at Windsor. He wanted to hold off Hitler, just as much as the fancy Wimbledonians did. Meanwhile, there was a lot of talk about equipping parts of the British army with steel breastplates, and helmet visors, to bounce off shell splinters, which was one back-step more toward the dark ages of ironsides, ironpants, and ironheads. At the battle of Bull Run, in 1861, some of our own New York militia wore bullet-proof vests. But they proved so heavy, that the New Yorkers threw them aside when they ran away. They were not such good sports.

Gorillas

Alfred was an Anglo-gorilla at the Bristol zoo. He is worth $8,000 and weighs 426 pounds net. He eats $12 per week in foodstuffs, and is said to be the longest lived gorilla in captivity. Keepers say he's just as good a sport as the fellow with the aluminum leg. But Alfred's too expensive to keep up, and if somebody doesn't adopt him, he'll get shot. Nobody in England likes that prospect. One man wrote the Bristol zoo, and said: "Why don't you ship him to America, with all the other Hapsburgs." Simultaneously, 3,000,000 dogs were being slaughtered in Germany, to save food. Poor dogs; poor Alfred; poor Hapsburgs!

DOPESHEET: ### Diagnosis?

One European neutral observer doped out the American presidential race like this: If the war is still in progress, Roosevelt will win, hands down. People don't like to change horses in crossing a stream. But if the war is over, Willkie will have it by a nose. For if Churchill resigns, which is always possible, the Roosevelt foreign policy will be discredited. The observer linked Churchill to Roosevelt, just as Chamberlain was linked to Daladier.

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

PERFECT to put on and wear right now in flat crepe, silk print or spun rayon, this beautifully cut shirtwaist fashion will be a cool delight on the hottest days of summer. No. 8727 will look so crisp and fresh, in striped linen, polka dot silk or brilliant white sharkskin. And it will feel comfortable and unhampering, because the lines are so simple and free. The bodice can be fastened with three buttons and turned back in narrow, deep revers, or buttoned almost to the throat, with shallow revers.

Why not have it both ways, since it's so very easy to make? There's practically no detailing to it—just a few gathers beneath the yoke and darts at the waistline. The circular skirt has a lovely, youthful swing.

Pattern No. 8727 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4⅞ yards of 39-inch material without nap.

UNPREPAREDNESS OF AMERICA IN WORLD AT WAR SHOWN BY ANALYSIS

BLITZKRIEG TIME TABLE

Sept. 1—Germany invades Poland.
Sept. 3—Britain and France declare war.
Sept. 10—Canada enters war.
Sept. 27—Devastated Warsaw falls, ending Polish campaign.
April 9—Denmark occupied; Norway invaded by Germans.
May 2—British admit defeat in southern and central Norway.
May 10—Invasion of Low Countries begins.
May 14—Netherlands capitulates.
May 14—Germans break through at Sedan.
May 28—Belgian Army surrenders.
May 29—Dunkerque evacuation starts.
June 3—254 killed in air raid on Paris.
June 10—Italy enters war.
June 14—Paris falls.
June 17—Petain admits defeat of France.
June 22—France signs armistice.
June 24—Fighting ceases in France with Germans in complete control.
Next—Assault by sea, land and air on British Isles.

NOW—The United States cannot afford to gamble on what might happen to British seapower. WE MUST PREPARE FOR DEFENSE NOW!

THE ONLY ANSWER
The U. S. is woefully unprepared for defense in trained personnel and all forms of modern equipment. (See accompanying chart.) Selective compulsory military training and service is the only practical solution of the vital personnel problem.

PANAMA CANAL
Only highway for quick passage of U.S. fleet from Pacific to Atlantic. One well placed bomb might block canal for weeks.

BASE FOR INVASION
The eastern bulge of Brazil is less than 2,000 miles from bases in French West Africa, now at the disposal of Hitler and Mussolini. Invasion of Brazil at this point would give the aggressors bases from which to launch operations from the air against the Panama Canal. Some military observers believe this will be the first step taken by the Nazi-Fascist combination, if it decides to invade the Americas.

Germany and Italy have more than 10,000,000 fully-trained and equipped soldiers. Counting reserves, Russia has from 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 troops.

The combined regular armies of the 20 Latin American republics is approximately 400,000, with partially-equipped reserves totaling 1,750,000.

LIGHTNING war in the Low Countries and France has brought home to Americans a consciousness of the inadequate defense establishment of the United States. While 30,000,000 men are under arms in Europe, Africa and Asia, there are less than 750,000 regular troops in the twenty-one republics of the entire Western Hemisphere. Counting reserves and U. S. National Guard, these nations could put into the field approximately 2,500,000 trained men—less than the number recently called to the colors in Rumania alone.

BECAUSE of this weakness, the Western Hemisphere, with its vast natural resources and raw materials, now is as great a lure for conquest as ever existed. With our Navy in the Pacific, the British Fleet is our first line of defense in the Atlantic. Our second is our regular army of 264,000 men and a National Guard of 242,300, ill-equipped for mechanical warfare. How long can we continue to depend on the supremacy of the British Navy in the Atlantic?

PROVISIONS for the speedy expansion of our armed forces on a scale great enough to insure the continued safety of the nation are included in the selective compulsory training and service bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Edward R. Burke, Democrat, of Nebraska, and in the House by Representative James W. Wadsworth, Republican, of New York. Under this measure, sponsored by the National Emergency Committee of the Military Training Camps Association, a gigantic reservoir of manpower would be trained and be on call for service in emergencies, in numbers determined by the President and the Secretaries of War and Navy.

60-Day Waterfowl Hunt Season

Washington—Secretary Ickes announced recently that the hunting season for ducks, geese, coots, and jacksnipe had been extended to 60 days this year from the 45-day limit of last season.

Announcing the annual regulations for shooting migratory waterfowl, the secretary said that the extension was made possible by an increase in the population of these birds.

The regulations also lengthened the hunting day. Shooting may start at sunrise and continue until 4 p. m. for waterfowl and coot. Last year the hours were 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. Jacksnipe may be hunted from sunrise to sunset.

The bag limit on ducks remains at 10 a day.

Shorter seasons were provided however, for woodcocks, and the bag limit on geese was reduced from 4 to 3 a day.

Shooting seasons on ducks, geese, coots and jacksnipe follow:

Northern zone from October 1 to November 29; the intermediate zone, October 16 to December 14; the southern zone from November 2 to December 31.

The northern zone includes Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana.

As in previous years, the number of waterfowl that may be possessed at any time is limited to two days' bag but a new rule makes it possible to possess the legal limit for 20 days after the close of the season instead of 10 days.

The bag of Canvassbacks, Redheads, Buffleheads, and Ruddy ducks is limited to 3 a day, of any one of these species. The regulations also provide that not more than three of this entire group may be taken in one day. The possession limit on these birds also is double the daily bag limit.

The bag limit on coots is 25 a day and on jacksnipes 15 a day with possession limited to not exceed the daily bag limit.

Closed seasons throughout the United States and Alaska are continued on wood ducks, Ross's geese, and swans.

Hunters may use bows and arrows or shotguns not larger than 10 gauge. The 3-shell limit on repeating guns is continued. Use of bait or live decoys is forbidden.

All persons over 16 years old hunting migratory waterfowl are required to have federal migratory hunting stamps.

The woodcock season was reduced from 30 days to 15 days with a daily bag limit of four and possession of eight.

Woodcocks may be hunted from sunrise until sunset in Minnesota from September 16 to September 20.

The new regulations reduce the bag limit on mourning or turtle doves and whitewing doves from 15 to 12, while not more than 12 of either or all may be taken in one day. Shooting hours are sunrise to sunset.

Open seasons on mourning doves in Minnesota are from September 16 to 30.

Six People Burned to Death

One of the worst tradgedies ever taking place in this community occured early Sunday morning when six people lost their lives in a fire that destroyed their home which was located about 17 miles east of Middle River. The dead are: Mrs. Tom Knutson, 60; Mrs. Alfred Knutson, 31; Beverly, 8; Donald, 6; Loran, 1 and Shirley Ann, 10. Three of them are children of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Knutson and Shirley Ann a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Knutsen of Gatzke. Escaping but badly burned and now in a hospital are: Alfred Knutson, Knute Bolle and Irene Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Erickson of Holt. The fire started in the kitchen of the home and was of an unknown origin.

According to reports from the American Guernsey Club, Peterborough, N. H., C. E. Horien and Sons recently made the following sales: Registered Guernsey bull to Victor A. ## Greenbush Band to Give Opera

Greenbush' Minn. Aug. 17; Hans Haug, Vice President of the Greenbush Band, has announced that William Dahlquist, Editor of the Thief River Falls Times will be the Speaker at the Old Settlers Program to be held at the Pelan Battleground Park on Sunday, Sept. 1.

The program, which will be distinhuished by a pageant put on by performers from the Pinecreek Community of Roseau County, will begin at 11;30 a. m. with a Band Concert. Concluding the program will be the address by Mr. Dahlquist, a man of commanding presence and booming voice, who is considered one of the leading orators of the Northwest. At the end or his speech, he will decorate the Pioneers of Roseau County who came here in 1890 and have now passed fifty years in the County. Following the program, dinner will be served at the park.

At three o'clock in the afternoon, the Opera, "Wannaska and Wanda" will be presented by the Greenbush Band with talent drawn from the Greenbush Community. This is an original opera in five acts written for this occasion. In it, one of Roseau County's most fascinating Indian legends has been taken and set to music. It is filled with beautiful songs and exiting situations and will be presented in the traditional operatic style—being sung throughout.

4-H Boys, Girls Stress Health

Good health among farm boys and girls will be given special emphasis during the coming week when the 4-H health winners from Minnesota counties will compete at the state fair for the title of state health champion. A boy and girl will be chosen. A. J. Kittleson, state club leader, says that the health project is reaching more and more boys and girls each year. At the present time 35,000 Minnesota youngsters are given special attention to health as part of 4-H work.

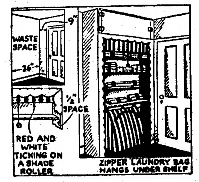
Efficient Linen Closet That's a Step-Saver



WASTE SPACE
9"

½" SPACE
RED AND WHITE TICKING ON A SHADE ROLLER
ZIPPER LAUNDRY BAG HANGS UNDER SHELF

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

EVERY Homemaker knows how many steps could be saved if table linens could have a special closet in the kitchen or pantry. In one home that we know of space for such a closet was going to waste all because cupboard doors or drawers would conflict with the door shown here in the small sketch. At the right you see how that space became an efficient linen closet after all—complete even to a smart laundry bag for soiled napkins and table covers.

The high compartment has a door of plywood. Below this are shelves with a curtain on a shade roller. The curtain runs up and down between the shelves and the scalloped board that frames the closet, as shown at the left. This board is ½ inch thick and four inches wide. The scallops were marked by drawing around a teacup and were cut out with a jig saw.

NOTE: As a service to our readers Mrs. Spears has prepared a series of homemaking booklets. No. 5, just published, contains 32 pages of clever ideas fully illustrated and a description of the other numbers. To get your copy send order to:

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

'Battle of Britain' On as Nazi Bombers Increase Momentum of Mass Attacks; British Are Forced Out of Shanghai; Italy Stages Minor African Offensive

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

THE WAR:
Step-Up

Reports from both London and Berlin indicated that long awaited aerial blitzkrieg against the British Isles had been stepped up to the point where as many as 500 Nazi planes were making periodic attacks on shipping ports and airdromes.

Apparently the German tactics had a threefold objective: (1) to challenge Britain's sea control of the English channel by damaging naval harbors and shore establishments; (2) weakening of British air defenses by bombing airports, silencing ground guns and attempting to wear down British pilots by forcing them to maintain 24-hour patrols; (3) a bolstering of the morale of the German people by continued reports of air victories.

As usual London and Berlin in turn each claimed to have the upper hand in the first days of this "battle of Britain." Nazi leaders declared that in the first raids the ports of Margate, Dover and Portsmouth (naval yards) had been ruined by constant bombings. British sources reported a large number of Nazi warplanes shot down (as many as 60 in one day) and government spokesmen praised what they called the "heroic work" of the British fighter plane pilots.

Down East

The most interesting new phase of the II German war was not in the least degree German. It came as John Bull's worst setback in the whole fracas, since last September, and Hitler had virtually nothing to do with it. It was simply this:

The Japanese kicked the British out of the wicked Chinese city of Shanghai. Here England has controlled the so-called international settlement for a century. In North China, where corrupt Shanghai is queen-city, there still are 10,000 British subjects, and nearly a billion dollars' worth of British invested capital. But out the British garrison went, and it was sent far south to Hongkong, a British commercial island just off Canton. Hongkong probably will be next. Already, the Japanese are penetrating French Indo-China, which doubtless won't be "French" very much longer.

That's Not All

There are 500,000,000 folks in the British empire. Of these, about 70,000,000 are whites, and the rest are multi-colored. Some 400,000,000 of them live in India. In the II German war, they have been practically neutral, although some Indian regulars in the British army have seen service. England is anxious to get India into the war, and so offered Mahatma Gandhi "full and equal" dominion status, like Canada or Australia, but not until after the war. The Indians were too foxy. They replied they would be a great help—if they were given complete independence, right now. Churchill had always been the No. 1 foe of Indian home-rule, and the Indo-nationalists simply didn't trust him. In the last war, India had dished up millions of soldiers and workers, and many, many millions of good, hard dollars. What Churchill really wanted, was another crack at these untold, untapped resources. But Gandhi, as usual, was from Missouri—or, perhaps, from the Irish Free State.

MAHATMA GANDHI
From Missouri or Irish Free State?

In Africa

The Italians in Ethiopia staged an offensive against little British Somaliland, on the Red sea. Mussolini's local legions started out by doing very well, and won some bush league initial successes. It looked as if the Somali capital of Berabera, was going to get it, and the Italians captured some tanks and sunk some airplanes, as they forged ahead. London did not worry much about Berabera. That hell-hole is no gold mine like Shanghai, Hongkong, Bombay or Calcutta, where imperial profits stack up.

MOSLEY'S:
Upper Crust

One of the funniest aspects of the war developed. It was this. Perhaps 400 of Sir Oswald Mosley's blackshirts—male and female—are interned in the Brixton and Halloway jails in London. Mosley is a wealthy blueblood, and so are most of his Fascist followers: people who are used to the best, in everything.

MRS. OSWALD MOSLEY
She has her sunbaths on the prison lawn.

These Fascists have turned the two jails into pleasure resorts. One lady Fascist ordered 26 bottles of champagne in a single day. The wardens have turned into waiters. The government has had to advertise for more wardens, to do more waitering. Lady Mosley, sister of Hitler's famous girl-friend, Unity, takes sunbaths in a bathing suit, on the prison lawn. Good Sir Oswald eats via an outside caterer, wears silk shirts, and sports a different, newly tailored ensemble each week.

DEFENSE?
Nat-Guard

The senate passed the measure of National Guard mobilization, by 71 to 7. The National Guardsmen, who didn't seem to know what they were in for, could be sent absolutely anywhere in the Western hemisphere, or to the far-flung Philippines, for that matter. Most of them were business men, and could ill be spared from key positions. Married men were exempted if they resigned within three weeks after they were called up. As a whole, the National Guard is supposed to have Willkie tendencies, and not Rooseveltian ones. But Mr. Roosevelt hastened to assure the Guardists that it was most unlikely they would be sent far afield—something like a 100 to 1 shot. This tended to cool their disgruntlement. New York's crack high-society cavalry became an armored-car outfit and New York's ditto infantry turned into coast artillery anti-aircraft. So did Harlem's ditto-ditto infantry Negroids. The entire New England National Guard had two tanks (from Hartford, Conn.), and it was authentically asserted by war department bigwigs that we wouldn't have a real army till 1944.

NO SHIPS:
For Hitler

England did one thing that will calm many an American heart. She promised categorically to surrender none of her warships to Germany, in case the latter won the war. England indicated she would scuttle them instead. This was fine news all round. The English begged, too, for 50 to 100 Yankee destroyers. It seemed that British naval losses, in the destroyer class, had been very heavy indeed.

'Last Appeal'

A LAST APPEAL TO REASON
ADOLF HITLER

A British soldier seems to get some grim humor out of the leaflet dropped on many English towns from German bombing planes. Leaflets contained a translation of Adolf Hitler's speech in which he made "A Last Appeal to Reason" before sending aerial legions on extensive raids over the British Isles.

FINLAND:
Doomed?

The Germans took over Czechoslovakia in two stages. The first stage consisted in grabbing the Germanic Sudeten region, and the second stage came five months later, when Hitler snatched virtually all the rest of the country. So, with Russia and the Finns. After a war of 100 days, Stalin took the Mannerheim line, Viborg, Finland's second city, strategic islands, and border strips. Finland was almost disarmed. Then the Soviet's absorbed Bessarabia (from Rumania) and the little Baltic states of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia.

Now it looked like Finland again—or what was left of it. The Russians said they "feared" Finnish activities, and accused the Finns of maltreating their Communist minority. It was the old formula, to precede aggressive action. Meanwhile, the Finnish red leader, Otto Kuusinen, was elected vice president of the Soviet Russian parliament, as a significant gesture. Kuusinen had been an open traitor to his country during the first Finnish war of 1940. The number of Finnish Communists, actually, is rather minute. They call themselves "members of the society for friendship and peace with the Soviet Union in Finland."

NO JEWS?
Persecution

The two toughest papers in Nazi Germany are the Stuermer and the Schwarze Korps. The latter is the organ of the party's "elite" black bodyguards. It came out with an editorial which said: a German peace will be a Jewless peace. It said: the Nazis plan to clear the entire European continent of Jews, and colonize them in some remote spot. It said: the recent Hungarian and Rumanian anti-semitic legislation is too weak. Needless to say, the radical Schwarze Korps did not speak for the German conservatives, like Goering, Krupp, and Schacht, whom it dislikes, and who openly dislike it.

Julius Streicher, Nazi boss of Nuremburg, and publisher of the radical Stuermer, was reported dead. Then he was reported alive again, but it seems he had lost his lucrative Nuremburg job. Streicher is a close student of Yankee lynchings, which he approves. He always quotes the "latest" lynch in detail, when the Yankees assail his methods in the III Reich. Streicher is especially disliked by Tory-minded Goering. Plebeian Mr. Streicher is a self-made man. Goering is not. The air marshal attended the aristocratic Prussian "West Point," and his father was a bigshot under the old Kaiser. Goering owns the National Zeitung of Essen, which is comparatively "respectable." It is not especially anti-semitic, nor is the German air force.

More of It

Another aspect of Nazi persecution is the Danish case. Up in Copenhagen—the Paris of the north, they claim—they still like to fight duels. But the Nazis have disarmed the Danes, and they are gun-less to the "nth" degree. A local dramatic critic made a dirty crack about a local actress. So a local actor challenged the critic. The critic accepted. There were no guns, no pistols, no nothing fiery. But hate will find a way. The enemies took to bows and arrows. After two flights of arrows, the actor was pinked in the arm, and it was all over. The actress looked on, and everybody went home anti-Nazi, but happy.

Those same Nazis, it was announced from Vichy, had shot down 30 per cent of the entire French air force in 46 days of the battle of France. Pierre Cot, former French air minister, was placed on trial by the enraged Generals Petain and Weygand, and perhaps not without reason. Meanwhile, the Nazis slapped a 15 per cent income-tax, surtax on all their new Polish subjects, for "social equalization." They also claimed, in bewilderment, that the subject Dutch had such bad manners.

NAMES

- Senators Minton of Indiana and Holt of West Virginia went into each other's personal characteristics and family histories, in the bitterest congressional debate seen in perhaps a century. Alcohol, slacker activity and billingsgate added to the senatorial spice, and fist-shaking gave a subtle punch to the proceedings. The issue was based on a single potent word: conscription.
- Secretary Morgenthau had uniformed guards put around his office in Washington. Officials declined to explain the order, treasury or no treasury. Mystery!

Soft, Smart Frock With Nautical Air

REMEMBER how nice you used to look and feel when you tripped off to school in a fresh white blouse with a sailor collar? Well, if you're in the junior size range, you can take upon yourself that same naive, engaging charm, by making this frock with sailor collar and rows and rows of braid. Design No. 8738 has very soft and feminine lines, however sailorfied its spirit, because the skirt has smart unpressed front fulness and the blouse is gathered to round out your bustline.

Carry out the nautical idea by making it up in blue chambray with white braid, white linen with navy braid, or beige with scarlet. It's a good style for checked gingham and sharkskin, too. Send for the pattern right now. Be among the first to wear it!

Pattern No. 8738 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Size 13 requires 4½ yards of 35-inch material without nap; 8½ yards braid. Send order to:

Willkie Speech Of Acceptance Thrills Nation

Republican Candidate for President Outlines Policies Before Vast Audience at Elwood.

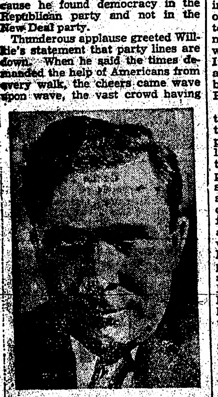
ELWOOD, IND. — Coming back to this, the town in which he was born and grew to young manhood, and before a wildly enthusiastic audience of many thousands, Wendell Willkie accepted the nomination for President on the Republican ticket.

In that acceptance Mr. Willkie promised the kind of leadership that will keep America a nation of free men, a nation of prosperous people, a nation offering opportunity for all.

He said: "An acceptance speech is a candidate's keynote, a declaration of his broad principles. It cannot possibly review the issues in detail. I shall, however, cover each of them frankly during this campaign. Here I give you an outline of the political philosophy that is in my heart. We are here today to represent a sacred cause—the preservation of American democracy.

"Obviously, I cannot lead this cause alone. I need the help of every American—Republican, Democrat or Independent—Jew, Catholic, or Protestant—people of every color, creed, and race. Party lines are down. Nothing could make that clearer than the nomination by the Republicans of a liberal Democrat who changed his party affiliation because he found democracy in the Republican party and not in the New Deal party.

Thunderous applause greeted Willkie's statement that party lines are down. When he said the times demanded the help of Americans from every walk, the cheers came wave upon wave, the vast crowd having sensed that it typified that very thought. Here were a hundred thousand Americans from every part of the United States, representing every faith, every station of life, yet carried away by a single devotion.



WENDELL WILLKIE
Republican Candidate for President.

Mr. Willkie briefly sketched his boyhood in Elwood and told of his ancestors who, "like the ancestors of millions of Americans, lived in central Europe. They were humble people—not members of the ruling or wealthy classes. Their opportunities were restricted by discriminatory laws and class distinctions. One was exiled because of his religion; another was persecuted because he believed in the principles of the French revolution; and still another was jailed for insisting on the right of free speech. As their descendant, I have fought from boyhood against all those restrictions, discriminations and tyrannies. And I am still fighting."

Foreign Policy.

Mr. Willkie compared the peace of America with the conditions in war-torn Europe, and defined his foreign policy by saying:

"No man is so wise as to foresee what the future holds or to lay out a plan for it. No man can guarantee to maintain peace. Peace is not something that a nation can achieve by itself. It also depends on what some other country does. It is neither practical, nor desirable, to adopt a foreign program committing the United States to future action under unknown circumstances.

"The best that we can do is to decide what principle shall guide us.

"For me, that principle can be simply defined:

"In the foreign policy of the United States, as in its domestic policy, I would do everything to defend American democracy and I would refrain from doing anything that would injure it.

"We must not permit our emotions—our sympathies or hatreds—to move us from that fixed principle."

Again the crowd let out a deafening cheer. It was an exciting moment. A nation was waiting anxiously to hear Mr. Willkie's views on foreign relations. The enthusiastic response of the crowd reflected a nation thrilled.

National Defense.

From foreign policy Willkie turned to national defense of which he said in part:

Wendell Willkie's Birthplace at Elwood, Ind.

"We must not shirk the necessity of preparing our sons to take care of themselves in case the defense of America leads to war. I shall not undertake to analyze the legislation on this subject that is now before congress, or to examine the intentions of the administration with regard to it. I concur with many members of my party, that these intentions must be closely watched. Nevertheless, in spite of these considerations, I cannot ask the American people to put their faith in me, without recording my conviction that some form of selective service is the only democratic way in which to secure the trained and competent manpower we need for national defense."

He stated in definite terms his belief in a policy of providing to the opponents of force the material resources of this nation, and our own preparation for meeting any emergency that may arise, but criticized the President in his conduct of foreign affairs at this critical time, saying:

"There have been occasions when many of us have wondered if he is deliberately inciting us to war. I trust that I have made it plain that in the defense of America, and of our liberties, I should not hesitate to stand for war. But like a great many other Americans I saw what war was like at first hand in 1917. I know what war can do to demoralize civil liberties at home. And I believe it to be the first duty of a President to try to maintain peace.

"But Mr. Roosevelt has not done this. He has dabbled in inflammatory statements and manufactured panics. Of course, we in America like to speak our minds freely, but this does not mean that at a critical period in history our President should cause bitterness and confusion for the sake of a little political oratory. The President's attacks on foreign powers have been useless and dangerous. He has courted a war for which the country is hopelessly unprepared—and which it emphatically does not want. He has secretly meddled in the affairs of Europe, and he has even unscrupulously encouraged other countries to hope for more help than we are able to give.

"'Walk softly and carry a big stick' was the motto of Theodore Roosevelt. It is still good American doctrine for 1940. Under the present administration the country has been placed in the false position of shouting insults and not even beginning to prepare to take the consequences."

Cheers Interrupt.

Several times the speaker was compelled to stop as applause and encouraging shouts drowned out his voice. The cheers grew in volume and frequency as Mr. Willkie, citing France as a tragic example, declared in a firm voice that our foreign policy must "begin in the United States" and be dedicated to making us strong "right here in our own land."

Referring to the defeat of France, Mr. Willkie said in part:

"And in this tragedy let us find our lesson. The foreign policy of the United States begins right here in our own land. The first task of our country in its international affairs is to become strong at home. We must regain prosperity, restore the independence of our people, and protect our defensive forces. If that is not done promptly we are in constant danger. If that is done no enemy on earth dare attack us. I propose to do it.

". . . I promise, by returning to those same American principles that overcame German autocracy once before, both in business and in war, to outdistance Hitler in any contest he chooses in 1940 or after. And I promise that when we beat him, we shall beat him on our own terms, in our own American way."

A Doctrine of Growth.

For our home policy Mr. Willkie proposes to follow a doctrine of increased production, of increased growth, instead of the New Deal "doctrine of division," and said:

"We are not asked to make more for ourselves. We are asked to divide among ourselves that which we already have. The New Deal doctrine does not seek risk, it seeks safety. Let us call it the "I pass" doctrine. The New Deal dealt it, and refused to make any more bets on the American future.

"Why, that is exactly the course France followed to her destruction! Like the Blum government in France, so has our government become entangled in unfruitful political adventures. As in France, so here, we have heard talk of class distinctions and of economic groups preying upon other groups.

"As for me, I want to say here and now that there is no hate in my heart, and that there will be none in my campaign. It is my belief that there is no hate in the hearts of any group of Americans for any other group—except as the New Dealers seek to put it there for political purposes. I stand for a new companionship in an industrial society.

"Because I am a business man, formerly connected with a large company, the doctrinaires of the opposition have attacked me as an opponent of liberalism. But I was a liberal before many of these men had heard the word, and I fought for many of the reforms of the elder LaFollette, Theodore Roosevelt, and Woodrow Wilson before another Roosevelt adopted—and distorted—liberalism.

Opposed to Monopolies.

"I believe that the forces of free enterprise must be regulated. I am opposed to business monopolies. I believe in collective bargaining, by representatives of labor's own free choice, without any interference and in full protection of those obvious rights. I believe in the maintenance of minimum standard for wages and of maximum standards for hours. I believe that such standards should constantly improve. I believe in the federal regulation of interstate utilities, of securities markets, and of banking. I believe in federal pensions, in adequate old age benefits, and in unemployment allowances.

"I believe that the federal government has a responsibility to equalize the lot of the farmer, with that of the manufacturer. If this cannot be done by parity of prices, other means must be found—with the least possible regimentation of the farmer's affairs. I believe in the encouragement of co-operative buying and selling, and in the full extension of rural electrification. But American liberalism does not consist merely in reforming things. It consists also in making things.

"And I say that we must henceforth ask certain questions of every reform, and of every law to regulate business or industry. We must ask: Has it encouraged our industries to produce? Has it created new opportunities for our youth? Will it increase our standard of living? Will it encourage us to open up a new and bigger world?"

New Deal Victims.

Mr. Willkie demanded that kind of legislation, that policy, that will encourage business to expand, to create jobs for the unemployed, saying:

"It is a statement of fact, and no longer a political accusation, that the New Deal has failed in its program of economic rehabilitation. And the victims of its failure are the very persons whose cause it professes to champion.

"The little business men are victims because their chances are more restricted than ever before.

"The farmers are victims because many of them are forced to subsist on what is virtually a dole, under centralized direction from Washington.

"The nine or ten million unemployed are victims because their chances for jobs are fewer.

"Approximately 6,000,000 families are victims because they are on relief.

"And unless we do something about it soon, 130,000,000 people—an entire nation—will become victims, because they stand in need of a defense system which this administration has so far proved itself powerless to create anywhere except on paper.

"To accomplish these results, the present administration has spent $60,000,000,000.

Mr. Willkie Accepts.

"I accept the nomination of the Republican party for President of the United States.

"I accept it in the spirit in which I know it was given at our convention in Philadelphia—the spirit of dedication. I herewith dedicate myself with all my heart, with all my mind, and with all my soul to making this nation strong.

"But I say this, too. In the pursuit of that goal I shall not lead you down the easy road. If I am chosen the leader of this democracy as I am now of the Republican party, I shall lead you down the road of sacrifice and of service to your country.

"What I am saying is a far harsher thing than I should like to say in this speech of acceptance—a far harsher thing than I would have said had the Old World not been swept by war during the past year. I am saying to you that we cannot rebuild our American democracy without hardship, without sacrifice, even without suffering. I am proposing that course to you as a candidate for election by you."

When the speaker finished, the crowd went wild with enthusiasm. Hats went up in the air and shouts of "Hurrah for Willkie" came from many thousands. They left the great meeting repeating to each other the words "Willkie—the Hope of America."

Greenbush Band to Give Opera

Greenbush Minn. Aug. 17; Hans Haug, Vice President of the Greenbush Band, has announced that William Dahlquist, Editor of the Thief River Falls Times will be the Speaker at the Old Settlers Program to be held at the Pelan Battleground Park on Sunday, Sept. 1.

The program, which will be distinhuished by a pageant put on by performers from the Pinecreek Community of Roseau County, will begin at 11;30 a. m. with a Band Concert. Concluding the program will be the address by Mr. Dahlquist, a man of commanding presence and booming voice, who is considered one of the leading orators of the Northwest. At the end or his speech, he will decorate the Pioneers of Roseau County who came here in 1890 and have now passed fifty years in the County. Following the program, dinner will be served at the park.

At three o'clock in the afternoon, the Opera, "Wannaska and Wanda" will be presented by the Greenbush Band with talent drawn from the Greenbush Community. This is an original opera in five acts written for this occasion. In it, one of Roseau County's most fascinating Indian legends has been taken and set to music. It is filled with beautiful songs and exiting situations and will be presented in the traditional operatic style—being sung throughout.

Left For Church Celebration

Rev. and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson and son Harold, Mrs. Martha Oppegaard and Mrs. O. H. Nohre left for Milan today. Rev. Hanson will take part in the 60th anniversary festivities of the Big Bend Lutheran Chnrch near Milan, on Sunday. This congregation is Rev. Hanson's home congregation and although it has 500-600 members, he is the only one who has gone out in the Christian Ministry in its entire history. Mrs. Nohre went on from Milan to Delhi to visit her daughters Mrs. Starr and Gertrude Nohre.

Registration Of All Aliens

All aliens within the United States must register some time during the period between August 27th and December 26, 1940.

Failure to register subjects aliens to a fine of $1,000 and 6 months imprisonment. Aliens 14 years of age will also be fingerprinted.

All aliens should call at their local postoffice and get instructions and comply. The alien registration act is part of the defense program of the United States and no honest alien need have fear of the law. Postmasters under the act are required to give every possible aid and assistance to aliens requesting information.

Colvin G. Butler

Fergus Falls, Minn.

Candidate for Republican Nomination for Congressman, 9th Minn. District.

Colvin G. Butler is a minister and farmer. He is a member of the Farm Bureau and in full sympathy with their national legislative program. He is a graduate of Fergus Falls high school; completed a course of commercial law and bookkeeping at Park Region Luther College; graduate of Hamline University and in theology at Omaha Seminary. He is fifty-nine years old.

Colvin G. Butler was elected to the state legislature from Ottertail county two years ago, getting 12,549 votes, which is the largest number of votes ever cast for any member of the legislature from the Ninth Congressional District.

School Opens Next Tuesday

The local school is scheduled to open Tuesday September 3rd. Final arrangements are in progress to have the building and other facilities ready. The building has been gone over both inside and out. This year will be of greater interest due to the increased enrollment expected through the facilities of the new motor bus that has been purchased.

The teaching staff will be as follows: George W. Karvonen, Superintendent, returning for his fifth year.

Miss Otos of Mapleton, North Dakota, a graduate of Moorhead State Teachers' College, will be in charge of Math and English in the high school.

Mr. Melvin Sabo of Mavie will be in charge of the Upper Grade room. He is also a graduate of Moorhead Teachers' College.

Miss Mattson of Greenbush, a graduate of Moorhead Teachers' College, will have the intermediate Room.

Miss Sandberg of Kennedy, a Graduate of Moorhead State Teachers College will be in charge of the Primary Room and Music in the High School.

Federal and State high school pupil aid will again be available for needy high school pupils. Those interested are asked to contact Mr. Karvonen.

A definite time schedule for the motor bus will be announced as soon as the bus arrives so that trial runs can be made. Those interested in riding in the bus who have not been contacted by Mr. Karvonen are urged to see him as soon as possible.

Hjalmar Petersen

Former Governor of Minnesota and at present Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner. He will speak at Roseau on Saturday evening, August 31 at 8 p.m.

Mr. Petersen is a candidate for Governor on the Farmer-Labor ticket and, according to political writers he will be the next governor of Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nelson and Vernon, Mrs. J. Hagberg, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hagen, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Werner and daughters from here and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Risberg and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wegge and daughter of Thief River Falls motored to Fertile Sunday to visit with other relatives at a family gathering there.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sanoden and Opal attended the Golden Wedding for Mr. and Mrs. L. Borchert at Mentor on Sunday.

Ferne Peterson left last Thursday to spend about two weeks at Douglas Lodge in Itasca State Park.

Gas Prices Cut September 1

Announcement by the Standard Oil Company of a reduction of 1 cent a gallon in its prices of gasoline to dealers and consumers in Minnesota Sept. 1, when the Minnesota state emergency tax of the same amount expires, is featured in the company's advertising in the Warroad Pioneer and other Minnesota newspapers during August.

Minnesota motorists will save approximately $1,5000,000 this year and about $5,000,000 a year thereafter as a result or the removal of the 1 cent tax, it is estimated. The emergency tax went into effect in 1937 when the Minnesota gasoline tax was increased from 3 cents a gallon to 4 cents to raise money to match federal funds for highway construction. It was extended in 1939 to expire August 31, 1940.

Opal Saneden and Beatrice Larson left Wednesday to attend the State Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peterson visited at the O. T. Ness home Sunday afternoon.

Buckler Stays On The Job

Although thirteen other candidates are seeking his post, U. S. Representative R. T. Buckler is staying on the job in Washington, D. C. and will not return to the District to campaign in the primaries unless Congress should recess or adjourn. Congressman Buckler believes that it is his duty to remain in the Capital during these critical times. He will leave his campaign in the hands of his friends and supporters throughout the District. He is a heavy favorite to win the Farmer-Labor nomination.

Leonard Larson, who had his little finger on his left hand smashed recently while fencing on his farm, had to have the finger amputated and spent a few days at Mercy hospital at Thief River Falls. ## GREECE:
And Italy

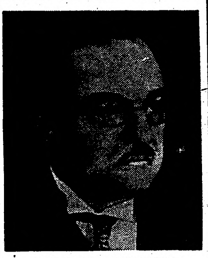
Germany grabbed Czechoslovakia, Austria, Denmark, Norway, Luxemburg, Belgium, Holland and parts of Poland and France. Russia grabbed Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and parts of Poland, Finland, and Rumania. Italy grabbed Ethiopia, pounced on republican Spain, and swallowed Albania.

Italy was on the move again. This time against Greece. Poor Greece had done nothing but shiver since the war began. Its dictator, General Metaxas, was neither pro-British, nor pro-German. He was just plain pro-Metaxas. But Albania and Greece have a common borderline. There was an insignificant incident over the Greek handling of an Albanian bandit; Albania always is bandit-infested. The "kept" Italian press went into a roar, and demanded satisfaction. Just as reds said the Finns threatened Russia, so the Fascists said the ferocious, insidious Greeks were threatening the modern Roman empire of Signor Mussolini.



PRESIDENT METAXAS
Neither pro-British nor pro-German.

COLONIES:
First Loss

Britain lost the first of her colonial possessions in the current war to Italy as two divisions of Mussolini's crack troops (about 20,000 men) succeeded in driving out 1,200 Tommies from Berbera, capital of British Somaliland. Loss of the African colony itself wasn't worrying Great Britain a great deal for Somaliland has never added materially to the wealth of the empire.

But what did concern the British high command was that with this loss of territory Italy had gained ground in her attempt to wrest control of the Suez canal and thus sever British empire communications.

For the British there was only one ray of light in their abandonment of Somaliland: as in the retreat at Dunkirk, the troops left the battlefield fighting a furious rear guard action, destroying everything that could not be saved and forcing Italy to pay as dear a price as possible for her victory.

II GERMAN WAR:
Aviation

The aerial warfare over England continued with a bang. The German flying losses were considerably heavier than the British, for a reason. The Germans were taking the offensive, and had to encounter anti-aircraft fire, as well as the defending British planes. But the German air supremacy was something like 3 to 1, and Air Marshal Goering was reckoning on a certain given expenditure of men and machines to achieve certain given results.

The German pilots were very young, some of them 15 or 18 years old, actually. They dive-bombed and fought like madmen, fanatical, furious. The royal air force pilots were a different type: older, more experienced, many of them soldiers of fortune, or old-time professionals. A high percentage were Irish, Canadian, or American—types that make better flyers than the native English, said the military men.

The Germans had two disadvantages. The "British" regulars were far better, man for man, than the German kids. And the British planes were far better, ship for ship, than the German crates. The German aircraft were slapped together by mass production, and at any given time, about 60 per cent of them were in the repair shop. The British machines only 25 per cent.

Pilots can only fly two days per week, and keep in decent shape. Hence, you need three pilots per plane. The Germans have this ratio; the British do not. The German losses were exceedingly heavy, but that was exactly what Goering expected and arranged for, and his idea was to gradually exterminate the royal air force by a steady policy of military attrition. Whether any country could actually be subjugated from the air, remained to be seen. Goering thought so; Churchill did not.

WILLKIE:
Talkie-Talkie

A challenge to President Roosevelt to meet him in a series of platform debates on the issues of the 1940 campaign, highlighted the acceptance speech of Republican presidential candidate, Wendell Willkie, as he addressed an Elwood, Indiana, crowd of between 150,000 and 200,000 persons.

The G. O. P. standard bearer indorsed "selective military service" (conscription) and came out for material aid to Great Britain in that country's struggle against Nazi Germany. Willkie charged that the present administration had failed in its program of economic rehabilitation and has been courting war by dabbling in foreign politics.

Even his sternest critics were forced to admit, however, that was none of the "appeaser" in the man behind such words as these: "We must not shirk the necessity of preparing our sons to take care of themselves in case the defense of America leads to war" . . . and again . . . "We must face a brutal, perhaps a terrible, fact. Our way of life is in competition with Hitler's way of life. I promise to outdistance Hitler in any contest he chooses, in 1940 or after. And I promise that when we beat him, we shall beat him on our own terms, in our own American way."

Republicans hailed the speech as a masterpiece and saw in it the beginning of a campaign that would definitely result in victory for their candidate. Democrats saw in the speech an endorsement of many of the reforms the New Deal has been advocating and thought Mr. Willkie wanted only a change in personnel—not policy—to carry such reforms.

WENDELL L. WILLKIE
"I Accept."
(This picture was taken during Mr. Willkie's Elwood, Ind., speech.)

At any rate it marked the real beginning of what looks like the hardest fought presidential contest thus far in the Twentieth century.

DEFENSE:
First Round

When it came to mobilizing the National Guard for a year of training, the house followed the example of the senate. The house finally voted for the callup, by a landslide of 342 to 33. The senate vote was 71 to 7. There are 360,000 National Guardsmen. They are to get the works for 12 months, and can be sent anywhere in the Western hemisphere, or the Philippine islands—which is a long way away from the Western hemisphere. Youngsters under 18 were to be discharged from the guard at once, and married guardsmen were permitted to resign within three weeks.

Mr. Roosevelt, who had a goodly share of the American press against him in his campaign for a third term, had none the less won the first round in his campaign for a general mobilization. His program called for no less than $10,000,000,000. The second round was the much-contested Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill, which would callup 12,000,000 men, between the ages of 21 and 31. They, too, would get a year's training, if the bill went through. It was opposed by a complete cross-section, ranging from experienced military critics and regular officers to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and many patriotic isolationists. Apparently to speed things up, War Secretary Stimson had said England might not last a month. Naval Secretary Knox said England might not hold out for 60 days.

Chrysler

Meanwhile, the Chrysler corporation got $53,500,000 to erect a mass-production tank factory and pay for mass-production tanks. The plant was to be set up in the Detroit area and was to start production within 13 months. The tanks produced will be "medium" 25-tonners. About 5,000 men will be employed. Some observers thought the proposed plant was too near the Canadian border, unless the Canadian border was to be obliterated.

We Can All Be
EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

PLAIN MUSLIN
CORNER OF CURTAIN
STITCH ORANGE AND RED BIAS TAPE OVER THE GREEN FACINGS

KITCHEN showers are fun for everyone and, while they are always supposed to be a surprise, the prospective bride will be wise to give out a broad hint as to her color scheme. The dearest wish of one bride-to-be was a kitchen in gay Mexican colors. Her friends had a wonderful time selecting everything from pottery to peeling knife handles in tones of green, orange and red. One gift that was appreciated most of all was the apron, curtain and tea towel set sketched here.

This set was made from muslin flour and sugar bags. Muslin by the yard would do just as well, and I have shown in the sketch how the gingham facings and bias tape trimming were applied to add the correct touch of color. If you have never cut an apron without a special pattern, you will find directions in Book 4 along with ideas for more aprons and other fascinating things to make for almost nothing.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

HERBERT MARSHALL'S first talking picture was "The Letter," in which he played Jeanne Eagel's lover, whom she killed. Now he's playing in it again, but this time he's the husband of the heroine, played by Bette Davis. He prefers his current role.

"I'd rather be a betrayed, but live, husband, than a dead lover!" he commented.

Incidentally, two of the most interesting photographs that have come this way recently are of Bette Davis and her stand-in. They're dressed alike, posed alike. If anything, the stand-in is a little prettier than the talented Bette, but she suffers sadly by contrast. Those photographs show the difference between an expert and an amateur, and they're worthy of any girl's careful study.

*

Twentieth Century-Fox finally got the screen rights to the play "Tobacco Road," which has been running in New York for years. RKO wanted it too—it's rumored that the price was more than $100,000. Unless all censorship bars are let down, considerable rewriting will have to be done.

*

Although the two girls have been on the same lot for more than a year, Dorothy Lamour and Mary Martin didn't meet until recently, when they were rehearsing dance numbers with LeRoy Prinz. The Sarong Siren was brushing up on her rhumba for "Moon Over Burma," and the "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" girl was rehearsing intricate tap routines for "Love Thy Neighbor," in which she appears with Jack Benny and Fred Allen.

*

According to Ray Milland, "The greatest gift an actor can get is a chance to play with Claudette Colbert."

Here's the record that proves it. One of Milland's first pictures was "The Gilded Lily," made six years ago; it gave him a good start toward his present success. A young man named Fred MacMurray got his start in that picture, too; he was so scared that he shook when he was making tests, and Miss Colbert kidded him out of his panic.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT

Melvyn Douglas was a polite but sinister "heavy" until he worked opposite her in "She Married Her Boss" and surprised everybody but himself by proving to be an excellent light comedian. "I Met Him in Paris" gave the public another light comedian, Robert Young, who until then had been a serious young man on the screen. Clark Gable had been slipping at the box office until he and the charming Claudette made the hilarious "It Happened One Night."

A giant gorilla has been worrying the executives of the zoo at Bristol, England; it costs $48 a day to feed him, and they feared that they'd have to destroy him to save his rations.

A giant gorilla has also been worrying Producer Jack Moss of Paramount—he needed one for "D. O. A." (Dead on Arrival) a mystery thriller featuring Ellen Drew, Rod Cameron, and various others. He's cabled to Bristol to ask how much he'd have to pay for Alfred, the gorilla, and what could be done about transporting him with a trainer to this country. Seems that Hollywood zoos can't offer anything big and scary enough to suit his purpose.

After finishing a picture most stars make a great to-do about escaping Hollywood and its crowds to get away to some quiet place. But after finishing "The Howards of Virginia," Cary Grant rushed straight to Broadway, and Martha Scott headed for a crowded and fashionable hotel in Santa Barbara, Calif. Hats off to them! The stars who declare that they wish the public would let them alone are likely to rage and storm if people don't notice them—Garbo excepted, of course.

SEWING CIRCLE

YOU can't just wear any old slip and expect your small-waisted frocks to have the smooth, suave, round-bosomed line they should have. Here's a design (1892-B) especially planned to do its part toward figure-flattery, and to fit as only a slip you make to your measure can fit. The top has bosom gathers to give you a little extra fullness. The waistline is dart-fitted so that it melts into your middle just beautifully.

These are simple details, very easy to do, but they make all the difference in the fit of your slip, and therefore in the fit of your frocks. There are seven easy steps in your detailed sew chart. Make yourself a whole wardrobe of slips like this, light and dark, of satin, lingerie crepe or taffeta, and some batistes and linens for your coming cottons.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1892-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 2⅜ yards of 39-inch material without-nap for built-up shoulders; 2¼ yards for strap style; 11 yards of shirred lace. Send order to:

Strange Facts
All One-Sided
400 Trees Apiece
Bordering the U. S.

One-sidedness in a person is shown not only in the use of the hand, but also in the use of the eye and the foot. In other words, a left-handed individual will normally use his left eye to look into a microscope and his left foot to kick an object out of the way.

The quantity of wood that the average person utilizes during the course of his life—in house construction, furniture, musical instruments, motorcars, sporting goods, pencils, magazines, newspapers, books and other paper articles—is equivalent to that of about 400 large trees.

Roosevelt Made Good Deal

President Roosevelt made one of the biggest deals on Tuesday that has been made by an individual in this country for some time. He traded England 50 American destroyers for several air and naval bases far out on English owned islands and will give this country added protection in the Atlantic Ocean. What was outstanding about the deal was the fact that President Roosevelt did not wait around to see Congress about this deal but went ahead and made it according to his own good judgement.

Rev. and Mrs. T. C. L. Hanson and son Harold and Mrs. O. H. Nohre arrived home on Wednesday afternoon. They were accompanied by Mrs. E. A. Evans and danghter, Karen, of Ortonville and Mrs. Martha Oppegaard, of Madison, who will visit at the parsonage. The Hanson's attended the 60th anniversary festivities of the Big Bend Lutheran Church near Milan on Sunday. Mrs. Nohre visited her daughters at Delhi. While there, she was greeted by her first grandchild, an 8½ pound daughter being born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Starr on Wednesday morning Sept. 4th.

The following were dinner guests at the Mrs. C. Hagglund home Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Reed and baby of Thief River Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Horien and children, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson. Visitors in the afternoon were: Mrs. John Hagberg, Mrs. Jesse Sornm, Jean, Buddy, Corky, and Manning Sorum, Irene Ness and Dorothy Hanson.

Delores, Lois Mae and Evelyn Wegge of Larimore, N. Dakota spent a few days here this week at the home of their grandmother, Mrs. L. Wegge.

Upland Game Bird Season

Hunting seasons on six upland game birds, including a 23 day shooting period on ringneck pheasants, were established by the Department of Conservation in designated areas this week after surveys disclosed a bumper bird crop.

Increases were recorded for every species during the census counts by game wardens and Department technicians. Leading the general population rise were pheasants. One of the largest ringneck crops in years was indicated.

Other birds that will test the shooting skill of Minnesota hunters are ruffied grouse, Hungarian partridge, quail, the prairie chickens, and sharptailed grouse. A double-zoned season was set up for the Hungarians.

Upland game shooting is permitted from sunrise to sunset daily. The pheasant season is limited to male birds with hens protected. The indivinual reasons and regulations follow:

Ringneck pheasant -- October 12 to November 3, inclusive. Male birds only to be taken, season closed on hens. Bag limit three per day, six in possession, 18 season limit.

Pheasants may be taken in following area: In all that area lying south and west of the system of hihgways described as follows: Commencing at East Grand Forks on Highway No. 2 to Erskine in Polk county, thence following Highway No. 50 southerly from Erskine to Waubun at its junction with Highway No. 113 in Mahnomen county, thence easterly on Highway 113 to its junction with Highway No. 71 in Hubbard county, southerly along Highway 71 to Wadena in Wadena county, thence easterly on Highways 10, 210 and 18 through Motley and Brainard to Garrison in Crow Wing county, thence easterly along Highay 18 to Malmo and east to state line.

Ruffed Grouse -- October 12 to 56, inclusive; 4 per day, eight in possesion, 12 for season. Counties close by that are open are: Clearwater, Beltrami and Lake of the Woods.

Hungarians, Northern Zone, September 25 to October 2, inclusive, in the northwest corner of the state. That part taken in by a line running east from the state line at Morehead to Detroit Lakes and thence north to the Canadian line following Highways 59 and 32 thru here.

Prairie chickens can be taken all over the north end of the state from Sept. 25 to Oct. 2.

Ethel Vattendahl, who is employed at the Palm Garden Cafe at Thief River Falls spent last Thursday at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Bj. Johnson home.

The ladies of Holt gave Mrs. Elmer Severson a parcel shower at the Nazareth Church parlors last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. V. E. Oakey and daughters visited at the A. Rodahl and J. P. Augustine homes last Tuursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bennes, Mr. Gust Peterson and Mrs. C. Sandberg visited at the Al Fredrickson home at Thief River Falls last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Myers and family, Mr. and Mrs. Art Hedlund and Bernard Larson visited at the Arnold Myers home Sunday.

Report On State Fair

Following is a report of the 4H activities at the State Fair written by Marian Larson:

Despite "the pea soup" weather during the Minnesota State Fair, the new modern 4H club building which was completed this year was a busy place. After dedication services, it was made the official home of the 4Hers at the fair. On the third floor is a girl's dormitory and a boy,s dormitory. Imagine having over 1000 roomates.

The kitchen, dining hall and assembly hall are on the second floor. Nineteen hundred rural youths were served for dinner on Thursday. When the fair closed on Monday, Mildred Schenck of the state 4-H staff had supervised the preparation of about 25,000 meals. That is the equivalent of a quarter of a century of cooking for the average family. Think of the trifling matter of ordering groceries.

2400 pounds of meat
240 pounds of salmon
23,700 bottles of milk
100 gallons of cream
180 dozen eggs
55 bushels of potatoes
525 pounds of butter
200 pounds sugar
105 dozen doughnuts
1500 dozen loaves of bread

And that,s only a starter.

No one argued with the automatic dishwasher for the job of washing the 20,000 dishes daily.

The first floor houses the exhibits. Demonstrations are going on continually so that fair visitors always find something to interest them on one of the platforms.

The fair week was made more enjoyable to 4H clubbers by the tours to Dayton't store, the Capitol, Montgomery Ward's, the banquet at the Raddison Hotel, the parade in front of the grandstand and especially the meeting of old friends and meeting of new ones.

The Sunday School of the Nazareth Lutheran Church will open on Sunday morning at 9:45. All the children of the village and community who may wish to attend are welcome to do so.
